Students protest ‘rights violation’

Jim Wallace

The Student Association for Christian Alternatives (SACA), a university-recognized organization, is petitioning against a university policy that it says is threatening their civil liberties.

The rule prohibits the use of rooms by student organizations that would teach or promote religious dogma and beliefs. The petition states that the undersigned object to the Board of Curator policy regarding censorship of the Bible is an infringement on students’ rights.

Bob Levin, director of SACA, said that so far the petitioning is going well. “We have had an overwhelming response,” he said. “So far we have gotten around 1,700 signatures from both students and faculty.” The petitioning is being done in the lobby of the University Center and the snack bar.

Barbara Toulston, reservations officer at the University Center, said that the group’s use of the University Center lobby was an approved demonstration but that the use of the snack bar was unauthorized. She explained that as long as the group was not holding a religious meeting they could get room and that the petition drive was not illegal. “The administration, said Levin, maintains that the issue is one of “separation of church and state.” But, he continued “this is just a smokescreen.” Levin said that the university fears that by granting his group a room, it would be considered supportive of religious organizations teaching on campus. He said that such thinking on its part was unnecessary because, “the UMSL Student Handbook states that the university cannot be identified as supportive of any position held by a recognized group.”

Rick Blanton, director of Student Activities, said that the problem was one of legality. “The position has recently been reaffirmed by the Supreme Court that there can be no religious teaching on campus.”

“Blanton said, “What the group is doing is probably within the guidelines of proper procedure.” He sees the group’s ultimate goal to be change of Board of Curator policy. He said that the key words in question were “teaching and proselytizing,” and that, “these terms need to be defined.” He continued to say, “I would be upset if this rule is deemed to be needlessly restrictive. As regarding student activities, it might even work out to our benefit.”

The petition is not the only form of communication used by SACA. The group hands out a free, semi-annual newsletter entitled The Dasteyer Chronicle. Blanton says no problem in this form of activity “as long as the literature is non-religious and informative in nature” which he considered the Chronicle to be. No action has been taken by the administration against the group because, Blanton stated, “no complaints have been filed and they have a right to their own opinion.”

The UMSL Student Association for Christian Alternatives (SACA) has filed a probationary basis for at least two years. The decision to continue the program was announced April 18 and came after the elevators, using the restrooms, and going up hills.

Harry Moore, director of the Handicap Awareness Day activities, said, “The whole purpose behind this day was to raise the consciousness of the UMSL community with regard to any structural barriers or any other hindrances that may affect handicapped and non-handicapped students, faculty and staff in their performance at UMSL.” Moore said that the effort to raise the consciousness of the UMSL community would continue.

The activities which included guest speakers and discussions, was a success, according to Moore, “although not for so much in numbers but in sincerity.” He said. “The people were very active and sincere.”

The guest speakers included Lois Vanderwaardt, UMSL’s Affirmative Action officer, who spoke on the impact of legislation for the handicapped. Otis Pitts, for the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation spoke on the Role of Vocational Rehabilitation. [See “Awareness,” page 3]

UMSL wrestlers will have a team to return to next year. UMSL Chancellor Arnold B. Grobman announced this week.

The Intercollegiate wrestling program will be continued on a probationary basis for at least two years. The decision to continue the program was announced April 18 and came after

Fraternities and sororities to compete in Greek Week

The “biggest week of the year” for the fraternities and sororities will be April 22-28, according to Don Donley, president of Inter-Greek Council.

The week is predicted to draw between 300 and 350 participants. The Greek Week coincides with UMSL’s 15th anniversary celebration (see page 6).

The week’s activities include a variety of assortment of contests and games. The public is invited to attend all events, Donley said.

The week will start with the annual Greek Sing and Talent Show at 8pm in the J.C. Penney Auditorium, April 22. The four social fraternities and the three sororities will participate in the event.

Monday will be All Greek t-shirt Day. T-shirts will be on sale at the Greek Sing.

Tuesday, elections will be held for Greek Man of the Year, Woman of the Year, and Princess Athena. Elections will be held between 10am-2pm and the results will be announced at the Greek Week banquet April 23. Also, Tuesday, a Trivia Quiz will be held from 7pm in 126 J.C. Penney.

