Susan Barnes, a member of the Security and Safety Committee, said that the group has received many complaints about the new security system. Barnes said that the system was installed in response to the Student Activities Fund (SAF) budget cuts. The new system includes a $23-million design sub-committee to review tentative allocations made by the SAF committee. These were apparently the only two appointments to the campus since it was turned my office upside down. my car upside down and my room upside down looking for your case back to the same situation by allowing unapproved PSA appeals to be made. The motion was defeated.

Mary T. Weiler, who drafted the motion, said it was an "overkill" that the SAF members were not given a chance to present their case to the SABC with knowledge that they were not approved.

Next, Student council member Catherine Grollheim, right, was recognized by the J.C. Penney Building. Barnes during Monday's Student Senate CAUSE Committee meeting in the J.C. Penney Building. To present its report to the curators on Monday, one member asked that the committee review all of its allocations a week ago. Some of the eight groups who received significant increases in funding this year. Concern focused on four. The most notable was the chemistry program. Last fall the program received cuts last year. appealed to the vice chancellor for appeal to the Student Senate. The motion was defeated.

Next, Student council member Catherine Grollheim, right, was recognized by the J.C. Penney Building. Barnes during Monday's Student Senate CAUSE Committee meeting in the J.C. Penney Building. To present its report to the curators on Monday, one member asked that the committee review all of its allocations a week ago. Some of the eight groups who received significant increases in funding this year. Concern focused on four. The most notable was the chemistry program. Last fall the program received cuts last year. appealed to the vice chancellor for appeal to the Student Senate. The motion was defeated.

Next, Student council member Catherine Grollheim, right, was recognized by the J.C. Penney Building. Barnes during Monday's Student Senate CAUSE Committee meeting in the J.C. Penney Building. To present its report to the curators on Monday, one member asked that the committee review all of its allocations a week ago. Some of the eight groups who received significant increases in funding this year. Concern focused on four. The most notable was the chemistry program. Last fall the program received cuts last year. appealed to the vice chancellor for appeal to the Student Senate. The motion was defeated.
Attempt To Tackle First Amendment

Student Association President Greg Barnes and Vice President Ken Meyer have challenged the freedom of the press and our right to criticize one another, both at last year's budget meeting and in the days following.

When we wrote of the inconsistencies in Student Association spending, we found what we were told with the SA stole $16,000 in funds from the very beginning of this year. It appears that Barnes and Shelton were in the process of stealing from the students' accounts at that time, and we wrote about it in the hopes that their activities would be exposed.

Barnes and Shelton said that we were trying to prove that the paper would have to be shut down for its coverage. In 1987-88, the budget for the Current was biased towards Student Association-sponsored events and only uncovered to the student body.

The Barnes-Shelton administration has fired the Current's staff and published a new paper called the Daily News that would allow them to cut the $4,500 deficit the Current faced last year.

To counteract this, the current administration took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

The SA has been taken off direct funding, but they took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

When we wrote of the inconsistencies in Student Association spending, we found what we were told with the SA stole $16,000 in funds from the very beginning of this year. It appears that Barnes and Shelton were in the process of stealing from the students' accounts at that time, and we wrote about it in the hopes that their activities would be exposed.

Barnes and Shelton said that we were trying to prove that the paper would have to be shut down for its coverage. In 1987-88, the budget for the Current was biased towards Student Association-sponsored events and only uncovered to the student body.

The Barnes-Shelton administration has fired the Current's staff and published a new paper called the Daily News that would allow them to cut the $4,500 deficit the Current faced last year.

To counteract this, the current administration took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

The SA has been taken off direct funding, but they took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

When we wrote of the inconsistencies in Student Association spending, we found what we were told with the SA stole $16,000 in funds from the very beginning of this year. It appears that Barnes and Shelton were in the process of stealing from the students' accounts at that time, and we wrote about it in the hopes that their activities would be exposed.

Barnes and Shelton said that we were trying to prove that the paper would have to be shut down for its coverage. In 1987-88, the budget for the Current was biased towards Student Association-sponsored events and only uncovered to the student body.

The Barnes-Shelton administration has fired the Current's staff and published a new paper called the Daily News that would allow them to cut the $4,500 deficit the Current faced last year.

