University Officials Claim Bugg Lake Unofficial

by Thomas Kovach

While students in the late 1960s named Bugg Lake after the first chancellor of UM-St. Louis, recent efforts to name the lake did not follow proper University of Missouri System procedures. Opposition about the name of the lake arose in the Student Senate meeting. In his testimony, professor of political science, told student senators to consider another name before the official dedication. He suggested that the name be called “Ellingson Lake” after the University President Emeritus Ellingson, who was a student in 1949-1950.

After much discussion, the Senate voted to name the lake according to the letter said. An official dedication of the lake will be made in the spring of 1990. Sargent opposed the lake being named Bugg because it was never formally dedicated, the name of the lake was never formally named by anybody in the university.

Assembly Votes To Pass King Day

by Kevin Klane

The Student Government Association passed two resolutions in its last meeting that they hope will be passed on to SGA president for Administrative Services, as well as the Missouri Student Government.

The resolution advocates:
- Committing the university to ensuring Martin Luther King Day is a day off for all students, faculty, and staff.
- A day of reflection and service to follow.

Women United To Choose

This weekend, there will be a march for women's lives in Jefferson City Mo. To show the strength for the pro-choice position in the state. Recent gubernatorial elections across the nation have sent a signal that the conservatives that the pro-choice movement is wakening as a sleeping giant. In Virginia, a long-standing 'republican government gave way to a black, see fit, naturally ' rights of others will follow otherwise the government w()uld be guilty of discrimination.

For concern everyone.

If other only groups could mobilize themselves like the people of the pro-choice movement have become, maybe things like Flat-

ting burglary and legislation and government restrictions on the arts would never have happened.

It seems that a silent majority of pro-choice supporters is becoming ever more vocal and destroying the republican government w()uld be guilty of discrimination.

We all know they don't that, can they.

Laughing Wild: Acting Shines, Direction Doesn't

by Shawn M. Foppe managing editor

"It's just not difficult to be at all,"... said the director of the film "The Phantom," in a recent interview with the Post-Dispatch. "But it's not as easy as people think it is." It was a comment that echoed the sentiment of the director of the film, Woody Allen, who had recently revealed that he had struggled with the opening of garage 'D' and the making of his new film, "Shine." According to sources, Schlereth believed that he had made a mistake by not having the necessary experience and knowledge to make the film. He was right.

Yet the case of Woody Allen is not unique. "The Phantom" is a big boy and should have known better. He is a world-class actor and a talented writer, but he should have been more careful. He should have done more research and prepared better before making the film.

"As a director, I'm often asked to direct a film without relying on the usual script," said Woody Allen. "It's not easy, but if you have the right talent and can work hard enough, you can make a good film." Woody Allen is a master of his craft, and his films are often praised for their unique style and creativity. However, even he has made mistakes, and "The Phantom" is just one of them.

Make-up, Better Acting Roles

The first half-hour of the film is filled with people laughing at jokes and people enjoying themselves. If you like to laugh, you will enjoy this film. However, if you are looking for deep and meaningful performances, you may be disappointed. "The Phantom" is a light-hearted film, and it is not meant to be taken too seriously.

Simpson Discusses Challenges Of News World

by Michelle McMurray

"I'll start by telling you how a black girl from the southeastern United States became a national television reporter," said Carlisle Simpson, senior ABC News Correspondent and the former to Minority Journalists at Washington University.

Simpson who is a native Chicagoan, became interested in journalism in her community newspaper, The Black Star, where she was editor of the school's paper. She took a job with The Black Star and later became a reporter at the Chicago Defender and began her career.

She joined ABC News in 1973 and has covered stories from around the world, including the civil rights movement, the Vietnam War, and the Watergate scandal. In 1976-77, the Army Reserve called her back for a special assignment in the wake of the Watergate scandal, a story that Simpson says was the most important of her career.

Simpson's career at ABC News has spanned three decades, and she has reported on stories ranging from the 1980s Iran hostage crisis to the 1990s Gulf War. She has earned numerous awards for her reporting, including the Peabody Award and the Alfred I. duPont-Columbia Award.

Interviewed by The News, Simpson said:

"I'm here to help you pay for college.

Put your degree to work where it can do a world of good.

Your job after graduation should offer more than just a paycheck.

They can make your average anything but.

Smith Corona presents three products that can help make schoolwork academic. The Smith Corona PWP 2000 Personal Word Processor is a class by itself. Let us compare it to any similar product on the market — it is in the most compact dorm room. Yet, thanks to features like a built-in disk drive, 100,000 character DiskDisk capacity, and a crystal clear display, it makes it easy to transform B's into A's, even a collection of challenging word games.

For those who prefer an electronic typewriter, the Smith Corona XD 4600 is in a class by itself. With its 16 character display and approximately 2,000 characters of editable memory, you can have the convenience of word processing features with the simplicity of a typewriter. Of course, the pocket-size Spell Right* 300F also comes with impeccable references. In this case, a built-in electronic dictionary, a thesaurus, even a collection of challenging word games. So if you're thinking Magna Cum Laude at the end of this year, don't forget to think Smith Corona at the beginning of the year.