The elections will continue on Wednesday from 10am-2pm. The Greek God competition will UMSL Athletic Committee had reviewed the wrestling program for several weeks. The Committee initially recommended discontinuing the program, citing a lack of interest.

In announcing the intent to continue the wrestling program, Grobman said, “In the spring of 1981, the Athletic Committee will again review the wrestling program using the NCAA Division II regulations as guidelines. If the Committee finds at that time that our program has not been minimally meeting those guidelines during the prior two-year period, I will accept a recommendation that the sport be dropped.”

NCAA regulations state an institution must fill a minimum of seven weight classes in a minimum of 12 meets within one season to be recognized. UMSL had been forced to forfeit decisions at several weight classes at various meets due to a lack of wrestlers.

“I think it’s great,” wrestler Joe Stevens said. “I just want to get the chance to wrestle.”

UMSL finished the 1978-79 season with a dual meet record of 4-6.
Gephart to speak here

U.S. Representative Richard A. Gephart will meet informally with students, faculty and staff to discuss his recent trip to the Soviet Union from 10:30 am until noon Monday, April 23, in room 126 of the J.C. Penney Building.

The discussion will be moderated by Edwin Fedder, director of the UMSL Center for International Studies. Gephart will also address a metropolitan forum on “Taxpayers in Revolt!” that same day on campus. His address is at noon in the J.C. Penney Auditorium. His speech is free and open to the public, as is the morning session.

Haas to present free public concert, May 7

Kari Haas, the host of "Adventures in Good Music," will present a free public concert, May 7 at 8 pm in the J.C. Penney Auditorium.

Haas, a native of Germany, came to the U.S. in 1930 to teach and to study with Artur Schnabel. He founded the Chamber Music Society of Detroit and was chairman of Michigan’s Council for the Arts under four governors, as well as U.S. delegate to UNESCO’s International Music Council. He is a consultant to the Ford Foundation and director of fine arts at WJR, one of America’s leading broadcasting owners.

For 20 years, Haas has been the author and host of the daily, hour-long radio show, “Adventures in Good Music” broadcast by more than 400 stations all over the world.

Slide show to be held

The Center for International Studies will show a slide-tape on the semester study abroad program available through Denmark’s International Student Committee (DIS), in 331 SSB from 1:30 pm-3 pm April 25. In addition, Becky Flotroo, and UMSL political science major who studied in Copenhagen during the fall, 1978 semester will be on hand to talk about some of her experiences and answer questions about the program.

Field study not cancelled

Anthropology 329, "Field Study in Archaeology," has not been cancelled for the summer semester, as was previously reported in university publications. The course will be offered for six weeks, beginning May 14. The course provides students with the opportunity to participate in ongoing archeological excavations and analysis. For more information, call Van A. Reekhold at 462-5284.

UMSL Orchestra gives free concert, April 23

The UMSL Orchestra, under the direction of Paul A. Tarabok, assistant professor of music, will present a concert April 23, at 8 pm in the Mark Twain Building.

The first half of the concert will consist of the overture to "The Barber of Seville" by Rossini, and the "Carmen Suite, No. 2," by Bizet. After intermission, the orchestra will perform Schubert's Symphony No. 5.

The concert is free and is open to the public.

UML: Chancellor Arnold B. Grobman will present his "Annual Report to the Community," April 25, at the Cervantes Convention Center. As a part of the University’s fiftieth anniversary, the event is co-sponsored by the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association. Grobman will discuss the relationship of the recently-completed long-range plan for the university to the mission of the campus and the unique character of UMSL’s student body.

The report will be preceded by a noon-hour luncheon, to which the public is invited. Reservations, which must be made by April 23, may be arranged by calling 453-5411. Cost of the luncheon is $7.50 per person.

There's more to flying than just flying.
Ask any Naval Flight Officer.

The Naval Flight Officer is a vitally important part of the Navy flight team. Although the pilot flies the plane, the Naval Flight Officer is the man who takes over when it's time to call the shots.

At his disposal is a multimillion dollar package of technology—equipment that assists him in navigation. Helps him monitor electronic countermeasures. And enables him to perform such complex tactical functions as tracking and guidance.

Not many men can measure up to responsibilities like this. Or the training it takes to perfect the skills and techniques required.

That's why you have to be a college man to even get started. And you have to prove yourself again and again, every step of the way. Until you've stretched your mind and your capacities to the limit.

