President Outlines Free Speech Policy
Statement Warns Against Violence On Campuses

President John C. Weaver told reporters last Friday that the university "cannot and will not tolerate disruption under the guise of the protection of freedom." The following is an excerpt statement of the President:

"The university cannot and will not tolerate disruption under the guise of the protection of freedom. The disruption of university life by some, results immediately in the loss of elemental freedoms for others, and the academic community must stand at all times for the freedoms of all its members."

"Let it be understood that at the University of Missouri there will be an unsailable freedom of speech and thought, but there will also be the protection of an orderly way of academic life. An educated mind is a disciplined mind, and discipline is not born in chaos."

"Let it also be understood that free speech does not include license for giving public expression to filthy speech. Society has the right to expect decency and dignity in the intellectual community it supports and wants to respect."

"Dividing lines are not always easy to establish in human affairs, but the University of Missouri has no difficulty in drawing the line that separates the right of dissent from the anxiety of disruption. It can be assumed by everyone that this line will, whenever threatened, be defended with swift and firm action."

Weaver's statement came after a protest demonstration involving 2,000 students in Columbia had been dispersed by the Columbia police. The demonstrators were protesting the arrest of four students who were selling an underground newspaper which allegedly contained some obscene material.

Board Opens Meetings to News Media

by Carol Pratt, News Editor

Announcement of a resolution opening meetings of the Board of Curators to the news media came at a Curators' press conference in Benton Hall Friday, February 21, at UMSL. The press conference, attended by University President John Weaver, Board of Curators President William Myers, and several board members, was preceded by the Curators' annual St. Louis meeting.

After a long, usually silent protest by the news media against the Board of Curators' closed meeting policy, Board member and newspaper publisher Oliver Ferguson of Fredericktown introduced and obtained passage of the resolution calling for open meetings.

Text of the resolution expressed thanks to the University for holding the "understanding and support of the citizens of the State in its efforts to provide a higher education of quality and in the quantity needed by the State of Missouri."

The Board realized that the news media can help communicate these needs to the people..." After April 1, 1969, representatives of news media will be permitted to attend regular business meetings. They will be "subject to rules and procedures promulgated by the Board of Curators."

The Board retained the right to hold executive sessions when it feels it is "in the best interests of the University and the public that such sessions be held."

President Myers pointed out that technically the meetings were closed and欺诈 for a resolution calling for open meetings to come into effect involved no additional rule to be rescinded. He also explained that the delay of over a month before the action will become effective is to enable the Board "to proceed with assurance that they (the news media) will operate."

President Weaver was then

Council Endorses Weaver's Stand

In a close decision, the Central Council endorsed the statement of President Weaver in connection with the confrontation between university officials and the SDS at Columbia over alleged pornography. A thin majority in support of the statement prevailed over the objections of opponents.

The controversy which flared at Columbia was stirred by the distribution of an allegedly obscene political cartoon by the Student Center for Democratic Society. A faculty-student committee will settle the issue.

In reference to the incident, President Weaver declared that "at the University of Missouri there will be an unsailable freedom of speech and thought, but free speech does not include license for giving public expression to filthy speech." He warned the SDS and other campus agitators that "the University of Missouri has no difficulty in drawing the line that separates the right of dissent from the anxiety of disruption. It can be assumed by everyone that this line will, whenever threatened, be defended with swift and firm action."

In another action, the rough draft of the constitution once more failed to be considered by the Council. Discussion was ended with a current reporter, chairman Sam Bonmarito mentioned the possibility that he may call for special sessions to discuss the constitution.

The Council passed a motion by Neil Friedman that 1) the council seat only clubs with permanent or temporary recognition, 2) the council seat only recognized clubs in gaining recognition, and 3) the council have the right to create special seats for areas of interest not relevant to campus life, specifying whether the special member shall vote at all as well as the length of their tenure. In the first application of this rule, the athletic department was granted a general non-voting representation with speaking powers.

Council treasurer Steve Becht, reporting on the council's fiscal condition, said a total balance of $2050 remained out of the original

Rivermen Face Rockhurst

The UMSL Rivermen will face Rockhurst College of Kansas City in a playoff to decide NAIA District Sixteen's top independent Saturday March 1 at Brewer Field in St. Louis at 2:30 p.m. Admission prices are $1.00 for students and $2.00 for general admission. For more details, see the sports pages.

Students are hoping for the construction to begin on the University Center that will include dining space for 500 persons. See here are the crowded conditions in the present cafeteria. Photo by Ken Ealy

Construction Begins on New Buildings

Contractors were given "notice to proceed" Monday, February 24 on construction of three new buildings.

University officials, in concurrence with federal authorities, decided the "go ahead" last Wednesday for work to start on the multi-purpose building, the University Center and the J.C. Pennedey Education Building.

The $2.5 million multi-purpose building, beginning construction on north edge of campus, will primarily house physical education facilities. The building will contain a gymnasium, with 6,000 spectator seats, as well as a swimming pool, conditioning rooms, handball courts, locker rooms, showers, classrooms and administrative and faculty offices.

It is financed by $3,160,000 in

Buildings Named Jefferson, Clark

The Board of Curators of the University of Missouri approved official names for the library and University of Missouri approved the "go ahead" last Wednesday for work to start on the multi-purpose building, the University Center and the J.C. Penney Education Building.

The $2.5 million multi-purpose building, beginning construction on north edge of campus, will primarily house physical education facilities. The building will contain a gymnasium, with 6,000 spectator seats, as well as a swimming pool, conditioning rooms, handball courts, locker rooms, showers, classrooms and administrative and faculty offices.

