Campus opinion favors "Hair"

By JUDY KLAMON
Current Staff Writer

The recent controversy over the coming of the rock musical Hair to St. Louis, in which representative Doris Bass has figured prominently, would appear to be mainly on the part of the opponents of the production, according to the students polled by the Current.

"I think Hair should be shown in St. Louis," stated Joan Hirlinger. "Doris Bass has no right to say what is right for me to see and what is not right for me to see. Who is she to set the moral standards for all of St. Louis?"

"If people feel they would be ruined for life by the brief nude scene," continued Miss Hirlinger, "they shouldn't go. But those who wish to see it, shouldn't be prevented from seeing it by some moronic politician with a puritanical, Victorian mind."

"I think the controversy over the production Hair is ridiculous," commented Miss Jolene Hourihan.

"In a so-called intelligent and cultural society such as ours, the decision of what to see should be up to the individual. Only by being exposed to such a performance as Hair could a thinking person make a judgment as to its value for himself as a person."

Apparent anger by Mrs. Bass' self-asserted authority as a theater critic, Greg Gibson stated. "Who appointed Alderman Bass as a great savior of the St. Louis morals?"

"To me it's simple," he said, "if you don't appreciate that type of performance, don't attend. Treat it as you would any movie or musical you didn't care to see."

Eric Chast, a composition teacher here at the University, stated that even though he might not agree with Mrs. Bass, he could see the reason for her actions.

"Mrs. Bass and her friends are simply afraid that the performance of Hair could lead to the production of a society that they don't care to have."

One of the reasons for Hair's controversy is its display of nudity. But is spite of this factor, Don Erhardt commented that, "In an advancing age, in which the theater is becoming increasingly more significant especially for the young, it becomes our responsibility to look beyond the nudity and into the content of the play itself before passing judgment."

Jean Maxwell argued, "Why should representative Doris Bass decide what constitutes obscenity?"

"I'm going to see Hair not so much to hear and see a controversial stage-play but to exercise the basic freedoms granted to us by our forefathers."

"Eventually," she added, "this culture will stagnate if enough people prohibit the free flow of ideas."
Citizens conference on children and youth

A Region VIII Citizens Conference on Children and Youth will be held at Busch Memorial Center, St. Louis University on November 3rd, Wednesday. Region VIII consists of Jefferson, St. Charles and St. Louis Counties and the City of St. Louis.

The Conference is one of nine regional conferences being planned by the Missouri Committee for the White House Conference on Children and Youth to stimulate citizen involvement, both youth and adults, in helping to improve conditions affecting families and children.

The main thrust of the day-long conference, according to Father Robert M. Hasberger, conference chairman, will be six simultaneous workshops with each topic timely and pertinent to the interests of families and schools as well as any others serving children and youth.

The workshops and the chairmanplanting them are: "Future of Learning," Mrs. Warren Shapleigh, President-St. Louis Area White House Conference on Education; "Juvenile Justice System," Louis W. Mcllardy, Director of Juvenile Services, St. Louis City Juvenile Court; "Parents and Children," Mrs. Beth Hendricks, Sapp resigns

Dean Virgil N. Sapp has resigned as director of the East-West Gateway Area of the University of Missouri to become full-time dean of extension content, effective November 1.

Dean Sapp had served in the dual capacity as head of extension for the University campus and area director since October 1, 1963.

Family and Children's Services of Greater St. Louis; "Health and Education," Mr. Warren Shapleigh, President-St. Louis Area White House Conference on Education; "Video Production," Mr. Jerome T. Shon, M.D., Psychiatrist; and "Youth Power," Paul Plorina, Attorney, Associate Director, National Juvenile Law Court.

The purpose of the Conference is to create a public awareness of White House Conference on Children and Youth activities and recommendations and in specifically generate a citizen's base of support for 1972 legislative priorities.

The Conference is open to the public and there is no limit to the number of persons who may attend from any school and organization.

There is no registration fee; however, luncheon reservations may be made and additional information obtained from Father Hasberger at 371-4900, extension 265.

