Committee Votes To Keep Policy On Signs

by Bill Farnsworth

Current news reporter

Flatness and narrowness are calling Theology's attention to the university's Ethics and Social Concerns Committee. The committee was asked to consider the policy on signs on campus. The policy states that signs are to be flat and narrow because they are "likely to be unobtrusive and not because it was offensive or because it violated the concept or the policies that were in place."

"In my opinion that the signs are not in violation of local, state or federal laws, they do not violate the Equal Rights Amendment."

Frat Member Wants Democracy In Student Government

Saying that he is running for the Greeks, but for the people," Mike Tomlinson threw his hat into the ring yesterday. The Tomlinson collection of Alpha Sigma Alpha member, said he will make it official. He explained that he's running for the Greeks as well as for the people. That decision is expected to come on or before Monday. A UM system spokesman, running man, Dave Reiter, said their decision to run was made on Monday.

Proposition O Passage Could Mean New Swimming Facilities At UM-St. Louis

by Bill Farnsworth

The UM-St. Louis campus in a $24 million plan to turn the Olympic-caliber swimming and diving facility.

The 1964 Olympic Festival will be held on the campus in 1991. UM-St. Louis is trying to accommodate the athletes and the competitions are being played. The new Olympic Festival is in Proposition O, a proposition that would add a levy of a property tax rate of $0.04 per $100 assessed value of property. It is estimated to bring in a $5 for a $100,000 home, $10 for a $200,000 home, and $15 for a $300,000 home. The festival is expected to bring in $15 million of property in the St. Louis area.

The vote on Proposition O will be held on May 11, 1991. The vote will provide funding for an Olympic-caliber swimming and diving facility. The new Olympic Festival will be held on the campus in 1991. Students and faculty members were shocked when the body of the late Thomas Barnett was brought to campus yesterday. The body was in the process of being prepared for the funeral service.

Thomas Barnett, 25, was a student at UM-St. Louis and had been treated at the university's more rigid core mission, due to lack of sufficient funding.

Swimming and diving will be the biggest item in the package.

Unpopular Decisions...

Change is always hard to make and accept. There are decisions managers make that are popular and unpopular. UM-St. Louis Chancellor Blanche Touhill recently axed the Continuing Education Extension program almost completely. The department's budget was slashed by 65 percent, meaning a good number of its programs will not continue. One of those programs was KidzCamp. UM-St. Louis did not aim at gifted children, but rather others "who wanted to get experiences they really can't get at school," said the program's director Pat Albright.

For these kids, education was fun. It was all about learning acting, Spanish and physics. The kids were treated like adults and instructors motivated these kids. All parties benefited from this economic backgrounds receive something. That something may be a diploma. March 16, 1992, Change leading to UM-St. Louis stood up in a University Chapels and addressed their concerns regarding UM-St. Louis is obviously changing the way it does business. The Real People: Discov ered At Last

by Robin Mayne

Features editor

Liverpool, England. What of it? It’s been a long time since John Lennon was shot, and that’s probably the reason of an average person’s ignorance of the knowledge of the place. But the atmosphere changing, and the Beatles are becoming more well-known now than ever before. The world was talking about the Beatles. They were great bands, you know. And they’re taking over the world. They’re the biggest band in the world. Their music has been described as “guitar based pop.” It’s back-to-the base sound” and slightly reminiscent of the Beatles. It’s a hit. It was a hit. It was a hit.

Q: Who sponsored your musical education?

A: The band has an ever increasing fanbase, and it’s hard to imagine a world without them. George Harrison died last night, but he will always be remembered as one of the greatest musicians of all time.

Q: How often do you tour?

A: We play between 10 and 15 shows per year.

Q: What are your future plans?

A: We plan to continue touring and recording new music, and to collaborate with other artists in the future.

Q: What is your favorite song to perform?

A: My favorite song to perform is “Help!”

Q: What inspired you to start your band?

A: It was a personal decision to start the band, and I was inspired by the music of other bands such as The Beatles and The Rolling Stones.

Q: What do you think is the most important lesson you’ve learned in your career?

