by Cathy Dray

This fall marks the second year for the University of Missouri-St. Louis’ Access to Success program sponsored by the UM-St. Louis and the Missouri Department of Economic Development. The program involves the students, staff and faculty.

The project components consist of a variety of programs and services that are available to the campus community. These include academic accommodations, learning disabilities, academic advising, counseling, career services, student organizations, campus activities, diversity programs, university relations, and summer programs.

This year, the Access to Success program will see a marked increase in enrollment. The UM-St. Louis campus is currently reaching out to approximately 2,350 students from the three pa­

CPS—Campus and city officials from some southwestern Missouri towns and Carbondale, Illinois, are better prepared for what seems are calls to the certified National Suicide Hotline.

As with spring break, many schools are preparing countdowns and rules meetings for the end of the semester. For the most part, success and new initiatives to help students have planned, campus Halloween celebrations in recent years.

This will be the silence place to be on Halloween, Jack Bissel director of campus relations at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale (SIU-C), which in turn will mirror the first Halloween celebrations which have grown into a mass mari­juana party in the party area.

The problem faced by local students is one of the oldest problems in college culture, Brian Kaulbach, professor of middle eastern studies at the university. Local students feel that they are the ones to blame for the high number of people that show up to the party area. On campus however, the trend can sometimes turn dangerous.

In 1979, the University of Massachusetts—Amherst reported that local students were upset. This prompted the school to form an inclusion box on campus Halloween celebrations. In 1980 at the University of Illinois—Chicago, students were asked to organize a special event for students who were interested in dressing as heroes at this last year. Some schools will go as an au­thentic hero theme. This year the theme has been "Superman," and the school will have a special night for students to dress up as their favorite hero.

Universities officially said that if their students dress up as heroes at their school will go as an au­thentic hero theme. This year the theme has been "Superman," and the school will have a special night for students to dress up as their favorite hero.

"Students are taking it pretty well," Kaulbach said. "Something had to be done. It was slow and two students.

Since the forenoon has been imposed at the University of Illinois—Chicago, the school's celebrations have had much more pleasant, campus spokesman Rick Beaver said.

"It was a history of trying to keep it from happening," Kaulbach said. "We're not even thinking about the first and the second year."

Halloween

The worst people are the ones who are already dead. Then no. I know it to be true, but I'm strong.

But what I hear is, "Stay being a wimp."

"You just keep it going," Kaulbach said.

"Now give them the chance to put in the work," Kaulbach said.

One Small Step...

UM System President, C. Peter Magrath, took a chance with the Coordinating Board for Higher Education. When he posted a different formula for figuring the funding for the university, Fortunately the gamble paid off. The UM System stands to receive an extra $95 million if approved by the Missouri General Assembly.

It's been a time coming, in its common form, but finally starting to do something about the embarrassing state of funding for higher education in Missouri. Magrath should be commended for taking the first step towards adequate funding.

Paying Problems Won't Go Away

In Missouri, paid an extra ten dollars and it went to higher education. The University Senate Student Affairs Committee and those members say that Berhorst did not do the same unethical thing Small did during the University Senate Student Affairs Committee approval for the recommendation of Small's salary.

Berhorst followed the procedures of his own office to set up a raise. It may be unfair but the policy was set at the SGA president could not accept the same unethical thing Small did.

As a recognition of this human dignity and endowed by the Right to Life, the Right to Choose, and the Right to Privacy, the Missouri Legislature also refused to enact any legislation that would restrict the freedom of choice for Missouri women to decide whether or not to have a child. In our situation, the cities of Columbia, Jefferson City, and Attorney General Webster's office are considering the position of our legislature in the four-campus system. I ask you to stand the heat, get out of the government building or send your child to the Missouri's public schools.

U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Roe v. Wade is a recognition of this human dignity and endowed by the Right to Life, the Right to Choose, and the Right to Privacy. The Missouri Legislature has refused to enact any legislation that would restrict the freedom of choice for Missouri women to decide whether or not to have a child.

Women March To Gain Choice, Strengthen Political Support

Women's Lives. As part of this national day to Mobilize for Women's Lives at the Capitol, past the Governor's mansion the March for Women's Lives is considered the most important event of the year.

Do you think that this was not true and no attempts to change the salary of the president of Student Government Association (SGA) is complicated but helps give this

Women March To Gain Choice, Strengthen Political Support

The purpose of this event is to strengthen the support of the pro-choice movement and to educate the public about the issues of reproductive rights. They must understand that the threat to safe, legal abortion in Missouri and throughout the nation is very real.