Food service manager discusses pricing, performance, quality

By CARL HESS
Current Staff Writer

Despite the ordinary problems of getting a new operation off the ground, UMSL's new entry, the Food Service, is finally running close to top performance, according to Dan Crane, Food Service Manager.

Essentially, the Food Service is a self-supporting enterprise. It has no connection with outside caterers, nor with any of the Missouri U. food services except that it does all its central purchasing from Columbia.

Who sets the pricing?

"Basically," Crane said, "I do. I set the pricing for all foods at basically a markup in raw cost of two times the raw cost. This is not costing labor.

It does not include processing, either.

"To a lot of people's amazement, everything is cooked basically from scratch." Crane explained. "Our pies, all of our pastries, are from scratch, in other words we don't buy a frozen product that we cook and serve."

The only exceptions to that rule are the fish and the hamburgers, which are purveyed in Columbia. Crane believes the food is giving a fair price on all foods.

"If you could, you will find that my vegetables are all priced 3 to 7 per cent lower than anyone else in this vicinity," he maintained.

"You're not eating instant potatoes, you're not eating frozen French fries, you're not eating any items that aren't prepared fresh." Crane said. "My portions are large--I give 2-1/2 ounces on a sandwich and 4 ounces on a plate."

"And, to be honest with you, I think my cooks are a little bit heavy on that."

"We're lower priced than Uni-

Every week, the Establishment trembles a little.

Because every week, a new issue of the Guardian appears.

It carries news of revolutionary developments in Asia, Africa and Latin America; the movements for black and women's liberation; the nationalist movement; the struggles of workers, prisoners and students; and critiques of contemporary culture—all analysed for their implications and full meaning.

The Guardian is a radical newspaper with an independent political outlook. It cuts through the smokescreen of most other journals with their distortions, omissions and lies. It gets to the root of why the forces of liberation are challenging the power of the ruling class.

For example, Wilfred Burchett, the Guardian's Indochina correspondent, filed reports from Southeast Asia which were seven years ahead of the sensational (and profitable) "Pentagon Papers" disclosures.

If you want the real story, read the Guardian.

1949. This was obviously a part of the new policy of rapprochement with the Chinese. However, the United States for weeks had been maneuvering behind the scenes to effect the admission of Mainland China without the admission of Nationalist China. This move failed, and the Nationalist delegates were making their final exit even as the admission proposal was being passed.

Undoubtedly the admission of Red China, the most populous nation on earth, was long overdue. But Taiwan, though minute in comparison, still has a larger population than some of the member nations.

The membership was apparently determined to make a clean sweep.

Letters: The pecking order

Dear Editor,

I am writing to thank you for the delightful satire on Cooper and the plight of the poor T.A.'s and Instructor's, written by Jan Tel, before August 21, 1971.

It is not often that anyone recognizes the total absurdity of the let's keep them in their place for their own good, philosophy. Admittedly, this philosophy has existed and been accepted by those in positions of power for a long time. After all, what would the world or UMSL be like if Infirmities got above themselves and began to suppose they had equal rights, in either classroom or B. I. office?

From my firmly established pecking order, where Mr. Perry assures me I belong, in my office shared by three other GOPO's (bottom of pecking order's) I can view the clear light of day (through concrete walls) that it is better for me to share an office with a second year student than to learn daily new and better ways to handle my classes by discussing problems and solutions with my brother teachers. And, when necessary, even if in my office share even more important experiences such as discussions on the meaning of life and the latest Playboy jokes.

Altogether, I can see so many reasons for being a good fight for the GOPO's to share office space that I'd like to make a suggestion to Mr. Perry. Perhaps in light of all these advantages, senior members of the faculty should be allowed to share offices, too. In fact, if any department on the faculty shared offices, the power could remain completely empty and this would save the taxpayer's funds necessary for building new office buildings in the future.

