Finanical Aid, Academic Advising

by Janice Gregory reporter

Every year an influx of students pour into the UM-St. Louis campus from different areas of the country, hoping to attain skills that will enable them to secure adequate employment. Over the years, college costs have skyrocketed, at private colleges, tuition costs of $13,000 per year are not unheard of. While public institutions are somewhat cheaper, they are not free either. Here at UM-St. Louis, an uninsured student living alone should expect to pay at least $8,712.50 for a nine-month stint, excluding summer. Dependent students can expect, starting out at $4,992.20 for the same period. A married couple with two children can expect to pay roughly $11,000.

But before one can reach the ultimate goal of graduation, one must complete two initial steps before choosing that goal: receiving academic advisement and financial aid assistance.

Located in Woods 200, the Financial Aid office offers services like the ACT Family Financial Statement. "We ask that you take the time to fill out the statement," said Mark Nugent, Director of Financial Aid, stating that students should apply as early as possible. "There's so much to do for the process," Nugent said, "It's important to prepare as much possible. We're here to help you fill it out." Nugent advises students to fill in the detailed section on financial aid available to students that they may not be aware of. The first class was held at the Ritenour Center on September 14, 1990. Four full-time faculty members will cover the subject.

Dr. C. Peter Magrath, President
University of Missouri System

I am pleased to have the opportunity to welcome you to the beginning of a new academic year at the University of Missouri-St. Louis. You are experiencing the advantages of higher education in a young, vibrant, and progressive urban university. The unique strengths, attributes, and services of UM-St. Louis mark it as an exceptional center of learning and opportunity and as a partner in progress in the broader St. Louis community.

UM-St. Louis is one of four strong universities that make up The University of Missouri System. The institutions within the system—UM-St. Louis, UM-Columbia, UM-Kansas City and UM-Rolla—unite the state’s only public research university. The University of Missouri System, in cooperation with Lincoln University, is also the only source of statewide University Extension services.

Welcome to the University of Missouri-St. Louis and to the University of Missouri System.

Terence M. Small, President
Student Government Association

As president of the Student Government Association, it is with pleasure that I welcome you to the University of Missouri at St. Louis for the 1989-90 school year. UM-St. Louis is quickly becoming a leading institution for higher learning in the state. Just a few of the highlights for the academic school year are:

• A new state-of-the-art computer center funded by the students is scheduled for operation in October.
• Renovations that will turn the Mark Twain Gymnasium into a first-class fitness center.
• Additions made to the Thomas Jefferson Library which will make it one of the finest in the state.
• A Student Government Association that has pledged to deal with the concerns of the students on campus.

I sincerely hope that, as students, you take an active involvement with your UM-St. Louis. The opportunities to excel are limitless; take advantage of them. On behalf of the entire Student Government Association, I wish you all good luck with your academic endeavors and don’t forget to have fun.

Another helpful tool that students recorded pus, linked with a ban on card programs. A student-owned clubhouse, and its library was stocked with around 12,500 hardcover and paperback books. Students then formed the Tiger government and started the Tiger Rebel organization. In addition, a nine-person faculty and student board was elected to operate a 15-cent student card program.

In 1967, students had started the Tiger Rebel organization. The organization was made up of nine faculty and student members and was elected to operate a 15-cent student card program. Evidently things were out of hand, and the system isn't satisfied that you are able to selected individuals from a variety of sources. They are awarded for athletic excellence, intellectual achievement, artistic talent, physical or mental disability, being non-Hispanic Asian or Pacific Islander, Hispanic American, or African native. For being Hispanic, or for being American Indian, the scholarship color may vary.

By the way, you won't get any aid until you've applied for admission to the university; and if you have gone to college before, you may still be eligible for federal student aid that is available through the Supplemental Loan Program (SLS).

Students who find themselves very needy is the Educational Opportunity Grant. It is available to students with the greatest need who meet the eligibility requirements. It is not a loan and must be paid back. A total of $9,000 can be borrowed during one's undergraduate years.

Every day, thousands of college students ready, aim and fire their fingers down their throats to make themselves sick. It's called purging, and while it may seem like the easy way to look healthy, it's actually a sure way to become very ill.

Left unchecked, bulimia can cause rotten teeth, dehydration, a ruptured stomach or esophagus, and kidney failure. In its latter stages, it can cause the heart to skip beats, until one day it skips for good. But there is hope.

Through support group counseling, the professionals at St. John's Mercy Medical Center can help bulimia and anorexia victims find relief from their guilt, depression, and years of loneliness. They can show them how to turn food into nourishment instead of an obsession, and how to start feeling good about themselves again.

At 9 a.m. on the third Saturday of every month, St. John's holds free meetings to discuss eating disorders and their symptoms. To find out more about the meetings, just call 1-800-25ABTEC, or 569-6898 in Missouri.

Everyone is welcome and there are no questions asked, because the people there know first hand how devastating bulimia and anorexia can be. And they won't be pointing fingers at anyone.

The manuscripts chronicles history. The collections reflect important and often overlooked dimensions of local history. For instance, one of the country's first anti-nuclear lobbying groups, the Committee for Nuclear Information, began here, as did one of the first correctional buying groups, the Committee for Women's Suffrage. Where did the ducks on Bugg Lake go in the winter? Where did Big Lake get its name? Students have found the answers to these questions and more in the collections of the University Archives located in the Archives Center (southwest stairwell) of the T. W. Dowell Student Center.

