

Shuming Zhao, Professor and Dean of the School of Business, Nanjing University, the People's Republic of China is an internationally-known scholar in human resource management and multinational business management. He was among the first group of scholars to introduce western human resource management theory to China. The discussion will focus on economic reform and the advancement of human resource management practices in Chinese firms. This will be an opportunity to meet and talk with someone who can provide deep insight into the human resource side of dealing with Chinese Businesses.

Breakfast and Business
Sponsored by Express Scripts

Thursday, August 12, 2010

7:30 – Breakfast and Networking

8:00 - Program

SGA Chambers, 3rd floor Millennium Student Center
UMSL

Discussion Leader: Shuming Zhao, Dean, School of Business, Nanjing University

Topic: “Economic Reform and Human Resource Management in China”

The task of keeping up with current trends in business requires effort every day. Breakfast and Business offers friends and alumni of the UMSL College of Business Administration a chance to multi task. Here you can network with fellow business people, grab a quick bite to eat and learn something about a current topic in the world of business. This is our chance to play a small role in helping you keep up. We look forward to you joining us so that we can all learn together.

Rsvp: jane\_ferrell@umsl.edu