Wallace Leaves St. Louis

by Steven L. Brawley

Don Wallace will find the climate quite different in Texas. His appointment as vice chancellor for student affairs will take him from the dynamic world of student organizations to a more sedate setting.

"I've never had family-type plans," Wallace said. "When Wallace came to UNSL in 1980, he said he thought there would be a trial period of five years." He continued, "During that time, I believe the chancellor was going to give me the opportunity to do a better job of reaching out to students." Now, he said, "I'm not sure if that's what he meant," but he is confident in his position.

"I have requested the Vice Chancellor for student affairs to design a special recruitment effort for the future," said Don Wallace.

"In the area of student recruitment, she said that providing additional scholarships and support would be important and that consideration should be given to increasing the Special Services retention program and the Center for Academic Success.

"A greater awareness of, and interest in, the need for excellence has already produced positive results," she said. "The university is doing an excellent job in the area of student recruitment, and the center is very important to the student affairs division.

HIDEN LAKE. This is Sall Lake after being drained this spring. Some students are wondering whether the lake is filled following completion of the Science Complex.

"The lake campus site could be a potential for a lake, but it would be a much better choice," said Steve Brawley. "It would be the perfect location for a lake."
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Blackburn Leaves

Dear Editor:

There recently learned with much sadness of Professor Blackburn's resignation.

I only knew of the professor through his correspondence with me. I feel very bad hearing that his resignation was necessary for his happiness. I do not know how anyone could be unhappy with his teaching. He was one of the best teachers I have ever had.

Please convey to him my regards. He will be missed.

Sincerely yours,

John Doe

Fossil Rebutts

Dear Editor:

I enjoyed your column last week about the need for students to be more responsible for their own actions. I do not agree with your观点. I believe that students should be more involved in the decision-making process and that they should be held accountable for their actions.

I hope that you will reconsider your position on this issue.

Sincerely,

Jane Smith

No Kidding, I Really Do Hate Jim McMahon

Dear Editor:

I have noticed that you have been writing articles about Jim McMahon recently. I would like to express my strong dislike for him as a quarterback.

I believe that he is overrated and that he does not deserve the attention that he is receiving. He is often criticized for his lack of accuracy and consistency.

I hope that you will take my opinion into consideration when writing future articles about him.

Sincerely,

John Smith
CONSTITUTION

The Student Association and the Missouri Student Assistance Program have recently elected a number of new members to the Senate. The newly elected members are: Victor Holden, Robert Jackson, Jr., Alan McMillan, and John Rice.

The elections of the association constitution were passed overwhelmingly.

BUGG

The location of the July 4th Bugg Lake site is still under debate. There is a measure that the state would use too much support regulations.

If a merely aesthetic lake were to be built in addition to the existing lake, one may be constructed adjacent to the new Science Complex.

...that this lake should be very naturalistic, as proposed by a group of students who attended the meeting. The lake would be used for recreational purposes only.

Marlon Robinson, Jonas Moses, Jodi Rico and Christopher Bosio are the new members of the Senate.

The revision of the association constitution was passed.

CAMPUS FALLS INTO FASHION

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI-ST. LOUIS 1986

Photography by Cedric R. Anderson

What's in fashion for the fall season? What's fallen out of fashion this year? Students and faculty on the University of Missouri-St. Louis campus help answer these questions with help from fashionable shops at Plaza Frontenac.

According to the shop's fashion consultants, everything is "in" this season from silk to denim. Whether the look is leisure or business casual, campus fashion is constantly changing.

Explore this season's latest styles on the next three pages to help prepare your fall wardrobe.

Duane Young, basketball player, sports the "All-American" prep look. The always comfortable, three-color sweat shirt by Polo is matched with the ever-popular classic blue jeans by Ralph Lauren. With a Polo woven beneath, this is a great look for any student.

Spanish has never looked so good as fashioned here by Professor Deborah Baldini. Classic tweed sport coat and wool pants by Polo are a definite factor in a man's fall wardrobe. The plain oxford button-down provides a polished background for this elegant paisley tie.

