Dr. Robert Elsea Rejoins Ed. School

Dr. Robert Elsea, former assistant director of the Central Midwestern Regional Educational Laboratory, rejoins the University of Missouri at St. Louis this year as Assistant Dean of the School of Education.

Dr. Elsea, who came to UMSL a year ago as an associate professor of education, has been on loan to the Central Laboratory since joining the faculty. While with the laboratory, Dr. Elsea worked with school officials in the St. Louis metropolitan area, assisting them in launching new educational programs.

From 1964 to 1966, he served as assistant superintendent of St. Louis County's Parkway School District, and had been principal in that district since 1960.

Dr. Elsea received his Ed. D. from the University of Missouri and completed his doctoral work at Harvard.

In 1963 Dr. Elsea was president of the St. Louis Suburban Council of Secondary School Principals. During the same year, he was a liaison member from the Missouri Association of Secondary School Principals to the National Council of Principals and served as a member of the North Central Association's evaluation team.

Dr. Elsea is the author of many articles.

Business School Formed Here,

Turner Appointed Acting Chairman

UMSL reached another plateau in its expansion program June 20, when Chancellor James L. Bagg, Jr., announced the formation of a School of Business Administration.

The new school began official operation September 1.

Dr. Emery Turner, formerly chairman of the division of business, has been named Acting Dean of the new Business Administration School.

Previously the division of business administration had functioned as a semi-independent department in the College of Arts and Sciences, but the School of Business will become an independent degree recommending unit.

The Senate determined, Monday, the procedure for filling the seat vacated by the resignation of Assistant Professor W. N. Gaufin, who accepted a position in the School of Business Administration.

The Senate also accepted the resignation of Junior Senator J. I. Graham, who resigned due to ill health.

The Senate determined the procedure for filling the seat vacated by the resignation of Senior Senator John J. Sharpe, who resigned due to ill health.

The Senate also accepted the resignation of Assistant Professor Myles Wright, who resigned due to ill health.

EDITORIALS
That All Important First

Probably the most important and the most difficult affair to conduct at the beginning of the school year is new student orientation. It is here that attitudes and ideas are embodied in the minds of the students. This is why the student's first impression of the school must be a favorable one. If it is not, the chances of his being a success are slim.

How does our orientation program meet this challenge? Does it provide students with ample opportunity to become active members of the university community or does it lead the students around and make them feel inferior? A good approach to evaluate our program is to take a close look at our orientation program and see if there might be something lacking.

Orientation actually begins when the student is given a copy of "East of Eden" and instructed to read it. They are informed that discussions on the book will be held on the first day of the orientation program. However, when the first day arrives, they find that it actually isn't a discussion but a monologue by the professor in charge who, from time to time, asks for comments.

Students complained that it wasn't necessary to read the book because there was no discussion held. They said that they felt disappointed and cheated when they were not asked to join in and take a more active role. Is this the kind of impression the university should give? Can we now expect the new students to become active members when they start off by being disappointed with orientation?

"Citizen Kane," although it was better than "The Red Badge of Courage," still left much to be desired. You would think that with all the excellent movies which have been produced in the past few years we could at least get one that wouldn't bore students to death.

The second day of orientation proved to be the saving factor. Students commented that they actually enjoyed the discussion. They said that they were invited to join in and were made to feel like members of the university instead of observers.

Perhaps the possibility of having the entire orientation program conducted by students, maybe, in this way, we could bridge the gap between student and school and speed up the process of assimilation.

In order to speed up the process of assimilation though, the new student must have a favorable attitude toward the school. And where does this favorable attitude begin if not with orientation?

A Reason For Being

Follow students:

The Student Association has remained quite active this summer. Frankly we owe much to the students who have volunteered their time and efforts in building a student government on campus which is concerned with the goals of the University and, more importantly, concerned with student welfare.

As a student, you are not concerned with the philosophic ends of the Association. You are more interested in what the student association can share for its purpose in concrete terms. And I agree that this is what you should be concerned with. A government which spends time building theories and not in action has no right to exist. Just what have we got to show as reason for our existence?

Quite often we have worried over this particular question. I think that we have plenty to show. This is however my limited opinion. What I really want is your opinion. As President I am charged with representing every individual student on this campus.

I said that we have plenty to show. But do we? That question can be answered only by you. Since I was elected president a number of projects have been initiated.

