For the one day in UMSL history, the election for student body president will be unconstiate student, and Kathleen Mayhow, a junior, will be running in the elections to be held April 21 and

Loonfest

UMSL students are invited to participate in an event that will not only celebrate the arrival of spring (provided it gets here by then), but will also mark the drawing to an end of this long, hard winter semester. The Loon Fest, to be held April 25, will feature live music and contests, and is being sponsored by the KWMU Student Staff and funded by the Programming Board from student activity fees.

The Loon Fest will be held on the U. Center Patio (in the U.
Center Lounge in case of rain) beginning at 11 am with music by the rock group, The Nukes. The contests will begin at 11:30 and occur every half-hour until 1:30.

Scheduled contests include a bubble gum blowing contest (11:30), a water balloon toss
(12:30), a three-legged race
(1:00). Participation in the contests is open to any member of the students body, faculty or administration. First, second and third prizes will be awarded in each contest, as well participation prizes for all individuals who take part. Prizes will be furnished by Budweiser Beer, Peaches, Paeth Outdoor Sales, Southwest Life Insurance and several other firms.

Persons wishing to participate in any of these events should plan to be available about 15 minutes before the contest is to begin; at that time, rules will be explained and the necessary supplies will be distributed. All materials will be furnished by

Errors

They aren’t on the score sheet, but the mental

No choice with one

There has always been at least two candidates for president of UMSL's student body, until this year.

There has always been Current endorsement for the executive, until this year.

But this year has been unusual in many ways. This was the first time in a decade that a new constitution has been passed, but that didn't change much. This was the first year that half of the Council members were expelled at one time, but that didn't do much either.

So for the election of two officers where does Central Council/Student Association stand? Below where it did last year. A place that few thought they would be when the students went to the polls last year to pick between six candidates for the top spot in student government.

With the only major achievement for a year work being a lackluster constitution which makes interested students have to fight for seats while other seats remain vacant, is impossible to support Yates Sanders candidacy. But at the same time, seeing no person willing and able to take the time and responsibility required by the office, we can only give our best wishes to Sanders and hope for a more productive year (from both the executive and representative branches) next year.

For vice-president the Current will also make no endorsement. Here, because no interviews nor public forums could be arranged, was the time for the top concern of student government.

It is a sad comment on student life that only three students can do much either. The lack of an opponent cannot deter this endorsement. Yates your student body vice-president, Mr. Sanders perform­ ded his duties in a highly efficient manner and some attention is involved in himself in many administrative committees and func­ ions. This is of great importance to the department and person, and effectively get the job done. It is my opinion that those who criticize the inefficiency of student government fail to realize the importance of building a certain sense of trust between the student and student representatives (i.e., attending meetings when called and making a realistic contribution). Simple enough, but unbelievably abused by students in the past. To this end, Mr. Sanders will in the office of president bring this important quality with him.

Mr. Sanders as vice-president, along with Mark Koeliman this year's student body president, administered the often criticized but effective Central Council/Student Assembly. Those criticism of student government will be settled in the student administration reflects the student student assembly should fall to

Comments sought on ASUM

To the editor:

In talking with several people on campus, it has come to the attention of the board members of the Associated Students of the University of Missouri, that there is growing dissatisfaction with the performance of the organization.

One complaint has been that the UMSL students are not getting their money's worth (each student pays one dollar per semester to ASUM). There are those that claim that ASUM is not fulfilling its obligation to disseminate information about the goings on in the State capitol. Further, there have been complaints that the board members here in Jefferson City and the staff members are not making themselves available to the general students population in order that their complaints and comments may be heard. It is with the latter comment in mind that this letter is written. The members of the board, as well as the staff here on campus, would like to invite any concerned student or student organization to contact us regarding your thoughts. There is a mailbox for ASUM on the second floor of the University Union, Student Government office. Please feel free to leave your name and phone number at any time and be assured that every effort will be made to get back to you as soon as possible. The mailbox is the best way to contact the organization since we are in the process of trying to move the ASUM office from the incoven­ ient Bleek Metal Building to the University Center. Further, there are now plays to set up a table in the cafeteria and the snack bar to discuss the organization and the issues with commented students. The table will probably be set some time next September, before the board decides on the legislative package for the following legislative term.

