At The Edge: Canadian Literature and Culture at Century's End	reference	1995	"Scholars from Canada, Spain, France and Israel survey Canadian Postmodernism, the National Film Board's successes and failures, the autobiographies of Native Woman Writers, the metaphorical vision of George Faludy's Vancouver, the class and cultural tensions of Mavis Gallant's Montreal, the Jewishness of Canadian Jewish poetry, Quebec's experimental theatre and cinema, and Quebecois and Israeli drama of social protest.	c	72

			Definitions inclusive and exclusive, politics personal and collective, literature metaphorical and argumentative, culture as it affects genre, nationality, religion, race and sex: the essays in this book analyze particular works and broad cultural movements to grasp-and reflect-what is happening at the circumferences, the multiple centers, of Canadian culture."--from the book

Change & Impact : Essays in Canadian Social Studies	teacher reference	1994	"This is an amalgam of original articles that confront serious and important issues for Canada and Canadians. Here the works of scholars from many countries, including Canada of course, reflect on Canadian politics and public policy, the Canadian economy, environmental questions and social issues. This book benefits directly from the multiplication of Canadian Studies university programs throughout the world, from which its international scholarly character undoubtedly stems."--from the book	c	71