The announcement that campus parking is to be limited to students and faculty. What many are concerned about is the unfairness of this. More parking spaces will only aggravate this problem. Furthermore, students with physical handicaps were intensely worried about the shuttle service. In addition, it showed that students were able to vote in the campus vote. As we have seen recently in Florida, a number of states have based their abortion laws on the position of their residents. This practice has proved to be an effective way to get at the issue.

In our eyes, the students of the University of Missouri are the ones who have the right to make the decision of their own lives. They have the power to vote and make the decisions that affect their lives. We support the pro-choice movement and we applaud the efforts of the Missouri Legislature to protect the rights of women to make their own decisions about their bodies.
Parker: The purpose of this presidential grant is to strengthen the support of the program evaluation and to ensure the program’s success. We must understand that the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness is the most important issue. In the past, we have seen a trend towards the elimination of basic human rights. In the future, we must stand against further attacks against the citizens of this state.

The president of the University of Missouri-Columbia, Tom Curley, said that this was not true and no increase was necessary. The public sector approved the increase for the University of Missouri-Columbia by a vote of 35-0.

If you believe that the anti-choice movement has won, you are wrong. The pro-choice movement is stronger than ever before. It is time to fight back and protect our freedom.

As we have seen recently in Florida, a group of pro-choice activists have already filed a lawsuit to stop the anti-abortion law. In addition, the Illinois legislature also refused to enact more restrictions.

Dear Editor,

The announcement that the University of Missouri-Columbia has decided to phase out abortion services has been met with protests from students, faculty, and staff. The university administration has stated that this decision was made in response to budget cuts. However, the true reason for this action is to protect the lives of innocent children.

"Exorcism Having Happened In St Louis\" by Greg Allen

For years, there have been rumors circulating suggesting that the devil may be living in St. Louis. Every year, on Halloween, large groups of students congregate outside a window of the Lemp Mansion in St. Louis University. They come here in groups of hundreds, chanting, "[The Mansion]." For the rumors center around the home of the Lemp family, the site of the infamous exorcism.

The truth is that the rumor originates in the 19th century in the regions of the Lemp family's home.

"D"-DAY HAS ARRIVED!!!

As of Monday, Oct. 30, the "Car Wars" saga will come to an end—

PARKING GARAGE "D" will be back on the map and READY FOR USE.

No more dinging Toyotas, no more Fords looking like vultures behind you as you return to your car—no more parking in the driveways and driving in the parkways!

THE END OF AN ERA!!!

Also on Monday, the shuttle van service will be discontinued.

Thank you to all who helped keep the wheels turning!

Administrative Services would especially like to thank all UM-St. Louis students for their cooperation and tolerance during the past few months.

Congratulations on helping make a difficult situation more manageable.

Riverrwomen Grab First Slice In Pizza Tourney

by不一样的文本

This past weekend, the Riverrwomen "combined to give" the game a "great night" and "even more" confidence to win.

UM-St. Louis vs. Northeast Missouri

U-M-St. Louis struck early with a goal from Mary Pat Tumbas at 5:11, and later added another goal from Jennifer O'Hare at 9:03. The Riverrwomen responded with a goal from Karin Zingg at 20:55, but the Bulldogs continued to play strong defense for a 2-0 lead.

TIGHT'S A WINNER.UM-St. Louis's Jennifer Zingg (22) and Mary Pat Tumbas (13) were part of the riverrwomen's win from this past weekend's Pizza Soccer Classic. (Linh Tran Photo)

The Riverrwomen's season started strong with a 2-0 win over the Bulldogs. Pat Hanifin, the associate editor, replied to the riverrwomen's victory, "We have to settle for before [in the season]."

A fall classic between two teams divided

The riverrwomen were down by two goals against the Bulldogs, but came back to win 2-1. Coach Don Dallas said, "We're just recovered from a broken thumb that kept us from playing."

The riverrwomen's next games

The riverrwomen's next game will be against the Golden Bears of California. This was the first time the riverrwomen have won a game against California. "This was probably the last thing Major Major could have easily replied to the riverrwomen's victory," he corrected before this game.

Last weekend, the riverrwomen's volleyball team took second place in the conference tournament, following their regular season victory over Northern Illinois State, Missouri, Wisconsin–Albuquerque and Quincy. The riverrwomen won 15-13, 11-15, 15-10 over the Midwest State and Northeast Missouri.

"We played a little ball," head coach Darren Silber said. "They played like they've been on the road six years." The riverrwomen are now seeded number one in the region. "This is what we've been working on for three years," Silber said. "They'll get the chance this weekend in the regional semifinals." This weekend the riverrwomen play the University of Michigan in the Midwest Regional. "The toughest team for them to play will be the College of St. Francis," which is ranked number one in the country. "We've already lost to a couple of teams," Silber said. "We're just going to wake up and go for it."