The Senate voted to affiliate with the United States National Student Association. Through NSA better services can be extended through our local student government.

Library hours and administration hours were extended to midnight Monday through Thursday to 8 p.m., Friday night, to 5 p.m. on Saturday afternoon and 10 p.m. on Sunday night. This was accepted by the request of the Senate.

A community involvement committee was established to provide students with the opportunity to serve in tutorial and related projects in underprivileged areas of the city and county.

An International Affairs Commission has been appointed to provide consultation on international programs beyond the classroom. The Commission will also affiliate with the Council on International Affairs and the United Nations.

A student-faculty committee will work on a basic document on student rights and responsibilities on the UMSL campus. The student association will seek student and faculty approval of the statement so that it will be the definitive document on student rights and responsibilities on our campus.

In addition a council has been appointed to advise the Student Association President of campus opinions and policies. Opinions from all campus organizations will be represented on the Council.

In addition an organization has been formed within the University to express student opinion on all four campuses to the President and the Board of Curators.

I believe that what we have accomplished over the summer will give us the opportunity to make his feelings known publicly.

If you have a letter you would like to have printed, you may do so by submitting it to the publications office. All letters must be well written, in good taste, and signed. All letters should be no more than 150 words long. We would appreciate it if you would type up your letter before you turn it in.

If you feel, however, that you would like to say more than 150 words on a subject, we would grant you the necessary space in the editorial column. Again, all editorials turned in must be well written, in good taste, and signed.

Letters to the Editor

As in the past, we will continue to have a "Letters to the Editor" column in the paper. We feel that this will help us to focus the students opportunity to make his feelings known publicly.

Sigma Epsilon at UMSL

The newest addition to UMSL's fraternity life is Sigma Epsilon. "To promote the principles of virtue, diligence, and brotherly love" the fraternity was founded at UMSL in May, at a meeting presided over by Mike Kearney, the district governor of Sigma Phi Epsilon, the second largest and fifth oldest national fraternity in the country. Presently composed of ten Sig Ep Brothers, Sigma Epsilon is striving rapidly to become an important part of university life, through its membership in campus and community projects, and in the mature development of its members.

To provide the unity necessary in a fraternal organization, Sigma Epsilon has moved into the first UMSL residential fraternity house, located at 8660 Natural Bridge Road, one block west of Carson Road.

Sigma Epsilon has started its first rush program. At present, over one hundred individuals have shown interest in becoming Sig Eps. The founders of Sigma Epsilons are John Baker, Mike Bau­mer, Bill Boys, John Breeshaw, Walt Freeman, John Guc­ker, Barry King, Jerry Moss, John Olson, and Mike Hitenbomer.

Anyone seeking further information about Sigma Epsilon should visit the Sig Ep house, contact the Sig Ep Brothers, or call 421-2531.

Pike Rushes Sept. 11-22

Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, formerly Delta Zeta Kappa, held rush Sept. 11-22. Booths were placed in front of the temporary student union building.

A party, September 23, at the Jewish War Veterans Hall on Olive Street, from 8-12 p.m., is designed for prospective members. A speaker is being planned for the first week in October.

There are 50 active members in PIKE with a fraternity house being prepared at 6014 Bermuda Road. Open house at the house will take place in October with students and faculty invited.

For the second year, PKA will have tutoring services to help rushes with problems. The fraternity will also aid pledges and non-pledges with studies.

Six Profs Join New School of Business

Nearly 100 new faculty members will join UMSL's staff this fall, bringing the number of instructors here to more than 340. A great many of these new teachers have proven themselves to be outstanding scholars, and in order to present their achievements, the Current is presenting departmental sketches of new faculty through the next few issues.

In the orientation issue the Current gave short biographies of additions to the Department of Science. The Current will correct this error: It made in reporting that Dr. Eric Block, a 1967 Ph.D. graduate of Duke, is joining the physics staff. Dr. Block will assume an assistant professorship in the Department of Chemistry.

International Management

Consultant

A famed international management development consultant, Dr. Stoma Kagan, will be one of the prime additions to the University's new School of Business Administration. Kagan joins the University as professor of international business, a position he has held with the University of Oregon since 1960.