But few accomplishments in life are more worthwhile than winning the wings of a Naval Flight Officer. And the respect and responsibility that goes with it.

Think you've got what it takes? Why not find out—now. Call us.

Complains about waste

Dear Editor:
I wrote last year about this time complaining about the excessive waste materials at UMSL. These include paper especially. There were too many flyers, posters, memos and notices going around.

There are fewer now Good! There is still much room for improvement, though. As UMSL, do you have a conservation committee? Having a recycling station on campus could not only save money but also improve the campus environment.

I have noticed that people are at least being more conscientious about their use of materials. This is a positive step towards change.

Thank you for your time.

Says police values, inept, laughing stock

Dear Editor:
I read with interest the letter to the editor entitled “Irate Alumni” which appeared in the April 12 issue of the Current. I enjoyed reading the letter and I am sure that the editor of the Current was also intrigued by the letter.

I must confess that I am a little concerned about the way the police were handled in the letter. It seems that the police were not effective in their job and they were not able to handle the situation appropriately.

I believe that the police should have taken a more proactive approach to the situation. They should have taken the time to understand the situation and to address it appropriately.

I also believe that the police should have been more professional in their handling of the situation. It is important that the police maintain a level of professionalism in their work.

Thank you for your time.

Council thanks workers

Dear Editor:
I would like to thank Ann Daugherty, who put up with our constant changes and reworking of the ballots. I also want to thank Sharon Duncan for working more hours on the polls than any other person involved.

To these and any one else who gave of their time and effort, my heartfelt thanks and praise.

Yours,
Pat Connaughton, Chairman

Presented by the University Program Board; Financed by Student Activity Funds.
Concerts to enhance festival

The Serendipity Weekend Festival, taking place April 21-22, is one of several activities being held celebrating "UMSL Week." In addition to amusement rides and game booths, several concerts and musical events will be featured.

The Gateway City Band Festival, which is an annual event, will be held from 9am-4pm, April 21 and April 22, in the Mark Twain Building. The festival will feature high school bands from the St. Louis metropolitan area and bands outside of the St. Louis area.

The UMSL Greek Sing will kick off Greek Week April 21. Like the band festival, Greek Sing is an annual, traditional event. It will be held at 8pm, in the J.C. Penney Building.

A local bluegrass musical festival will be held April 22 from 1-5pm. Featured bands will be the Harmon Trio; Dub Crouch, Norman Ford and the Bluegrass Connection; The Cedar Hill Grass; and the Bluegrass Ramblers.

Admission is free for all Serendipity Weekend musical events. For more information, call 453-5148.

Dance company to give lecture

The Bill Evans Dance Company will give a lecture demonstration April 24, from 12:15-1:15 pm in the gym of the Mark Twain Multi-purpose Building.

The professional modern dance company, made up of six dancers, features the dancing and choreography of Bill Evans. All of the dancers are featured soloists and experienced teachers.

The Company is based in Seattle, where it rehearses, conducts home performance seasons and resident activities, and is developing a curriculum for the serious modern dance student at Dance Theatre Seattle, the official Company school.

The repertory reflects a philosophy of movement and dance concerned with human communication. Themes of dances are varied and assure a balanced and accessible program for audiences with both little or much exposure to modern dance. The repertory is composed of Evans' works and works by Anna Sokolow and Matt Mattox. The appearance of the Bill Evans Dance Company at UMSL is one of many events planned for the university's week-long fifteenth anniversary celebrations. For more information, call 453-5148.

University players to present Moliere play

The University Players will present Moliere's "School for Wives" April 20-22 at 8pm in the Benton Hall Theatre.

Linda Keeney, speech instructor, will serve as director of the play. She will be assisted by Kathleen Nelson, who will serve as assistant director and stage manager.

Cast members include Steve Clark, Joel Bennet, Patti Norman, Patrick Lane, Cindy Kuhni, Ken Woods, Richard Green, Russ Monika, and Jerry Holdeneder.

Tickets are $1 with an UMSL ID and $2 for the general public, and may be purchased in advance at the Information Desk or at the door. For more information, call 453-5485.

On the right is the new flag of the City of St. Louis, signifying the university’s basic service to the Greater St. Louis area.

