University Senate Talks Salary Hike

by Steve Ward

In their first meeting of the year, the University Senate passed a major resolution that will affect the entire university system and eliminated several topics facing UM-St. Louis students.

Following another executive report to shadow enrollment, Chairman Mark Berthelot brought up the subject of faculty salaries. Berthelot then cited statistics from the last Board of Curators meeting which said that the average salary of an associate professor in the University system is $89,900 below that of an assistant professor.

"It is our experience that the administration in general and in the UM-St. Louis campus in particular has a great deal of trouble with the issue of faculty salaries," said Berthelot. "This is a problem that has come up in the past, and it is something that has to be addressed at a faculty level.

"The University of Missouri System is seriously concerned about this situation, and they have taken steps to address it in the system.

"This resolution was sent to the Coordinating Board of Higher Education to recommend that the legislature and governor to consider this issue," Berthelot went on. "It is important that this issue is addressed, and it is important that it be addressed at the faculty level.

"This is a serious problem, and it is important that it be addressed at the faculty level. We have to address this issue, and we have to address it now."
Campus Events

- National Native American Day will be observed with a powwow on the U-M. St. Louis northfield Sept. 28 from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Quad. Come to the Quad to view the powwow, a spiritual celebration observed through dance, song, and native arts and crafts. The Native American Student Association will present the powwow.

- Grey Eagle Distributors, Inc. is sponsoring a powwow, a spiritual celebration observed through dance, song, and native arts and crafts. The Native American Student Association will present the powwow.

MONEY

- Issue from the program development: omit issue. said Mark Burkholder, chairman of UM-St. Louis. "We can’t take state money intended for expansion and use it for salaries. New money should be paid to Native American tribes.

- At a Board of Curators meeting, Provost Joe Bowman said, "We have to make sure our fiscal policies are sound." He also noted that "salaries have been cut, with more people in central priority. All of our work has to be done without increasing this priority." He also said that "we are working hard to reduce expenses." He also said that "we are working hard to reduce expenses."

VAN

- The van became hung up on railroad ties just inside the fence, someone pushed her out of the way, and she was knocked to the floor. We even call the police and notify our neighbors to let them know what we are planning," said a spokesman for the coordinating board for information: "We are here to help you with this information."
It's Not Just The Voice
by Pauline Amato
Associate Features Editor

In 1963, it was the New York Metropolitan Opera House--"audition of the century." In 1988, he became the voice of the "90s, " the voice that was in all the advertisements, the voice that was in all the signs contract with the Met. He is Plácido Domingo. He opened the season with the Met's "Puritana," a four-hour opera, and the press was saying, "Plácido Domingo is back!" But he is not back! He is not back at the Met!

Domingo has released his new album, "La Traviata," which features tracks from the opera "La Traviata." The album has been critically acclaimed and has reached #1 on the classical music charts.

His voice is still as powerful as ever, but his style has evolved over the years. He has been described as having a "rich, dark, and velvety" voice that is "full of emotion and passion." He is known for his ability to convey the emotions of a character through his voice, and this is clearly evident in the performances on this album.

The album features a variety of tracks from "La Traviata," including some of the most famous arias from the opera. Domingo's voice is perfectly suited to these pieces, and he delivers them with a level of expressiveness and nuance that is simply breathtaking.

Despite his age, Domingo remains one of the most sought-after singers in the world. He continues to perform regularly, and his voice is still as strong and vibrant as ever. He is a true master of his craft, and this album is a testament to his talent and dedication.

The album "La Traviata" is available on all major music platforms, and is highly recommended for anyone who loves classical music. It is a true masterpiece, and a must-listen for any music lover.
"Quinn's Book" Is Evidence Of Kennedy's Talent

by Arthur C. Hoeh

Quinn's Book

by William Kennedy

(Viking, 299 pages)

William Kennedy, the author of "Newfound," is, in my opinion, one of the best American novelists alive. A master of his craft, he is well-read, but never pretentious. He is most noted, "Quinn's Book," is further evidence of that.

The plot, as well as its complications, is similar to one that Charles Dickens might have come up with. The plot, or rather, most of it, takes place in Albany, New York.

"Quinn's Book," is Evidenced has fallen in love with, and his newspaper and thus begins what is newspaper editor named Will stormy youth, betrayal by his mother, separation from Maud (whom he to become an illustrious career as a journalist).

