Freshman SAT Scores Post Record highs

While some coaches say the scores have gone up largely because more students are taking the test, others say coaching courses have played a role.

Harford said it is also clear that over the last several years, the average scores have gone up among students who have taken prep courses.

According to the College Board, the average verbal score was 474, an increase of 67 points from 1975.

"In 1975, the average verbal score was 380, which means that students were scoring about 90 points below the national average," Harford said.

"In the future," Harford said, "it is likely that students will continue to score higher on the SAT, as the average score has gone up every year since 1970."

Premature Scrutiny

What UMSL Chancellor Acusul G. Grobman called a "glitch" in the state's comprehensive education audit report that already has come under scrutiny from Missouri legislators and the media. The glitch, which has raised questions about the state's management of its higher education system, was built with the intention of housing the majority of those state officials who are playing a role in this project as well as for some members of the public who might be interested in joining.

The idea is to develop a campus housing complex that would not be self-supporting. The campus project plan is innovative, albeit with some challenges. The challenge lies in finding a balance between preserving the history and culture of the institution while also meeting the needs of the present generation of students.

In the absence of a comprehensive document, it is difficult to ascertain the full impact of the glitch. However, it is clear that the glitch is a reflection of the broader issue of state officials' role in the higher education system. The glitch highlights the need for transparency and accountability in the higher education system, which is crucial for the continued support of public institutions.

While a campus may house only a small number of students, it still could benefit those students and the broader community. It is vital that state lawmakers take this into account when discussing the glitch and the broader issue of state officials' role in the higher education system.

St. Louis Friend

Thank you, President Magrath. While you were at UMSL recently, you told our students that you will visit St. Louis again. We hope that you will continue to develop an acquaintance with UMSL and the UMSL community. We also hope that you will take a look at the new facilities on campus, such as the new Higher Education for Missouri Building.

If your statement that "more financial support should come from the state" is correct, then we are in agreement with you. The state's financial support for higher education is crucial for the continued success of our institutions.

Chancellor Grobman told the UMSL faculty that the state is going to increase its share of the state's revenue. However, only 25 percent of the state's revenue is to be used for higher education. In our opinion, this is an insufficient amount of state revenue for higher education.

It seems to us that the St. Louis area is being neglected by the state. We believe that the state's financial support for higher education in Missouri is at risk.

Premature scrutiny on the part of a campus housing complex is not the only concern. The state officials have yet to offer a comprehensive plan for the future of UMSL and the campus. We hope that the state officials will continue to study the possibilities of the project.

While a campus may house only a small number of students, it still could benefit those students and the broader community. We hope that the state officials will continue to study the possibilities of the project.

A walk around the UMSL parking lot gives insight into the type of students attending school. The cars range from the typical Honda Civic to the popular Chevrolet Camaro. Within the crowded parking lot, however, are several attention getters.

Some are noticeable simply because of their expense, such as a Porsche. Others have age on their side, such as a Cadillac. Most have the common pride of ownership.

"It was kind of like my birthday," Shanna Davis said about her '77 limited edition Corvette.

Davis paid a lot of money and effort into her car. In the three months she has owned it, she has spent close to $2000 in Rebuilding the engine and other parts. She bought a trailer and took it on the road to show it off and to get more attention. "We've been asked a lot of questions about how much it cost to fix it, but I'm not going to tell them anything I could get in trouble for," she said.

Besides the roars, Davis has spent time racing for her car. During the warmer months, she washed her Corvette two or three times a week.

Besides the '60 Corvett, Bentley, P-38 or Berlinauts, there are other specialities, some teens and some well-cared for collectibles. Brian Theriau owns two farm cars from the '60s, a white '61 Sport Car and a '60 Charger. His Internal the charger, was given from his grandmother.

UML Kickers Go Flat In Bud Tournament

By Mike Alexander

The University of Missouri-St. Louis (UMSL) kicks had a flat performance at the mid-season slump in a NCAA Division II single elimination competition at the East Coast Coliseum in Vegreville, Pennsylvania.

The tournament consisted of 16 teams from across the country, divided into four separate brackets. Teams were seeded based on their regular-season performance and the tournament format allowed for a maximum of six games to determine the national champion.

The UML team, under the guidance of Head Coach David O'Neil, was assigned to the third seed in their bracket, which included teams from Division II and III. The team started strong in the early rounds, securing victories over teams with lower rankings, but faced challenges in the later stages.

Despite the initial success, the team's performance faltered in the later matches, ultimately leading to an early elimination from the tournament. The coaches attributed the team's struggles to technical and tactical issues that had been identified in previous matches.

Despite the setback, the UML coaching staff expressed confidence in the team's potential, highlighting the importance of ongoing training and preparation for future tournaments. They emphasized the need for continued focus on skill development and tactical understanding to improve their chances of success in the future.

In conclusion, while the team's performance at the tournament did not meet their expectations, the experience provided valuable lessons and insights that could be used to enhance their performance in subsequent matches. The coaching staff remained optimistic about the team's potential and committed to working towards achieving their goals for the remainder of the season.
Behind Every Hudson Is A Hudson

Kelly Graham

The quickest way to connect with a football player is to get to know his team. So when Kelly Graham had the chance to spend a weekend with the team, she jumped at the opportunity. Graham, who is the daughter of Steve Graham, a former UMSL football player, attended a game and a practice with the team. She was able to see the team's hard work and dedication firsthand.

Graham said she was impressed by the team's unity and determination. "They all work so hard and they are all so supportive of each other," she said. "It was a great experience for me to be able to see how much they care about each other and their sport."

When Graham was a child, her father would take her to games and practices, and she would watch her dad play. "I always looked up to him," she said. "He was my hero and I wanted to be like him." Graham herself is now a football player, and she hopes to follow in her father's footsteps.

Graham is currently a member of the UMSL football team, and she is working hard to improve her skills. She said she is excited to be a part of the team and is looking forward to the rest of the season.

Coach Ken Hudson's concerns over the UMSL Women's Soccer team's offensive play have been more than a little justified. "They have a lot of potential," he said. "But they haven't been able to put it all together." Hudson is hoping that his team can turn things around in the second half of the season.

As for the team's defense, Hudson is more confident. "We have a good defense," he said. "But we need to work on our offense." Hudson is hoping that his team can improve their offensive play in the second half of the season.

Edgar Allen Poe is Alive and Well

Karen Smith

As Edgar Allen Poe's 200th birthday approaches, the question of whether he is still alive has been raised. "I think it's possible," said Smith. "After all, he was a master of the unexpected." Smith is a member of the Edgar Allen Poe Society, and she is hoping to find out the truth.

Smith said that she has been researching Poe's life for many years. "I have read his works, and I have studied his life," she said. "I think there is a good chance that he is still alive." Smith is hoping that her research will lead to the discovery of Poe's whereabouts.

Rejuvenated Riveters Skaters Set To Challenge For SLCHL Crown

Jim Goulden

This Monday night will mark the monthly meeting of the Riveter and SLCHL tok- key ten for their fourth season.

The Riveter’s 11th season will take the Riveter to the northern reaches of their rivals, the SLCHL. The Riveter will be bolstered by the addition of three new players: John Aegerter, Mark Wade, and Rebecca Kruse.

Judy Brown, the Riveter's head coach, is excited about the addition of these new players. "We're looking forward to seeing how they fit in with the team," she said.

The Riveter's first game of the season will be against the SLCHL on Friday, October 14th. The game will be held at 8:00 PM at the Riveter's home rink.

Brown believes that the Riveter has a good chance of winning the championship this season. "We have some very talented players," she said. "And we're looking forward to the challenge of playing against the SLCHL."
