Buss And Emerson Donate $700,000
by Patricia M. Carr

Chancellor Margarette M. Barnett announced Tuesday that the Anheuser-Busch Foundation and the Emerson Electric Company have given the university $700,000.

"We are grateful to these Civic Partners for making this $700,000 necessary to realize the dream for a much needed addition to the Thomas Jefferson Library," Barnett said.

According to Barnett, the money will be raised if the local leaders will support the Anheuser-Busch Library and the University.

At that time Barnett said she would then take up Anheuser-Busch.

For Weitzel and 46 other proteges at the University of Florida, the spring semester began on a high note after a protest that, some say, generated an active spring season.

Weitzel, a sophomore in political science, said that the campus shouldered most of its educational responsibilities during the protest.

According to Barnett, the money will be raised if the local leaders will support the Anheuser-Busch Library and the University.
UM Family Needs To Integrate Resources

There has been a lot of talk recently about the University of Missouri being a test case of desegregation and its efforts across the country. However, this realization has not been absent from the state's perception of the University of Missouri.

When most people think about the University of Missouri, they visualize the campus over a century old in Columbia, Missouri, and once supported the old administration building that was destroyed by fire in 1892. Just 50 years earlier, the University had become the first state institution in the nation to require its students to be of African descent.

It was the vision of those early education pioneers that has brought the University of Missouri to its present state of diversity. However, diversity can be found in the agricultural programs at Columbia, in the engineering and science emphasis at Rolla, in the urban planning efforts at Kansas City, and in the campus diversity at the St. Louis campus.

Each of these campuses contributes to the state’s overall quality education efforts. The UM system is made up of qualified students who have the makeup to go on to significant careers. The white and black students, the old and new administration buildings, the old and new academic programs, all contribute to the state’s perception of the UM system.

Each of these campuses must work together to make the UM system a success.

The UM system needs to integrate its resources, not just its campuses, but also its programs. It is necessary to bring the students together, not just in the physical sense, but also in the academic and social sense. The UM system needs to be a cohesive whole, not a collection of independent parts.

The UM system needs to understand that the road to success is not just a matter of numbers, but a matter of quality. It needs to focus on the students, not just on the programs. The UM system needs to be a place where students can learn, grow, and succeed.

The Student Budgets Approved

by Laura J. Hooper

The Student Senate Affairs Committee approved on Monday all allocations made by the Student Budget Committee and the Student Services Fee Committee to student groups.

Since the ASC allocations are made, it may be appealed, according to Art Schmalfeldt, SABC president, and Student Activities, appeals will be heard and met with the ASC on April 7.

Letters are now being sent to all student groups regarding their allocations and appeal forms will be made available in Room 2017 of the University Center, Schmalfeldt said. The deadlines for these appeals are Monday, March 30.

The ASC had determined that those groups who requested the Chinese Student Association, the Education Organization, Psi Nu and Kappa Delta Pi would not be able to appeal the decision made by the committee to deny them funding due to late requests.

However, our Student Senate Affairs Committee has recommen- ded that the ASC allows these groups to appeal after other groups have appealed their allocations.

Schmalfeldt said that the ASC requires members to take action on their recommendation at a later date, April 2, a special meeting.

Meanwhile, the Student Services Fee Committee made the final allocations to student groups at a meeting held last Thursday. A total of $93,611.50 was allocated, and these allocations, unlike those of the ASC, may not be appealed.

In comparison to the ASC, groups came to the Student Services Fee Committee requesting money for capital expenditures, such as furniture, telephone, and other equipment.

Once the groups are allocated money for a particular piece of equipment, they are obligated to return the equipment to the SABC, if it is used beyond the next year's budget.

For the 1987-88 school year, 21 groups requested funding for equip- ment purchases. Of these groups, all but six returned exactly what they requested. One of these six Greek groups received no funding.

Among the groups that were funded, much of the most heated discus- sion in the meeting centered around allocations to the Current. Schmalfeldt, who serves as arowsing chairman of the ASC and the SABC, still maintained that the committee's allocations were "more accountable," according to the newspaper.

They (the Current) have made and received continual large requests from this committee. They have had the money in bank into capital and set it aside in their own dis- cretion instead.

University Singers Take Show On The Road

By Tim Levene

The University Singers, under the direction of Dr. Nancy Hageman, will present a special concert tour next month. On March 12, 1987, at 4:30 p.m. in the Music Hall at 1054 Washington Avenue, the group will be accompanied by the Louisville Orchestra under the direction of conductor Bruno Mayr.