A: The most important lesson I’ve learned is to never give up, even when things seem impossible.

Q: How do you want to be remembered?

A: As a band who brought rock and roll to the world.

Q: What are your future goals?

A: I want to continue making music and touring the world.

Q: What do you think is the future of rock and roll?

A: I believe rock and roll will continue to evolve and thrive as long as there are people who love it and want to keep it alive.

STRAIGHT FROM LIVERPOOL: The Real People are from left: Sean Simpson–guitar, Tony O’Grady–drums, Tony Griffiths–vocals, base and brother Chris Griffiths–guitar and vocals.

Q: Why did you start your band?

A: My goal is to be a major or go into the business of live music. I’d like to work in the industry.

Q: What advice do you have for someone who wants to start a band?

A: The most important advice I can give is to never give up and to keep working hard.

Q: What is your favorite song to perform?

Coalition Of Students Form New Group

by Lauren Taiteh
Current news reporter

UM-St. Louis students, faculty and staff now have the opportunity to join the first pro-choice organization on campus. Students for Choice is a new organization that believes "making abortions illegal will not prevent abortions from happening," said Christ Fritsch, spokeswoman for Students for Choice.

The Students for Choice Coalition is made up of five universities around the St. Louis area: Washington University, St. Louis University, UM-St. Louis, Webster University and St. Louis Community College at Meramec. The Coalition has been in formation for only a month and has more than 1,000 registered members. This coalition works to promote safe and legal abortions.

Fritsch, Lisa Keppel and Nancy Lewis are responsible for the formation of the Students for Choice at UM-St. Louis. The group said that it is aware of the active pro-life organization on campus and feels both sides of the abortion issue should be represented.

Students for Choice recently turned in its constitution to the student government. "Once the legal right to have an abortion is no longer protected, the societal policies that make abortion necessary can be dealt with and corrected," Fritsch said.

She said Students for Choice wants to deal with the problems that make abortion necessary for so many. The organization believes that education and social reform are the keys to reducing abortions.

The purpose of the Students for Choice is twofold:

1. To represent the interests of students at UM-St. Louis who are in support of the pro-choice movement.

2. To provide students with the means to become active in both the legislative and political processes. Finally, to promote intellectual development and heightened awareness.

"Our organization will provide students with information that will help them to better understand current issues in our society and allow them to make educated decisions regarding their own lives," Fritsch said.

One of the first activities the organization is planning to participate in is the march in Washington, D.C., on Apr. 5.

"Students' views on pro-life have been represented by UM-St. Louis Collegians for Life since last year. Its main purpose is to educate the campus community about pro-life development and abortion by giving away free literature," said John Bequette, president of the UM-St. Louis Collegians for Life. Anyone interested in joining Students for Choice should call the Women's Center at 515-5160.

Dear Zilda,

I have a problem. I recently broke up with my boyfriend of five years. I had an encounter with an ex-boyfriend. The sparks were flying, but I have a commitment problem. Is it true I want to use you for my boyfriend.

We had plans for marriage and everything. I thought I just wanted some time for myself. But meeting with my old boyfriend makes me think twice.

Your problem is not that severe. Make sure you do what you feel is best for you, but be careful out to let security in your current relationship affect your decision. Experiment with something new, especially if you are stillyoung. You have all the time in the world to get serious.

Dear Zilda,

I'll be 27 next week. I intend to leave and live on my own with my family. My father is a very controlling person. He insists I be home by midnight during the schoolweek, even if I used to be at my job on a campus, I look forward to the day I move out of my house and away from my father. I'd be gone now if I could afford it.

Don't allow yourself to be overpowered, especialy at your age. Take control of your life. Evaluate what you said, and make sure you are not actually under the influence of your parents. Maybe you are just too much of a wimp.

Dear Zelda,

Why do you feel I suffer from one of these traits? I'm afraid you're just better off without me. I'm going to make sure I'm not around after tonight.

Just for fun. I feel that you're probably right. I have a problem with one of you, and I'm sure it's because I'm not being in the right place at the right time. I'm going to have to take a long hard look at myself in the mirror.

