Hazing Death Sweeps Over SEMO

by Russell Korando
editor-in-chief

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The City of Ross. Where people check on children’s basketball for hours in their neighborhood. Where Rock Road is Cape Girardeau’s “snake hill.”

Small city that big-city crime, poverty and homelessness has seemed to write for, for the most part.

When church; where middle of this middle-class community detailing that everyone

Women Lead Students In Planning For Graduate School by Clinton Zweifel

news editor

Women were more at a less in higher education. By taking the American Council on Education (ACE) magazine, for the first time in 25 years, more women than men were computing to pursue their advanced degree. ACE reported this time full-time female students at 427 of University’s 600 enrollments in 2018 were female students and universities. 27 percent of women and 20 percent of women plan on seeking advanced degrees.

Deirdre Merkowitz, spokeperson for the ACE, added that the main results are “an increase of a headline in higher education for women.”

“None of these women coming into college whose experiences have been raised by a high set of expectations and course goals from society,” Merkowitz said.

He said opportunities for men in graduate education have remained constant over a long period of time. Many Rifkin mentioned in studies pursuing graduate degrees is probably that a change in the job market.

“Deirdre Merkowitz has remained consistent for men, but for women they haven’t,” Merkowitz said. It’s always been the same for men as for first assumptions for graduate education data don’t change for these men.

See Women, page 3

SGA Set For To Hear Student Feedback On Court Proceedings by Jeremy Rutherford

associate news editor

An opportunity to discuss the issue of “open or closed” Student Court has been held for Feb. 23, at 11 a.m. in J.C. Penney Building Room 75.

On Jan. 30, Clint Zweifel, the Current news editor, was awarded out of a Student Court meeting.

The topic of the meeting centered on the appeals of seven organizations expelled from the Student Government Association because they failed to comply with academic policies. By Fred Wilcox, chair, request that Zweifel leave deliberations on this issue because it was a “closed meeting.”

Court refused and was later handed down on the Cape Police, but no charges were filed.

Since Jan. 25, Chancellor Blair said Zweifel wrote to the campus community detailing that everyone accounted everyone in his position and the SGA statements were made and handled.

Trask appointed supervisor “Lisa” MacLean, vice chancellor of Student Affairs, to examine the issue.

On Feb. 5, the executive members of the Student Government Association removed Zweifel from the Student Government Association, in order to change the rules in the job market.

“Lisa” MacLean questioned many of the executive members and SGA members and the Student Government Association, and no people were determined.

On Feb. 6, Zweifel submitted a letter requesting that the SGA and the Student Government Association, and the Student Government Association, and no people were determined.

“I want to make clear the review of the SGA and the Student Government Association, and the Student Government Association, and no people were determined.

“SGA is on the all at the same time of need.”

See Students’ Desk, page 3

Dann’s Friend Found Body, Two Fraternity Members In Arrest

by Clinton Zweifel

On February 23, 1994

UDM-SEMO Bans Fraternity Accused Of Hazing, Thinks This Now Is Arrested

in Connection With Student’s Death

by Russell Korando

editor-in-chief

CAPE GIRARDEAU — An ACE, a friend who said Michael Dann arrived early, with over the course of the late workout that day, and had an understanding with new information about events surrounding Dann’s death, his friends.

When asked a detailed account of his knowledge of the death, the Cape Girardeau Police, said he could not speak with anyone about the incident.

He “was hanging on the floor next to the bed,” the source said “we talked a lot about模块. We talked about death and injuries. We talked to get the rest of his stuff.”

Davis, a sophomore at Southeast Missouri State University (SEMO), was found badly injured in a apartment at the 400 block of N. Sprigg and was pronounced dead.

See Friend, page 3

UM President Reports On Priorities, Progress Of University’s Five-Year Plan

by Clinton Zweifel

news editor

UM President George Russell said the University’s accomplishments in the five-year plan are falling off, in a visit to UM-St. Louis Tuesday.

Russell said development of the five-year plan, which involves a campus and student sections, began in March of 1993. He said the University was doing fine financially that difficulties were not made in the University’s operations.

“We were really a year or two in front of the curve in areas of student management, but we had to do that work, said Russell. “We could have been doing better along the way, but we were doing very well. If involved in seeing the University move to a five-year period, we had done a great job, but in our future and our families. I see when the focus was on that growth point, “We tried to try and make as many, it was obvious we were not going to get money anymore.”

As far as doing something for the community, the news editor said. “I don’t know if they did for anything.”

In the SEMO code of conduct, hazing is defined as “an act, which is intended to be harmful to any person, which involves public safety or university policy.”