Professor Kagan is a former adviser to various departments of the French government and was devoted in 1945 for his war service with the Free French forces. As a former Economic Affairs Officer with the United Nations, he was a member of the ECAFE (Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East) in China in 1947.

He has lectured at the College of France, United Nations, World Bank, and Organization for European Economic Cooperation, and has served as economic consultant to the International Development Advisory Board, the International Basic Economy Organization, and the National Planning Association.

Dr. Kagan was born in Russia and emigrated with his family to Germany. He came to the United States as chief of French Presidencies and served in the Washington Purchasing Commission and later took his Ph.D. in economics from Columbia University in 1955.

He is considerer of the report of the advisory committee on UN telecommunications and author of numerous articles on technical and economic subjects, including articles in the Journal of Business and the American Journal of Sociology.

Dr. Kagan has served as a consultant for the International Paper Company, Arabic Oil Company, and the Trans-Arabian Pipeline Company. Kagan is listed in "American Men of Science," "Men of Science," and "Who's Who in the West."

New Marketing Instructor

Dr. Barkey Kibarian will join the University this fall as assistant professor of marketing. Dr. Kibarian is the author of more than 35 articles published in professional journals, including articles in four textbooks, and a consultant to private business and foreign governments.

He is a frequent guest lecturer at the Foreign Service Institute of the Department of State and has also lectured on television. He is currently a director of the Washington, D.C., chapter of the American Marketing Association.

Dr. Kibarian received his Ph.D. degree in business administration from New York University in 1958, where he taught at Northwestern University. Kibarian also served as director of the graduate school, and is presently teaching at Georgia State University, where he is an associate professor and chairman of the department of marketing. He has also been the recipient of three postdoctoral grants from the Ford Foundation.

Author of Two Textbooks

Dr. Joseph McKenna, author, reviewer, consultant to business, who will join UMSL's faculty as professor of economics, has also turned to St. Louis to help build a university the way "it ought to be built without the hindrances of history."

Originally from Colorado, Dr. McKenna served at St. Louis University from 1955-1966 as director of the department of economics, first as associate professor and then as professor of economics. A 1946 Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Harvard, Dr. McKenna received a B.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the same institution in 1950 and 1951. After serving at Harvard from 1957 to 1959 as a teaching fellow, Dr. McKenna taught at Bowdoin College, the University of California at Los Angeles, the University of Minnesota, St. Louis University, John Hopkins University, Boston College, and most recently Georgia Polytechnic Institute.

Dr. McKenna, the author of two textbooks, "Aggregate Economic Analysis" and "Intermediate Economic Theory," considers economic theory as his basic field. His special interest is in the area of political economy, particularly the application of economic theory to contemporary problems.

German Professor

Dr. Helmut Kollai, who received his Ph.D. from the University of Gottingen, West Germany, will be an associate professor of management. Dr. Kollai has taught at Long Island University and has been with a St. Louis business firm studying and designing corporate management systems.

Carlsen, Johnson

Join Staff

Ronald Carlsen, a certified public accountant in St. Louis since 1960, has resigned his position of accounting, Carlsen, who received his M.B.A. in 1966 from the University of Minnesota, is now with UMSL from Wisconsin State University.

Walter Johnson will become an assistant professor of management. He taught at the University of Oklahoma last year where he is a Ph.D. candidate.

Schumacher Named Urban Center Head

Dr. B. G. Schumacher will head the Urban Center and Metropol­itan Studies of the University of Missouri at St. Louis this year.

Dr. Schumacher worked with the Department of Housing and Urban Development Regional Office in St. Louis. He, together with Dr. Earl Reeves, Associate professor of political science, Dr. Reeves, who served as Assistant Director of the Center since its establishment in July, 1965, will be the Associate Director of the Center.

Upon his appointment, Dr. Schumacher said the University hopes to play a major role in a effort being made to solve the many problems of the St. Louis urban area. He added that now we see an impetus by big business to not only solve the problems of the ghetto but also those of urban America in the next century. There will be techniques beyond imagination for improving man's urban environment.

"I know that the St. Louis area will be a leader," he continued, "for the area is the vision of Chancellors Bagg and others at UMSL who seek to focus this University's talents upon this important area."

The University's Center of Community and Metropolitan Studies was established to coordinate and encourage basic and applied research in the problems of local economic growth and metropolitan area as a whole; to help make the research and educational facility available to metropolitan area governments, business, industry and civic groups in solving urban problems; and to develop a university involving the staff of the University concerning metropolitan studies.