To counteract this, the current administration took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

The SA has been taken off direct funding, but they took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

When we wrote of the inconsistencies in Student Association spending, we found what we were told with the SA stole $16,000 in funds from the very beginning of this year. It appears that Barnes and Shelton were in the process of stealing from the students' accounts at that time, and we wrote about it in the hopes that their activities would be exposed.

Barnes and Shelton said that we were trying to prove that the paper would have to be shut down for its coverage. In 1987-88, the budget for the Current was biased towards Student Association-sponsored events and only uncovered to the student body.

The Barnes-Shelton administration has fired the Current's staff and published a new paper called the Daily News that would allow them to cut the $4,500 deficit the Current faced last year.

To counteract this, the current administration took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

The SA has been taken off direct funding, but they took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

When we wrote of the inconsistencies in Student Association spending, we found what we were told with the SA stole $16,000 in funds from the very beginning of this year. It appears that Barnes and Shelton were in the process of stealing from the students' accounts at that time, and we wrote about it in the hopes that their activities would be exposed.

Barnes and Shelton said that we were trying to prove that the paper would have to be shut down for its coverage. In 1987-88, the budget for the Current was biased towards Student Association-sponsored events and only uncovered to the student body.

The Barnes-Shelton administration has fired the Current's staff and published a new paper called the Daily News that would allow them to cut the $4,500 deficit the Current faced last year.

To counteract this, the current administration took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

The SA has been taken off direct funding, but they took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

When we wrote of the inconsistencies in Student Association spending, we found what we were told with the SA stole $16,000 in funds from the very beginning of this year. It appears that Barnes and Shelton were in the process of stealing from the students' accounts at that time, and we wrote about it in the hopes that their activities would be exposed.

Barnes and Shelton said that we were trying to prove that the paper would have to be shut down for its coverage. In 1987-88, the budget for the Current was biased towards Student Association-sponsored events and only uncovered to the student body.

The Barnes-Shelton administration has fired the Current's staff and published a new paper called the Daily News that would allow them to cut the $4,500 deficit the Current faced last year.

To counteract this, the current administration took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

The SA has been taken off direct funding, but they took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

When we wrote of the inconsistencies in Student Association spending, we found what we were told with the SA stole $16,000 in funds from the very beginning of this year. It appears that Barnes and Shelton were in the process of stealing from the students' accounts at that time, and we wrote about it in the hopes that their activities would be exposed.

Barnes and Shelton said that we were trying to prove that the paper would have to be shut down for its coverage. In 1987-88, the budget for the Current was biased towards Student Association-sponsored events and only uncovered to the student body.

The Barnes-Shelton administration has fired the Current's staff and published a new paper called the Daily News that would allow them to cut the $4,500 deficit the Current faced last year.

To counteract this, the current administration took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

The SA has been taken off direct funding, but they took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.

When we wrote of the inconsistencies in Student Association spending, we found what we were told with the SA stole $16,000 in funds from the very beginning of this year. It appears that Barnes and Shelton were in the process of stealing from the students' accounts at that time, and we wrote about it in the hopes that their activities would be exposed.

Barnes and Shelton said that we were trying to prove that the paper would have to be shut down for its coverage. In 1987-88, the budget for the Current was biased towards Student Association-sponsored events and only uncovered to the student body.

The Barnes-Shelton administration has fired the Current's staff and published a new paper called the Daily News that would allow them to cut the $4,500 deficit the Current faced last year.

To counteract this, the current administration took a step further by pushing the idea that student groups should have majority on the budget committee. This has been taken off direct funding, the Current is published twice a week, and there is no money to be discussed for the upcoming years.

The SA has also been highly political, with their control on the editorial policies of the paper. The SA also generated through Activity Fees, and allocates funds to student groups.
Counseling Department Gets New Job Placement Aid

Jacqui Lauer

UMSL’s counseling service has another computer program. Micro-View, Search and Learn now assists in matching careers with the interests of students.

“What makes it nice is that a student can do a quick and dirty search,” said Robert Carr, director of Counseling Services.

Micro-View, Search and Learn was designed specifically for the needs of students seeking employment in Missouri. Carr said that most students who attend UMSL look for employment in the state.

The program is divided into three sections: Micro-View, Search and Learn, and Holland’s Search and Learn. Micro-View asks questions concerning the student’s interests and abilities, the study field and plans for future work-related experiences and work-related working conditions they prefer.