It is financed by $3,160,000 in

Board Opens Meetings to News Media

by Carol Pratt, News Editor

Announcement of a resolution opening meetings of the Board of Curators to the news media came at a Curators' press conference in Benton Hall Friday, February 21, at UMSL. The press conference, attended by University President John Weaver, Board of Curators President William Myers, and several board members, was preceded by the Curators' annual St. Louis meeting.

After a long, usually silent protest by the news media against the Board of Curators' closed meeting policy, Board member and newspaper publisher Oliver Ferguson of Fredericktown introduced and obtained passage of the resolution calling for open meetings.

Text of the resolution expressed thanks to the University for holding the "understanding and support of the citizens of the State in its efforts to provide a higher education of quality and in the quantity needed by the State of Missouri."

The Board realized that the news media can help communicate these needs to the people..." After April 1, 1969, representatives of news media will be permitted to attend regular business meetings. They will be "subject to rules and procedures promulgated by the Board of Curators."

The Board retained the right to hold executive sessions when it feels it is "in the best interests of the University and the public that such sessions be held."

President Myers pointed out that technically the meetings were closed and the resolution calling for open meetings to come into effect involved no additional rule to be rescinded. He also explained that the delay of over a month before the action will become effective is to enable the Board "to proceed with assurance that they (the news media) will operate."

President Weaver was then

Council Endorses Weaver's Stand

In a close decision, the Central Council endorsed the statement of President Weaver in connection with the confrontation between university officials and the SDS at Columbia over alleged pornography. A thin majority in support of the statement prevailed over the objections of opponents.

The controversy which flared at Columbia was stirred by the distribution of an allegedly obscene political cartoon by the Student Center for Democratic Society. A faculty-student committee will settle the issue.

In reference to the incident, President Weaver declared that "at the University of Missouri there will be an unsailable freedom of speech and thought, but free speech does not include license for giving public expression to filthy speech." He warned the SDS and other campus agitators that "the University of Missouri has no difficulty in drawing the line that separates the right of dissent from the anxiety of disruption. It can be assumed by everyone that this line will, whenever threatened, be defended with swift and firm action."

Weaver's statement came after a protest demonstration involving 2,000 students in Columbia had been dispersed by the Columbia police. The demonstrators were protesting the arrest of four students who were selling an underground newspaper which allegedly contained some obscene material.

In other action, the rough draft of the constitution once more failed to be considered by the Council. Discussion was ended with a current reporter, chairman Sam Bonmarito mentioned the possibility that he may call for special sessions to discuss the constitution.

The Council passed a motion by Neil Friedman that 1) the council seat only clubs with permanent or temporary recognition, 2) the council seat only recognized clubs in gaining recognition, and 3) the council have the right to create special seats for areas of interest not relevant to campus life, specifying whether the special member shall vote at all as well as the length of their tenure. In the first application of this rule, the athletic department was granted a general non-voting representation with speaking powers.

Council treasurer Steve Becht, reporting on the council's fiscal condition, said a total balance of $2050 remained out of the original

Rivermen Face Rockhurst

The UMSL Rivermen will face Rockhurst College of Kansas City in a playoff to decide NAIA District Sixteen's top independent Saturday March 1 at Brewer Field in St. Louis at 2:30 p.m. Admission prices are $1.00 for students and $2.00 for general admission. For more details, see the sports pages.
A Vacuum Remains

The recent decision by the administration to cancel the student survey was disheartening and unnecessary. Not only was $11,000 of student activity fees spent for a survey that is now virtually useless, but also UMSL will enter its fourth year as a four-year institution without any having a clear idea about the needs and attitudes of the students.

In light of this school's past, as well as its imminent growth, the fact that there is no accurate data on student satisfaction is astounding. Some students expressed their dissatisfaction to the Office of Student Affairs, and more expressed their dissatisfaction to their teachers. But it has never been clearly established whether student needs are being met. The reason for the decision, the number of students who expressed deep agitation over the survey was very small.

Similarly, the reasons behind the signatures on the faculty petition calling for a special meeting of the Faculty Senate to discuss the surveys are not clear; some members may have signed out of consideration of the complaints received from their students; or perhaps they signed because of the climate of the survey. Whatever the reasons, they were not brought to light; the proposed special meeting of the Senate never took place, because the surveys were discontinued before a date could be set for the meeting. Whatever the reasons, the number of students who expressed deep agitation over the survey was very small.

It is particularly ironic that, while informally students were dissatisfied with the surveys, officially they were not. The Central Council voted to continue the survey. Likewise, some of the faculty expressed its discontent in the form of a petition, but go no further. It is not clear whether or not the petition represented the majority opinion because the Faculty Senate has not yet met to discuss the surveys.

This action weakens the consideration for the formal opinions of the students and faculty makes it clear to the Current that the decision was unwarranted, if at best, hasty. $11,000 aside, UMSL has lost much because of the decision.

On the UMSL Raceway

The construction of the road on the west end of campus, creating a thoroughfare between Natural Bridge and West Florescent roads, has alleviated some of the traffic congestion prevalent in past semesters. However, the road has given rise to another problem: student safety.

Because the road is well-paved and fairly straight, it is an excellent place for "hot car stuff" to exhibit their Manhattan. In fact, some of the screeches that have been heard could drown out the jets which pass overhead every five minutes.

In addition to the presence of speeding cars, there is a definite lack of walking space on the side of the road creating a pedestrian safety problem. The road has been opened before construction of any walkway which would help the walking students.

It is really a wonder that no serious accidents have occurred as a result of these hazards.

