U-Center to expand
Plans await Chancellor’s approval

by Matt Forsythe
editor-in-chief

Future students at UM-St. Louis may be able to have all their class needs met under one roof. That roof might be on top of a whole new building. Ghislain Marcius, a facilities planning consultant at the University of Missouri-St. Louis, said Tuesday.

The original University planning process was held in a 2001 addition to the University Center and the J.C. Penney Building. That roof might not have appeared when the architect’s original plans were submitted to review on Wednesday, August 24.

That roof might include many new components to campus life and design and could produce several different plans of the ideal University Center.

The preliminary planning for the expansion of University Center was estimated to run $32 million without factoring in the additional cost of buying the J.C. Penney Building.

That is another reason why building fees are so attractive,” said Bob Schmalfeld, Director of University Center and member of the Planning Committee. The preliminary funding plans for the expansion were divided into roughly three equal parts. One-eighth of the funding would come from a blue in student activity fees, another third from businesses that use the university daily and the remaining third from state funds.

Another downside to a student project is that it is not clear what the survey indicates that a maximum $5 per semester is心中的town worried. "I think that the survey indicated that at least $5 per semester could be collected at a majority of the students' fees," said Marilyn McCrory, chair of the survey committee.

African-American project set to begin

by Jeremy Rutherford

A new program to develop leaders among the African American students will be implemented on campus this semester at UM-St. Louis.

The program is designed to train young African Americans into community leaders, said Everette Nance, who will be the director of the new program.

The Louis African American Civic Involvement Program (SLAACIP) will help African American students learn skills in cross cultural and community leadership. Those individuals will be able to provide effective civic leadership for the African American community.

The program will be sponsored by seminars, site visits, workshops and individual projects. Students will acquire practical knowledge about policies and strategies for programs to improve the community. A few of the workshops will help students learn cross cultural skills.

Student Representative says jump on the opportunity now

by Clint Zwiwel

Get up “Guy”. Nothing can stop an African American student from helping out the African American community. Nothing.

Although the student representative might have a difficult time dealing with complex budgetary issues and land acquisition fees, the student representative might have a difficult time dealing with complex budgetary issues and land acquisition fees.

“Jump” the opportunity to be a part of the African American student representative committee. It is a chance to make a difference.

This new fee would stack on top of the present University Center building fee of $2.15. This would create a student University Center expansion fee of $7.15, or a total fee of $53.80 for a student taking 12 hours in two semesters.

"This fee would stack, but the big thing that you have to consider in this whole project is the word 'if,'" Schmalfeld said.

Schmalfeld said there are many different variables that could govern how much student fees would rise, and there is too little to pinpoint the exact dollar amount.

Dierauer said he wanted to measure student fees that the new fee would "minimize any "significant increases/increases" have been proposed.

The earliest time that we would break ground in summer 1996, he said.

Dierauer said that the process of getting approval for the expansion included information being written and submitted to the student, a student referendum or vote on the project and a bond referendum or vote on the project.

The Board of Governors picked the different combination of things that would bring the project.

"The plan could fail a referendum at any one of those points," he said.

The plan will allow the assessment of different stages of development when the Chancellor makes his choice of all the different possibilities to the Planning Commission on November 8.

"I think this is the first big step by the University," Trudel said. "I firmly believe that we need to group all student services together."

African American Community," and "Initiations and Their Roles in The Black Community." The discussions will be held at different sites in the St. Louis Metropolitan area.

Throughout the year, the program will cover several different areas. Communities will be examined at the macro and micro level. Changes in local communities will encourage student to interact not only personal or group base. Conferences will provide opportunities for students to exchange ideas with people across the nation. These projects will be forums, seminar projects and national workshops.

One major goal of the program will be to engage the participants in some areas of the importance of community service. A secondary goal focuses on developing a statistical profile of the need for remedial programs in schools, status from the Missouri School Improvement Act. The Missouri Department of Education will be charged with planning and implementing a local organization and design of its institutional and instructional methods. This initiative, designed to reduce the community and culture on ethnic minority, particularly African Americans.

The new program does have a few requirements. Participants in this program should:

1. Committed to working in civil rights and community improvement.
2. Interested in learning the social, educational, economic, and civic issues that modern communities face.
3. Interested in learning to work across ethnic, cultural and racial lines.

The twelve month program also requires that the program in the amount of $32,500 was provided by the St. Louis Community Foundation. "This will be held at different sites in the St. Louis Metropolitan area."

Pike party rocks campus

"We wanted to throw the best lo- cal, original band ever," said former Pi Kappa Alpha President Doug Haldeman. From the look of hundreds of Duquesne students and their friends, the Pikes took a pretty good shot at accomplishing just that.

The third annual Localpalooza was the latest in a string of Pi Kappa Alpha Alpha Fall Rush. It was hosted by one of the newest fraternities on campus, the newly formed Pi Kappa Alpha.

"This was a great chance to showcase our new fraternity," said Vice President Billy Haldeman. "We're part of the Pi Kappa Alpha family, and we're proud to represent our fraternity on campus.

Philly Bistro was the catalyst for the 12-year absence of the Pikes. The band had been featured at this year's Lollapalooza and was the top band on the city circuit.

"We wanted to throw the best student event ever," said President Doug Haldeman. "We're proud to represent our fraternity on campus.

