in the middle of the semester says that every class has a test coming up. If you put-off skills are lacking, you might run out of time and get some type of anxiety to writing research papers. The solution to the problem seems that every class has a test coming up. If your study skills are lacking, then of course we have our dear chancellor are intelligent enough to challenge the administration on it. Forensics Flauts Fabulous Talent

By Renée Schopp reporter

Dad once observed that public performance demands the highest level of concentration and professionalism. His words have never been more true than during the recent Forensics competition. The Flauts, a team of three students, successfully performed in the competition, demonstrating their exceptional skills and abilities.

The competition was held in the school auditorium, with judges evaluating the students' performances. The Flauts, led by their team captain, demonstrated their mastery of the instrument, impressing the judges with their technique and musicianship.

Many students and teachers were present to watch the performance, and the Flauts' performance elicited enthusiastic applause from the audience. The team's dedication and hard work paid off, as they emerged victorious in the competition.

The Flauts have been working hard on their performance, and their success is a testament to their dedication and passion for the instrument. Their impressive performance is a source of pride for the school community and serves as an inspiration to others to pursue their passions with determination and perseverance.

The competition was a great success, and the Flauts can be proud of their achievement. Their performance has brought joy to many, and their dedication to their craft is truly admirable.

In conclusion, the Flauts' success in the Forensics competition is a testament to their hard work and dedication. Their impressive performance has brought joy to many and serves as an inspiration to others to pursue their passions with determination and perseverance.

St. John's Mercy Medical Center's Respiratory Care Program is offering students with a 2.5 GPA or better a health care opportunity with a future.

Respiratory Care Program:

We work with critically ill patients in all areas of the hospital including emergency, pediatrics, and adult intensive care units, the emergency department, and general patient care areas. Respiratory Care Practitioners work with physicians to provide patient education, direct primary rehabilitation, conduct research, and perform diagnostic testing.

Class and clinical training are at St. John's Mercy Medical Center in west

Louis County where the programs began in 1982. Students, upon completing the two-year program, earn a Bachelor in Health Science Degree from the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Players Hang Up Jerseys; Three Rivermen Move on By Mike Van Roo

contributing sports writer

These three players for the Rivermen closed their final basketball game at the Mark Twain Building. The Rivermen had the opportunity to hang up their jerseys in Division II. Their 111 record included nine victories over Division I teams in the season.

Next year, the team will play in the Missouri Valley Conference, and the Rivermen will be hosting the '91 MVC Championship. The team will be looking forward to playing against some of the top teams in the conference.

Kansas. The team was forced to shoot for three points instead of two.

The team was off to a poor start, shooting just 26% from the field, but by the second half, they had improved to 49%.

Secondly, the team scored just 11 points in the last two games, but the team scored 12 points in the final game.

The team was forced to shoot for three points instead of two.

The team's loss was a result of shooting 3-point field goals on the bench.

The team had some strong performances, including a school-record (and conference record) of 465.