Perhaps the security patrol should set up radar on the road in order to trap violators. If not, perhaps the maintenance department could construct walks and maybe even "speed bumps" in order to help the situation.

Dear Editor,

I was terribly shocked to see Dr. Bzrls referred to as "an alumna" of Delta Sigma Pi. No one person cannot possibly be an "al­ umna" because the singular is "alumnus." (A female graduate is called an "alumna," of which the plural is "alumnae").

I sincerely hope that the editors will, in the future, be more careful not to overlook such flagrant grammatical inaccuracies.

Neil Parker

Dear Editors,

When you read a newspaper you read about oil pollution off the California coast, the spilling of the Great Lakes, or the ugly Middlet­ sigl. What can you do about it personally - nothing. But observe how the lake at our college is filling up with mud.

Students from other colleges have remarked that UMSL's campus is beautiful. What do you know. We have a campus that you know has a lake! Let's keep it that way. Maybe Dean Eckhoff would explain to us the future of existence and what students could do to help. Maybe the Student Council should talk it up and pass around a petition. To me this lake represents a work of art to the surrounding buildings that pictures can't replace.

Yours truly,

Jerry Robinson

To the editor:

I would like to bring to the attention of the student body of this University the Gestapo-like tactics now being employed by the library on this campus. It is obvious that those responsible for stipulating library procedures now require that a uniformed guard search the personal books and brief cases of any individual entering the building and no one (inclusional) must be honestly concerned with fair distribution to various groups, since the logical way to determine the worth of activities is to determine the number of students interested in them. Finally, this has shown me that the American Society is hardly free when a minute proportion of complainers, mixed with a bit of professional jealousy can overwhelm the administration into ignoring the other 8,000 students.

Sincerely,
Elinor F. Lynch

Dear Editor:

Last week's article seemed to solve the problem. Let those responsible for this disgraceful procedure both from the point of view of constitutional guarantees of individual rights not only inside the University but also on the campus. The typical student entitled to certain rights not only outside the University, and deeply personal insult to the school that constitutional guarantees respect for his integrity by the students were largely ignored.

Dear Editor,

I must admit that the cancellations and statistical necessities of the survey are a necessary check on all surveys; there is no better way to destroy personal respect than to disdain individual rights.

First, I have learned that this survey program was both carelessly written and a solid, factual account of the recent unpleasantness. However, in defense of both students and of statistical necessities, there are two amendments I would like to make.

Both the tenor of my letter and several of the quotes in the article imply that students were largely responsible for the survey's cancellation. This is not really the case. While it is correct that the Chancellor's Student Advisory Council (membership by appointment) did discuss the student survey on January 11, neither the Dean of Student Affairs nor myself was present either to defend the survey or even to explain it. (For that matter neither of us were invited to the January 17 meeting of the Faculty Senate's Executive Committee that was scheduled to discuss both the student and the faculty surveys.)

When the Dean was given the opportunity to explain the survey's methods and objectives by the Central Council (membership by student election), that group unanimously voted on January 26 to continue the student survey (see Council article on page 5 of February 18 Current). When this group's decision was given to the Chancellor, it is reported that he said he could do nothing because it was the will of the faculty to end the survey. Thus, one can hardly blame the students for what happened.

Last week's article seemed to end before it explained the statistical necessity of knowing who did and who did not reply to the survey. Before generalizing from the answers of a professional survey, those who answered must be statistically compared as a group with those who did not. This comparison is a necessary check on whether or not those who answered are a fair measure of the whole group. In the case of the student survey, information similar to that in the student directory was to be used to compare the group of students who filled out their questionnaires with those who did not choose to do so. Thus, one would learn whether the answers in the questionnaires were statistically similar or different from the group that was surveyed.

In closing, I genuinely believe that those responsible for stipulating library procedures now require that a uniformed guard search the personal books and brief cases of any individual entering the building and no one (inclusional) must be honestly concerned with fair distribution to various groups, since the logical way to determine the worth of activities is to determine the number of students interested in them. Finally, this has shown me that the American Society is hardly free when a minute proportion of complainers, mixed with a bit of professional jealousy can overwhelm the administration into ignoring the other 8,000 students.

Sincerely,
Richard C. Gilman
Asst. Prof. of Sociology and Anthropology

W. Patrick Behan

March 2, 2:00
5422 Bermuda Rd.

Free Refreshments

All Men Interested in Helping Establish the Newest Fraternity on Campus Invited

For Further Information Call: Karl Van Mill HA 3-2438
UUMKC Kennedy Memorial Symposium Avoids Violence

Harry Edwards
don to tos, but some more so than others. Let us focus on these few.

The 900 establishmentarians liberal present were enthralled opening night by the presence of Alard Lowenstein, Congressman from New York. Lowenstein spoke of freedom of speech as the "corestone of democracy" in reference to Judge Billings, the Curator who tried to stop the symposium. The keynoter hit briefly on his cigar on the table.

Leonstein finished his twenty minute speech on "Dissent in Foreign Policy." He received a standing ovation as he made his exit from the hall.

It was soon to be a verbal explosion.

The questions dealt primarily with student unrest and tactics at Berkeley and Columbia University. Howse participated as the institutional dissenter, and Hayden as the salt of the earth. Both were liberal intellectuals -- only Hayden has been there. The audience, obviously not revolutionary, nevertheless seemed moved by Hayden's arguments. He received a standing ovation as he made his exit from the hall.

After the confrontation, Hayden made himself present at an informal discussion in the lounge. He spoke as a fatalist clinging to his figurative vine. Hayden feels, as if milliardenic repression of dissent is around the corner.