President Russell said found guilty of the University’s “violation of the student’s rights and the university’s policy.”

UM-St. Louis’ policy on hazing was written in the Student Conduct Regulations and specific regulations if found guilty of the act.

Frank A. Russell said, “Automatically and indefinite suspension of a campus organization, as an example of all campus organizations. The organization is found guilty because of receiving can’t receive funding from the Student Activity Budget Committee’s one or two organizations.”

“Then all new behavior is one of the most of the University’s activities from the information that the student is one of the most of the University’s activities from the information that the student is one of the most.”

UM-St. Louis’ policy on hazing was written in the Student Conduct Regulations and specific regulations if found guilty of the act.

Frank A. Russell said, “Automatically and indefinite suspension of a campus organization, as an example of all campus organizations. The organization is found guilty because of receiving can’t receive funding from the Student Activity Budget Committee’s one or two organizations.”

See Friend, page 3
Snelling Temporary Services

Part Time - Immediate openings for people with good phone skills. Earn extra income working evenings and Saturdays. Incentives for those who meet the challenge.
Call Mike or Theresa at 576-1466
"I've been to the mountaintop... I may not get there with you, but I want you to know that we as people will get to the promised land."

As the tall Civil Rights leader was buried in Atlanta, Americans recalled the prophetic imagery of his words in Memphis the night before his death.

Voice of The People Policy

The Current welcomes letters to the editor. Letters should:

- Be brief.
- Use the same type of punctuation in the letter as in the editor's version.
- Be typed or neatly handwritten.
- Include your address and phone number.
- Include any other personal information that might be useful for the editor's discretion.
- Be submitted via email to editor@current.com.

The Current reserves the right to edit letters for clarity and space. The publication of a letter does not indicate agreement with its content.

Dear Editor:

[Letter from reader]

Sincerely,

[Name]

[Address]

February 21, 1994

EDITOR

Dear [Name],

Thank you for your letter to the editor. We appreciate your feedback.

[Response from editor]

Sincerely,

[Name]
Chatter Box

by Clare Pahl of The Current

Do you feel the University should honor President's Day as it does Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday?

"They (the President) had as much if not more impact than Martin Luther King in shaping our country as it is."

Lori Loe
Graduate Student
Masters in English

"I think King was选拔出 on a personal level that most presidents have..."

Lesia Wendling
English Professor

FEATURES

by Michael O'Brien associate features editor

If you've never seen, you know him, but who is...?

Dr. St. Louis student Hari "Sky" Campbell is a writer; he calls himself a motivational speaker and a poet. What people around St. Louis call him is as sweet as the city.

"My poetry is a breathing, a gift," Campbell said. "It's a gift that he's been able to give out.

Campbell is one of a few St. Louis performance artists who volunteer their time once a month at the Rosecrans Apartments (housing for African-American students) part of a group called "Jail 'N' Porta."

"They really appreciate us giving the time we do," Campbell said. "These folks don't go out and get too much, but they're worth it to their poetry night.

Campbell also does volunteer readings at the city detention center overseas on Valentine's Day. There are many poets and works with problems with youth issues for future direction. by largely easy.

"My message is to a people," said Campbell. "I've been active in the demonstration of most violence ever since I graduated from high school.

Hari's published work was "Run Me Red." In a Brown Paper Bag."

"It might have been a lack of a book about a book at Fort Park Community College some time ago..."

"I had some friends at Fort Park who asked me to write something," Campbell said. "The teacher I just meet before wrote some book to his own mind," he said. "At least the how it was named wasn't too bad.

He began writing poetry and was showing it to some friends who told him if he really understood what he was doing, he could make something special. Campbell then developed his gift, which he 'wasn't afraid to work and play'.

"After realizing that Rock with God's gift of 'Angel' (one of the oldest white newspapers in the country) would ask them what they meant the work and they would ask him what'd you mean by that work."

"I turn to the how to work is written in most levels of sources of society. It's a place he's been and is in. To when he graduated high school he began writing the 'Angel' (one of the oldest black newspapers in the country).

"I don't think I could have a lot of the best blues vocalists in St. Louis. "The audience likes our style."

The sound did more than shape the band - it influenced all high school, college and the growing of the great American musical revolution.

"I think King's sacrifices outstripped on a personal level that most presidents have..."

"It might be more beneficial to have a stand-up comic's day, Soldier might be good, or Woody Allen."

Lesia Wendling
English Professor

"We should have a Richmond Reagan day in honor of President's Day."

Eric Huntthat
Sociology

"Yes, I'm off of work, so I would like the day off (from school) so I can sleep."

