Early Music Society Will Present Next Evening Concert December 17

By JIM ROSENFELD

After a conference between officials of the St. Louis Campus, Normandy School District, Spot Sales Corporation, and spokesman for the SA and TIGER CUB, it was announced that extensive remodeling of cafeteria facilities will be instituted and completed by January 7, 1963. The meeting was held on the campus November 28.

The remodeling will include a new ventilation system and new storage, preparation and serving areas. Trash disposal facilities will be improved with the addition of more barrels, all of which will be covered.

Painting, Screens Included

Floors and walls in the kitchen will be painted and some plastering may also be done in that area. Screen doors will be installed on all entrances to the lounge. Although some of the work will begin immediately, most of it will be done over the Christmas break.

The primary purpose of the meeting was to inform the University and Spot Sales Company of the extent of the problem as it exists in the operations of the cafeteria.

These shortcomings were uncovered as a result of an investigation conducted by the TIGER CUB. After they had been presented, a discussion followed in which Spot Sales and the Normandy School District agreed to cooperate in making all repairs necessary to increase the efficiency and cleanliness of the cafeteria.

Toured Cafeteria

Attending the conference were C. E. Potter, resident administrator; R. C. Blackshorn, assistant superintendent of the Normandy School District; George F. Meyer, vice-president of the Spot Sales Corporation; George Swang, cafeteria manager of Spot Sales; Charles Poli, sales representative of Spot Sales; Mike Lindhorst, president of the Student Association; and this reporter.

After conferring, the party toured the cafeteria and observed the alleged deficiencies.

The investigation was precipitated by complaints from individual students concerning some of the cafeteria's operations. The facts presented at the meeting were gathered over a period of 10 days and were substantiated by information provided by the City of Normandy, the St. Louis County Health Department and the United States Public Health Service.

Watch coming issues of the TIGER CUB for progress reports on the extent of the renovations and repairs as they occur.

Dance and Children's Party Planned as Xmas Projects

Preparations are well underway for the St. Louis Campus Student Association's two Christmas projects. A Christmas party for underprivileged children and a Christmas Dance are planned for 1:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. respectively, on December 22.

Twenty-five underprivileged children between the ages of seven and ten will be entertained at the Christmas party from 1:30 to 4:00 p.m. in the Student lounge. The Association will send each child an invitation, and each parent will be asked to suggest some gift for his child.

The committee for the children's party will be co-ordinated by Ken Mares, who originated the idea for the party. Under Ken's direction, there will be three sub-committees: refreshments, gifts, and decorating. The refreshment committee plans to serve ice cream, Christmas cookies, and hot chocolate. Working on this committee are Vicky Mc Cormack, Sharon Hutson, Judy Tockman, Judy Frick and Barb Bayer. The gift committee, headed by Marge Doerr, will also decorate for the party.

Mr. Charles Arbinger, St. Louis Campus chemistry instructor, will entertain the children before the arrival of Santa, (Jim Emahiser) and the gifts.

The Christmas Dance will be held that evening from 8 to 11 p.m.

Social Committee Chairman, Marge Doerr and six sub-chairmen are in charge of preparations. The sub-chairmen are Jerry Brooks--tickets, sales and distributions; Jan Schmelig--publicity; Dave Hart--decorations; Jenny Stephenson--refreshments; Betty Zarwaste--chaperons; and Bill Ruzicka--clean-up.

The tickets will be drawn by authentic instruments of the period. Listeners will be provided with both copies of the original lyrics and their translation. The program will be performed in original dialect accompanied by authentic instruments of the period. Listeners will be provided with both copies of the original lyrics and their translation.

All the songs will be performed by some of the talents of 16 singers, several accompanists and conductor Miller, it was indicated that any student could use the performers in exactly the same way. That is, each number requires a different amount of accomplishment and choral support, resulting in a constant change in the roles played by each of the performers. He also noted that none of the selections is more than five minutes long.