Tom Hayden

The man was to speak at about 2:00 p.m.; at noon no one had seen him. The man, of course, was Tom Hayren, founding member of the Students for a Democratic Society. The day was to prove to be a confrontation of Hayden and Fred Irving Hove, editor of Dissent magazine, another pistol "ivy" liberal. Both men make their way from a private dining room to the auditorium.

In the dining room, without discussion of ideologies, both men were affable. However, unknown to liberals present, there was soon to be a verbal explosion.

Both men were to give a brief twenty minute speech on "Dissent in Foreign Policy," Both did. Then the audience started firing questions at the speakers. Hayden, who had been reading a newspaper as Howse spoke, seemed to pause. The questions dealt primarily with student unrest and tactics at Berkeley and Columbia University. Howse participated as the institutional dissenter, and Hayden as the salt of the earth. Both were liberal intellectuals -- only Hayden has been there. The audience, obviously not revolutionary, nevertheless seemed moved by Hayden's arguments. He received a standing ovation as he made his exit from the hall.

After the confrontation, Hayden made himself present at an informal discussion in the lounge. He spoke as a fatalist clinging to his figurative vine. Hayden feels, as if milliardenic repression of dissent is around the corner.

Tom Hayden

the vogue of the day, starting at about 11 a.m.

The man was to speak at about 2:00 p.m.; at noon no one had seen him. The man, of course, was Tom Hayden, founding member of the Students for a Democratic Society. The day was to prove to be a confrontation of Hayden and Fred Irving Hove, editor of Dissent magazine, another pistol "ivy" liberal. Both men make their way from a private dining room to the auditorium.

In the dining room, without discussion of ideologies, both men were affable. However, unknown to liberals present, there was soon to be a verbal explosion.

Both men were to give a brief twenty minute speech on "Dissent in Foreign Policy," Both did. Then the audience started firing questions at the speakers. Hayden, who had been reading a newspaper as Howse spoke, seemed to pause. The questions dealt primarily with student unrest and tactics at Berkeley and Columbia University. Howse participated as the institutional dissenter, and Hayden as the salt of the earth. Both were liberal intellectuals -- only Hayden has been there. The audience, obviously not revolutionary, nevertheless seemed moved by Hayden's arguments. He received a standing ovation as he made his exit from the hall.

After the confrontation, Hayden made himself present at an informal discussion in the lounge. He spoke as a fatalist clinging to his figurative vine. Hayden feels, as if milliardenic repression of dissent is around the corner.

Tom Hayden

the vogue of the day, starting at about 11 a.m.

The man was to speak at about 2:00 p.m.; at noon no one had seen him. The man, of course, was Tom Hayden, founding member of the Students for a Democratic Society. The day was to prove to be a confrontation of Hayden and Fred Irving Hove, editor of Dissent magazine, another pistol "ivy" liberal. Both men make their way from a private dining room to the auditorium.

In the dining room, without discussion of ideologies, both men were affable. However, unknown to liberals present, there was soon to be a verbal explosion.

Both men were to give a brief twenty minute speech on "Dissent in Foreign Policy," Both did. Then the audience started firing questions at the speakers. Hayden, who had been reading a newspaper as Howse spoke, seemed to pause. The questions dealt primarily with student unrest and tactics at Berkeley and Columbia University. Howse participated as the institutional dissenter, and Hayden as the salt of the earth. Both were liberal intellectuals -- only Hayden has been there. The audience, obviously not revolutionary, nevertheless seemed moved by Hayden's arguments. He received a standing ovation as he made his exit from the hall.

After the confrontation, Hayden made himself present at an informal discussion in the lounge. He spoke as a fatalist clinging to his figurative vine. Hayden feels, as if milliardenic repression of dissent is around the corner.

Tom Hayden

the vogue of the day, starting at about 11 a.m.

The man was to speak at about 2:00 p.m.; at noon no one had seen him. The man, of course, was Tom Hayden, founding member of the Students for a Democratic Society. The day was to prove to be a confrontation of Hayden and Fred Irving Hove, editor of Dissent magazine, another pistol "ivy" liberal. Both men make their way from a private dining room to the auditorium.

In the dining room, without discussion of ideologies, both men were affable. However, unknown to liberals present, there was soon to be a verbal explosion.

Both men were to give a brief twenty minute speech on "Dissent in Foreign Policy," Both did. Then the audience started firing questions at the speakers. Hayden, who had been reading a newspaper as Howse spoke, seemed to pause. The questions dealt primarily with student unrest and tactics at Berkeley and Columbia University. Howse participated as the institutional dissenter, and Hayden as the salt of the earth. Both were liberal intellectuals -- only Hayden has been there. The audience, obviously not revolutionary, nevertheless seemed moved by Hayden's arguments. He received a standing ovation as he made his exit from the hall.

After the confrontation, Hayden made himself present at an informal discussion in the lounge. He spoke as a fatalist clinging to his figurative vine. Hayden feels, as if milliardenic repression of dissent is around the corner.
Applications Taken for Student-Faculty Committees

Applications are now being taken by the Central Council for students interested in serving on various student-faculty committees. Each committee will be concerned with general policy-making in a specific area.

The Committee on Curriculum and Instruction will consist of the Dean of Faculties, the Director of Admission, eight members of the faculty elected by the Senate, and two students. It will have general responsibility for educational programs of the University and for developing and recommending to the Senate policies regarding University graduation requirements, special honors programs, curriculum, and official publications.