Fight litter

Dear Editor,

I too am a concerned person about littering. But I'd like to footnote an article in the last issue of Current concerning the littering in the cafeteria ("students only hurting themselves"). For the record, I am a social science major. I diligently cleared my tray and placed it on the conveyor belt. But the chorus of derision and ridicule of the Vice-President's criticism and have admitted that there are essential elements of truth in the Vice-President's criticisms. Americans not too long ago had a chance to hear and see the essentially conservative wisdom of San Francisco longshoreman and philosopher Eric Hoffer in two hour-long filmed interviews conducted by veteran TV newsmen Eric Severid.

In the coming months the conservative alternative to the collectivism and totalitarianism of the New Left and the ever-increasing welfareism and statism in American society, much of it fostered by government, will be aired in this column, and presented to UMSL students by the campus chapter of Young Americans for Freedom. The fresh air of individualism and libertarianism will increasingly compete in the marketplace of ideas with the stale, sterile infantilism, anti-rationalism, collectivism and phony idealism and altruism of the "New Left" and worn-out Stalinist solutions to problems of the liberals. If intellectual freedom prevails on the campuses of America, then there can be little doubt as to which intellectual product will make its way into American society, much of it fostered by the chorus of derision.

Put some responsibility on our own mature students. A few arrows directing us to trash receptacles, etc., may be needed. I'm sure this would be preferable to garbage strewn floors and tables. Nothing else, how about fining for littering—but enforce it. It's sad to say but money is usually the only threat to people, yes even young people. But some of us value health and grass and trees much more than someone's inconsideration. So please help yourselves— dispose of trash properly.

Soviet expert to speak Friday

Zbigniew Brzezinski, director of the Columbia University Research Institute on Communist Affairs, will speak on the future of U.S.-Soviet relations in light of the new U.S. policy toward China at 11:45 a.m. October 29 in the J. C. Penney auditorium.

Brzezinski, a former member of the Policy Planning Council of the State Department, is an expert on comparative government and the political process in both popular and scholarly journals. He has also authored eight books on Russian politics.

After receiving his Ph.D. degree in political science at Harvard University in 1953, Brzezinski became a research associate of Harvard's Russian Research Center and Center for International Affairs. He then spent two years as a professor of public law at Columbia before being appointed to his present post.

Brzezinski served on the State Department Policy Planning Council from 1964 to 1968, and he has been appointed to a number of American delegations to diplomatic conferences.

Brzezinski also will participate in a seminar at 3 p.m. with students and faculty of the UMSL Center of International Studies.

Appearances

The problem of transportation costs, parking costs, and the effects of automobile and truck transportation in Jouning Highways and streets and polluting the atmosphere will be discussed by several experts in the area of urban mass transportation as guest speakers for The City, next week.

The City, a course offered jointly by political science, economics and sociology, will be held at 12:40 in 126 B.E.

The name of Monday's speaker is being withheld temporarily since positive confirmation of the appearance had not been received at the time of the printing.

Professor Joseph McKenna (economics) will speak and answer questions about his position Wednesday.

Friday, Don Sokol, assistant director of the East-West Coordinating Committee, will present the "regional" view.

Jack O. Edwards, assistant dean of the University of Missouri School of Law, will visit the campus Thursday evening, November 4, and Friday, November 5.

Students interested in consulting with Dean Edwards regarding admissions, financial aids, or other pertinent questions should contact, as early as possible, the advisor to pre-law students, Dr. Henry G. McManus, 415 Benton Hall (Phone 653-5581). His office hours are from 10 a.m. to noon MWF.

Delayed football title tilt

Rain postponed last Thursday’s scheduled playing of the intramural championship football game, slated for 3:15 on the soccer-intramural field.

"That," said a disappointed intramural director Larry Berres, "was the first rain day we've had all season."

The game was finally played Tuesday, on a soggy but acceptable field, and it was the turn of the Wild Bunch, Gold League champion, to be disappointed.

The Bunch was downed in the title contest 8-6, by the Sigma Pi grinders in a emotion filled contest which was called due to numerous fights.

"Berres told us to call it if it got out of hand," said head referee Ron Brewer. "We finally stopped it with a few seconds remaining."

