

New Program Proposal

Museums, Heritage, & Public History

MA in Museums, Heritage, and Public History

The MA in Museums, Heritage, and Public History joins theoretical and practical study at an advanced level to prepare students for careers in museums, heritage institutions, historic sites and societies, and related organizations. The program works closely with cultural resources in St Louis, particularly the city's many museums and historic sites. We focus on community engagement, the interdisciplinary and cross-cultural study of material culture, interpreting and debating the past, new media and public education, and research in archival and material collections. Our graduates work in art museums, history museums, science centers, historic house museums, and other cultural institutions across the United States and internationally.

Admission Requirements

Prospective students for the Master of Arts in Museums, Heritage, and Public History must apply specifically for this program on the graduate application. Applications for the Master of Arts in Museums, Heritage, and Public History will be accepted only for the fall semester.

Prospective students must demonstrate high academic potential. Typically, the History department admits only students with at least a 3.2 grade point average in their undergraduate major; most successful applicants have higher grades. An undergraduate major in History is not required for admission to this program.

Applicants must submit three letters of recommendation, preferably from former teachers and/or employers, and a sample of their written work. Applicants must also complete the Museums, Heritage, and Public History Supplemental Application, which includes a statement of career intent.

Admissions decisions are based on the undergraduate transcript, the letters of recommendation, the sample of written work, and the supplemental application.

Applications must be received by the university no later than February 1.

Rationale

This new MA would be housed in the History Department but with a distinct name. The degree better reflects the expertise of UMSL faculty, the orientation of the professional field (museums, heritage, and public history), and the resources and partnerships in St Louis on which we would draw. The total credit hours to degree is more in line with other MA programs in the College of Arts and Sciences. The program title would alleviate or end confusion among potential applicants about the program and its relationship to the MA in History.