The Committee on the University Library will consist of the Dean of Faculties, the University librarian, four faculty members elected by the Senate, four faculty members appointed by the Chancellor, and two students. The Committee will review library policies and make recommendations on the distribution of library funds.

The Committee on Urban Affairs will consist of the Dean of Faculties, the Dean of Extension, the Director of the Center of Metropolitan Studies, and four other members.

Admissions

The Committee on Admissions and Student Aid will consist of the Dean of Faculties, the Director of Admissions, four members elected by the Senate, two faculty members appointed by the Chancellor, and two students. The Committee will be responsible for recommending and reviewing policy concerning intramural and intercollegiate athletics.

The Committee on Athletics will consist of the Director of Athletics, two faculty members elected by the Senate, two faculty members appointed by the Chancellor and two students. The Committee will be responsible for recommending and reviewing policy concerning intramural and intercollegiate athletics.

The Committee on International Studies will consist of the Dean of Faculties, the Director of the Center for International Studies, six faculty members elected by the Senate, and two students. The Committee will work closely with the Center for International Studies in the development of educational research and service programs relating to foreign areas and international studies.

The Committee on Athletics will consist of the Director of Athletics, two faculty members elected by the Senate, two faculty members appointed by the Chancellor and two students. The Committee will be responsible for recommending and reviewing policy concerning intramural and intercollegiate athletics.

The Committee on Gamma won second prize in the national competition for excellence.

The Committee on Student Affairs will consist of the Dean of Student Affairs, four faculty members elected by the Senate, four faculty members appointed by the Chancellor, and two students. The Committee will be responsible for recommending and reviewing policy in the areas of musical, dramatic, and foreign affairs; campus events involving outside speakers and programs; group recognition, student regulations; and study abroad.

The Committee on Student Publications will consist of the Editor of the Current, two faculty members elected by the Senate, two faculty members appointed by the Chancellor, and two students. The Committee will be responsible for recommending and reviewing policy concerning student publications.

The Executive Committee of the Central Council will recommend to the Senate the students on the basis of a personal interview and the written application form. The names will be brought before the Council, where names may be added from the floor. The Council will then elect the representatives and alternates from the different committees.

The Better Student Court

The Central Council has established the structure for a five-member student court composed of four associate justices and one chief justice elected from its membership.

The decisions of the court may be appealed to the Committee on Student Affairs in the Office of Student Affairs. Further appeals may be made to the Chancellor, the Board of Curators, and the President of the University of Missouri.

The council is now accepting applications for the next term, which begins in the fall. The application deadline is March 15.

The council seeks students who are willing to serve on committees that advise the council on various issues. Council members are expected to attend regular meetings and participate in decision-making processes.

The council is looking for students who are interested in serving in leadership roles and who are willing to devote time and effort to the council's work.

If you are interested in serving on the council, please submit your application to the office of Student Affairs by March 15.

The council thanks its current members for their dedication and hard work.

The More

SLAKE-EM RIVERMEN

Falstaff Brewing Corp.

St. Louis, Mo.

The Better

Visa

PZZZZ?

It's Another Place T.M. RG

Question: What's so good about SLAKE-EM Rivermen?

Answer: SLAKE-EM Rivermen are known for their exceptional quality and unique taste.

Students and Faculty Members

Here's how to save money on gasoline—Become a member of NOLTE PETROLEUM CO. 1342 Pennsylvania (Ask attendance officer at the station)

The Better

Society Club

The Society Club is inviting all students to hear guest speaker Elmo Tucker of the St. Louis County Welfare Department speak on "Social Work as a Career" Wednesday, March 5 at 8:00 p.m. in room 213, Benton Hall.

The club, which last week received formal recognition, will meet to discuss opportunities for upcoming events.

Society Club

Buildings

(Continued from Page 1) plans as bid had been excluded from the plans for the multi-pur- pose building. The start of construction for it and the University Center-Education Building complex is scheduled for one month to allow approval of the $5 increase in the student activi- ties fees by the Board of Curators.

Perry said he expected the Life Sciences Building to be completed by the summer session.

The More

The Better

Visa

PZZZZ?

It's Another Place T.M. RG

Question: What's so good about SLAKE-EM Rivermen?

Answer: SLAKE-EM Rivermen are known for their exceptional quality and unique taste.

Students and Faculty Members

Here's how to save money on gasoline—Become a member of NOLTE PETROLEUM CO. 1342 Pennsylvania (Ask attendance officer at the station)

The Better

Society Club

The Society Club is inviting all students to hear guest speaker Elmo Tucker of the St. Louis County Welfare Department speak on "Social Work as a Career" Wednesday, March 5 at 8:00 p.m. in room 213, Benton Hall.

The club, which last week received formal recognition, will meet to discuss opportunities for upcoming events.

Society Club

Buildings

(Continued from Page 1) plans as bid had been excluded from the plans for the multi-pur- pose building. The start of construction for it and the University Center-Education Building complex is scheduled for one month to allow approval of the $5 increase in the student activi- ties fees by the Board of Curators.

Perry said he expected the Life Sciences Building to be completed by the summer session.

The More

The Better

Visa

PZZZZ?

It's Another Place T.M. RG

Question: What's so good about SLAKE-EM Rivermen?

Answer: SLAKE-EM Rivermen are known for their exceptional quality and unique taste.

Students and Faculty Members

Here's how to save money on gasoline—Become a member of NOLTE PETROLEUM CO. 1342 Pennsylvania (Ask attendance officer at the station)

The Better

Society Club

The Society Club is inviting all students to hear guest speaker Elmo Tucker of the St. Louis County Welfare Department speak on "Social Work as a Career" Wednesday, March 5 at 8:00 p.m. in room 213, Benton Hall.

