Activities Account Records Remain Open To Students

Danier A. Kimack

Student Affairs and Student Life also want students to be able to access public information regardless of their status, according to Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dean Lowe Jr. and Dean Wallace. Following a week long closed to media, it appears the records remain open to students, including display of Student Association membership concerning a list of information available to the student.

"But the court really ruled that the records should remain open," MacLean said. "So we really have not had to do any of that." MacLean said "several issues were brought to this attention," including display of Student Association membership concerning a list of information available to the student.

"We want to make sure that all students have access to this information," MacLean said. "And that includes the Student Association membership list."

COMMUNICATION: President C. Peter Magrath addressed the UMSL Staff Association on Nov. 13. Magrath stressed the importance the staff played in the UM system. The association also honored Chancellor Grobman for his service to UMSL at a meeting.

Overweight Student Expelled From College

Maggie E. Smith

Overweight students are being expelled from college campuses around the country. This has raised concerns about the fairness of the process and the impact on the student's mental health. Many schools have been criticized for using weight as a criterion for expulsion, leading to the need for a fairer and more inclusive policy.

Annual Philip Morris Marketing Competition To Benefit Students

Kathy Graham

Philip Morris International is sponsoring a marketing competition for students to benefit from. The competition aims to encourage students to develop marketing strategies for Philip Morris products, and the winners will be awarded prizes.

"It's been a real pleasure to see how much interest there is in this competition," said Jane Dong, a marketing professor at the University of Missouri-St. Louis. "It's an opportunity for students to apply what they've learned in class to real-world situations."
Task Force To End Bookstore Ripoffs, Parking, Representations . . .

In late August, the Student Association announced plans to create a student task force to draw up a more efficient code of student conduct. The Student Association charged new SA President Greg Barnes to chair the Task Force, and the task force is scheduled to begin its work in two weeks.

The task force, according to Barnes, will hold its first meeting in mid-October. The task force's goals include establishing a code of student conduct that is both effective and fair.
Grobman Discusses College Life...

The following is a portion of a discussion with Chancellor Grobman and current managing editor Steven Brayve.

"This report is both ill-advised and irresponsible. We are a world-class city yet we lag significantly behind in public higher education opportunities accessible to our citizens. I hope that all St. Louisans would share our alarm over this series of recommendations."

And the Student Body

When I was a student, you were admitted four years and if you didn't graduate in four years you had to go nowhere else. In our situation that's not the case anymore. We can't say that our student body is non-traditional students, as if that is something second-rate. Three years ago, people say it's a lack of courage and such efforts. I think it's good or bad. I think it's a change in the times and the kind of people we have. People say it makes the way we are the kind of people we are. We have set up a chancellor's council of distinguished citizens which meets quarterly. A number of the people on the chancellor's council are interested in the campus. They are working and helping our community."

Community Relations

More and more of our graduates are living in the community. They know what the situation is like, and they are telling their friends and families about UMSL and that helps. This will continue every year. In another 20 years, people will look back with a kind of nostalgia and say: "Boy, they sure did a lot of things out of the chancellor's office to try and change the university's image." We have the annual "Chancellor's Report to the Community" dinner. A large number of people come and learn about the university. We have set up a chancellor's council of distinguished citizens which meets quarterly. A number of the people on the chancellor's council are interested in the campus. They are working and helping our community."

"The role of UMSL is to make public higher education accessible to the residents of the state's major metropolitan region."

-Chancellor's Remarks during UMSL's 20th Anniversary

"Our faculty and students are actively involved in the life of the metropolitan community. They are St. Louisians.

Animal Welfare Unit Care For Lab Animals

There is a great amount of caring that goes on within the walls of Stadler Hall. In order to help animals live healthier and happier, the Animal Welfare Clinic uses humane techniques in caring for animals.

Tent Semper

...Within the walls of Stadler Hall there are those who care as much for their cages, and handling of various environments that they can be brought on the board of some festivity or from the support of a great collecting data for research. As shown, in the early on the floor of the building, which the unit houses and cares for the animals used in laboratory research. Albert Danto, associate professor of biology and director of the AVU said the unit was established about four years ago. He explained that this is the first on campus and a pioneer venture which cares for all the mice, rats, rabbits, and hamsters on campus and holds medical care. The second half of the report of the Animal Welfare Committee, which does research on animals for professors that experiment with the animals.

Peter Epstein, associate dean of education and director of the arts, explains to you the purpose of the AVU. The unit for veterinary care is the Animal Welfare Unit, and the orchestra is directed by Louis Zoo.

The committee is comprised of professors from all the animal research colleges and schools that experiment with animals. Furthermore, there are 200 animal students meeting at about 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. to have meetings and discuss the care of the animals. The regulations cover cage sizes for certain animals, cleaning intervals, types of food, construction of the walls and floors and the types of experiments that may be performed.

Community Church To Present Concerts

The UMSL Community Church, located at 823 S. Compton Ave., will be holding two Christmas Concerts this December.

The Christmas Concert Program includes music from the Student Choir, J.S. Bach, and Christmas Day music, by Gustav Holst, and the University of Missouri Wind Ensemble, under the direction of James Richards.

The Lessons and Carols Service on Sunday, Dec. 8, at 3 p.m. at the campus church, will be celebrated by the University of Missouri Wind Ensemble, and the concert will start at 1 p.m.

Gere Stars In ‘King David’

Nick Picono

Ouriram Paramount Home Video has released “King David” (1985), starring Richard Gere as the simple shepherd who is called to be King of the Jews. The film received mixed reviews, but it has a loyal following.

Directer Bruce Beresford (“Breaker Morant”) focuses on the story of King David. The film follows the exploits of the young Gideon, who rises to become the king of Israel.

The film is a historical drama and does not attempt to make fictional elements into reality. The acting was put over the top by Richard Gere in his portrayal of the young Gideon.

The film is recommended for audiences who enjoy historical dramas and enjoy the music and dialogue of the period.

Basketball Season Begins

The basketball season gets under way when the Rivernen meet Cal-Baptist at 8:30 P.M. and the Southern States College at 10:00 P.M. Saturday.

The Rivernen will enter the coming season as a strong, sure bet for the Southern States Conference title. The team has the reputation of being the best in the conference and it is expected to remain in the top ranks.

Dave Satterfield is concerned that his team, like all of the teams in the conference, will have to work hard to stay at the top of the heap.

The Rivernen will be led by Bob Clark, who is expected to be one of the top scorers in the conference this year.

3 points in his team's last 2 games

Johnson's team has shown steady improvement recent days. The team has won two games in a row and is now in second place in the conference.

Johnson has been working hard to get his team into shape for the season. He has been emphasizing teamwork and good defense.

The Rivernen will be looking to build on their recent success and to continue their winning streak.

For Up Two... USML Rivernen junior Chin-An Huesker is expected to play a big role on this year's team. Last season she was limited to just two games due to a knee injury.

Huesker is a key player for the Rivernen, and her presence on the court will be crucial for the team's success.

As the season progresses, the Rivernen will face tougher opponents and will need to continue their winning ways.

The Rivernen are looking forward to a strong season and are excited to see what the future holds for their team.