While in Fort Worth, Dr. Schumacher created an automated administrative system which produced an estimated 80 per cent in administrative work units of over 1,000 construction projects in eight years. As Director of Project SFUR, a research effort co-sponsored by the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Urban Research Center of the University of Oklahoma, at St. Louis.

Computer Expert

From 1963 to 1964, Dr. Schumacher was a computer consultant to various financial institutions, centers of higher education and insurance companies. Prior to that time, he was Assistant Dean of Students at St. John's College, in Annapolis, Maryland.

He also authored Computer Dynamics in Public Administration, and is a consultant to McDonnell Aircraft Company.

Dr. Schumacher, a 1966 Ph.D. graduate of the University of Oklahoma, is a member of the Missouri Historical Society and is a political science department in addition to heading the Center.

Music Dept. Expands Performance Program

The Music Faculty of the University of Missouri at St. Louis will greatly expand its program of performance groups during the fall semester of the 1967-68 academic year. The band which has functioned under the leadership of Mr. C. Herbert Duncan, Director of Instrumental Music at the Normandy High School, has now grown to the size requiring full-time leadership. Professor Warren Bell has joined the faculty to assume these duties.

A full schedule of activities and concerts is anticipated. All types of music for wind and percussion instruments will be performed. The Concert Band will rehearse from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

Professor Edward Kottick will organize a Chamber Orchestra which will have one rehearsal each week. The orchestra will perform music from the vast literature.

The choral program will be expanded under the leadership of a University Chorus and a Chamber Chorus. Both choirs will have a full schedule of campus and off-campus concerts, and will be conducted by Professor Kenneth E. Miller.

All musical organizations are open to the general student body.

DZ Sponsors Fashion Show

Delta Zeta sorority and Taylor's Department Store, Normandy Shopping Center, are co-sponsoring a campus fashion show on September 26, 4 p.m., in Room 105 of the Performing Arts Building. Sorority members will model 20 outfits for dress, campus and sports events that occur at UMSL. Two outfits will be raffled at the show and those attending will receive a card entitled the owner to 10% discount during one shopping day at Taylor's.

Education Adds New Departments

Three new departments have been established in UMSL'S School of Education, in the object of the Department of Counselor Education. Courses stress a background of psychology, including the coun­ selors-to-be for their career.

Musical Plans Announced

Members of the Drama Club and the University Chorus will sponsor performances of musical plays, November 3, 4, and 5, 1968. The musical, "110 in the Shade," with lyrics by Harvey Schmidt and Tom Jones, is adapted from H. Richard Nash's play, "The Rainmaker." Lead roles will be open to all UMSL students, faculty and staff, and auditions will be held in Room 115 of Benton Hall. The audition schedules will be as follows:

Wednesday - September 20 - 3:30 to 5:00 p.m.
Thursday - September 21 - 1:40 to 4:10 p.m.
Friday - September 22 - 3:30 to 5:00 p.m.

Interested persons may call the Department of Fine Arts office to schedule an exact audition time. Each singer will be asked to sing one song from a musical comedy and must furnish his accompanist.

Sadie's most serious problems is his father. He thinks of his father as a crude roughneck who has no feeling for him. It is this relationship between father and son which is the true crux of the novel.

The role of the father is played by John Mills. His performance is both humorous and moving. This man is not nearly as human as he son believes him to be. He never finds it impossible to show his love to a son he cannot understand.

Important Relationships

Two other relationships are of importance. The father's wife, played by Marjorie Rhodes, is deeply in love with her husband, but disapproves of many of his actions and finds it necessary to express her disapproval. Her strength is the force which holds this family together. The other relationship involves the young wife and her even younger brother-in-law. He is greatly attracted to her and often finds it difficult to control his feelings.

The direction by John and Roy Boulting is tasteful, but a bit slowly paced. The decision to photograph The Family Way in color was a questionable one. It is a thought-provoking film, and the color is, at times, distracting.

The Family Way is a good motion picture because it is infinitely human. It is always restreting to see a film whose characters resemble real people, and it is unfortunate that this happens most often in European movies.

The Family Way is currently showing at the Shaky Oak and the Stadium Cinema theatres.