The club, which last week received formal recognition, will meet to discuss opportunities for upcoming events.

Society Club

Buildings

(Continued from Page 1) plans as bid had been excluded from the plans for the multi-pur- pose building. The start of construction for it and the University Center-Education Building complex is scheduled for one month to allow approval of the $5 increase in the student activi-
Council Listens to Complaints

The faculty Library Committee listened to student complaints at an open meeting in a Noonday Forum program last week. About 25 students attended.

Several students questioned the usefulness of a guard at the main entrance on the third level. They said anyone wishing to steal books could use one of the four emergency exits.

Dr. R.L. Allen, Committee Chairman, stated that a new system has been ordered and will soon be installed. He said anyone using a side exit will have to break a glass seal in order to unlock the door.

The old alarm system rang bells when the emergency exits were used. The new system is expected to eliminate the noise.

In a recent Current interview Miss Susan Freegard, head librarian, said any books removed from the shelves should not be replaced by students, but be left lying on the tables for re-shelving by the librarians. She said the procedure will prevent books from becoming misfiled.

The carrels on the fifth level have been assigned to the faculty for research work. The distribution of carrel privileges was determined by subcommittees of the faculty Research and Library committees. The carrels are shared by two persons alternately on a Monday-Wednesday-Friday and Tuesday-Thursday-Saturday basis.

Grant Awarded

The U.S. Office of Education has awarded a $15,000 program development grant to the UMSL School of Education. The School will use the funds to increase its instructional capabilities for the education of mentally retarded children.
Since the day you were born your entire life has been affected by transportation.

Now, how about getting in on the action?

In case you’ve underestimated the importance of transportation, consider this: nothing happens until somebody ships something! Food, clothing, housing... in fact, our entire material world depends on transportation.

Missouri Pacific is in the thick of it with 12,000 miles of railway and 17,000 miles of truck routes. And we have one of the most comprehensive Management Training Programs you’ll ever find. Or, you can go directly to a decision-making position, especially if you’re in engineering.

We’d like to talk to you about putting your degree to work in this vital, virile industry where the opportunities are almost endless, and even the sky is no limit anymore. See your Placement Officer to arrange an interview. The Man from MoPac will be on campus:

MARCH 7

An equal opportunity employer.

mO-PAC
MISSOURI PACIFIC TEXAS & PACIFIC

Albee One-Act Next Week

The American Dream, Edward Albee's satire of American values and family life, will be presented by the University Players Thursday, Friday, and Saturday March 6, 7 and 8 in room 100 Benton Hall at 8:30 p.m. This important one-act play will be the U.P.'s first fully staged student-directed production. Sam Hack, Current features editor and drama critic, is directing. He has acted in numerous productions at UMSL and with the Carsonville Players, but this is the first play he has directed.

In keeping with the workshop nature of the production, the cast is a combination of experienced and inexperienced actors. The important role of Grandma is being played by Bev Nolte, who also designed the set. She has been seen at UMSL as Toinette in The Imaginary Invalid, Cella in Absence of a Café, Dona Ana in Don Juan in Hell, and Corie in Barefoot in the Park.

Mary Lacey, who is playing Mrs. Barkley, was Allison in UP's Look Back in Anger and assistant director for Barefoot in the Park. Michael Jones is playing the emasculated Daddy. He was the telephone repairman in Barefoot in the Park. The roles of Mommy and the Young Man are being played by Claudia Green and Robert Earleywine, both of whom are acting for the first time.

Although the play is not quite long enough for a full evening, the U.P. presentation is offering more than the play itself. The audience will be invited to remain in the audience after each performance for a discussion of the play with the cast and director. Admission will be $1.00 for students and faculty and $1.50 for the general public.

The American Dream was well received by the critics when it first appeared in 1961. Some of the critical commentary follows.

"If sheer creative talent appeals to you, I recommend The American Dream. It is packed with un­timed imagination, wild humor, glibly sardonic satirical implications, and overtones of strangely touching sadness, and I thought it was entirely delightful." - Richard Watts, Jr., New York Post.

The American Dream is a unique and often brilliant play... It is in the manner of a comic night­mare, fantasy of the highest order... This is a play for the resilient young and the wise old. All those gauchy, sluggish targets in between had best stay away." - Whitney Balliett, The New Yorker.

"Brigadoon"
The University Players will hold open auditions for the spring musical production Brigadoon this Saturday and Sunday, March 1 and 2 in room 100, Clark Hall from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. UMSL's fourth musical is being directed by Bev Nolte. There are openings for actors, singers, dancers, and people interested in the technical aspects of the production. Brigadoon, which was Lerner and Loewe's first Broadway hit, will be presented at UMSL April 25, 26, and 27.
Curators Open Meetings to Newsmen

(Continued from Page 1) questioned on the recent student unrest at the Columbia campus and was asked what in his opinion constituted campus disruption. He defined disruption as, "any action that would seek, in the eyes of any of the regular, properly scheduled academic or extracurricular activities of the University," adding that he would take "whatever steps are necessary to relieve such a situation."

When asked if he would take action against faculty members as well as students disrupting campus activities, President Weaver replied firmly, "The University would have to remain operating under any circumstances no matter who the source."

Attention was then directed to specific questions concerning UMSL. Mr. Myers was asked if the Board of Curators were aware of the overcrowded conditions of the cafeteria in the Administration Building. President Myers indicated that individual board members had visited the cafeteria during the day, checking on its condition.