The famous “columns” landmark of the University of Missouri at Columbia denotes the fact that the St. Louis campus was in a sense, an offspring of the Columbia campus. At the bottom of the seal is the first administration classroom building of the St. Louis campus. The date 1839 is the year the university was founded; the date 1960 is the year the St. Louis campus was born. The four stars designate the St. Louis campus as being part of the four-campus University of Missouri system.

Concerned Dix looks for improved pitching

Jeff Kuchno

Jim Dix, UMSL's baseball coach, has been a bit worried of late. After all, when a team scores 13 runs in two different games and loses both of them, something is definitely wrong.

It seems now, however, that Dix's worries may be over. "Our pitching has been terrible this year until the last few games," he said. "They (the pitchers) didn't get to pitch much in the early going, but now that the weather is better, they're getting more opportunities to throw."

The Rivermen battled St. Louis University April 10, and edged the Billikens in a "wild" game. 16-15. UMSL exploded for an early lead, but almost threw the game away when its pitcher had difficulty finding the strike zone.

"It was a windy day, and that caused a lot of the scoring," explained Dix. "Our pitching was just terrible."

Since that game, though, UMSL's hurlers have looked impressive.

On April 13, UMSL swept a doubleheader from Missouri Baptist, 9-3 and 10-3. Steve Ahlbrand and Steve Jones notched victories for UMSL.

The next day the pitching was even better. Sophomore Keith Kimball allowed only three hits in leading UMSL to a 5-2 victory over Southeast Missouri State in the first game of a twin bill.

In the nightcap, Larry Klaus bettered Kimball's performance by blanking the Indians on only two hits as UMSL won, 4-0. Klaus' shutout was the first for UMSL's pitching staff this season.

Offensively, the Rivermen have set a torrid pace all season. They are hitting .350 as a team and swiped 105 bases in only 19 games.

Two of the leading base stealer, Skip Mann (15), and Jim Lockett (16), have been the most prominent offensive leaders.

Mann, who was an honorable mention All-American last season, is currently batting .537 with 36 hits, 6 doubles, and 23 RBI, while Lockett is batting .507 with 6 doubles, 5 triples and 29 RBI.

"Lockett and Mann have both been ripping the ball," said a delighted Dix. "I think they will both cool off a little bit, however, and Ready and Flores should get hot. Ready is a great hitter and he could explode any day."

RIVERMAN NOTES: Last Monday at UMSL, the Rivermen split a doubleheader with Greenville College, losing 6-5 and winning 8-3. Rick Tidbites picked (See "Baseball" Page 101)

UML's Barton capitalize on hard work

Jeff Kuchnowski

Only two days after being named UML's head basketball coach, Tom Barton issued a warning. "The players on our team next year will have to be tough and hard-nosed or they won't make it through practice," he said.

Suffice to say, Barton is a firm believer in hard work, and it has been hard work that has enabled him to climb the coaching ladder.

"If we can get the recruits, then success will take care of itself." Tom Barton

Although he has made a prominent step forward in his coaching career, Barton isn't as excited about getting the job as he might be expected.

"I haven't had time to get excited about getting the job," he said. "I will probably get excited about it sometime this summer when I'm water skiing, but for right now, I've been busy working on recruiting."

Barton realizes how essential recruiting is to the success of his team. Everyone knows that the most successful teams are the ones who can attract the most talent. Barton, however, is looking for something more than talent.

"I'm looking for a good athlete who is a hard worker," he said. "They must have quickness, jumping ability, and other characteristics like desire.

Looking at UML's roster, it would seem a necessity for Barton to sign a few big men. "The forwards and centers we are recruiting are ones we could make it to the rescheduled tourney last week.

The team of Tim Gerthig and Derrick Dolenz fired a 4-under-par 67 over the 6,900-yard layout to lead the SIU-Edwardsville Cougars to a first place finish. St. Louis University finished third.

"We are playing a lot better since the weather improved," said Rivermen coach Andy Smith. "We're starting to play well as a team."

Men's tennis wins: run record to 3-6

The UML men's tennis team won two of their three weekend matches, defeating Washington University 5-4 and Central Iowa 7-2 Friday and then losing to Principia Saturday, 5-4. The decisions brought UML's season record to 3-6.

Winners against Washington University were Gail Knap all and Jeff Janoski. Washington University was 0-3.