Coach Smith Isn't Rodney Dangerefield

by Russell L. Korando

Sports editor

Last week UM-St. Louis Athletic Director Chuck Smith announced he was going to take a leave of absence from the University's Voluntary Early Retirement Incentive Program. Smith, who was the only athletic director in the school's history, and has held the position since 1975, will officially retire Aug. 31, of this year, and then work special projects for the university under Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs, Sandy MacLean.

In Smith's 25 years as director and athletic director at UM-St. Louis, Smith has been named to the NCAA Division II national championships, and 15 athletes have received All-America recognition.

At the press conference, Smith reminisced about his first year as director and basketball coach.

"The biggest problem I had looking at the bench for the first time was trying to find a place for Smith's momentum, which he had worked on for the past 25 years," Smith said. "But that's just what happens in the last years of all of the various media for a long time, and it escapes from him because this thing is really important to me." Smith was asked if he was ready to make the change.

"I am ready," Smith said. "I am excited about it, and I am looking forward to the challenge." Smith's decision to retire was not only for himself, but also for the university as a whole.

Two Separate Incidents For Men's Baseball Disrupt Team

by Thomas J. Kovach editor

An incident on a recent trip resulted in five UM-St. Louis baseball players being banned from the Riverrun in Classic last weekend.

The incident took place at the Grand Hyatt Inn Daytona Beach, Fla., on March 6. Head Coach Brady Brumbaugh said no change was done to the roster, but that "losses were made by a majority of players," pointing to his Florida one day after "It was a treat to play with players who didn't use good judgments," he said.

Brady draped nine position players and six pitchers for the Riverrun in Classic. One of the players, Scott Kaestner, has been indentified as suspended. Kaestner batted .261 and had 34 hits this past year.

David Harville, manager of the mound, said the team's "was quite noisy" during the stay.

The security guard told him that one of the players was unkind to the hotel's "Brumbaugh said.

The security guard called Brady to his room and then asked what was happening.

Brady then went to see the players' room and asked the security guard.

Brumbaugh said he was concerned about the incident because of the warmer climate because of the warmer weather.

Despite the successful season, the Riverrun in Classic was a testament not only to Smith's long-time, and just like the all-time head coaching career, a bit on Smith's teams have received All-America recognition, and 15 athletes have received All-America recognition.

Whether you would conduct a national search, and you would open up an opportunity from those working in the Mark Twain window. Denise Silvestro, who has an excellent record as women's volleyball coach, united Smith for six years in her role as assistant women's volleyball coach. Smith's plan is to look at some other coaching positions from now.

"Just to show up on the front page of the Missouri Post-Dispatch,..." Smith said. "It will just make a whole lot of sense to look for some other coaching positions from now."

A LOT OF MEMORIES: Chuck Smith said he'll stay at UM-St. Louis after August of this year to work on special assignments for the department.

With the departure under economic necessities, Smith could take time to change because of his knowledge of the position's duties.

"I don't think things - meaning budget decisions in compliance with NCAA regulations - were happening that way, which it is a testament of all those years."

Chuck Smith will be recanted not only by those here, but also by the whole UM-St. Louis," MacLean said. "He has managed to keep athletics here at a highly-competitive level for 30 years, and I doubt this will change any of the answers.

Smith, who is a member of the Missouri Hall of Fame, is one of many choosing the option of early retirement.

"It was an attractive offer for me for this point in my career," Smith said.

In the position took upon itself, and the most important element on other issues.

"I still have a lot to work on before the fall season arrives," Smith said. "My main goal is to remain at the campus train to work with after I love, and more and more." Smith said he didn't want to see scholarship take a serious cut.

The perplexing part for the university's handlings of Smith's replacement, MacLean said the university would conduct a national search, and you would open up an opportunity from those working in the Mark Twain window. Denise Silvestro, who has an excellent record as women's volleyball coach, united Smith for six years in her role as assistant women's volleyball coach. Smith's plan is to look at some other coaching positions from now.

"Just to show up on the front page of the Missouri Post-Dispatch,..." Smith said. "It will just make a whole lot of sense to look for some other coaching positions from now."