Attention Evening Students Of UM-St. Louis

Early in the twentieth century Albert Einstein formulated his theory of relativity, which dealt with the relationship of energy and mass at a certain critical speed. Late that same century, Susan Keilholz, President of the Evening College Council, found Einstein's theory to have merit. And further, she found that it applied directly to persons attending UM-St. Louis as an evening student. That is, one should apply his or her energy to what matters to them. Join the Evening College Council and we shall discover what matters are relative to the evening student.

New Personnel Of Current Announced

By Kevin Keane

As the editor of the Current I have been searching all summer for a replacement for my former editorial staff of photographers and production personnel. The search has led me to conclude that there is a potential of one of the best years in the history of the Current.

In a month, we will begin seeing new (upstyled) equipment that will allow us to produce the best looking and highest quality of the Current and speed the production process. This newspaper's production run will increase as a result of increased coverage of events and increased sales. Staff quality has been the problem in the past, but many of the students who are returning this year will give us a strong base to build on.

Colleges can be used to our advantage. Students are now actively participating in the newspaper. They will be given the opportunity to write editorials, be interviewed, and write and layout articles. These students will be given the opportunity to be part of the campus community and to gain leadership experience.

The Current is the only student-run newspaper that has ever won ten awards at the Missouri Press Association. It is published to provide experience in journalism for students, as well as to maintain the campus community of interest and timely issues.

The newspaper is first printed on the campus every Monday through Friday. The morning staff will be working on the newspaper 15 minutes after the students have left for the day. The evening staff will be working from 7 p.m. until 11 p.m. The morning staff will be working from 7 a.m. until 11 p.m. The evening staff will be working from 7 p.m. until 11 p.m.

The newspaper offers members of the campus community an opportunity to express their views through letters to the editor. Letters to the editor should be addressed to Kevin Kovach, Manager of General Operations.

Stop! Read This Column Or Else oblivion
by Shawn M. Foppe
Managing editor
Obituary—official overlooking of oblivious, pastime.
Why, you may ask in this column entitled "Obituary" for this thing, it just seemed like a good name for a column. I solemnly attest that I was more interested in the humor than the actual word, oblivion, which doesn't sound like very much to me. Then I listed out the meaning of the word oblivion and came up with the above explanation. I liked it. For a long time I had griped about some of the errors that happen at UM-St. Louis and the world (for the two do not reside in the same direction). This would give me the opportunity to vent my indignity and serve to purge the unworthiness of pranks that might shock, offend the American way.
I welcome comments, good or bad, about my column as well as examples of neurotics in our lives.

... have you heard? Gallery 518 has moved to room 235 in Lucas Hall. But wait, just a minute or two before you get on the train and start the revolution over the location of Gallery 518. The gallery moved in the spring—why? because the rooms on the second floor of Lucas Hall are numbered, Lucas Hall.

On the surface, the renumbering of the second floor of Lucas Hall seems to have some merit. Gallery 518 has gained some matter of some recognition and being "Gallery 518, located in 235 Lucas Hall," sounds righteous. The only loyal old-timers agreed, suggesting the gallery be renamed. "The Pierce Laclede Art Gallery." But that sounds too much like a restaurant. "Joe's Laclede Art Gallery." "Joe's Art Gallery," no one will receive that message. Instead, university officials have, in their vast intelligence, decided to completely rename the second floor of Lucas Hall to accommodate the move. The gallery moved because it outgrew its original space and may again. But what would have happened if the gallery remained where it all began? Would the fourth floor rooms in Lucas become 200 rooms? Would the third floor (the basement room for most students anyway) be renamed in the '80s, thus confusing new students further and the assistance of therapy? And what of the first floor? Would new students become registrar-numbers?

Stay tuned. Same bat time, same bat channel.

And finally, I would like to welcome all the new students to the university. You are welcomed by new greetings from everyone who is trying to make you feel welcome. New students have too many things to worry about, such as parking, without stopping to worry about the name of everyone who wants to say hello. Just keep a sunny attitude and watch out for those philosophy majors.

Laws and order, all service areas will be completed by October 31. According to Tom Preston, the entire library will be finished by October 27.

Presidential and returning students will see quite a few changes when school starts on August 10. When a student enters the library, there will be two information desks to help students find the different locations of stacks books as books, government documents and microfilm, and reference, Rapp and Rapp said.

When expansion is completed on October 15, five floors of the library will look like this, according to Rapp, including Lucas and study space.

1. Level 1: study area, bound journals and 160,000 volumes.
2. Level 2: current journals, microfilm, new sprinkler systems will be installed, and lounge space, some of which will be second floor in Lucas Hall.
3. Level 3: current journals, microfilm, new sprinkler systems will be installed, and lounge space, some of which will be under the new periodical space.
4. Level 4: 1 and 2 stacks and study space.
5. Level 5: new stacks and study space.

With any expansion of a building, new sprinkler systems will be installed on the fourth and fifth floors. Certain sections of these levels will be covered and students who ask for books on the third floor will be taken to the fifth floor to have a library in that location. Certain books will be "few limitations in September and October."

In order for the library to expand, three major corporations in the St. Louis area—the Anheuser-Busch Foundation, Emerson Electric Company and McDonnell Douglas—donated $1.1 million in March of 1987. UM-St. Louis then had that amount as required by Governor Barckley. After August 31, 1988, expanding the library was made possible by the Missouri State Legislatures during the 1987 session. Nothing out-of-country money into the universities entered their money, although the state approved federalizing $424 million. Expansion of the library then began in July of 1988.