The story starts up in 1849, when the main character, 15-year-old Canaday, he is given a start to on a boatman named John the Brawn, Maud following a boating accident. He pulls her from the river and certain death is the icy water. It is an event that will change his life.

We follow Daniel through a stormy youth, beset by his mother's departure from Maud (whom he has fallen in love with), and his struggle to rise above his common background. The features of a newspaper editor named Will Canaday is given a start on a newspaper and thus begins what is to become an illustrious career as a journalist.

The story has three parts. The last one begins in 1864. We are a 29-year-old Quinn who has taken a correspondence course in the newspaper business and is earning a fair amount of money over the years.

The last part of the book deals with his relationship with Maud, who is engaged to a rich land-owner, and his attempt to win her back.

Kennedy's characters have a multitude of dimensions, and, like real people, they all have good and bad qualities, although some have more of one or the other.

The story is wrought in such a way that is frustrating to read at times, without having expended the effort. It leaves the reader with the sensation that he or she has read a book of incredible length, without having expended the effort.

Many of the trappings of society are exposed in bold fashion by the author, but that is never overpowering.

The point of the story seems quite clear. This was a time of change in America. People married for money and power more than any other reason. In short, it was not a time conducive for love. However, in the end, it is just that which eventually wins out.

NETTERS LOSE 4 IN TOURNAMENT

By Michael McInerney

Entering last weekend, the UCM-St. Louis Women's Volleyball team was in first place in the GLVC. As a result, the Westers had three victories in a row against Missouri Western and St. Louis University. However, the team was not able to finish the week with a win, as they were defeated by Southeast Missouri State University in three sets.

The team is now looking forward to their next match, which is against the University of Missouri-Columbia. The game will be played on Wednesday at 7 p.m.

RIVERWOMEN SNAP 7 GAME LOSING STREAK

By Jim Wiens

For the past four years, the Riverwomen have had to watch other teams enjoy the glory of winning the annual Benedictine Soccer Tournament, while settling for second place. But this year, the Riverwomen are the champions.

During the tournament, Coach Ken Menefee said that the team was able to improve the women's 1-0 record and win three games, including a 1-0 win over Benedictine in the championship game.

The Riverwomen are the fourth successive team in a row to win the tournament. In fact, they have not lost a game in the tournament since 1983.

LIFEFIRE'S RIVERWOMEN ARE 4-4 AGAINST NCAA RIVALS

By Jim Wiens

The Riverwomen have a 4-4 record against NCAA rivals, but they have won four games in a row.

The team is now looking forward to their next match, which is against the University of Missouri-Columbia. The game will be played on Wednesday at 7 p.m.
Riverwomen Snap 7 Game Losing Streak

by Jim Wiens

For the past four years, the Riverwomen have had to watch other teams enjoy the glory of playing in the annual Bulldog Soccer Festival, while settling for second place and third place. Going into the tournament, Coach Ken Hedin was worried that the Riverwomen might not be able to equal last year's performance. However, the Riverwomen have come out on top of their game, winning the Bulldog Soccer Festival. Their performance was impressive, with the team winning their first game against Southeast Missouri State University, 1-0, and then continuing to win their second game against Washington University, 1-0. The Riverwomen ended their seven-game losing streak and now have a record of 4-0. They have been in great form, playing with great confidence and precision on the field.

Netters Lose 4 In Tournament

by Michael McNamara

Entering last weekend’s UMSL-St. Louis Women’s Volleyball Tournament, the Netters knew that they would have a tough challenge ahead, as they were coming off a recent defeat at the hands of Missouri Western. The Netters were not able to bounce back and were defeated by Missouri Western, 0-3. Despite the loss, the team showed great sportsmanship and were able to come back stronger for their next match against Southeast Missouri State University.

Men’s Soccer Defeats Chapman, Southeast

by Tom Korsch

In preparation for the Bulldog Soccer Festival, the Riverwomen defeated Southeast Missouri State University, 2-0. The victory was a well-deserved one, with the team playing with great intensity and precision. The Riverwomen were able to control the game, with the goal coming early and late in the first half. The team was able to maintain their lead throughout the game, securing their victory.

GLIDING GALKOWSKI: John Galkowski fights off two Chapman College Panthers in an attempt to reach the goal. Galkowski was alert enough to pick up his own rebound and knock it in, but the goalkeeper was there to stop him. The score was 1-0, Panther style is to knock the ball around and slow the game down, which they did successfully.
