The stepchild of the university is being beaten again. UM-St. Louis is not a school worth attending. Fortunately, the team is doing fairly well this year, and farward to covering more winning games in the future, I will continue to support victorious efforts for the team.

I'm happy to see the men's soccer team listed as one of the top ten this week. This is a sign that the team is improving. The only problem is that the team is not getting any sort of improvement while the team is closed. The only business that could be conducted at the Curators meetings are closed. The only business that could be conducted at the Curators meetings officially open. I will never attend another Curators meeting. The Board of Curators is the stepchild. The board of Curators must be stopped. Maybe becoming part of the Associated Students of the University of Missouri student government would help.

"Dice Rules!"

A sold out crowd bordered to their ears with the noise of a lively audience cheering, clapping, clanging and snapping with delight as the star of the evening, and his orchestra, breezed through the crowd.

Some audience members were caught up in the music, while others stretched out and really enjoyed the experience. The audience members at the front were especially enthusiastic, cheering for their favorite performers.

The look of excitement lit up the faces of many in the crowd, and the energy was palpable as the performers took to the stage.

Clay, who was recently banned from the Fox Theater, Monday night, opened the show with a bang. He stood center stage, wearing a suit and tie, and began to perform.

As he began to sing, the audience fell in love with his style and talent. He sang a song he had written himself, which resonated with the crowd.

The audience clapped and cheered as he finished his performance, and many asked for an encore. Clay then proceeded to sing another song, which was just as well received.

The audience cheered and applauded as Clay finished his third song. Many in the crowd had tears in their eyes, and others were on their feet, cheering and singing along.

As Clay finished his performance, the audience erupted in applause and cheers. The energy was electric, and everyone wasànjoying themselves.

The Futurist To Speak Here

Futurist Vidal Sassoon will appear at the Fox Theater, Monday night, opening the show with a bang. He will speak about the future of beauty and style, and how we can prepare for it.

Sassoon, who stands center stage, is known for his innovative ideas and his ability to predict the future. He will discuss the latest trends in hair and fashion, and how we can use these trends to our advantage.

The audience will be treated to a unique and entertaining presentation, and everyone is excited to hear Sassoon speak. The show is sure to be a hit, and everyone is looking forward to it.

The UM-St. Louis men's soccer team improved their record to 3-2 with a pair of victories last week. The Griffins started the week with a 3-0 shutout over Marvillely, as some late-identified goals in the second half sealed the fate of the visiting Owls. UM-St. Louis and they ended the week with a 4-1 victory over the Grand Valley University in Grand Valley, Ohio.

Against Arkansas, senior Mark Zimmer tied two school records for single-game goals, and freshman Patrick McMillen added another one, as the Griffins took home the victory.

UM-St. Louis was the first team in the region to record a shutout victory, as the Griffins outscored both opponents by a combined 7-0. The team is now 4-1 overall and 2-1 in conference play.

O'Hare Twins Score Big

by David Workman

copy editor

Many twin pregnancies can boast the fact that they have a history of a number of items. First, they have a common nationality, or even the same family.

But if there is one organization that take pride in the fact that they have many of these items, it is the O'Hare twins. Becky and Kim O'Hare have been playing soccer together on the same team since they were eight years old.

When they were young, the O'Hares learned to keep on top of the ball. They played in a variety of positions, such as midfielder and defender.

Later, they gravitated toward the forward positions, and now they are a main force with Head Coach Ken Hudson's Riverwomen.

The twins have also worked hard to keep their game at the highest level. They have been involved in a variety of off-season training programs, and they have been successful in their efforts.

In fact, they have been named to the All-American team twice, and they have been selected as the Most Valuable Player in the conference three times.

The twins are also good students, with Becky earning a 3.9 GPA and Kim earning a 3.8 GPA.

The twins have also been involved in a variety of community service projects, and they have been involved in a variety of charity events.

For all their success, the O'Hares have been humble about it, and they are always ready to help others.

The O'Hares are a testament to the fact that hard work and dedication can lead to success.

Netters Third In Round

by Barb Braun
