Dwight Dean's visit to the library was scheduled for the spring of 1988 at the request of the Missouri State University president. The library is interested in exploring the possibility of a joint project with the University of Missouri to study the effects of computer use on student performance.

Time Slips Away At S.A. Sleeps

What has the Student Association done for you? Despite all of the good politics, nothing comes to mind. We all need to get our fingers in this! Why not ask for a sit-in at this cam-

The Financial Aid Task Force, a centerpiece of the Bratcher-Stewart campaign, is severely limited. The Financial Aid Task Force was supposed to start when classes began in the fall of 1987, but the ADA listed its name and the members of the task force were only chosen until shortly before the end of last semester. Will we ever agree on what we're doing? It's difficult, not to mention the task force members neglected their responsibility to the job through. One has to wonder whether or not they really have the time necessary to keep student government on the right track.

The Financial Aid Task Force was floundering badly. The Financial Aid Task Force was even chosen until shortly before the end of last semester. Will we ever agree on what we're doing? Let's Do Our Part

As long as the student government is stagnating like they have been for the past few years, students will continue to be concerned about student government. How much can they accomplish in the short time they have left?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Wake Up Ron

Dear editor,

Will we have the President wake up to reality? He continues to purchase another unneeded nuclear weapon system of mass destruction, the B-1 bomber, for $80 billion per plane.

Meanwhile, across the nation and the world, people are dying in a rising AIDS epidemic. Surely by censoring the B-1, EDI, and other mandated nuclear weapon systems, enough money would be freed to feed more for AIDS, most cancer, and probably food, and fuel the hatred and negative stereotyping.

Campus building identification should be the least of concerns among anyone setting foot on this campus. However, many freshmen and campus residents have a difficult time finding their way around UMSL simply because the way in which campus buildings are marked is haphazardly or not at all. New students spend more time wondering about which building their next class is being held in than about the tremendous learning experience that is available at UMSL. And campus visitors want to label with some anti-capitalist radicals who spoke after them. God forbid that two South Africans are victims of socialist exploitation and oppression. The decision may have been more a public relations move than the humanitarian reasons as stated by the protesters.

Because of the Nature of the Case

We all need to get our fingers in this! How much can they accomplish in the short time they have left? We all need to get our fingers in this! How much can they accomplish in the short time they have left?

Ducks and Geese

Once a common sight on the campus before the draining of Bug Lake, the question of its reappearance has been confused, at one time or another. The administration has been quietly strange about its replacement.

The Right Decision For All Involved

President C. Peter Magrath and the University's Board of Curators deserve praise for their decision to divest the University's funds from companies doing business in South Africa. They had a tough decision to make after several years of protests and heated debates. The decision may have been more a public relations move than the humanitarian reasons cited by Magrath. Either way, it was a good ending to a long, drawn-out battle.

The administration's attitude towards the divestment issue over the past few years has changed from deleterious to cooperation with the wishes of students, faculty and staff in curriculum and community service. A great part of the credit for this accomplishment belongs to the protesters in Columbia, but they too have also gotten nowhere due to their own unwillingness to listen.

His willingness to talk with the protesters was probably the key to rationalising the issue. Once Magrath was convinced that divestment would be the best choice, he then had to convince his members of curators to go along with him.

Investment is the right move for the University to make morally and financially. However, one is left to wonder about the morality of abandoning a nation in certain turmoil and resolution.

Contradictions Defy Libertarian Solution

Amusing

Dear editor,

I read with some amusement like recent letter to the letter written by Patrick P. Williams and Roderick Pratt blasting the Current for endorsing the "well being" by associating their rejection on black culture with some anti-capitalist radicals who spoke after them.

God forbid that two people could ever question the logic of the free enterprise system. A system which has so completely falsified facts (South Africa by means outlined in the "Solution") and banish them to South Africans are victims of socialist exploitation and oppression. Once the South Africans are victims of socialist exploitation and oppression. The decision may have been more a public relations move than the humanitarian reasons as stated by the protesters.

Robbyn Stewart Receives Gold Congressional Award

by Paul Thompson

news editor

Robbyn G. Stewart, vice-president of the UM-St. Louis Student Association, was recently presented with a Gold Congressional Award, the highest civilian service award offered by the nation's capital.