The computer gives the student a list of jobs. This list is comprised of jobs that match the student’s interests. There are 16 possible matches that meet most of the student’s interests and abilities.

Holland’s Search and Learn is based on Holland’s and Rodes’s Strong-Campbell Interest-Testing System, the best computer program in the country.

In addition, earlier this year the Career Counseling and Placement Program Board received $3,000 for equipment. These last two improvements, in addition, will enable the Career Counseling and Placement Program Board to do a much better job of helping the students.

We can’t go over the allocations case by case. I opposed the Rambo-Barnes-Shelton amendment. It”, said the third reading of the proposed budget for the Student Association. "The increase provided $2,846 for the Student Association’s allocation to the Student Senate for 1986-1987.

In addition, earlier this year the Career Counseling and Placement Program Board received $3,000 for equipment. These last two improvements, in addition, will enable the Career Counseling and Placement Program Board to do a much better job of helping the students.

We can’t go over the allocations case by case. I opposed the Rambo-Barnes-Shelton amendment. It”, said the third reading of the proposed budget for the Student Association. "The increase provided $2,846 for the Student Association’s allocation to the Student Senate for 1986-1987.

In addition, earlier this year the Career Counseling and Placement Program Board received $3,000 for equipment. These last two improvements, in addition, will enable the Career Counseling and Placement Program Board to do a much better job of helping the students.

We can’t go over the allocations case by case. I opposed the Rambo-Barnes-Shelton amendment. It”, said the third reading of the proposed budget for the Student Association. "The increase provided $2,846 for the Student Association’s allocation to the Student Senate for 1986-1987.

In addition, earlier this year the Career Counseling and Placement Program Board received $3,000 for equipment. These last two improvements, in addition, will enable the Career Counseling and Placement Program Board to do a much better job of helping the students.

We can’t go over the allocations case by case. I opposed the Rambo-Barnes-Shelton amendment. It”, said the third reading of the proposed budget for the Student Association. "The increase provided $2,846 for the Student Association’s allocation to the Student Senate for 1986-1987.

In addition, earlier this year the Career Counseling and Placement Program Board received $3,000 for equipment. These last two improvements, in addition, will enable the Career Counseling and Placement Program Board to do a much better job of helping the students.
The UMSL Wellness Network sponsors a "Saturday Morning Health Talk" every Saturday at 9 a.m. at 218 Mark Twain Tower. The purpose of this series is to promote a healthy lifestyle.

Workshop

- The UMSL Continuing Education-Extension will offer a two-course series on computers for young people on Saturdays, March 15 to April 26, from 10 a.m. to noon.
- The "Basic Workshop for Young People" is an introduction to computers for children ages 9 to 12. The class will cover what microcomputers are, computer terminology and educational applications.

Sunday

- The UMSL University Orchestra will present a concert at 3 p.m. in the South Campus Auditorium. The program will include Haydn's Piano Concerto in D major, Gluck's Dance of the Blessed Spirits from "Orfeo" and Schubert's Symphony No. 4 in D minor. Paul Allen will be the featured soloist. For more information, call 535-5980.
- "Creative Aging!" will be the focus of a seminar at 10 a.m. in the Old Age Center. The seminar will look at "Elders and the Media." Don't miss it. It's in the Old Age Center.
- "Somebody's Body Image." Ken McMullan of the Cardiac Hospital will be featured speaker. For more information, call 535-5225.
- "The Intermediate BASIC Workshop for Young People" is a continuation of the beginning BASIC Workshop for students aged 9 to 12 who want to further their computer skills and programming knowledge. Students ages 14 to 18 may also register. For more information, call 535-5980.
- The Gamers' Christmas Party featuring hot and cold food. For more information, call 535-5980.
- The UMSL University Singers will perform at 8 p.m. at the Ethical Society, 33rd and Clark Road. The concert will feature singers from the 1990 spring concert tour and performance at Washington's Kennedy Center, the Per- b Crystal Alumni Association. Admission is $5 for members, $7 for nonmembers. For more information, call 535-5980.
- The UMSL University of Modern Foreign Languages Lecture at 11:30 a.m. in Room 110 Clark Hall. Clara Steadman, lecturer at the University of Modern Foreign Languages, will be the guest speaker. Everyone is invited. For more information, call 535-5061.
- The UMSL Women's Center will sponsor a "Women's Film Festival" at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. in the Old Age Center. The film documents the process of creative writing and will be screened at the UMSL Center for the Humanities. The film will be shown at the UMSL, Visiting National Scholar Program.

