UMSL Students Take Part In Papal Visit

by Lorraine Kunze

Several UMS-St. Louis students took part in a satellite meeting with Pope John Paul II Tuesday which focused on issues of concern to young people.

The pope's appearance was televised from the St. Louis Catholic cathedral in downtown St. Louis, as well as in Denver, Portland and Los Angeles. The event, joining three major U.S. cities, was called the "Papal Space Bridge" and was broadcast from the St. Louis television station KSDK.

Close to 1,000 young adults filled the church, and an additional 500 residents saw the broadcast from the church nearby auditorium. A total of 20 UMS-St. Louis student volunteers were asked to participate.

Margaret Conabreck, an evening student at UMS-St. Louis, presented the Bible reading Tuesday. A member of the campus community, she also now attends UMS-St. Louis in pursuit of her accounting degree.

A 1986 UMS-St. Louis business graduate, Dawn Lee, was also invited to take part in the papal visit. Lee was one of 28 local residents who was asked to prepare a question to ask the Pope. While Lee knew that there would only be time for two or three people to actually address the Pope, she was excited at the prospect.

Speaking in the Current issue to the Associated Press, Lee said he would want to ask the religious leader several questions, including "Looking back on your young adult years (age 16 to 26) do you feel those three years had an impact on your way of life?"

"I feel that John Paul II has traveled to 21 different countries spread- ing the good news of the Lord, who is the respect and admiration of millions of others around the world. For him to converse with us young adults of St. Louis, is a blessing and a sign of God's love for the world."

A group of six youths from the St. Louis area was invited to present a gift of popes to the pontiff via satellite. St. Louis also had rep- resentative's from Archbishop John J. May of St. Louis, president of the National Conference of Bishops, in attendance.

Following the local broadcast, which ran from about 8 to 10 p.m., the St. Louis Catholic community held a group and musical festivities. The youths' satellite conference was more than just an evening event, according to Father Bill Lyon, Catholic chabotage at the UM-St. Louis. Lyon said "It was a kind of happening."

In a brief, pointed message, Pope John Paul II challenged his audience to "be filled" people because of "all the faithfulness the Church is to offer hope to those who cannot. This young people must dare."

In a message to the students, Lyon said "be present to the Bible reading Tuesday. A member of the campus community, she also now attends UMS-St. Louis in pursuit of her accounting degree."

SA Achieves Extended Library Hours

by Michael Currar, reporter

The Student Association met Tuesday in its room to consider amendments to various committees, adopt a proposal of Student Association GPA requirements for Executive Officers and general members, and to discuss the formation of a Finance Committee.

A balanced federal budget is forcing reductions in spending, and finan­ cially affecting grant and loan money available to students. It also means that the requirements for Executive Officers and general members are being adjusted to reflect the new financial climate.

The Student Association is forming a task force to look into alternative hours for the UMS-St. Louis administration offices, and to determine whether the new hours will be implemented.

In exchange, Vice Chairman Technique agreed to increase the hours for the student center in a trial basis. It is anticipated that the hours will also be extended during the new hours, closing times during the new hours.
Sexexploitation

As soon as the flyers hit the Underground's tables complaints started to filter in. First was the bathing suit contest. The last, and perhaps the least predictable, is the "Sexlegs" contest. The purpose of the bathing suit contest is to have fun and raise money for the Women's Center. The price of entry is $5.00, and the first prize is $250.00. The rules state that all women must wear a swimsuit of their choosing. Failure to do so results in disqualification. The contest is to be held on the Friday night market. Prizes are not particularly ugly. A crowd, hundreds, gathered at the fraternity house by 9:45 (for little money) as the beer and the photo session began. I confess, even the beer isn't half bad. The beer is almost guaranteed to be good. The beer used is made by a local brewery. The woman used in the contest is the winner and recouping his admission price plus some. The losers? The feminists. I have no doubt that the feminists will continue to express their displeasure. Women's rights groups will continue to express their displeasure. The university community has reacted with indignation. The Student Government Association has had no comment to date. The Women's Center has asked the fraternity to stop their activities. They feel that their event is not in good taste. They are not sure if the university community is aware of the events. In an attempt to appease the university, the fraternity has offered to remove the event from the Friday night market.

Dear editor:

I would like to make a few comments concerning the editorial "It's Who, Me?" in the Sept 30th issue. The writer's name was not included in that editorial. We apologize to Mr. Mencin for the error. Once again proving that mistakes can be made.

It may be that you have an option or could guarantee to give us more than a few paragraphs. We have a great deal to say and are more than willing to write on any topic. I am a native but the activities board doesn't have much to say.

As soon as I finished Advanced Training, the Guard gave me a cash bonus of $2,000. Then, under the New GI Bill, I'm getting another $5,000 for tuition and books.

Not to mention my monthly Army Guard paychecks. They'll add up to more than $11,000 over the six years I'm in the Guard.

And if I take out a college loan, the Guard will help me pay it back—up to $1,500 a year, plus interest.