"University Players Plan Melodrama"

"Millie, the Beautiful Working Girl," a melodrama, will be presented free, by the University Players September 25, during the lunch hour in the temporary student union building. Eileen McGarry will direct the performance. Anyone interested in the production of this and other plays should contact the University Players through the Humanities Department or Student Association, 210, Administration Bldg. According to the script for the melodrama "Millie, the Beautiful but penniless heroine, is employed as a maid in the mansion of wealthy Mrs. Draper, the mother of Brentwood Draper, a manly-chested hero who is in love with Millie and determined to marry her. Clifford Ravenswood, the most despicable villain who ever trod the boards, comes back from his life (part of her hideous past) and insists she help him get hold of the Draper fortune. When Millie refuses he tries to force his attentions on her. Brentwood rescues her in the nick of time. A real surprise, but the audience screaming with glee."

Doug-Out
by Doug Sutton, Sports Editor

We're crossing our fingers here in the Current's sports department. "UWSF" is myself and my intrepid assistant, Marty Hendin, the Associate Sports Editor. Marty, it seems, has been running himself ragged trying to get press passes to the World Series. He's written probably a dozen letters and made as many phone calls to anyone who even has a remote chance to get two passes for us. Marty tells me that the press box down at the Stadium is just so big, and he's been told that already 38 writers and photographers have been granted press passes. So... here's hoping we'll be able to bring you photos and features of the St. Louis ball Cardinal stars, along with soccer stars and the St. Louis two more varsity sports, cross-country and golf, as well as having in the Current's sports department.

Coach Smith plans 18-Game Cage Schedule

The UMSL basketball team will play an expanded 18-game schedule in 1967-68. It was announced by Coach Smith, head basketball coach. The Rivermen will open the season by competing in the six-team Concordia Invitational Tournament, November 22-25, a tourney the team won last year.

New opponents on this year's schedule are the University of Illinois at Chicago, Kansas State College, the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee, John Brown University, Kenyon College and William Jewell College.

The cage's home court will be the Concordia Gym. Also, the team will play two games at Kiel Auditorium, December 8 against McKeend College and on December 16 against the William Jewell College. The games will precede the St. Louis Hawks' contest.

Runners to Debut Saturday

Cross-country, a sport that requires natural speed as well as stamina, will make its debut at UMSL when the Rivermen runners take on Blackburn College this Saturday at Carlinville, Illinois at 1:00. The meet will feature sophomore transfer Dennis Hudson, who was the 1963 Missouri State high school cross-country champion. Hudson is formerly of Kentucky State College and Harris Teachers College. He graduated from Sunner High School in 1964.

Larry Berres, who coached Southwest High School to the 1965 State High school championship, will coach the team in its first year at UMSL.

In an interview, Coach Berres told the Current that the team lacks depth and experience, but it has a hard-core of natural talent. In addition to Hudson, Berres said that he will rely on Mike Oliver from southeast High School; Kenny Robinson, a graduate of Roosevelt High who won the 1966 two-mile run in St. Louis high school competition; Ron Godd, a member of Southwest High's 1964 record-setting two-mile relay team; Nick Rangel of Alton, Illinois; and Roger Hanks, of Arlington High School in Indianapolis, Indiana.

The squad is working out daily on the north portion of the UMSL campus. The team started workouts on September 6.

Coach Berres plans to enter the team in nine dual meets and two invitationalals, along with at least two intra-squad meets. Six of the dual meets will take place on the UMSL campus, with the first home meet against Westminster College on September 30, at 11:00 A.M. The other home meets will be; Blackburn College on October 3 at 4:00; Washington University on October 11 at 4:00; Southwest Missouri State College on October 28 at 11:00; Principcia College on October 31; and Evangel College on November 4.

The St. Louis Cardinals captured their 11th pennant on September 18 as they trounced Philadelphia 5-1 behind the 3-hit pitching of Bob Gibson. "El Birdos" clinched the NL flag on the earliest date since the Dodgers on Sept. 6, 1955, as they built up a 13-game margin on their way to making a runaway of the pennant race.

Barring an American League Play-off, the World Series will start in the American League city on Wednesday, October 4. The third, fourth and fifth Series games are scheduled for St. Louis on Saturday, Sunday and Monday October 7, 8, and 9, respectively.