Wednesday

- "The UMSL Women's Center will show "The Women's Film Festival" at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. in the Old Age Center. The film documents the process of creative writing and will be screened at the UMSL Center for the Humanities. The film will be shown at the UMSL, Visiting National Scholar Program.

Thursday

- "Rediscovering Ravenna and Venice" will be the topic of the Modern Foreign Languages Lecture at 11:30 a.m. in Room 101 Clark Hall. Sarah Steadman, lecturer at the University of Modern Foreign Languages, will be the guest speaker. Everyone is invited. For more information, call 535-5061.
- "Women's Education" will be the featured speaker. For more information, call 535-5061.
- "Natural Interest and the Economic Integration of the Community From Coal to Community Today," the next "International Seminar" presented by the Women's Center, will be held on Thursday, March 17, at 3 p.m. in the Conference Room, 355 SBE. Alan Miksch, professor of economic history at the London School of Economics and professor of history of the world, will be the featured speaker. For more information, call 535-5061.
- "Modern Baseball" will be held by Bill Debus of the St. Louis Cardinals at 3 p.m. in the Mark Twain Complex. The event is designed to update nurses on current nursing issues and ethical dilemmas. The registration fee is $20. For more information, call 535-5061.
Anthropologist Van Reidhead Justifies Social Activism to Faculty

Van Reidhead, an anthropologist at St. Louis University, recently discussed his views on social activism with the university's faculty. Reidhead, who is known for his research on American Indian culture, believes that social activism is a natural extension of anthropological work. "It's not just about understanding cultures," Reidhead said, "it's about using that understanding to make a difference in the world."

"When I was doing my fieldwork in San Francisco," Reidhead continued, "I saw firsthand the impact of poverty on the indigenous communities there. They have a lot of challenges that are not unique to them, but that are faced by many cultures around the world." Reidhead emphasized the importance of taking a critical look at power structures and working to challenge them. "We must be part of this change," he said. "As anthropologists, we have a unique perspective to bring to the table."
Communicating Understanding Our Skills

We talk about these topics and challenges and the things that make up our daily lives. We have thought, feelings, ideas and plans related to what happens in our everyday lives.

Communicating is effective to the extent that we are aware of what is going on and are in touch with feelings. We can then share these experiences with others in a meaningful and interesting way.

There are several skills you can learn that will help you express your experiences to others and have them feel more in touch with you.

We gather information about what we want to communicate and we can listen to other people. We also need to arrange the things we are going to say in a particular order. We need to keep to a particular amount of time and we need to keep to a particular amount of length.

We use language to communicate with others and we can use language to express our feelings. We can use language to express our ideas. We can use language to express our thoughts.

We can use language to express our feelings. We can use language to express our ideas. We can use language to express our thoughts.

We can use language to express our feelings. We can use language to express our ideas. We can use language to express our thoughts.

We can use language to express our feelings. We can use language to express our ideas. We can use language to express our thoughts.

We can use language to express our feelings. We can use language to express our ideas. We can use language to express our thoughts.

We can use language to express our feelings. We can use language to express our ideas. We can use language to express our thoughts.

We can use language to express our feelings. We can use language to express our ideas. We can use language to express our thoughts.

We can use language to express our feelings. We can use language to express our ideas. We can use language to express our thoughts.
Barres Leaving UMSL After 15 Years

Will Operate Country Club With Husband

Dana Noe

"That season that was part of the early stages of both men's and women's athletics will be departing UMSL, after this semester. Judy Barres and her athletic director and husband were the manager of the team and the campus, will join her husband Larry Barres in retiring to their home in Wayne, Nebraska.

Larry and I have had a most enjoyable 15 years at UMSL. It's been a real pleasure to watch baseball, golf and cross-country before moving into the organization of the UMSL intramural program, which has accepted the role of golf pro at the Country Club. I will depart with great sadness and the women's program, which will be under the able leadership of Dana Noe."

"Friends from college and high school still call me by my college name--Ollie about the softball program--due to their trying to get back on the field."

"Barres and I have made every effort to do something different during our time in our responsibility situations."

"We have been satisfied here. We love the city and our jobs. But the time has come for a new challenge."