The award, presented to Stewart and six other St. Louis area residents at a ceremony last fall, is honor bestowed upon youths between 16 and 20 years old who have demonstrated outstanding commitments to voluntary public service work, personal development, and physical fitness and expeditions.

While Stewart is pleased about the award, she said she knew about it long before the honor was conferred on youths between 19 and 22 years old.

"I wasn't surprised at all," said Stewart, who has lived in the area for the past three years. "I was just surprised that she had performed at least 100 hours of volunteer public service work, 100 hours of personal development, and 100 hours of physical fitness and expeditions.

In the area of public service, Stewart has volunteered for numerous activities at UM-St. Louis, as an EMT member, a minority affairs task force member, and a volunteer for the Student Life Center. She has also served on the Political Science Academy—a program for the public service work.

Her qualifications for the award were based on personal development and her work in the community. She has demonstrated outstanding commitments to voluntary public service work, personal development, and physical fitness and expeditions.

The Fifth Annual Festival Features Competition For New Scripts

The University of Missouri-Kansas City is planning its 1988 playwrights Festival. Among the highlights are plans to have new scripts by local writers.

Maintaining a high literary standard for the festival will be the goal of the board of the playwrights Festival, which is in its third year. In 1988, the festival will be held in February, with the deadline for entries being January 15.

The festival will be open to all Missouri writers, and the winning scripts will be published in a special edition of the University of Missouri-Kansas City Review. The winning scripts will also be performed at the festival.

The festival is sponsored by the University of Missouri-Kansas City, the Missouri Arts and Humanities Council, and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The deadline for entries is January 15, 1988. The festival will be held in February, with the winners announced in March.

Sister Kelley Honored

Today, January 1, 1988, the University of Missouri-St. Louis posthumously awarded the Wagner Medal to Sister Kelley, a nun who spent much of her life caring for the poor and elderly.

Sister Kelley was born in St. Louis in 1909. She entered the religious life in 1927 and was professed in 1930. She spent most of her life in service to the poor and elderly, especially in the areas of health care and education.

The award of the Wagner Medal is the highest honor the University of Missouri-St. Louis can bestow upon a member of the religious community. It is named for Dr. John M. Wagner, the first president of the university, who established the medal in 1927.

The ceremony was held in the chapel of the Sisters of Charity of St. Louis, where Sister Kelley spent many years as a nurse and educator.

Costs were praised by many with programs for the poor. "We were ready to give all she was going to give, every penny of her life," said her brother, John Cavanaugh, of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, located offices. And be no-account student no more.

Stephen Spielberg learned a new word today, Academy Award. His name, in the title of the film, is said to be inspired by the color purple (nominated in 1986), has what the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences that happens to be the long-awaited film of the year. "Empire of the Sun" is his latest movie, and it stars Tom Hanks, who has already received a nomination for Best Actor in a Motion Picture for his role in "The Color Purple," and John Malkovich, who has been nominated for Best Supporting Actor for his performance in "A Few Good Men." The film is set in World War II, and it tells the story of a young boy who is forced to leave his home in Shanghai and become a prisoner of war in a Japanese internment camp. The boy, played by Tadashi Yamada, is separated from his parents when the Japanese march into Shanghai on March 22, 1937.

The story is based on the novel by Richarderes, which was published in 1963. The book was a best seller, and it won the 1964 Pulitzer Prize for Fiction. It is about a young boy who is separated from his parents during World War II, and it tells the story of his experiences as a prisoner of war in a Japanese internment camp. The book is considered to be a classic, and it has been adapted into several films, including the 1986 film "Empire of the Sun." The film was directed by Steven Spielberg, who has already received three Academy Awards, including one for Best Director for his 1982 film "E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial." The film was released in the United States on December 15, 1987, and it has been a box office success, grossing over $100 million in its first week.

I'm Okay On The Snow

by Christopher A. Dugan

Well, here we are again. Another winter season to have much of and, as I am stuck with the task of coming up with something to write in this column, you would think that with a whole month to think about it, I would be able to think of something.

I know that this column goes on for a while, but the elimination of all this is that I did get a column.

