COVID-19 and Human Subjects Research

The University of Missouri–St. Louis Institutional Review Board (IRB) has updated its COVID-19 and Human Subjects Research policy to be in alignment with the UMSL Face Covering and Social Distancing Policy that was effective on July 26, 2021. In alignment with public health guidelines, the University of Missouri–St. Louis will require all faculty, staff, students and visitors age five and older wear a face mask when entering or occupying a physical building or facility owned, operated or managed by the university, regardless of vaccination status.

As COVID-19 infection and guidance evolves, IRB recommendations pertaining to Human Subjects Research will remain aligned and consistent with UMSL and local and Federal Guidance as revised.