Winners against Central Iowa were Scott Suwitch and Mark Johnson. Central Iowa was 0-3.

Against Principia, Knap won at number two singles, Janoski at number three and Jim Drazen at number five. UML won number two doubles with Janoski and Johnson.

Esayan and Hayes card 69's

Greg Kavouras

The UML golf team posted its best showing of the spring last Monday as they grabbed second place honors in the UML City Bank Classic, which was played at the nearby Normandy Golf Club.

The event was originally scheduled as a 15-team meet on March 26, but was postponed due to snow that weekend. Because of the conflict, only six schools could make it to the rescheduled tourney last week.

The team of Tim Gerthig and Derrick Dolenz fired a 4-under-par 67 over the 6,900-yard layout to lead the SIU-Edwardsville Cougars to a first place finish. St. Louis University finished third.

"We are playing a lot better since the weather improved," said Rivermen coach Andy Smith. "We're starting to play well as a team."

For UML, the threesome of Gary Esayan and John Hayes led the pack as they carded 69, one under par, for second place. The pair's third man was Bob Zapp as they posted a 7-4-5 for a total of 202, which was better than the next place finisher.

Barton, who is about 5-feet-10 inches tall, coached at West Platte and Moberly high schools, and Central Methodist College before arriving at UML as an assistant coach in 1976.

"I can remember a time at each school, when we won a game that we shouldn't have won, and so I let the players know how I felt," said Barton.

"I could see them looking at each other and saying, hey, maybe this little runt knows what he's talking about."

"I can also remember players who were fair athletes, but by hard work and desire, became much better.

"It's evident that Barton has become a better coach as a result of his own hard work. He is a likeable coach, one who displays old-fashioned respect for his players. He is also a coach who gives his best as long as his players do the same."

"I don't guarantee the players that we will win one single game," he says. "I'll guarantee them, however, that if they work hard then they'll become better players."

One thing is sure: If hard work breeds success, then Coach Tom Barton and the UML Rivermen cagers can look forward to a tremendously successful season next year.

The victory was significantly gratifying especially for Adreon. “Everybody thinks SLU always has a better ball team than UMSL, but we showed them that it isn’t necessarily true.”

Adreon would like to think the St. Louis U. game was a stepping stone to the state tournament.

“I think we are going to peak by the state tournament,” she said. “Our hitting is coming around, our defense is superb, and our pitchers are looking really good. We are finally starting to gel as a team.”

If it's sick to love a pen, then the world's going crazy.

People are fanatics when it comes to their Pilot Razor Point pens. They're riveted to give them up. And when someone borrows one, what happens is inevitable.

First, they love the way it writes. Really smooth and extra fine. They go wild over its driver metal collar that keeps the point from going squish. Natures way forget to give them back. Although it only lasts.

This can be very embarrassing when they're caught in the act.

Others have pocketed Pilot's Finemaster pen. The one with the slightly less delicate strike. It's only 60c.

If you borrow someone's Pilot Finemaster pen you'd better be prepared to pay for the consequences.

But for less than a dollar, you'd be smart to buy your own.

"When told I had cancer of the larynx, my reaction was: what good is a lawyer without a voice?"
Frank Purcell, Attorney

"That was nine years ago. In less than two months after the operation, I was back at work and talking. Today, I do everything I did before. Even try cases in court. "All of this is thanks to early detection, effective treatment made possible through advances in cancer research, and an overpowering will to talk again. Not to mention the extremely beneficial voice training program which is offered by the American Cancer Society. I've won my battle. But the battle against cancer still goes on. Please, have regular checkups. And give to the American Cancer Society. We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime."

A short course in Bonded Bourbon.

First lesson: Bonded Bourbon is so unique that it took an act of Congress (in 1987) to establish the standards for Old Grand-Dad and other Bonded whiskies.

Old Grand-Dad Bonded is authentic Kentucky sour-mash Bourbon, made with pure limestone water, the finest grains, and aged in new charred-oak barrels.

Only Bonded whiskies have a green tax stamp. It's your guarantee that the whiskey is at least four years old. Old Grand-Dad Bonded is always aged longer.

Final exam. You need only one sip to recognize the clearly superior quality and taste of Old Grand-Dad. Cheers!