ASUM is your lobbying group. It does not exist without the students. This is one organizadation where you have power to make your voice heard not only here on campus, but also in Jefferson City. Incidentally, the next meeting will be Friday, April 18, in Columbia, Mo. The board will consider the budget for the following year. All interested parties are invited and encouraged to attend.

Sincerely,

Students critique election

The statement made by the Sanders-Crone slate indicating that Crone was instrumental in writing the new constitution is a blatant lie. Dan Crone was never present or even mentioned while the constitution was written. In fact, Dan Crone came on the political scene in the last few weeks, not February 23 and 24 when the constitution was written.

The reason I know all this is because I was present when the constitution was written and I was originally running with Yates Sanders for the office of vice-president. I never once saw Dan Crone.

I choose not to run with Yates for several reasons, mainly political. I have nothing personally against Yates Sanders. I just feel that the best way to contact the administration is in a realistic manner. It is unrealistic to think that they are going to come to them and they are going to railroad themselves into office as Yates did with putting the constitutional referendum on the ballot.

After the constitution was written I objected to it strongly. The constitution changes representation whereas students must be elected from the school they represent and not at large. As it stands, there will be four empty seats on the Student Assembly this year for lack of interest shown by respective divisions. I attribute this to the lack of student involvement and interference by Yates Sanders and Dan Crone.

I can't stress enough that interested students are being ripped off of the present constitution. For example, ten Arts and Science students are running for election in the Assembly. Only seven can win seats while four seats will remain vacant in accordance with the present constitution, which proves that interested students are being ripped off.

The real crime is that Yates Sanders is running unopposed.

Sincerely,

Terri F. Reilly

ly claim to represent all students at the University of Missouri-St. Louis.

It is the primary responsibility of the President and Vice-President to voice student concerns in all facets of University governance. A student government is marked by disinterest and dis-organization, then the ability of the President and Vice-President to convince faculty and administrators that they represent the majority of students is drastically Weakened.

Therefore, our first and most important goal is the development of a stronger student government. Three ways in which we hope to achieve this goal are:

1. an in-depth orientation process
2. the passage of enforceable bylaws
3. a streamlined committee system.

I am a student and will work toward the student's needs and more, I will address myself, in particular, to the following problems and concerns of the students: the attendance policy, campus security, especially night security for women, and the student parking system. I will work for better use of Student Activities funds and better representation for each and every Arts and Sciences major.

Additional Comments: I am currently interested in student gov't at UMSL. The institution of a new gov't is the prime time for new faces and fresh views to become involved.
Theater is a personal medium. It is a tool for playwrights, actors, and directors to express themselves and their outlook on life. Sometimes these messages are obvious; other times, they are more subtle. Sometimes they are combined. "Play Strindberg," directed by Deborah Gwillim and performed by three of the University Players, combines subtlety and overt satire to show some of Strindberg's message, only to accept the fact that absurd characters have no boundaries," said Gwillim. "The audience will have to laugh at these absurd things." "Play Strindberg" will run 18-20 April, in the Benton Theater. Tickets are on sale now at the U. Center Information desk, and will be available at the door. One dollar with an UMSL I.D., and $2.00 for the general public.

Deborah Gwillim
Opening night of "Play Strindberg" will be a first. Deborah Gwillim, a graduate of St. Louis University and an experienced actress and director, will direct her first play at UMSL.

She picked this play because it is small. "It is easy to work with small numbers when you want to go really in depth." She added, "I always have liked this play." Gwillim is enthusiastic about working with UMSL students.