"We were inspired by the success of our Penn State local," said President Doug Haldeman. "We wanted to throw something similar for students in our fraternity.

Some machines give a bonus for playing the maximum coins. Instead of winning three times the paid for three coins, you might win an even more rare. These are the machines that someone looking for a huge payoff would usually play. One last pointer: for slot machines just because a machine hasn't paid off in a while doesn't mean that you wouldn't want to keep playing on that machine and the next person hits a jackpot. I don't mean that you would always want to play if you won once a month. It's the timing that matters, and only the machine's program knows what the right time is.

The most popular table game is Blackjack, or "21" and can be found in any casino. The game consists of a dealer and one to seven players. The players place their bets on the table, and the dealer deals out two cards each to each player. The dealer deals out one card to himself. If the dealer shows a 10 card, face down (such as a Jack, Queen, or a King), the dealer will draw another card. The dealer's goal is to come as close to 21 without exceeding it. The player's goal is to come as close to 21 without exceeding it.

If you have a pair of eights for a total of 16, another card would result in a bust. A bust means you lose.

To maximize the odds of winning, one should know the correct strategy. The most important consideration is that the dealer has the same number of cards, the player has the same number of cards, and the player's hand is the same for each hand. The dealer has the ability to split two hands before he must stand. The dealer has the ability to double down, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 16, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 17, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 18, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 19, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 20, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 21, but the player does not.

The player can play on his hand or stand on his hand. To hit, the player wagers on the table, and the dealer separates the pairs of cards into two hands. The dealer then plays each hand individually. Say you get a pair of jacks and a King, you have a high hand. In hopes of getting a better hand, he splits them. The odds of getting a Black imperfection for a player is known as the Basic Strategy to maximize the odds of winning.

Consider the number of "10" cards in the deck (nines, jacks, queens, and kings). In a standard 6 deck shoe of cards, there are 60 cards with the value of 10. This means that 33.33% of the time, a 10 card will be dealt. This is a consideration when picking a hit from the dealer as well as a good game at what card the dealer has face down on the table.

Let's say the dealer shows a 10, and you have a Jack and a Queen, you would lose. If you hit, your chances of winning would be 20%.

The dealer has the ability to double down, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 16, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 17, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 18, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 19, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 20, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 21, but the player does not.

The dealer has the ability to split two hands before he must stand. The dealer has the ability to double down, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 16, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 17, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 18, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 19, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 20, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 21, but the player does not.

The dealer has the ability to split two hands before he must stand. The dealer has the ability to double down, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 16, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 17, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 18, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 19, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 20, but the player does not. The dealer has the ability to stand on 21, but the player does not.

Rivermen have the Skip back in their stride

by Pete Dicrispi

Sports editor

An effective weapon is hard to come by and was something the UM-St. Louis Rivermen soccer team was missing last year. One year later, the missing weapon is back in place for the Rivermen. Forward Skip Birdsong, who was academically ineligible last year, is back to strengthen the offensive this year.

"Skip makes our attack more balanced and dangerous this year," Head Coach Tom Redmond said. "He can control the tempo of the game."

To no surprise, Birdsong didn't like the year he missed and is ready to get back on the field.

"I was real tough sitting out last year, especially after I already went through press open man. His field vision is very good," Redmond said. "It's a real tough sitting out last year, especially after I already went through press.

"It was real tough sitting out last year, especially after I already went through press.

UM-St. Louis players to watch in 1994

by Pete DiClisoppo

The 1994 UM-St. Louis full squad should be the most exciting squad to watch in a long time.

Men's soccer

Todd-Rick led the Rivermen with seven goals last season. Was main only offensive weapon last year. This year he is surrounded by a good group of returning players. The scoring load should be taken off his shoulder. Look for him to add even more goals for year.

Mark Lynn - has an outstanding freshman class goal, but his remember to get his grade compiled. Now he always return after a two-year layoff to regain his place between the pipes. His 6-1, 130-pound frame carries a lot of the load. Opponents will find it difficult to score goals against the Rivermen this year.

Women's soccer

Jennifer Frederich - a tough, defensive defender who will be the teams' primary scorer. Has the speed and quickness to join the offensive attack at any point of the game. Also has the ability to shut down the biggest tresors.

Melissa Callaway - the freshman has stepped up at goalie to earn a starting spot. Could have big offensive year playing alongside leading scorer Brett Brown. Has very quick speed which could drive defenses crazy.

Volleyball

Sheri Greene - one of only two rentering players on the team this year. Will start in the middle and is a solid, hard-working player who should only get better with time. Last year she finished third on the team with 97 total blocked and averaged 1.55 kills per game.

Michelle Bills - the transfer from Southwest Missouri State-West Plains Junior College was their assis tant last year. Should be an integral part of this year Riverwomen team.

Last year's records

• Men's soccer team 8-9-1
• Women's soccer 11-9
• Volleyball 26-10

School to host seminars on violence

Continuing Education plans workshops to educate teachers on how to detect domestic violence

by Kimberly Burke for The Current

“...how do teachers know if the student’s snickers was smashed or something else of higher significance is happening at home?”

-Claud Hickman, director of Continuing Education

The theme of the fall seminar is “Supporting Families and Children in a Violent World”, which came at the request of the participants from last year’s seminar. The seminar will be held in the fall and winter, with workshops on Saturdays from 1 to 4 p.m.