Kevin Kline, vice president of the Jewish Student Union, is sporting a widely woven wool jacket; mohair sweater; and wool dress slacks by Benetton. Johnson and Murphy's Leeds is the new adaptation of the classic saddle shoe done in a lighter, dressier look.
The fashion stage comes to life for Communications instructor P. Ella Ross. Helen Wolf's J.J. Paul Challis dress in paisley print with lace collar and cuffs with velvet ribbon are highlighted in the Sun Room of the Chancellor's Residence. Her jade and purple pumps with a pewter snake lighting bolt accent, are from Timothy's collection.

Business major Glenn Perron wears a Gant Rugger shirt on the grounds of the Chancellor's Residence. His Tartan Corner outfit also includes Corbin corduroy slacks, Trafalgar wool woven belt and Tassled Ski Moe shoes from Johnston and Murphy.

The Alumni Center serves as the setting for sophomore Huong Pho. Helen Wolf's Pendleton plaid wool skirt and wool sweater are covered by an Emily Petite white wool coat. Her navy, silver wedge, skimmer shoes are by Nina from Timothy's.

Elementary Education major Sophie Paul Peecher explores the grounds of the Chancellor's Residence in Helen Wolf's two-piece, David Meryl Challis dress with a lace collar and burgundy belt. Her black patent, basic pumps by Liz Claiborne are from Timothy's.
A traveler's sport coat and Expedition hat set the theme for Banana Republic's Expeditionaire, English professor, Charles Wartts. The Safari pants and shirt overlaid with a Whole Grain sweater blend perfectly for a casual yet distinguished look. And like any well-prepared journalist, he is equipped with the Correspondence bag just in case he stumbles upon "The Jewel of the Nile."

"Lions and Tigers and Bears—Oh My!" Basketball player, Grace Gain is outfitted for her daily adventures with Banana Republic's Ticking shirt and Gore-Gore skirt. Underneath, Yukon shirt is fitted with a Cinch belt and topped off with a denim jacket. Whether it be with books or safari supplies, the Australian Schoolbag is a definite accessory for any traveler.

Good shoes are a must for any traveler whether you are a student or an explorer (or both). Here, Banana Republic pleases the feet with rugged yet comfortable Women's Traveling boots and Men's Safari shoes. Terrific assets for any serious hoofer.

"Out of Africa" journeys business major, Scott Simpson. For an explorer's look, Banana Republic combines an Expedition shirt with Outback pants and the increasingly popular Army Aircorps jacket. The Safari hat and Aviation scarf create a look that could only compare with Indiana Jones.

Riverwomen Find Winning Ways, Reach .500 Mark

by Dave Brown

SPORTS

The soccer Riverwomen have turned their season around although tournament bracket as a result of losing and we have recorded a 3-2 win on Friday night. The UMSL goals were scored by Cathy Roche, on a penalty kick, and Terry Schroeder on an assist going to Kathy Guinner.

The Riverwomen came back on October 14th to win a 3-2 game over Central Missouri. Terry Schroeder picked up an assist on Saturday.

Basketball

Riverwomen are far from giving up on playoff hopes continue to dim. The strength of the lineup, the players' hard work and determination, and the team's ability to consistently outplay opposing teams have contributed to the team's success. The Riverwomen have a solid core of experienced players who have played together through many seasons, and this experience has played a crucial role in their success.

The team has been able to put a finger on their weaknesses and has worked hard to address them. They have implemented new strategies and improved their teamwork, leading to better performances on the court.

Despite the recent losses, the team remains confident and determined to improve. They are working hard every day, pushing themselves to reach their full potential. The spirit and resilience of the Riverwomen are evident in their every move, as they continue to strive for success.

The Riverwomen face North Carolina-Marinette College at 6:00 p.m. on Friday. Despite the odds, they remain optimistic and focused on their goals. They are ready to face the challenge and give their best in the upcoming game.

UMSL Pounds Principia; Brown, Buckle Lead The Way

by Steve Cossell

Midfielder Kathy Case was the low UMSL unassisted on the first goal. University of Missouri-St. Louis Athletic Director Chuck Smith has announced that Paul Ellis will serve as a full-time assistant to head basketball coach Rich Buchek.

Ellis was a part-time assistant under Mckinley last year, but also has head coaching experience. He was head coach at Lewis and Clark Community College from 1986 to 1988 and was an assistant at McKendree College during the 1986-87 season.

"We're excited about the addition of another assistant coach," Ellis said. "Having another assistant coach will enable us to maintain a high level of competition in the conference."