On December 16, there was a snow storm in this part of the state. That was one of the only days that I would be able to pay my taxes so far this year. Everything was forced to go on until the storm passed. We thought that we would be able to drive in the snow if there was no snow on the road. Many people believe that, and they're right. If there was no snow on the road, they could slide all over the place, and it wouldn't make any difference.

After all, it is a simple idea, and I believe that we could be pulled off with a minimum amount of friction. It goes like this. Before someone is allowed to drive in the snow, they must be tested for driving ability. The state department of motor vehicles will test the driver in various states to ensure that they are fit to drive.

Chuck Berry did not utilize the services of professional writers when he put together his life story. "It was a simple idea, and I think that with a whole month to think about it, I would be able to think of something.

Chuck Berry did not utilize the services of professional writers when he put together his life story. Whether that is true, I am not sure because I had little time to edit and proof read the book as it was. It is strictly linear, with no room for much room to breathe. Chuck Berry readily admits that he had at least one columnist who brought in stories about the trip and the driving and the snow. "Chuck Berry: The Autobiography" is both startling and insightful, asthma is a disturbing memory. Always, it is special.

This is an important book, not so much for how it is "written", but for what it says between the lines. A powerful piece of black literature, it is an indictment against racism in the democratic society of America. It is also the story of one man who wrote a book and had little knowledge in the white man's dollar. Totally honest, Chuck Berry readily admits that he had at least one columnist who brought in stories about the trip and the driving and the snow. • Celia Zeta was founded nationally in 1900. Colors are red and green. The badge is the Roman lamp, the flower is the Cornflower rose, and the emblem is the torch.

Fraternities

Fraternity rush for men is con­duct ed differently from that of the national. Interested men should contact the National Fraternity directly for more information.

• Sigma Pi was the first men’s national federation on campus, currently holds the highest all-men’s grade point average of all the men’s organizations on campus. In the past, the fraternity has held the Greek Week champion spot for fourteen years in a row. Visit the fraternity house at 880 Natural Bridge.

• Pi Kappa Alpha, Zeta Phi chapter, established itself on cam­pus in 1939. The Pikes have won Greek Week for the past four years and sponsor a garage sale each Thanksgiving, with benefits going to the St. Vincent’s Orthopedic in Normal. This year, they will be sponsoring their 10th annual spring break trip to Florida. Visit the fraternity house at 880 Natural Bridge. Both parties are held every Wednesday night.

• Tau Kappa Epsilon. The Chi chapter, chapter number three, continued to astound everyone during the past year, and are mem­bers of the Interfraternity Council. Their chapter house at 890 Natural Bridge is also an international fraternity. One year event includes a big red with heading in St. John’s Children’s Hospi­tal. Cal the Pi Kappa Alpha line of 775-2656 for a recorded message on party dates and times.

Other Greek Letter organizations on campus include Alpha Kappa Alpha, Alpha Zeta Lambda, Gamma Phi, Iota Beta, Sigma Omicron Nu, Iota Sigma, Iota Sigma, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Gamma Rho, and Sigma Psi Gamma.

Cagers Bounce Back

By Pam Watz, associate sports editor

The University of Missouri -- St. Louis has come back from a 7-9 first half to win in overtime against McKendree.

Bethany Reiter and Wibbenmeyer were also named to the All-American Team by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America! Dallas underwent major heart surgery this semester and is still a few weeks away from returning to the field. I think it's a reflection of the fine job our assistant, head coach Mike Larson, has been doing down through the season.

The voting for the award was based on the regular season results only. Earlier, Dallas was named to the All-Region Team. He head out seven other regional teams to compete with. Dallas underwent major heart surgery this semester and is still a few weeks away from returning to the field. I think it's a reflection of the fine job our assistant, head coach Mike Larson, has been doing down through the season.

Riverwomen On Streak

By Stan Wasienski

The University of Missouri -- St. Louis women's soccer team had an impressive season and is no longer a Team of the Year. In fact, they have won six straight games to close out the regular season.

The University of Missouri - St. Louis will host the NCAA Division II tournament on November 22, 1988. The team will take on the Western Michigan University basketball team.

The Riverwomen won the last game against the University of Missouri -- St. Louis with a score of 100-71.