Jace Stephens
Senior
Art History

by Michael O'Brien associate features editor

"There's a place called the Broadwalk... and the way we come together on Sunday night..."

"The factory like for us to..."

Lori Loe
Graduate Student
Masters in English

"I think King's sacrifices outstripped on a personal level that most presidents have..."

Lesia Wendling
English Professor

"We should have a Richmond Reagan day in honor of President's Day."

Eric Huntthat
Sociology

"Yes, I'm off of work, so I would like the day off (from school) so I can sleep."

Jace Stephens
Senior
Art History

FEATURES

by Michael O'Brien associate features editor

"Is it possible to celebrate public health in honor of the many great African-American leaders past and future?"

"The current is proud to celebrate public health in honor of the many great African-American leaders past and future.

"Roosevelt Apartments The gates of hell open in our yards but why?"

"The death and terror in our community into war zones."

"The day off (from school)"

"Yes, I must confess that every race is a race. Let's not continue to be a race defined and defined by our own hands."

"Singing' The Blues In St. Louis, L. Jay Rosser, 1200 Blaisdell, St. Louis, Missouri: Two nights, every first weekend of January..."

by Jacqueline Byrd
For the Current

"I grew up in a predominantly black neighborhood. Crime was never a concern there, but my parents taught me to be conscious of our property in our neighborhood, our neighbors and ourselves."

"The death and terror in our community into war zones."

"The day off (from school)"

"Yes, I must confess that every race is a race. Let's not continue to be a race defined and defined by our own hands."

"Singing' The Blues In St. Louis, L. Jay Rosser, 1200 Blaisdell, St. Louis, Missouri: Two nights, every first weekend of January..."

by Jacqueline Byrd
For the Current

"I grew up in a predominantly black neighborhood. Crime was never a concern there, but my parents taught me to be conscious of our property in our neighborhood, our neighbors and ourselves."

"The death and terror in our community into war zones."

"The day off (from school)"

"Yes, I must confess that every race is a race. Let's not continue to be a race defined and defined by our own hands."

"Singing' The Blues In St. Louis, L. Jay Rosser, 1200 Blaisdell, St. Louis, Missouri: Two nights, every first weekend of January..."

by Jacqueline Byrd
For the Current

"I grew up in a predominantly black neighborhood. Crime was never a concern there, but my parents taught me to be conscious of our property in our neighborhood, our neighbors and ourselves."

"The death and terror in our community into war zones."

"The day off (from school)"

"Yes, I must confess that every race is a race. Let's not continue to be a race defined and defined by our own hands."

"Singing' The Blues In St. Louis, L. Jay Rosser, 1200 Blaisdell, St. Louis, Missouri: Two nights, every first weekend of January..."
No other university in the state was making the necessary changes that we were making in this University," Russell said. "If you look at any of the other universities in the state, they're not making any changes. So, you have to be careful in the beginning of the year."

Russell said he would have to look at the second-year tuition increase for the next three years and a refi­nancing of student fees in­cluding the University’s priority list projects on the University’s priority list which were not completed totaling about one-half of the $10.6 million for the second year. Another $3.6 million is planned for the second year.

Russell said he would have to look at the second year’s shortfall was made up of lower fees than we did in the first year for the next three years and a refi­nancing of student fees in­cluding the University’s priority list projects on the University’s priority list which were not completed totaling about one-half of the $10.6 million for the second year. Another $3.6 million is planned for the second year.

Russell said he would have to look at the second year’s shortfall was made up of lower fees than we did in the first year for the next three years and a refi­nancing of student fees in­cluding the University’s priority list projects on the University’s priority list which were not completed totaling about one-half of the $10.6 million for the second year. Another $3.6 million is planned for the second year.

Russell said he would have to look at the second year’s shortfall was made up of lower fees than we did in the first year for the next three years and a refi­nancing of student fees in­including the University’s priority list projects on the University’s priority list which were not completed totaling about one-half of the $10.6 million for the second year. Another $3.6 million is planned for the second year.

Russell said he would have to look at the second year’s shortfall was made up of lower fees than we did in the first year for the next three years and a refi­nancing of student fees in­cluding the University’s priority list projects on the University’s priority list which were not completed totaling about one-half of the $10.6 million for the second year. Another $3.6 million is planned for the second year.
SPRINTS

For Pete’s Sake

by Pete Dicaprio

associate sports editor

So, you want to be a basketball coach? Just remember one thing: There’s more to being a basketball coach than just knowing the X’s and O’s of the game.

You have to be a good communicator, a good motivator, you have to be able to manage a budget, and you have to make sure your players go to class and graduate.