Varsity wrestling

A practice for all undergraduates interested in taking part in the university's intercollegiate wrestling program will be held Monday, Nov.1, 3:30 p.m. in the wrestling room of the multi-purpose building.

For further information, contact coach Barry Rouxel, athletic department, 453-5641.

Season tickets now on sale

Athletic Director Chuck Smith announced that season tickets for the 1971-72 Rivarson basketball season are now on sale.

Admission to UMSL home games, which will be played in the recently completed multi-purpose building on campus, will be free to students at the university. Members of the faculty, staff and the general public will pay $1.50 at the gate.

Season tickets will cost $7.50, offering fans a $10.30 saving over the course of the year.

The cagers open their home season Dec. 6 with an 8 p.m. game against the Razorbacks of Arkansas University.

For further information, call 453-5641.

Runners going for $500 in Windy City meet

"We can still end the season 6-4," says Riversons holder Tom Knopp, "that's the kind of team spirit UMSL needs."

Mighty big talk for a team supposedly undergoing a rebuilding year. The runners have laid claim to a 3-4 record to date, quite an improvement over last season's 1-10 finish.

The Red and Gold will try to regain footing this Saturday when they take on Wayne State in a dual meet during the University of Chicago Invitational Meet Saturday in the Windy City.

Mighty big meet for a team supposedly undergoing a rebuilding year. But three years ago another Riversons team, competing in only their second season of intercollegiate competition, stunned the Chicagoans and their guests by winning it all.

"We can still end the season 6-4," Mighty big spirit for a team.

Rivarson pays the Toal

Kevin Toal defeated Joe Rivas 21-7, 21-7, to take the first annual intramural handball championship last week.

"Those were some of the finest handball players I've ever seen," commented intramural director Larry Berres.

Toal reached the finals by way of victories over Larry Jackson, Kevin Byrne, George Stein and R. W. Haynes while Rivas overcame John Clarke, Jerome Phelps, Bob Freese and Jerry Graville.

Berres praised with quality and quantity of the intramural program since the Fieldhouse opened this fall, announced a table tennis singles tournament during the month of November.

Men have until Nov. 11 to register in the equipment room at the multi-purpose building.

Table tennis will be played in the General Storage room of the Fieldhouse beginning Nov. 18.

Basketball Deadline

Those interested in forming 3-man basketball teams for the upcoming intramural season will have to submit rosters by Tuesday, Nov. 2.

Basketball play begins Nov. 9.

Kickers avenge Western

"In our brief history, last year's loss to Western Illinois was the most disappointing game we've ever played," said UMSL coach Don Dallas following his team's 5-0 defeat of the Leathernecks Saturday.

The 1971 edition of the Western-UMSL rivalry was anything but disappointing for the Rivermen or their coach. The Red and Gold peppered the Western net with 25 shots while the host Leathernecks managed but 9.

There were similarities between the annual contests. Both games were played at Western's Maroon campus athletic complex and both were played on soggy fields.

And on both occasions the Leathernecks welcomed the Rivermen to town on homecoming weekend.

Unfortunately for Western this is where the similarity ends.

Steve Buckley put the Rivermen up 1-0, and I use the term figuratively, with a perfect shot from 20 yards out, to break a scoreless deadlock during the third quarter.

Frank Flesch scored his fifth goal of the season in the fourth period on a penalty shot to ice the verdict.

It was the third shootout of the season for goalminder Tim O'Toole who has registered an impressive 1.28 goals per contest average.

"Tim's the best goalie I've seen all year," said Dallas. "I hope he receives the recognition he deserves.

"There's no doubt, he's the best. And he'll be tested again this week."

The kickers will play their last home game of the season, a 1:30 affair, this Saturday against the University of Illinois-Chicago Circle.

UMSL was rated ninth in the midwest prior to their 3-0 loss to Eastern Illinois last week. Eastern tied UMSL earlier this year, 0-0.

"We played all those big games in a row earlier in the season and we didn't quite come through," said Dallas. "But it all even out in the last three games.

"We were down and came back to play well."
