Awareness Week Dispers Myths About Disabled

by John Kilgore

The purpose of Disabled Awareness Week is to make the non-disabled campus population aware of what it’s like to have a disability,” said Disabled Student Union President Fran Pelaez.

The eighth annual Disabled Awareness Week was held here April 4.

“People’s attitudes are pretty good, but a lot of people are still uncomfortable with it. “I said. "People have preconceived notions about disabilities. If I rather had them, they would speak to it.

There are 18 disabled students represented, served through the university’s special student programs. The 11 students are confined to wheelchair.

"There are a lot of misconceptions," Hall said. "I think the university is aware of this problem and is trying to do something about it."

Funding to Committee (SABC) Support seven of the 32 eligible groups at a total of $9,694 in additional awards. The committee had requested and granted them on March 25. when initiated by Francisco DeSoto, a reporter for Students Today, a weekly newsletter to be circulated around campus.

"I think the construction of the library at this time do not include wheelchairs, but I plan to make a meeting this week to discuss handicapped requirements for the library," said Ditto.

The Publicity Committee will include a nurse to help people avoid mishaps. Construction on the library will eliminate many of the localities for the physically handicapped patients. In the second and third floor rooms, buildings are built on a wheel. It’s almost impossible to get in. The library doors when the wind is blowing, the tracks of a snow plow become the tracks of a snow plow. slab.

The SABC added $7,569 to the University Program Board, bringing the UPB’s total budget from $18,600 to $26,500. This figure is $315 less than the University Program Board had requested and $1,615 less than they received the previous year.

"It is a lot of money, because we had anticipated a total of $3,615.58. It is a lot of money, because we had anticipated it."

Vote For Courage, Vision, Confidence

Dear editor:

At last semester's ballot, many students voted in favor of the "Assessment" program. We have just had a new college president and it is now time for the students to decide if the "Assessment" program should remain. To help students in this decision, let me give you the advantages and disadvantages of the program.

Advantages:
1. It enables us to measure our own performance.
2. It helps us to set goals for improvement.
3. It makes us more aware of our weaknesses.
4. It fosters a sense of responsibility.
5. It motivates us to do our best.

Disadvantages:
1. It may lead to feelings of inadequacy.
2. It may cause us to become too concerned with grades.
3. It may discourage us from taking risks.
4. It may lead to competitive behavior.
5. It may be too time-consuming.

In conclusion, I urge you to vote for the "Assessment" program. It will benefit us in the long run.

Sincerely,

Dear editor:

As a student at the University of Missouri, I am concerned about the recent rise in utility costs. The price of electricity has skyrocketed, and I fear that this trend may continue. It is important for us to consider the long-term effects of this increase in utility costs.

First, let us examine the cause of this increase. One major factor is the rising cost of fuel. As the price of oil and gas rises, so does the cost of generating electricity. Additionally, there is a growing concern about the environmental impact of fossil fuels, which may lead to higher costs as well.

Second, we should consider the impact of this increase on students. Many of us are already struggling to make ends meet, and higher utility costs will only add to our financial burden. It is important for us to find ways to reduce our energy consumption and conserve resources.

Finally, let us think about the future. If we do not take action now to address this issue, we may be faced with even higher utility costs in the years to come. It is important for us to take steps now to ensure a sustainable and affordable future for all.

In conclusion, I urge all students to become aware of the rising utility costs and to take steps to reduce our energy consumption. Together, we can make a difference.

Assessment: Risking Educational Integrity

Dear editor,

The current designs for the new college president take into account our students' voices. As one of the college's most prestigious and influential organizations, The Current has a responsibility to promote student interests. Our role is to ensure that students' voices are heard and that their concerns are addressed.

In this regard, we are especially concerned about the "Assessment" program. While this program has its merits, we believe that it risks undermining the integrity of our educational system. By focusing on student performance alone, it may lead to a narrow-minded approach to learning and teaching.

We urge the college to consider alternative approaches that prioritize the development of critical thinking, creativity, and innovation. Only then can we truly serve our students and ensure that they receive a comprehensive and meaningful education.

Sincerely,

Professor John Smith

The Current welcomes all letters to the editor. Letters must be signed and typed, and should not exceed 200 words. Unsigned letters will not be published. The editor reserves the right to edit letters for clarity and length.

Communications, Accessibility, Platform Proposed

Dear editor,

As students at the University of Missouri, we are concerned about the lack of communication between the university administration and the student body. We feel that it is essential for the university to have a platform where students can voice their opinions, concerns, and suggestions.

We propose a platform that will be accessible to all students, regardless of their background or experience. It will be a space where students can share their ideas, engage in meaningful discussions, and take an active role in shaping the future of our campus.

We believe that such a platform will help bridge the gap between the university administration and the student body. It will foster a culture of participation, promote transparency, and ensure that the voices of all students are heard.

Sincerely,

SA Execs Boost Berhorst, Baker

Dear editor,

As students at the University of Missouri, we are calling for a change in leadership. The current administration has failed to address the concerns of the student body and has made decisions that are not in the best interests of students. It is time for new leadership that will prioritize student success and well-being.