It is refreshing to get people who take real interests and responsibilities outside the theater," she said. "And although you have to teach them technical things," Gwillim said, "they understand characters easily." Gwillim was a member of the Alley Theater Repertory in Houston, Texas, before coming to St. Louis. Here she studied and graduated from St. Louis University, emphasizing both acting and directing. While at St. Louis U., Gwillim also gained valuable experience working with costuming. Presently employed as an instructor in speech communications, Gwillim plans to continue directing plays at UMSL.
UML and site for Health Fair 80

UML will be an official site for Health Fair '80 on April 23 from 1 to 6 and April 26 from 1 to 6 in the Rec Center and the Bi-State Chapter of the American Red Cross in conjunction with the National Health Screening Council for Volunteer Organizations, Inc. The purpose of Health Fair '80 is to provide screening tests for early detection of potential health problems and to educate community members in preventive health care.

Anyone 18 years of age and over are welcome to participate and all services except the Blood Chemistry test are free of charge.
The UML site will offer height, weight and blood pressure checks; anemia, hearing and vision tests. In addition, examinations for glaucoma and podiatry will be available. Oral screening will be available April 23 only. Counseling and referral will be available on site.
The optional blood chemistry test includes tests for diabetes, kidney disease, liver disease, cholesterol, thyroid, plus over 12 other tests. A fee of $6.00 will cover the cost of lab expenses. If you plan to take the Blood Chemistry test, do not eat or drink for 6 to 8 hours before taking the test; however, you may drink water, black coffee or plain tea.
The screening will also include a variety of exhibits, such as a Life Saving Vehicle for impromptu information regarding emergency medical services and breast cancer for self-examination. Literature regarding contraception, family planning, alcoholism, patients' rights and community health services will also be available.
Test results will be mailed to participants within four to six weeks after the Fair. It is important to note that health screening is neither intended to be nor is it a substitute for a physical examination by your doctor, and abnormal results are not positive evaluation of disease. The Health Fair '80 program cannot give you a "clean bill of health." This is the responsibility of your physician or health care provider.
The UML Health Fair '80 location is being financially sponsored by Normandy Municipal Council, Normandy Osteopathic Hospital North, Norman, and UML.

BYLAWS
In order to maintain the flexibility which the new Constitution provides, we favor passage of bylaws which are essential for the continuity of the Student Association.

In many situations, we favor the establishment of a set of standing rules rather than bylaws. Standing rules would only be in effect for the year in which they are adopted. Each year, under this procedure, the Assembly can take the initiative in creating a set of rules for the election of student government.

As chief officers of the Association, we will establish bylaws and standing rules as a working text. Though debate and amendment, we hope that a better set of rules can be achieved than those under which student government has operated in the past.

COMMITTEES

There are three committees which should be established by the Association: Grievance, Publicity, and Administrative.

Grievance
The most important committee because it deals directly with student complaints, the Grievance Committee should be made up of students with the authority to settle any problems which arise between the Association and its members. It will provide an opportunity for the Association to examine and implement its own actions.

Publicity
The new Student Association will need to publicize its activities and make the students aware of the responsibilities of the Association. The Association, in turn, will provide an opportunity for the Association to examine and implement its own actions.

He cites the successful work conducted by the Community Relations Service of the Department of Justice, the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, the American Arbitration Association, and many other organizations at the community level. "Success has been especially marked in the diffusion of potentially explosive situations in neighborhoods, schools, and factories by mediators experienced in the practice of conflict resolution," Matsuoka said in Washington this week.

LEC Poole
Speaking of equal opportunity (I'm writing this article, I'll speak about anything I damn well please), I know that companies are now required to fill out government forms listing the value and quantity of the minorities they employ. I kid you not.

Oh, but that's not the bad part. What is funny is the fact that companies are often reduced to listing white women as minority employees.

And in Heaven,
Peter: "Well, let's see, boys... We gotta have three more minority members for the South Nirvana Heights housing complex. We think we could promote some native American woman, maybe a President Tito guy! He's as good as dead anyway, and he's a two-for-one; Chinese and old. And maybe for the other two places we could pull a couple of Afghan guy. After all, they're dropping like flies...