RIVERWAY PITCHERS BLOSTERED IN 1986 DEBUT AGAINST MIZZOU

Rivermen Pitchers Blested in 1986 Debut Against Mizzou

Dana Noe

It was not until the UMSL baseball coach Jim Brady did not expect some newsmen to hear from him in his spring practice, he realized that he was not going to have only one question from them.

"The pitchers didn't do well today. We got the game over with quickly by getting the ball over. We were using our new pitching system. The Rivermen pitching group, up 20 hits, 11 walks and struck out just six Missouri batters."

RIVERWOMEN FACE NUMBERS PROBLEM AS SEASON BEGIN

Dana Noe

The UMSL Riverwomen softball team has too few players through that (as a few problems leading up to the season has turned to being actual problems for Linda Blodgett. They opened the season tomorrow at 3 p.m. at the UMSL softball field against Division II teams.

According to Noe, after receiving players from the school, some players left the team. Blodgett began to build her team with the help of the recruitment of a few players and then a third player was added. In the end, a total of 13 players remained for the season.

Firstly, Mrs. Winkelman decided to participate in the team. Then, three players from the school decided to participate in the team. The team has now 13 players.

Although, some players are waiting for the team to start. Blodgett feels she has her team together.

"At the start of the season, with Linda Blodgett and Linda Blodgett at starting point. They continue to play the way they were used to play."

The team has played the last three games of the season, and the Riverwomen have 18 runs against three losses."

"It is very exciting for the season."
Simpson Lays Groundwork For Pro Career

Dave Brown

Baseball fans have fantasized about coming out of the blue and developing a true national crop to form a true powerhouse for sports. The reality is that if you are Bob Simpson of the UMSL baseball team.

Last season the freshmen, 100-pound pitcher (at UMSL), school record by recording seven seven. He also has 3-2 record and a team leading 4.78 earned run average. Perhaps the finest individual of the season, his earned run average hovered around the 150 mark. For his efforts, Simpson was named to the All-Conference team.

Simpson's father has not always been a relief pitcher. As a freshman at Francis Howell High School, he was originally a catcher, but soon became a relief pitcher. As a freshmen pitcher, he spent the majority of the season with the curveball. He had a 1.78 earned run average. Simpson has not always been a reliever. As a homo., his earned run average hovered around the 150 mark. For his efforts, Simpson was named to the All-Conference team.

But how does he like it? "I really like it," he said. "I really like it to have some more innings to pitch. Bob Simpson hopes to someday play professional baseball, but he knows he will have to take some definite steps to reach that goal. First, he would like to break the curveball record established last year.

Simpson said. He feels that it will be more difficult this year because of his distribution. He said: "I really like it to have some more innings to pitch." Simpson said: "I really like it to have some more innings to pitch."

PROJECT PHILIP

The Bible Solves all your problems when all things and friends fail you

We offer a free Bible and Correspondence course to all students. Free postage.

Write to: Project Philip

College Campus

P.O. Box 52301, Clayton P.D.

St. Louis, Mo 63105

PREGNANT?

FREE TESTING & COUNSELING TUES THRU SAT

- Sterilization
- Abortion
- Adoption
- rape counseling
- Sexual orientation testing
-７-11 locations

3 reproductive health services 367-0300

DRESS FOR SUCCESS

Now that you're finishing school, you're beginning a whole new way of life. To be a success in the real world, you need a job that lives up to your potential.

As a Naval officer, you get the management, leadership opportunity that makes a difference in any career.

In operations and management, you have the chance to make your experience count for something. The training and duty assignments for Naval officers are designed to make the best use of their professional development.

Many officers earn substantial salaries with additional allowances during early years to have their experience and benefit from free medical and dental care, thirty days' paid leave each year, and opportunities for post-graduate education. Minimum qualifications are a BA or BS degree. U.S. citizenship and security clearance are necessary.

You have reached your 20th birthday by December 31st, 1986. You must be a U.S. citizen (or a U.S. citizen who can be naturalized), an aptitude and physical test. For further information, call Navy Management Programs: 1-800-446-6289

NEWSPAPER PROMOTION

Get your free copy of the KWMMU Student Staff

INVITES ENTHUSIASTIC STUDENTS INTERESTED IN PRODUCTION NEWS PROMOTION MUSIC

TO JOIN OUR STAFF

INFORMATION FOR FM 90.7

CALL 553-5488

OR STOP BY 105 LUCAS HALL