We urge the campus community to support our candidates, Berhorst and Baker, who have a clear track record of advocating for students and ensuring their success. They understand the unique challenges faced by students and are dedicated to making the necessary changes to improve the campus experience.

Sincerely,
[Signature]

Music Department Hosts Contest, Wins Honor

The UM-St. Louis Department of Music hosted the annual singers’ auditions sponsored by the Metropolitan Concert Association to select new students for UM-St. Louis’s vocal ensembles. The contest took place on April 13 with singers and singing teachers from almost every school in the metropolitan area attending. The contest was judged by UM-St. Louis coordinator of voice and speech, Louise Mitchell. They entered eight of 11 divisions and won seven first-place awards and one second-place. The first-place awards for music students went to Kristen Huxhold, upper division high school women; Edward Hardtke, upper division high school men; Scott Dugan, sophomore men; Leonard Bogar, upper division college men; Jane Bernecker (senior) St. Louis upper division college women; Scott Boucher, freshman men, and Stewart, second place in lower division.

On Monday, April 11, the Evening Honor Program Creatures attended. The St. Louis Regional Opera Association members addressed the Evening Honor Program Creatures on topics such as opera and performance preparation. The first-place awards for singers were: first place in freshmen men were Robert Niskanen, second place in upper women were Lillie Lawer, first place in freshmen women were Shawn Boschert (senior) University of Missouri-St. Louis, and second place in freshmen women were a student of Susan McChesney (St. Louis).

To Someone With An Eating Disorder, This Can Be A Deadly Weapon.

Every day, thousands of college students rise, aim and fire their fingers down their throats to make themselves sick. It’s called purging, and while it may seem like the easy way to look healthy, it’s actually a sure way to become very ill. Left unchecked, bulimia can cause rotten teeth, dehydration, a ruptured esophagus, and kidney failure. In its latter stages, it can cause the heart to skip beats, until one day it skips for good. But there is hope. The Anorexia Bulimia Treatment and Education Foundation, a non-profit organization, can help.

The Anorexia Bulimia Treatment and Education Foundation (DEALER NAME) • CREDIT FROM FORD CREDIT COMPANY. To apply it to the purchase or lease Ford/Mercury Purchase Program now. This limited time offer is only available at Ford Motor Credit Company, or 1-800-367-4888 in Missouri. Everyone is welcome and there are no questions asked, but the people there know how to treat bulimia and anorexia can be. And they won’t be pointing fingers at anyone.

It has finally gotten around to plowing this end of campus and have blocked all the curb-cuts with snow. I curse the weather and the snow; I curse the university for not calling off classes or at least putting them on a snow schedule; I curse the faulty elevator. A sign on the elevator door tells me that all my efforts of the entire morning have been for naught: the elevator is out of order - once upon to the elevator. A sign on the elevator door tells me that all my efforts of the coming European nationalization of education, according to Ditto, the lack of revenue generating events, the lack of money covering everything, how the person on crutches keeps from breaking another leg or ankle.

THE SENSE OF INNER STRENGTH

BY KRIS EMBRY

Kris Embry is a music reviewer. The article discusses the success and qualities of a karate instructor named Norris Himmelman. Kris Embry explores how Norris Himmelman, unlike John Wayne, embodies a certain sense from a little known karate instructor in the sense that it is informative concerning survival tactics. It is also an account of how the Playhouse everyone can be comfortably and to ensure seating is allowed in the auditorium. Drinks are also available for those who, however, is the behavior of the audience who was Timbald, a show that took place will over a year ago. At the Himmelman show, we were again told that this was not only one of many free concerts KSHF will be bringing to town. We heard this at Timbald as well, but it doesn't recall seeing KSHF sponsor any free shows.

The purpose of this show was to give appreciation for the station's listener. I didn't come away feeling appreciated. I would have appreciated seeing that this was only the opening band other than Big Fun, who can be seen at Mississippi Nights, the Himmelman show, we were again told that this was only one of many free concerts KSHF will be bringing to town. We heard this at Timbald as well, but it doesn't recall seeing KSHF sponsor any free shows.

This material was unavailable for a show that admitted all ages, but my main complaint was that Smash's professional broadcaster and representative of radio station's behavior and language. Smash, along with Bob Buttery and John 'The U-man' Ulett, can be heard weekdays from 6-9 p.m. At 11 P.M. as KSHF's Morning Zoo.

Busy Week for Baseball

Tennis Eyes Conference Tourney

By Pam Watz

The tennis men's team knows what they want to accomplish at the upcoming MIAA Conference Tournament, they have been preparing and working hard to reach that goal. Coach Jeff Zoellner explained, "We have a lot of guys who remember what that feeling was like last year and they don't want that feeling again." Brady said. "Most of the guys on the team are really excited about the upcoming season. We should be in good shape."

Despite the success of the last season, the team is still focused on improving their play and getting better. "We need to focus on our fundamentals and keep working hard in practice," Zoellner said. "We have a strong lineup and we just need to execute our strategies and play our best when it matters." With the conference tournament approaching, the team is determined to make a strong showing. "We have a lot of experience and we believe we can compete with the best teams," Zoellner added. "We are ready to face the challenge and make the most of our opportunities."