Selections from 500 years of Christmas music will be featured by James Miller and the Early Music Society in the selection of the Monday Evening Concert Series. The program will begin at 8:30 p.m., Monday, December 17 in the lecture hall, room 108.

Seven Cheerleaders Chosen To Lead Student Enthusiasm

Seven St. Louis Campus freshmen were chosen cheerleaders for the 1962-63 basketball season. They are: Barb Blidner, Tammy Borowitz, Jan Finazzo, Cookie Fitzgerald, Emily Massa, Leslie Schirmer and Kathy Vasquez.

The girls are chosen on their appearance, voice, personality and ability to perform the three basic cheers: "Victory," "Beat," and "We're With You Team So Fight!" The squad was chosen Monday, November 19, by two faculty members, Mrs. Marion Tyte and Miss Claire McDonnell, by basketball coach Bob Meyers, by two members of the Senate, Allan Stein and Carole Kral, for substituting for Mike Lindhorst.

The girls began cheering at the Cubs' first game-Tuesday, December 4, against McDonnell at Old Country Day School.

Their uniforms consist of black koultotes, white sweaters with black letters trimmed with gold. Because of their recent selection, their outfits were not complete for the first two games. They were not complete due to the lack of a letter and stripe.

No captain was chosen this season. Instead, a different girl will act as captain for each game. In order to develop new cheers, the squad has been practicing in Room 108 two afternoons a week.

Through the season they plan to use cheers such as "Beat," "Victory," "Dynasty," "We're With You Team, So Fight!" and "On Gold," as well as various sideline cheers. The girls will lead spectators in cheering during time-outs and during the half-time. They will also attend the Cubs away games.

Coach Bob Meyers! St. Louis Campus Cubs will open their Greater St. Louis Basketball Association campaign next Tuesday, December 11, against Logan College at the Normandy Junior High School gym. The contest, which begins at 8:30 p.m., will also mark the opening of the Cubs' home season, Admission for this game, and for all home contests, is free.

The Tiger Cubs dropped their opening non-conferece game to the McDonnell Aircraft Jets, 26-61, December 4 at the Old Country Day School.

Dave Willson gets a shot away in the Cubs pre-season opener against McDonnell December 4. Other Cub players are: no. 32—Paul Wilson; no. 14—Tom Jacobs; no. 10—Steve Shaughnessy. McDonnell won 76-61.

Cubs Drop Season Opener; Conference Starts Tuesday

Coach Bob Meyers! St. Louis Campus Cubs will open their Greater St. Louis Basketball Association campaign next Tuesday, December 11, against Logan College at the Normandy Junior High School gym. The contest, which begins at 8:30 p.m., will also mark the opening of the Cubs' home season, Admission for this game, and for all home contests, is free.

The Tiger Cubs dropped their opening non-conferece game to the McDonnell Aircraft Jets, 26-61, December 4 at the Old Country Day School.

Flower to score early in the contest failed to halt the hard-running Cubs. After McDonnell raced to an 8-0 advantage, the Cubs broke the scoring ice on a basket by Steve Shaughnessy. Several steals and well-executed fast breaks aided the Cubs as they finally grabbed the lead, 15-14. A three point Cub advantage was short-lived at the rugged McDonnell squad began to dominate rebounding off both backboards. Tom Haddican and Tom Jacobs were hampered by four fouls apiece in the first half. The period ended with McDonnell on top, 33-22.

The opening of the second half followed the same pattern as the start of the game, McDonnell on start the game, McDonnell reeled off 12 straight points before the Cubs were able to tally their first basket. The Cubs were able to bounce back with their hustling style of play, but their rally fell short as Jacobs and Haddican were forced to the bench with their fifth fouls. Poor foul shooting especially hurt the Cubs in the second half, as it did throughout the contest. McDonnell gained its final advantage by outscoring the Cubs, 43-39, in the second half.