He also reported that UMSL's Angel Flight chapter had written the Board listing a head count of 2,200 students using both the Administration Building cafeteria and the Blue Building during the hours of 11:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. for two consecutive days. On one day the two-hour count for both buildings was over 2,200 students. Myers assured the Board that the University would discuss the situation and try to alleviate the problem.

Names for two of UMSL's newest buildings were approved by the Board of Curators. The library has been named the Thomas Jefferson Library, and the Math and Modern Languages Building has been designated William Clark Hall after a leader of the Lewis and Clark Expedition. Formal dedication ceremonies for these buildings will be handled by the officials of the UMSL campus.

President Weaver also answered questions made in the February 13 issue of the Current that the Columbia campus receives priority over the other three campuses in regard to the use of University planes. Weaver told the Current that all four campuses are treated equally. He was sorry for the mix-up in planes and bad weather the Rivermen experienced on their trip to Milwaukee, but he explained that the only reason the University planes are based at Columbia is because Columbia is the central location in the University system.

Ballet Flamenco Performance Near Perfection

by Adrienne Beaudoin

Ciro and his Ballet Flamenco displayed perfect form as they performed before an enthusiastic and enthusiastic crowd in room 105, Benton Hall February 18. Ciro's troupe consisted of six dancers, two guitarists and a singer.

The principal dancers, Ciro and Ross Montoya, were flawless. Their movements were crisp and clearly defined, their character portrayal superb, their stage presence magnetic. They performed a mesmeristic quality throughout the day, their performance a perfect impression of the flamenco dance, their legs moved faster than the eye could follow.

Miss Montoya conveyed more of her personality than did the other dancers; she captured the spirit of the dances much more completely than even Ciro himself. She retained a mesmeristic quality throughout the dances while Miss Montoya wept and laughed aloud as the particular dance required.

The beauty of Ciro and Ross Montoya were the most impressive numbers on the program. They created the impression all pairs attempt to achieve, that of being deeply in love with their partner.

Each of the remaining four dance numbers projected a distinct personality. Luisa Escobar, Juana Ortega, and Jesus Ramos were particularly confident in their roles and abilities. Antonio Vega appeared to be much less confident and hesitated several times for a fraction of a second. However, his uncertainty did not detract from his performance as it was almost unnoticeable.

The only disappointing performance was that of the primary guitarist, Carlos Sanchez. The second guitarist, Roberto Rico, turned in a much finer performance in his five appearances than did Sanchez. The art of flamenco guitar is a complicated and difficult one; apparently Sanchez lacked an essential quality in his technique. The guitar should be as crystal clear as the dancers' movements or the overall performance will suffer. His notes were often muddy and string together more tightly than they should have been. In his solo near the end of the first half, Sanchez began with great clarity but midway through it, the music again became slurred and at times indistinguishable. Sanchez made transitions from one tempo to another smoothly and with no apparent difficulty, but his lack of clarity detracted from an otherwise perfect performance both on his part and on that of the dancers.
Cagers Beat UWM, Face Rockhurst Saturday

Stenner, Daust, Caldwell Help Establish New Scoring Record

by Marty Hendin, Sports Editor

The Rivermen gained an NAIA playoff with Rockhurst and smashed their single game scoring mark in the process when they defeated the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee 127-106 February 22 at FVCC.

Denny Caldwell scored 10 points as UMSL jumped off to a quick 25-0 lead before the Panthers knew what hit them. UMSL led 41-26 with 6:06 left in the first half when two technical fouls were called on UWM head coach Ray Krooska and assistant Larry Reed. UMSL hit the two foul shots to give them a 43-26 edge but then the Panthers started coming back.

They ran off a string of eight straight points to cut the UMSL lead to 49-43 with 3:35 left but the Rivermen hit seven straight to lead 66-43 with 2:20 remaining. UMSL scored five points in the last minute to cut UMSL's lead to 60-55 at halftime. Jack Stenner and Denny Caldwell paced UMSL first half scorers with 16 and 14 points respectively.

The Rivermen led 68-60 with 8:15 left in the game when they began an 11 point spree that gave them a 79-60 advantage with 4:47 left. One of the points was scored on a technical called on UWM guard Mickey Pasantino. The Panthers never recovered from that spree and UMSL went on to run up their biggest point total in their history.

The game was not over yet as Coach Krooska was hit with his second technical of the game and UWM's fourth with 3:44 left in the game. With 1:25 left Jim "Rookie" Rohr scored to break UMSL's previous scoring high of 124. "The Rock" scored on an identical shot ten seconds later to give the Rivermen their 127.

Foults played a big part in the game. Besides UWM's four technicals, three Rivermen and two Panthers fouled out.

The game was the eighth this year in which UMSL has scored 100 points. UWM has been the only team to score 100 points against UMSL and they have done it twice. The Rivermen ended their regular season home schedule with a perfect 9-0 record. They are now 4-4 on the road although one of the away games was a victory at Concordia.

Football Night
Here Monday Mar. 3,
Larry Wilson
Defensive Halfback

Baseball Begins Practice Soon

The first meeting of the UMSL baseball team was held Feb. 24 at 3:00 in room 208 of the Administration Building. The purpose of the meeting was for general information about tryouts and practices. At the meeting 85 boys signed up and wrote down their preferred positions. Anyone who is interested is trying out as a pitcher or catcher only, should report to Normandy Jr. High at 5:30 on March 2, 5, and 7. The rest will report to Normandy Jr. High at 3:30 on March 10. Coach Arnold Copeland is head coach of UMSL's first season of intercollegiate baseball. Ron Kinney and Don Dallas will be helping Coach Copeland for the first few practices. There will be 10 home games played at Forest Wood Diamond in Fergusson.