One can only hope for better or worse. Equal opportunity is bound to creep into other aspects of daily life. Maybe the United States Congress should draft a bill enabling each minority to establish supremacy for a designated period of time. For instance, 1981 should be appointed Year of the Korean Transvestite. Of course, granting each minority a full year of supremacy in which to exercise bigotry and suppress their fellow minority would create some slight problem—many could die prior to the election of their particular minority for Supremacy Year. Especially among the majority groups, such as the Uzbekistan Sado-Schizophrenic. Therefore, I would recommend a shorter period of time (one month to one year) for each minority. This would, however, necessitate an eight-month Senate to appoint the members of Congress (how else would they have time to pass all the equal opportunity bills, the Immigration Reform Bill, and still get in ten a few recreational fillibusters?).

Oh, sure, there's one cure-all answer which would absolve all of us of the fear and frustration of being an oppressed minority: make everyone equal.

But really, that takes all the fun out of it.
ROTC comes to UMSL

An on-campus Army ROTC program has been established at UMSL. The officer training program offers two and four year programs in management and leadership which, when blended with student's chosen academic majors, prepares them for responsibilities as Army officers, either full-time on active duty or part-time with the National Guard or Reserve.

All Army ROTC students receive financial aid of up to $2000 during their two years in advanced courses, plus about $450 during a six-week advanced leadership camp. Also, college students may compete for scholarships (3, 2 and 1 year awards) which pay for full tuition, textbooks, lab and other academic fees, plus an allowance of up to $1000 each school year.

Students qualify for advanced ROTC courses in three ways:

Summer Programs -- students may qualify through a paid, six week, no obligation, summer "Basic Camp." Qualified students who successfully complete Basic Camp and who desire to do so, may enter the Advanced Course in the Fall.

On-campus Courses -- most students take introductory military science courses during their first year of college, but advanced courses, plus about $450 during a six-week advanced leadership camp. Also, college

"Fun at the Keyboard" is designed to enable participants to make their own arrangements of popular songs, hymns, and old favorites while developing piano skills. The course is for adults who have had some piano instruction. Participants should be able to read the treble staff, and to pick out a simple piano tune with one finger. A one-hour preview at the first meeting will screen those with the requirements.

The registration fee is $95 which includes a chord chart, textbook and record used in the course. For more information or to register, contact Deborah Factory of UMSL Continuing Education at 533-5961.
Greek associations offer much for many Personal reasons for becoming a member of a Greek organization vary from individual to individual. Such motivation might include the desire to pursue leadership opportunities, obtain a well-rounded education - campus life that goes beyond the classroom, or enlarge the sphere through which students come in contact with other students.

Margie Hoffmann, president of Delta Zeta, said she joined a sorority as the result of a friend's persuasion. "I hadn't planned to initiate because I expected to transfer. But Delta Zeta was a big influence in my decision to remain at UMSL. When I faced the choice between universities, UMSL had something that I didn't want to give up," she said.

"A Greek system has an important function on a commuter campus such as UMSL," Hoffmann said. "It opens doors to social activity and gives students the opportunity to meet new people."

"The Greek system," said Jerry Utterback, president of Pi Kappa Alpha, "is the main backbone of social life on any campus. It not only provides students with social contact, but helps students maintain a working relationship with faculty and staff as well," he said.

Students also view the Greek system as an opportunity to develop leadership skills. The majority of groups have some form of an executive council that guides various committee chairmen and members in charge of social activities, philanthropy and fund-raising events.

"Greek organizations are run like miniature businesses," said Ginger Hobbs, president of Zeta Tau Alpha. "Each member has the opportunity to develop a particular office or chairmanship."

Paul Schmidt, historian for Tau Kappa Epsilon, said the individuals who volunteer for responsible positions acquire self-discipline. "As a leader, you develop practical skills plus a sense of motivation," he said.

The responsibility, that does hand-in-hand with leadership, requires hours of hard work in addition to the time spent socializing.

"On the average," said Chuck Gerding, previous president of Sigma Tau Gamma, "we spend about 14 hours per week as a group and nine hours are spent at social functions and four hours at weekly business meetings. We usually divide four hours per week between community service and fund-raising projects," he said.