Steve Shaughnessy paced all Cub scorers with 23 points. Other high scorers were Dave Wilson with nine markers and Bill Ilseman with eight.

The University of Chicago Maroon reports: "According to Senator Barry Goldwater fraternities are protecting our nation from the communist threat." He noted that Harvard University, a non-fraternity institution permits communist and socialist philosophers to breed what he calls a "faithless generation." "We look more and more to fraternities to provide our future leadership," he told reporters. "Religion, brotherhood, the importance of the individual, and freedom were the qualities listed by the senator by which fraternities discourage communism."

Washington University

Thomas H. Elliott, Chancellor of Washington University, has said that "a university without controversy on its campus is a dead university. In a rapidly changing world, zealous learning must include fresh inquiry, more searching analysis, reassessment of traditions and norms and customs."

At least 7,000 No-Doz pills are consumed during exam periods by Iowa State University students. The School newspaper quoted Dr. John Grant of the University as saying a student with an overdose is usually hyperexcitable, jumpy and can't stay quiet. Girls may cry a lot, he says. The doctor suggests that students just drink black coffee when they want to stay awake. That way they would have to stop before the danger level, because they couldn't drink anymore.

William and Mary

When faced with the possibility of losing their four year ROTC program the editors of the William and Mary newspaper, FLAT HAT, stated: "Although the reduction of the ROTC program seems to be a logical outgrowth of numerous inadequacies inherent in the program, we feel that a four-year program should be continued."

John Carroll University

The University Club of John Carroll University last week obtained a 220 pound St. Bernard mascot named George. Phil Bachtin, president of the Organization, noted that the dog had been named after Washington, the father of our country; and that George was supposedly the best beer-chugging St. Bernard in the Nation.

For the benefit of those who missed Miss Wetteroth’s lecture...It has been rumored that the lecture could not yet be re-titled, "Spots in the Sunset" or "How I Scratched My Way Through Europe.

An unknown source reports the need for some repairs on Campus. Seems there are some unusually big holes on a certain m.r.d road towards the rear of the campus. Wonder why?

Everyone is asking...Who is Trash Can Carole—and why?

In answer to inquiries we have received we wish to make it absolutely clear that that was not, repeat, was not one of next year’s freshman that Judy Frick brought with her recently. This school may be going to the turtles, but not to the dogs.

Guess what—Mr. Woodard, in his Friday lecture finally confirmed the fact that he goes out with his grandmother.

Congratulations to those American History students whose ingenuity and preservenerence enabled them to lower themselves far enough to steal History notes from other students. The students from whom the notes were taken hope they will help the miserable kleptomaniacs get an A in History.

Poor Turnout

Informality was the keynote of the lecture on Germany given by Miss Wetteroth on Tuesday, November 27. Miss Wetteroth established direct rapport between herself and her audience by opening her lecture with a somewhat wry commendation to the three students not belonging to her German class who attended the lecture.

According to Miss Wetteroth, judging by the number of students participating in the lecture, she could just as easily have given the lecture within her own classroom, “but the University wants a lecture series—I guess it looks good in the newspaper.” She retained this rapport by peppering her monologue with casual flashes of humor, and some rather dry comments on dogs, newspapers, and German men, in that order of importance.

The rest of the lecture was concerned with Miss Wetteroth’s reflections on her stay in Germany from 1955-56. As such, it provided insights into the emotions and character of the modern European.

Father D. Clark

Father Dismas Clark, founder of the Half-Way House, will speak on the St. Louis Campus in an informal lecture on December 19, at 1 p.m., in room 108. Father Clark has obtained permission from the Dismas Clark Foundation to waive the normal fees for his lecture.

This lecture is not connected with the Daytime Lecture series but is the result of efforts by Miss Bethany Larkin, St. Louis Campus sociology instructor. It will be given without benefit of special notes, since it is Father Clark’s aim to speak on an informal basis as possible. The subject matter for the lecture has not yet been determined.