I left my heart with
VISA

Blow Yourself
To
Up POSTER SIZE
2 ft. x 3 ft.

A $5.00 value for $3.50
3 x 4 Ft. Blow-Up $7.50
Add $1.00 for year & city, EXACT NAME & CO.D.

Small Check or Money Order to
PHOTO POSTER, Inc.
210 E. 22nd St., Dept. C-126
New York, N. Y. 10010
Dealer inquiries invited.

Cagers End On Road

The Rivermen will hit the road to finish their regular season schedule, playing at Southwestern of Memphis February 26 and at Mobile against the University of South Alabama February 27.

The Lynx of Southwestern of Memphis now have a 20-3 record. One of their victories was a two point win over Little Rock, a team the Rivermen beat by 48 points. The Rivermen currently have a 1-1 record against the Lynx, losing at Memphis in 1966-67 and winning 71-66 last year at Concordia in the first UMSL game without their four scholastically ineligible players.

UMSL will travel to Mobile, Alabama on February 27 to meet 15-15 left at the University of South Alabama for the first time. After a 10-15 record last year, the junior college, the Jaguars for the first time, the junior college, the Jaguars.

LOOK WHAT HE GOT AT Vic's
International
7912 Florissant
Rivermen Review

UML's Mister Consistency

by Marty Hendin, Sports Editor

Consistent is the word for UML's 6'7" sophomore center Greg Daust.

Greg averaged 19 points and 19 rebounds at Brentwood High School, went to Central Missouri State at Warrensburg, and then to the Army where he was named 4th Army's most valuable player. He then came to UML, where, in his first season, he has led the Rivermen to a 15-4 record averaging 19 points and 18 rebounds per game.

At UML Daust has shown his consistency in the fact that he has led the Rivermen in scoring in four games and rebounding in every game. He has been named offensive star of seven games and defensive star in four games. His UML game high is 30 points against SMU November 30 and McKenzie January 11, and a record 35 rebounds against SEMO in his first UML game November 30.

Daust graduated from Brentwood in 1965 after playing basketball for Coach Arnold Copeland who is now an assistant at UML. He also played football as an end.

His coach at Central Missouri was Chuck Smith, now head coach to athletic director at UML. Daust played only half the 1965-66 season at Central before being drafted. While in the army for "one year, nine months and four days," Daust led the Fort Polk, Louisiana team.

The winner of the UML-Rock­hurst game will face Missouri Col­lege Athletic Union champion Drury College of Springfield, Missouri in a two-out-of-three playoff to decide District Sixteen's rep­resentative in the national tourna­ment. The Panthers currently have a record of 17-4 after last year's 25-4 mark. After defeating Rock­hurst in the district playoff last year the Panthers got to the quar­terfinals of the national tournament before losing by two points on a last second basket.

The playoff schedule calls for the top independent team to play at home against Missouri State March 3 at Concedee, and then to face the Panthers March 4 and 5 at Springfield. The winning team will then take part in the national tour­

Judo Club

Temporary recognition has been granted to the UML Judo Club, co-founded by Dan Tihen and Mike Beatty announced. At first they will seek students with some judo back­ground and later they will accept novices as well.

Anyone interested in contacting the club should write a note with his name and the times at which he can be contacted, and place it in the Judo Club's mailbox in room 117. Administration Board members and club organizers are also planning to set up a table in the lobby of the Administration Building.

JV Finishes Season

by Jerry Vishy

The game against Boy's Club Tuesday, February 25, marked the end of the JY's season. The score of the game was unavailable at the time of publication. The Rivermen had a 5-4 record going into the game while Boy's Club was 13-1.

In a previous game this season, Boy's Club beat the JY 82-73.

Coach Copeland's hopes for an undefeated season this year have fallen far short of their mark. He contributes part of the problem to inadequate practice time. The JY must practice with the varsity and, naturally, the varsity has priority on time. However, the River­men have encountered many other problems this season. The JY lost three of their ten players shortly after mid-season. The first was that of Doody Rohn who earned a starting berth on the varsity. Ben Phillips and Al Williams, however, were unable to continue with the team because of "scholastic and financial reasons." Both Rohn and Phillips were starters for the JY. Rohn at forward and Phillips at guard, Gary Skinner, a guard, has had trouble with his knees which has hampered his playing.

Three of the players are natural centers, Jim Rohr and Paul Kautzman were forced to play both the forward and center posi­tions. Steve Meier, at times, had to move from his forward position to play guard. Only three people have had secure positions all season. Denny O'Mara rotating at center, Mark Bernsen starting guard, and Dave Kreiger starting forward. John Ponomroch was added to the JY team at the guard position late in the season.

When asked about future varsity prospects from the JY, Coach Copeland mentioned four players. Of course, Doody Rohn is a pros­pect for future varsity play. Jim Rohr and Mark Bernsen are also good prospects to see a lot of varsity playing time, Copeland said that Dave Kreiger was the most improved and most consistent player on the JY. Dave also has good prospects for seeing varsity action.

The Parable

Presented by SIC

February 28

Benton Hall Lounge, 107

8:30 3:30 Hourly

FREE! COFFEE & DONUTS

“Cocktail Lounge”

State I. D. Card Required

Entertainment Monday and Wednesday Nites With

“Cliff and Bob”

Guitar • Folk Rock, Pop, Country Also

Enjoy Friday and Saturday Nites With

“The River-Stompers”

Dixieland, Jazz, Bossa Nova, Rock

Greg Daust in action against UWM (bottom picture) and in a quieter moment (top).