Delta Phi Epsilon is one of the few sororities on campus who actively participate in community service projects. "We believe that it is important to participate in community service," said President Jeralee Horner. "It is an important part of being a college student."

Delta Phi Epsilon, along with other Greek organizations, has been a driving force behind the organization of the Greek Week activities, to be held April 20-26. It seems appropriate time is at hand to look at the workings of the Greek system - what they feel to the backbone of social life on any campus.

The financial obligations of several groups are more extensive because they own and maintain houses. In such cases, members who are residents of the house, pay an average monthly rent of $50.

Presently, three fraternities - Sigma Tau Gamma, Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Pi - and one sorority - Alpha Xi Delta - own houses on Natural Bridge. Many resident members find house living an important advantage in regard to the rising cost of gasoline. "But a not so obvious reason," said Gerding, "is that living at the house puts the student in a more traditional college atmosphere."

"Our sorority house," said Nancy Richard, president of Alpha Xi Delta, "provides a place to meet new people, to learn about the Greek system, and to have fun."

Mental errors doom Rivermen

Mike Hempen

Lack of the timely hit and mental errors. That is what cost the UMSL Rivermen baseball team as they lost three out of five games this past week. The reason for these things could be lack of experience.

"We made mistakes and they didn't," said Rivermen coach Jim Dix. "We made mental mistakes and crucial errors. We didn't drive in runs when we had the chance. If I had made no mistakes, we would have won all the games."

But such things happen when you have an inexperienced team. "I never have had a player hit as well his freshman year as he did his sophomore year," said Dix. "We have been playing more experienced clubs. But I have confidence in them. We are capable of beating every team we play."

The week started out on the right note as UMSL beat Mc-Kendree at home by a score of 3-2. The Rivermen lost the first game 4-2 of the doubleheader. In the first game, the Rivermen pulled out a victory in extra innings. The Rivermen were losing 10-7 until Rob White hit a bases-loaded triple to tie the game and force extra innings. In the ninth inning, Mike Stellern, the team's leader in hits, doubles, triples, home runs, RBIs, and total bases, singled home the winning run. Mark Hahn, who relieved in the seventh, was credited with his second win of the year.

But the second game of the doubleheader is where the Rivermen's troubles began. UMSL had a no-hitter thrown against them in a 3-0 loss. William Shanks, who allowed only three hits, was the hard luck loser. The loss dropped Shanks' record to 1-4 and marked the second time this season that the Rivermen have had a no-hitter thrown against them while he was pitching.

On Sunday, the teams played the second doubleheader. The Rivermen lost the first game 4-2, as Keith Kimball was the losing pitcher. UMSL had eight hits, but couldn't get the timely hit. Kimball's record dropped to 1-2.

After that, the Rivermen traveled to Evansville to play Indiana State. On Saturday, the teams played the first of two doubleheaders. In the first game, the Rivermen pulled out a victory in extra innings. The Rivermen were losing 10-7 until Rob White hit a bases-loaded triple to tie the game and force extra innings. McDonald’s does it for UMSL McDonald’s, 8624 Natural Bridge, has long been a supporter of UMSL athletics. In fact, the restaurant owners are responsible for the Rivermen emblem that decorates their dressing room and provided a case show for all exceptional UMSL athletics.

Recently, however, the restaurant underwent interior changes which saw the elimination of the previous Rivermen theme. In order to find a suitable home for the Rivermen mascot, Lee Rentz, Manager of McDonald’s and first-year director of student activities, coordinated a contest to be held for the purpose of selecting a new emblem.

It was decided that the winners of the competition would donate the emblem to the Athletic Department at the Annual Athletic Awards Banquet in May.

“The contest, which ran from February 10 to March 1, Blanton said, was ‘based upon the purchasing power of the products with a point value designated to each product.’

According to Rentz, the contest limited the products purchased to sandwiches and break fast with point distribution based on cost. A hamburger and Danish roll, for example, were one point each. Fish and chicken sandwiches were two points, and the larger sandwiches plus the main breakfast entries were three points.

Members of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity were the contest winners, with Sigma Tau Gamma the runners up.