With the advent of the 1963 winter semester, many St. Louis Campus students will be heading down to Columbia. For the benefit of those students, the TIGER CUB, in keeping with its marvelous policy of service to the school, traveled to Columbia and composed the following guide to the more important places on the campus.

Anyway, your first stop on campus will be at the mighty Hinkson which will, no doubt, provide you with many happy hours of inspiration. By the way, the Hink can be best described as a version of the Pagoda-in-cinemascope.

You will want to become acquainted with some of the highly recommended campus eating places such as The Shack, The Den, Mano’s Coronado, and The Stable. You will need your pocket-flask, hip boots I.D.,...KNITTING?

Next you will want to become acquainted with some of the more formal places on campus such as the University Senate. Here you will need your pocket-flask, better leave your I.D., somewhere else.

Since this is your first day on campus, and you probably couldn’t walk a straight line by now anyway (because you’re so fatigued from all the excitement, of course), you will want to make only one more stop. This last stop is at the administration office to become acquainted with school policy. Here you will need your machine gun and machete—for hacking your way through all that red tape.

Two Weeks of Opportunity

Once again we find it necessary to beat the drum for student support. The activities which will present themselves to the Campus student body in the coming weeks should be diverse enough to satisfy the most exacting demands for extra-curricular activity.

First, let us bring to your attention the conference opener for the basketball Cubs at 8 p.m. next Tuesday, December 11, against Logan. The team has had less than a month to get ready and is again hampered by lack of height, but the club faced similar problems last year and ended the season in a second place tie. This game, as all home games, will be played at Normandy Junior High. Admission is free so if you like basketball, or sports in general or even if you just like to make noise, come out and watch the Cubs.

Two days later, December 13, another of our favorite projects, the Daytime Lecture Series, continues with Mr. William Hamlin speaking on Hemmingway. The attendance so far at these lectures has been disappointing so we cannot urge you strongly enough to help reverse this situation. Mr. Hamlin will present his lecture at both 8 and 11 a.m. to give students twice the opportunity to attend; we can see no valid reason why you can't.

The following Monday, December 17, the second in the Monday Evening Concert Series comes to the Campus. James Miller conducts the Early Music Society in a timely and unusual program of Christmas music performed in its original dialect. The warm reception which the first concert received by the critics should be indicative of the high level of artistry that the series makes available to the students. Admission is free and the concert begins at 8:30 p.m.

Finally, a plug for our advertisers. While they are not strictly activities like the ones above, they certainly deserve whatever support our student body can give them. And if there is ever a time when the consumer has the opportunity to patronize the businessman, Christmas is it. For better or worse the volume of Christmas shopping grows every year, and so, for their fine support of this endeavor, we urge you to do your part of that growing volume at our advertisers.

So there you have it--basketball, a lecture, a concert and our advertisers. Each of the first three is an answer to those who bemoan the absence of collegiate activity at this school. The last of the four is one of the prime reasons why this school and those activities exist at all. Each of them deserves support, to some extent, from you. Each of them depends, to some degree, on you. We trust you will accept the responsibility.

In My Opinion

By Jim Rosenfeld

Students! We can be proud that we have at least one thing in common with all other colleges in the United States. What is that one thing? We constantly complain that we have bad instructors. Why, all one has to do is casually mention any instructor's name and immediately he is in the middle of a vicious dispute over the value of this Campus' faculty. We are indeed fortunate to have a competent faculty, especially because this school operates on a very limited budget.

However, there seems to be a general consensus of opinion, among the students of this school, that teachers must be perfect. Aren't teachers people? And as people, aren't they subject to error just as much as any student is? Of course. And furthermore, does it serve any constructive purpose for students to complain and bitch? No, it doesn't. The only thing that constant complaining does is produce brooding and the possibility for anxieties.