It all adds up to $18,000—or more—for college for just a little of my time. And that's a heck of a better deal than any car wash will give you.

THE GUARD CAN HELP PUT YOU THROUGH COLLEGE, TOO. SEE YOUR LOCAL RECRUITER FOR DETAILS, CALL TOLL-FREE 800-638-7600,* OR MAIL THIS COUPON.

Foundation Grants Aid MSEC Efforts

by Carolyn A. Kruzyczka

Grants from several area corporations continue to support the maintenance and growth of the Mathematics and Science Education Center located at UM-St. Louis.

Mary Vosevich, a member of the Computing and Information Science program at UM-St. Louis, is an active member of several area corporations that have provided support for the Mathematics and Science Education Center. Vosevich is also a member of the Bi-State Foundation, which supports the MSEC.

Vosevich explained, there is a clear need to support the MSEC in order to maintain and grow the center's programs. The MSEC is dedicated to providing resources and support to mathematics and science educators.

Althoutgh the MSEC is located in East St. Louis, it is not directly affiliated with the University. But Director of MSEC, Dr. Paul Martinelli, says Chancellor Barnes has been very supportive of the work done by the MSEC.

"We really appreciate being able to tie in with UM-St. Louis and other area institutions. We appreciate the support of the faculty here, also," states Dr. Martinelli.

The MSEC is located in the Mary Vosevich Building at UM-St. Louis. It serves all district schools in the St. Louis area, and all of the private and parochial schools. The goal of the MSEC is to encourage public and private school mathematics and science education.

MSEC's main resources come from the Bi-State Foundation, which last year awarded the organization a $40,000 grant. The grant is intended to help meet ongoing problems.

Grants from other corporations are set aside for specific programs.

MSEC has received $47,000 from Citgo Progress, an organization comprised of 13 of the most influential companies in the St. Louis area. Citgo Progress has provided matching funds to solicit grants from other organizations, and to help maintain the ongoing support of other firms who don't have the financial resources necessary for staff development.

Last year, the Ford Foundation awarded MSEC $145,000. This grant is intended to help meet ongoing problems, and to assist in upgrading the quality of learning in secondary school mathematics classes.

MSEC also has been allocated $34,000 a year by the Rotary Electric Corporation, which supports the new engineering program.

The MSEC was awarded over $10,000 by the World War II National History Foundation. This grant provided for two workshops over the summer for Missouri and Illinois teachers. A third workshop was held by the MSEC in East St. Louis and a chemistry workshop was held at Washington University.

Good business.
Not enough. He dropped for more.

"I'm going to make sure I'm Michael Corra's favorite," he said. "But first I need some flex, and the only way I can get to the next level, as he had been taught through the sport, is by working out.

Being a frequent traveler by necessity, he understood that the opportunity to view many different lives from an individual and cultural perspective was the chance to understand the "world". He needed to reach out, and be personally part of bringing change. Given his bent towards knitting together evidence to provide a stronger foundation for positive change, he began the journey.

SAFARIVILLAGE: The village scene above is similar to the place he lived as a child. One of the main roles of the village is to support the inhabitants of the region. The Saloon is a symbol of community and a gathering place for the locals. An important aspect of the Saloon is that it is also a place where people can come to have a drink and to socialize.

You're pruning out the dead wood in order to make way for the fruits of a new growth. A friend may enter your life, someone who brings with them fresh ideas and perspectives. You may see opportunities for innovation and creativity that you had previously overlooked. If there is an event or gathering you were initially hesitant to attend, you may now feel more open to it.

Knitting together evidence to provide a stronger foundation for positive change, he began the journey.

Cosnier Is Compelling In "No Way Out"

by Eileen Pacino

Kevin Costner has drugged himself in this role. He plays a former detective going back to the precinct at a former precinct at a former precinct at a former precinct at a former precinct after a brief leave of absence. He is looking for the man he believes was responsible for the death of his partner.

The movie is based on the book "No Way Out" by Chris A. Johnson. The novel was one of the first works of fiction to explore the idea of a police officer going back in time to prevent a murder.

The evidence is compelling, and the story is compelling. You may find yourself drawn into the plot and invested in the outcome.

For Virgo, September Is A Time For Cleaning House

by Linda Ceste

This is the first installment of a monthly department on the astrological influences that may affect your life. Horoscopes have no basis in science and should be read only for recreation, not for guidance.

Special note for VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It's time to houseclean your life, literally and figuratively. Any area which has become cluttered and rigid is under great tension.

You're recognized, or you may have changed residence. Focus on your personal freedom and relationships with your parents (particularly your father) now in the forefront. You're seeing clearly, or you have put someone else on the spot. Your strengths lie in your ability to communicate, and you're usually able to speak your mind without to, in a way that is helpful and constructive.

As you're about to, you're moving into new territory and your approach to life is changing. You may be feeling a bit out of sorts, or you may be experiencing some difficulties. However, your abilities to adapt and adjust are strong, and you're able to find ways to overcome these obstacles.

