UM-St. Louis Gets Largest Grant Ever

by Kevin Kleine

A $3.7 million grant from the National Science Foundation has been awarded to UM-St. Louis in cooperation with UM-St. Louis Community College, the Harris-Stowe State College, the St. Louis Public Schools, and the University of Missouri-St. Louis.

The grant will be used to initiate an area-wide comprehensive effort to motivate the sciences, math, and technology programs in the community.

"We're very excited," said Gloria Granger, UM-St. Louis Foundation director. "The grant will be used to motivate the sciences, math, and technology programs in the community."

Pennies From Heaven

Millions of dollars are going into the university from various corporations like Monsanto, Emerson Electric and major foundations such as the National Science Foundation. Chancellor Margaret Ross Barnett has not been able to garner this campus in the way of grants in place of the magnitude of the NSF grants allocations. Corporations are finally realizing that in order to have quality research, they need good students, good faculty and quality educational facilities, but nobody wants to pay for them. In Missouri, corporations do not want to pay for the quality education of a liberal arts student because very few effects can be seen from the millions of dollars given and yet there is no way it will fund the ranks of the higher education at all.

Finding secondary and educational and secondary education and higher education only come full circle to solving the very few problems in elementary education down the line. Those who are interested in higher education need to make it to college in on-going presentations of quality faculties and underprivileged students. Where there is no higher education, there is no better education. Otherwise, they are not the students that they are trying to provide the quality education that they need.

New higher education will come back to haunt the taxpayers of this state in the above form unless something is done about it. Even if it means committing the decimation of all unneeded taxing factors.

(Revised versions pay four paid five more dollars in state taxes, but would generate $400 million in revenue for higher education. That is a huge number by any means, but it is better than no taxes and paying off faculty.

The board of Curators is sometimes misinformed in its district by the administration. The board has turned around a proposal to open a new computer center in a large.

Everything was ready to go, funding lined up, approved and all it needed was the board's approval.

Without underpaid, without adequate funding for the quality facilities, the quality facilities. The administration has done wonders for this change must be made.

The truth of the matter is that students should make up the cost for this change must be made. Marguerite Ross Barnett has done wonders for this change must be made.

The administration has done wonders for this change must be made.

Dear Editor,

The letter writer is speaking with a different dialect in a philosophy major. I asked her if she had any thoughts on how to get people to pay more attention to the problems on this campus. She said, "In the philosophy major, I think it would be more important to have a program that is more focused on philosophy than on how to get people to pay more attention to the problems on this campus." She said, "In the philosophy major, I think it would be more important to have a program that is more focused on philosophy than on how to get people to pay more attention to the problems on this campus."

Another friend of mine has a philosophy major who recently got a degree in philosophy at the University of Missouri. She said, "In the philosophy major, I think it would be more important to have a program that is more focused on philosophy than on how to get people to pay more attention to the problems on this campus." She said, "In the philosophy major, I think it would be more important to have a program that is more focused on philosophy than on how to get people to pay more attention to the problems on this campus."

The work of the master is that philosophy is the liberal arts, and philosophy is the liberal arts. Philosophy is the liberal arts. Philosophy is the liberal arts. Philosophy is the liberal arts.

Some say philosophy is a time honored tradition and the heart of what liberal arts is about, yet the most famous philosophers are the ones who not only had a formal degree in philosophy, but they knew how to use it. You can't teach someone how to do something. You can't teach someone how to use it.

In what will surely be the easiest test of your intellect this term, Apple invites you to try winning a free Apple Macintosh computer merely by finding it in this drawing.

We'll even give you a hint: It's not the table, the lamp, or the chair. Now you're on your own.

To register, look for contest details where Macintosh computers are sold on your campus. Oh, all right, we'll give you a hint for that, too! Look at the bottom of this ad. But do it really, really fast. Because only one Macintosh is being given away on this campus, and it's going to happen soon.

Soon, as in right away. Pronto. Quick-like.

But hey, you can take a hint.

Somebody's going to win a free Macintosh.

Enroll in Army ROTC as a college elective and serve part-time in the Army Reserve or National Guard, and you can get as much as $4000 a year for college. That includes your Guard or Reserve pay, the GI Bill and up to a $1000 grant each school year from ROTC.

Add it all up, and you'll graduate with a college degree plus an Army Officer's commission. And all you have to do is use your head.

Onuska Named Director Of Honors College At UMSL

John T. Onuska Jr. has been appointed Director of the Pierre L. DuPont Honors College, which is housed under St. Louis' heading in the Planned University.

The College, which integrates elements of arts, business, sciences and humanities to increase the breadth and depth of education, has seen student numbers increase since last year.

A "transitional initiative" began last semester to create a proposal for this Honors College. This year, the proposal was received by the University of Missouri, Kansas City (CMK)-Edwards.

As unfortunately were walked, set and served, the Rivermen fought their way into the first place at the Red and Gold Invitational last weekend.

The team won their first three matches and advanced on to the sub-play Southeast Missouri in the semi-finals.

Karen Ellingson, senior, was the 12th NCAA Player of the Week. The MIAA election last year also was named Wilson of the Week and MVP for the tournament.

When the Riverwomen play at Parkview on Sept. 15, the other teams include, Oakland, Glen Valley, Northern Kentucky, Ferris State, and Port Huron.

"I think this championship feeling will last when we win the 91 Point Tournament," she said.

HISLA members have bi-lingual or bi-cultural background. Her parents were from Puerto Rico, but she grew up in Phoenix, Ariz. "Being a member gives me a chance to communicate with people of my own culture. You won't find a large group of Hispanics outside of St. Louis as easily."

In comparison, Banales moved from Mexico to an environment where Spanish is not spoken. "HISLA helped me. Spanish didn't stress me out as much because it is not spoken at home anymore. The first HISLA meeting was emotional because I was able to communicate what has been hidden in me all this time. Although I live with my grandparents and it would be my linguistic and musical heritage," Banales said.

The desire to learn English is also important to members of a Spanish heritage. Maria Fernanda Cohen, Vice President of HISLA, experienced this desire three years ago when she moved to the United States from Ecuador, South America. "HISLA has helped me to understand the educational system better in the U.S. It also helped me adapt to the university," Cohen said.

Other HISLA members include students taking Spanish courses at UM-St. Louis. "HISLA is different than the classroom where you have to take exams. It is much easier to learn in an environment where you don't have the pressure," Banales said.

There are two sides to becoming a nurse in the army.

And they're both represented by the trajeina, you wear as a member of the Army Nurse Corps. The caduceus, the symbol of medicine, represents the military medical department. The colors represent that you are a part of a health care system in which educational advancement is the rule, not the exception. The gold bar on the right means you command respect as an Army officer. If you're earning a BSN, write: Army Nurse Opportunities, P.O. Box 7713, Clifton, NJ 07015.

-Accounting Majors-

Big Eight? Big Dear.

If there's one thing you've learned in college, it's that you can't believe everything you hear. That's especially true when it comes to a career in public accounting.

At Grant Thornton you'll be part of a firm that combines international capabilities with local attentiveness and service. That makes for satisfied clients and successful accountants.

Grant Thornton has the track record and client list of the biggest firms, plus something more—the atmosphere in which you will have the opportunity to make a significant contribution to client service and grow with the firm.

A representative of Grant Thornton will be at UM-St. Louis on October 13, 1989. See the Career Placement office for further details. Come talk to us then and find out how to make your degree worth more in the years to come.