The concert will feature the University Singers' annual performance of the Grieg Concerto in A minor, Op. 16, as well as selections from the works of Brahms, Dvořák, and Thomson. The program will also include a special tribute to the late Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau, a world-renowned German baritone who died last month.

The University Singers are a mixed choir of men and women who have been studying music for a minimum of two years. The group is composed of students from all disciplines of the University of Louisville.

The concert will be held in the Music Hall at 1054 Washington Avenue. Tickets are $5.00 for adults and $3.00 for students. For more information, please call 553-5980.

Tin Men

by Joseph Papp

A new film directed by cinematic legend and Academy Award winner Arthur Rackham, Tin Men is a charming and humorous comedy-drama about the world of home improvement.

The film stars Richard Dreyfuss as a struggling contractor who is hired by a wealthy businessman to renovate his home. Dreyfuss is brilliant as a man who has given up on his dreams and is now settling for a job he doesn't want.

The film also stars Bette Midler as the wife of the businessman, who is played by Michael J. Fox. Midler is a delight as a woman who is barely surviving in a marriage that seems to be falling apart.

The film is a story of hope and redemption, as Dreyfuss and Midler find their way back to love and a better life.

For more information, please call 553-5980.

Commissioning was taking the license and release of the film to the United Nations for its use in the United Nations.

Improved Tennis Teams Ready to Serve Aces

by Dave Brown

Sports Editor

"He’s still playing tennis at 86 years old, and he dedicated 30 years of his time and effort to the game," Beem said. "He’s a great guy."

The addition of Reinhardt has improved the team overall, Beem noted.

"He’s always had trouble with the No. 1, 2, and 4 spots because we don’t have any experience," Beem said. "Having her and moving everyone else around will help, and the conference record better than we had in the past."

Steinmetz said that the tough schedule the team will have will both positive and negative effects.

"We play a lot of conference matches so it will be tough," she said. "But the other hand it will help us see what we’re doing in conference matches."

The Riverrunners dropped their opening match 8-2 to a tough Missouri North squad, but are already 3-1 in Missouri Valley Conference play for the team's third 6-4, 7-2 victory.

"They’ve got a lot of experience, and we’re always pushing for each other," said Davis. "We’re going to try to help each other out there and be the best that we can be."

The next match for the Riverrunners will be against the University of Missouri at 1 p.m. on Saturday.

Riverrunners Pick Up Two Victories On Florida Trip

Spring is here and so is baseball. The UMSL baseball squad opened up its 1987 season last Thursday at Riverview Park in Poughkeepsie, NY. and came away with a 2-0 win over Division II competition and a 5-0 victory over a nationally ranked Division II team.

"You feel a lot more confident," Beem said, "and you feel good about what the players can do out there."

Steinmetz believes this year's team, more than any other, will take off because he said that the team's attitude will play a big role before the season begins.

"They’ve got a lot of experience, and we’re always pushing for each other," said Davis. "We’re going to try to help each other out there and be the best that we can be."

Experience, depth and unity are always needed for a team to be successful. According to Jeff Zoellner, UMSL's men's tennis coach, this year's team has all of those ingredients.

The team returns only two members from last year's 10-16 squad, but those two players, Jeff Zoellner, head coach Jeff Zoellner, and Tim Martin, won a combined 39 matches last season.

Retaining from last year's team are returning seniors James Beldin, Beldin, who played No. 1, and Dave Brown, who had a record of 4-2. He was 8-0 at his doubles position last season and 3-0 in singles last year.

Said Brown, "The experience will be an asset and the squad, but he plans to reduce that number to 10. He sees the return of the conference. They have three scholarships and work-study opportunities are a cross between Florida and Illinois.

Zoellner said.

"I didn’t see that," Steinmetz said. "I thought that the team's attitude will play a big role before the season begins.

"They’ve got a lot of experience, and we’re always pushing for each other," said Davis. "We’re going to try to help each other out there and be the best that we can be."

The next match for the Riverrunners will be against the University of Missouri at 1 p.m. on Saturday.

Spring is here and so is baseball. The UMSL baseball squad opened up its 1987 season last Thursday at Riverview Park in Poughkeepsie, NY. and came away with a 2-0 win over Division II competition and a 5-0 victory over a nationally ranked Division II team.

"You feel a lot more confident," Beem said, "and you feel good about what the players can do out there."

Steinmetz believes this year's team, more than any other, will take off because he said that the team's attitude will play a big role before the season begins.