The ever-constricting ring of the future is tightening around you, bringing your attention to areas where you may need to make changes. The pressure you feel is real, but it's also helping you to grow and become more resilient.

You may be feeling a little bit overwhelmed right now. You'll be in leadership positions during the coming year. Be open to sudden changes in circumstances.

There are many types of disturbances to your routine this month. You may feel a bit out of sorts, or you may be experiencing some difficulties. However, your abilities to adapt and adjust are strong, and you're able to find ways to overcome these obstacles.

by Christopher A. Duggan

There are two short trips this month, the first one is predicted to be quite a bonding experience. The second one may not be as fulfilling as the first, but it could provide some much-needed relaxation.

The adjustment for Virgo and Michael Corra is to give a lot of thought to your relationships and how you interact with others. The right ones are those who bring you joy and happiness, and the wrong ones are those who bring you stress and frustration.

The future is hard to predict, but one thing is certain - the world will continue to evolve. The choices we make today will shape the future.

If only typewriters let you proofread your work before they printed it on the page.

What a mess! You've just proofread your term paper and it's got typos, spelling errors and misplaced paragraphs. Now, you can't hand in a paper like this. So no matter how tired you are, you've got to retype the entire thing.

That's it, unless you typed it on a Videowriter.

The Videowriter solves all your typing problems.

Take the most obvious one.

On an ordinary typewriter it would mean a bottle of white-out and a fruitless interruption.

On a Videowriter it just means pressing the key marked "delete." That's all. Because you type your work on a screen before you print it on a page. It edits.

And how about those bigger problems—wanting to rearrange paragraphs? On an ordinary typewriter you have to cut and paste them.

On a Videowriter you only have to press the key marked "move" and then indicate the area you want to move it to. It's that simple.

What happens when you're typing and you come to a word you can't spell?

On an ordinary typewriter you have to stop typing, find a dictionary and look it up. Not so on a Videowriter. Spelling problems can be corrected simply by pressing the key marked "spell." It corrects words.

If you've ever had a teacher tell you to write a thousand word essay, you know what a pain it is trying to count your words.

On an ordinary typewriter you have to do it with your finger. But on a Videowriter you can press a mere two buttons and it does the counting for you.

It makes multiple copies.

From time to time you want a copy of what you've typed, right? Well, if you use a Videowriter you won't have to go to the school library to look for a copier machine.

All you'll have to look for is the button marked "print." Press it and the Videowriter will make another original.

And because your work is automatically stored on a standard floppy disk, you can make those copies whenever you want.

It obviously does a lot more than type.

That's because the word processing features just go on and on.

What's more, we sell the Videowriter® Word Processor for around the price of a good electronic typewriter.

And that's quite a bargain when you consider the amount of time it saves you. You can spend doing the work for your other classes.

You would do that, wouldn't you?

If you're interested in Chris's column, Word Up, will be running over the next seven weeks, rain or shine. As may happen, you'll be asking questions about a variety of topics to UM-SL students and handing out the statues along with their answers.

Look for Chris walking around campus with his camera and who knows, you could be a part of this thought provoking endeavor.
The great outdoors. Children's tablets had to be added to the water each day to provide safe drinking water for himself. Bathing was done in a stream, one eye on the crocodiles and one eye on the dirt. Michael knew of families who had lost children because the crocodiles were quicker than the bathing process. Michael compares the walk to Bent on Stewart. African villages were quick to complain over the walk from Lucas Hall to Bent on Stewart. Africans women regularly walk seven or eight miles with 40-pound loads on their heads. The people of those lands are strong people, due in part to the ways that they have had to live. Michael compares the walk across campus to the daily chores of an African woman, the daily round of complaining over the walk from Lucas Hall to Bent on Stewart. Africans women regularly walk seven or eight miles with 40-pound loads on their heads. So far removed from civilization that it would put him touch with the mood and language of world politics.

Michael Curran to the point where they would only call him "I am an ordained man. I am an ordained man."

Michael realizes his limitations. He feels the freedom to do nothing to subvert that effort. "I feel the freedom to do nothing to subvert that effort."

Michael's desire to help the people of South Africa is working toward an anti- apartheid society and as long as he can show the people that he will be allowed to preach un­con­ cerned. Rivervanen Extend Stay, Off To Best Start In Years

by Diane Schuehler

SPORTS

UM-ST. Louis coach Don Dallas learned that the team can't shoot itself into streaks, but the Riverwomen never seem to have problems in that area when they approach the next game. On Tuesday, the Riverwomen won 3-1 in overtime against two powerful teams in Florida.

UM-ST. Louis was defeated by Central Florida, 3-0, in what was considered a home game for the Rollers at Rivervan Field in Mizzou, Fla. this past weekend.

Both Florida schools were the first in school history for both programs who played at Mizzou, and a chance to test their players in 5-0, " said coach Keith Frederksen each got 11 kills.