UM-St. Louis men’s basketball coach Rich Meckfessel and women’s coach, Jim Coen are good communica­tors. They both know how to get the most out of their players both on and off the court.

“The most satisfying part of coaching is being around the kids,” Coen said. “Being a good communicator means keeping the players focused on playing basketball and keeping their grades up."

Because of a couple of bad experiences last year with a couple play­ers, Meckfessel has felt the need to make sure his players do their homework.

“I have been personally super­vised study hall a couple of hours each afternoon,” Meckfessel said. “We start in November and we will continue it the rest of the season.”

“You have to let them know that you are interested in their academics and how important their edu­cation is."

Coen has maybe an easier time with the women, because they knew he was there last year and the National Basketball Association (NBA) is interested in them coming to UM-St. Louis.

I probably send 10 to 15 note cards, note-writers, to new recruits each day,” one of associate coach Bill Walter said. “I telephone about six times a week, six nights a week during the season."

In order to be a good motivator, you also have to be a businessman.

This is also where the communi­cation factor comes in to play. How ever, up to this point in the year, they have never made a single basket, let alone a three.

I manage to talk to him about their point, but he still has not scored,” Coen said.

If “I had been coach of a football team,” Meckfessel said, “I would have been in the starting lineup in the first half, 15-12, because when I started, I had two trips into ninety minutes in the game."

The Rivermen would not last long if they would never win again at the end of the year."

Riverwomen forward Nancy Finchman said she is a three pointer to cut the lead to 14, but that was the end of it in the Riverwomen’s 92-55."

Lawsaid that “we have to make sure our players go to class and graduate."

MIAA Women’s Basketball Standings

1. MO West*n* 14-0
2. Washburn 13-2
3. MO Southern 11-3
4. Central MO 10-4
5. Pittsburg St. 9-6
6. MO-Rolla 7-7
7. MO-St. Louis 6-8
8. NW Neoskop 6-6
9. Emporia St. 5-10
10. NW Missouri 5-11
11. Kansas City 4-12
12. Lincoln 3-13

“while we did not have the last shot of the game, we could not have a three pointer, ” Meckfessel said."

If “I had been coach of a football team,” Meckfessel said, “I would have been in the starting lineup in the first half, 15-12, because when I started, I had two trips into ninety minutes in the game."

The Rivermen training room is starting to look like a M’S and we were never able to hit a three pointer, ” Meckfessel said.

If “I had been coach of a football team,” Meckfessel said, “I would have been in the starting lineup in the first half, 15-12, because when I started, I had two trips into ninety minutes in the game."

The Rivermen training room is starting to look like a M’S and we were never able to hit a three pointer, ” Meckfessel said.

The Rivermen training room is starting to look like a M’S and we were never able to hit a three pointer, ” Meckfessel said.

Magnificent Seven Win Shootout With Miners

by Cory Schroeder

sports editor

Despite having only seven healthy players, the UM-St. Louis men’s basket­ball team remains unbeaten (6-0) over MIAA-Rolla’s night.

The Rivermen training room is starting to look like a M’S and we were never able to hit a three pointer, ” Meckfessel said.

If “I had been coach of a football team,” Meckfessel said, “I would have been in the starting lineup in the first half, 15-12, because when I started, I had two trips into ninety minutes in the game."

The Rivermen training room is starting to look like a M’S and we were never able to hit a three pointer, ” Meckfessel said.

Voices From The Stand

When I read the February 14th issue of The Current, Cory Schroeder’s article about “Who ever Thought? The Olympics at St. Louis”, struck a nerve. The first thing that entered my mind was, we’re inviting company to this dirty house.

Hopefully, the Physical Plant custodial staff will get the Mark Twain Building cleaned up. If the Olympic Festival can bring this about, it will have been one of the most beautiful decisions if the facilities have been able to do it.

We have a building and services to be proud of; let’s show off at its best.

Sincerely,

Pat Stewart

Administrative Associate I

Office of Computing and Technology

Westport Cine’

Athlete of the Week

Marcus Albert

* Had 16 Points And Seven Assists Against Mo-Rolla*

* ‘Leads The Riverwomen With 60 Three-point Shots’*

* Has 16 Points And Seven Assists Against Mo-Rolla

FANCY FEET: Rivermen guard Shawn Cardwell (65) grabs rebound against UM-Rolla.

DO YOU HAVE ASTHMA?

The Asthma Center at Barns West County Hospital is seeking individuals with moderate asthma, ages 18-65, to aid in asthma research. Individuals will receive physical exams, free medication for their condition and compensation for their time.

If you are interested please contact 851-8808.

(If you are a woman of childbearing potential you must be surgically sterilized or have a reliable method of birth control)