Now, I am not saying that our teachers are perfect. Furthermore, we would not pass over any true inadequacies in an instructor's method of presentation. But, there is a more valuable and realistic method which will serve the purpose better than the popular gossip and ticker groups which are currently in session in the remote corners of the cafeteria. There is a practical procedure which is followed at many universities throughout the nation that enables students, at the close of each semester, to objectively state their grievances concerning each instructor.

This is the completion of a basic questionnaire. The purpose of this sheet is not to "cut" a teacher which a student dislikes, but it is meant to illustrate to the instructor what deficiencies, in the opinions of the student body, exist in his method of instruction. Students, when they wish, can be sincere and objective. It has been proven in the past, even on this campus by certain instructors, that genuine conscientious criticism may actually aid a professor becoming a better instructor.

Therefore, I feel that some form of questionnaire should be produced for students by every student in every class to follow this procedure. Whether this idea be initiated by the administration, the faculty or by suggestion and actions promoted by the Student Association, I believe that it is a plan which may prove to be of much benefit to this institution.

In the CUB Mailbox

Dear Editor:

We realize that this school is in itself an act of great humanitarian and cultural foresight on the part of the Normandy School Board. We, as students, are extremely grateful for the opportunity it affords us.

After realizing that we create a large problem for the maintenance staff, we would like to pat both Mr. Haynes and Johnny on the back for the wonderful cleaning job they have done behind us, and for all of the cooperation and patience they have shown us with our school functions.

Perhaps we have not expressed our opinions as LOUDLY or as OFTEN as some; and maybe we have been slow in expressing our appreciation, however, this has been only neglect on our part, as our appreciation is genuinely sincere.

Keep up the good work!

Horses had always fascinated her, but Darlyn Totsch, a freshman at the State University of Missouri, had never had any experience with them. Because of this, she entered and won a number of prizes at Missouri Stables in 1934 under the direction of Jimmy Hinkle.

In 1959 she bought her first American Saddlebred show horse, Enchanting Sea. She entered it in several shows and acquired an equal number of prizes. Because Enchanting Sea is a three-gaited horse, her prizes were for excellence in walking, trotting and cantering. Excellence in horsemanship consists of correct speed, good style (head up, legs raised properly), spirit and beauty. When she had learned to show Enchanting Sea to perfection, Darlyn bought a five-gaited horse named Ridgefield's Lady Alice. After she taught Lady Alice the proper responses to her commands, she entered her in state and local competition. Alice has won ribbons at the Missouri State Fair in St. Louis and was reserve champion of Missouri in 1961.

Recently, Darlyn entered the Kansas City Royal Horse show. Here, all the points accumulated throughout the year in various smaller shows are totaled, and the horse with the highest number of points and who also wins in competition there is chosen champion of the State of Missouri.

Enchanting Sea is retired and Darlyn finds her more fun now than when she was competing. The high spirit of the horse for showing purpose is undermined when the horse is ridden too often. Therefore, this pleasure is forfeited and replaced only by a short workout period each day. Now that Enchanting Sea needs not be so spirited, Darlyn rides her every day at Breezy Point Stables in Chesterfield, Missouri. Nevertheless, she still retains the thrill of winning ribbons by entering Lady Alice in local and state competition.

In addition to the excitement of shows and the affection for the horses which have made horsebackriding as fascinating to Darlyn as she imagined, she has also had her share of the inevitable spills and other accidents. Once, her horse reared and struck her in the face with enough force to cause serious injury.

Another time, her horse reared and fell with her against a wall. Luckily she was riding with a Western saddle and for she was able to grab the saddlehorn and pull herself up, avoiding the danger of being trampled, and probably hospitalized. She did not escape completely, though, as she injured her knee. As might be expected, however, none of these mishaps has discouraged Darlyn in the least. She still retains her enthusiasm for riding itself and most of all her high hopes for next year's competition with Lady Alice.