‘We maintained our own run ning total at the house as a type of in-house motivation,’ said Jerry Utechick, president of Pi Kappa Alpha. ‘We also booted our overall total by recruiting friends and taking orders in the cafeterias,’ he said.

Renz will present the emblem to Pi Kappa Alpha, who, in turn present it to Chuck Smith, director of athletics, at the Awards Banquet held at Stetson’s Restaurant on May 2. Pi Kappa Alpha members will be awarded a plaque to commemorate their donation.

After the banquet presentation, the Rivermen emblem will be permanently displayed in the lobby of the Mark Twain Building.
UMSL signs cage recruits Bramer and Tyler

Jeff Kuchar

UMSL basketball received a big boost last week when coach Tom Bartow landed two of the top prep forwards in the St. Louis area. Dan Bramer, a third team All-Metro selection from Oakville, and Rannie Tyler, a honorable mention All-District choice from University City, signed letters of intent to enroll at UMSL last Friday.

Bramer and Tyler, who both stand about 6-foot-5, are the first two players to be signed this year by Bartow, who is confident that these two will solidify the forward position for the Rivermen.

"These two guys are the best forward prospects for college basketball in the area," he said. "They complement each other so well, and they will be successful in college."

Bramer will come to UMSL with some impressive credentials. He led the south county area in scoring this past season with a 25-point average and pulled down 12 rebounds per game. As a junior, he averaged 12 points and 12 rebounds per game while being named honorable mention All-Conference.

Bramer, who has excellent quickness and is a fine defensive player, was recruited by several Division I schools, including St. Louis U. His decision to sign with UMSL, though, was not a difficult one.

"It was pretty much UMSL all the way," he said. "I'll probably be able to play more here than if I went to a bigger school."

He also indicated that UMSL's reputation for offering a fine business program (the plans on going into business) was a major reason for his decision.

Tyler, likewise, was impressed with UMSL's business school. His talents on the basketball court, though, caught Bartow's eye.

"He is the most underrated forward in the area," said UMSL's head mentor.

Tyler's statistics prove Bartow's point. Tyler scored 15 points and pulled down 11 rebounds in his first two prep school games.

Tomorrow's game is a single game. As a junior, he averaged 12 points and 12 rebounds per game. As a junior, he averaged 12 points and 12 rebounds per game while being named honorable mention All-Conference.

Baseball

In the second game, the Rivermen lost their third straight by a score of 8-4. Again, UMSL could not get the big hits. Steve Jones took the loss to make him 0-3 for the season.

The three losses dropped UMSL's record to 11-11, and the schedule doesn't get any easier. As a matter of fact, it gets harder. Yesterday, the Rivermen played University of Missouri at Columbia in a doubleheader at Columbia. Then, tomorrow and Sunday, the Rivermen will play Western Illinois at Macomb, IL. Tomorrow's game is a single one, while Saturday's is a doubleheader. Finally, on Sunday and Tuesday, UMSL will play SIU-Carbondale here at UMSL. The Sunday doubleheader many people might not know about because it is an addition to the schedule.

The starting time for the first game is 1 pm. Tuesday will be another doubleheader. Starting time is 1:30 pm. So the Rivermen will be playing NCAA Division I powers Missouri and Carbondale six games in a seven day period.

Despite the tough games ahead, coach Dix plans no changes. "We'll be doing the same things but we must do a better job on fundamentals and cut down on our mistakes. We'll be tough the second half," he said.

UMSL continues to be a running backfield. The Rivermen pushed their stolen base total to 100 in just 23 games. Going at this pace, they would break the NCAA Division II record of 183 stolen bases in a season. Rob White leads the team with 27 steals in 28 attempts. Sam Shibata is second with 16 thefts in 16 attempts.

Does Life Insurance keep pace with Inflation?

Yes. When dollars lose value, not only the face value and cash value of your policy are affected, but also the premiums you have to pay; the money is simply cheaper at both ends. In short, as inflation progresses you may indeed get less out of a policy's proceeds in terms of purchasing power, but you also put proportionately less into the policy.
