Four organizations have been remembered in the UM-St. Louis Student Government Association (SGA) after being expelled by SGA for not complying with attendance policies.

"Ideally, they should be more aware of getting involved on campus. And, if that is the eventual outcome, I would be quite content." Andy Masters, SGA president

"But, I get so cold that I can barely walk to class," Hickey said. "The cold weather (left) is not the only problem."

dominion of the Administrative Service and Police Department. Hickey said he had the November 18 speech recorded by Jim Kreuger, vice chairman of Senate Student Affairs. He then asked Kreuger for an interview with him.

"That's the main issue," Hickey said.

The meeting was rescheduled for January 31, 1994.

lack of communication with his organiza- tion. He said they were unaware of the by-laws, and asked by them.

"Our treasurer received the notices from SGA concerning our attendance problem. We have to start sending out the message to us, "Sman said. "That is good that SGA sent us the letter. With our schedules this semester, we will make sure one person always attends the meetings."

Rick Renners, associate director of Student Activities, said participation is the campus factor in creating a good SGA. He said all organizations need to be part of the governing process.

"Indeed a commendable action took place here," Renners said. "These groups are going to continue to Sponsor Activities Budget Committee (SABC) for funding, they need to reach SGA membership. It's a symbiotic relation- ship, and we recognize that it is mutual and beneficial."

KWMU Hosts Third Annual Fund Drive

by Jeffrey Struyk features editor

If you are one of those who are like me, you probably dread this time of year: Valentine’s Day. What’s this holiday celebrated by greeting card companies as an opportunity to express love and appreciation, and by advertisers daily telling us what our sweethearts want to hear? Yeah, she’d love the flowers! But I think it was bound to happen. The hustle and bustle of the holiday season was over. Why should it be so hard to find a gift that says “I love you,” or “I care!”? Whatever happened to candy and flowers?

The UM-St. Louis radio station, KWMU (90.7 FM), offers a solution. For the third year in a row, KWMU is holding their “For the Love of Public Radio” fund drive. Supporters of the station can pledge donations in exchange for a three-month gift that can be delivered anywhere in the country. “It’s an easy way to say thanks for your support not only to your licensing habit but to get a gift to someone you care about,” said Paula Winters, KWMU general manager.

Pledges will be taken from Feb. 9 through Feb. 11. A person who makes a pledge of $90 receives a box of chocolates. For a pledge of $180, you get a half dozen roses and a $35 loan to a deserving cause. To make a pledge, call 314-661-6633.

“We started delivering the gift Feb. 11,” said Helen Fields, KWMU membership manager. They will be delivered by Feb. 14, Valentine’s Day.

The fund drive is vital because of recent funding cutbacks. KWMU is asking newsletters to move forward and take pledges. “We think this is one of the most fun things all year. We don’t make money because people don’t know we’ve got it but they do help support the public-radio station all the way around,” Winters said.

Winters also said that the station needs to be proactive and making suggestions about what to write on the pledge:

“We have volunteers in there that are trying to be low-cost counselors. We’re there to make suggestions.”

A Struggle For Women’s Rights

by Michael O’Brien associate features editor

The school, founded in 1993, is located on the campus of Pierre de Laclede College which is styled after the traditional “college” that would have existed in the 1800s. Two programs are offered at the college. They are the two-year and the four-year program. The college is for students who are either in the Honors College from high school, or are self-starters and want to transfer student.

Ron Stavendyk, Marketing Manager

"We want to see you at their best," said Kevin O’Brien. "If a student goes through the auditions and is not assigned to a role, there are other opportunities to work on the production crew."

"When it comes down to the play, it’s like we’re professionals even though we’re just students," Leicht said.

said, "We take it seriously and still have fun. It’s kind of exciting to know that we do it on our own." The Rev. Jesse Jackson said, "We must keep fighting for our rights.

"It was the winter semester of 1990 during the Greek Week competition. According to the dynamic of the competition, they people outside of the fraternity, Greek organizations in the games. So, with a crowd, we performed "The Littlest Black Wheelchair in Texas." It was the only time I’ve ever seen a girl in a wheelchair (or northeast, for that matter)."

There is a natural organization that takes affairs a little more seriously than we do. They’re called the University Players and they’re holding open auditions for their production of "Room Service.

"This is a student organization that is a visual-pleasing trip. The architecture suggests the character suggests the character. We don’t want people to

"It’s a tax deductible way to attract the transfer student to our school."

The fund drive is vital because of recent funding cutbacks. KWMU is also in need of volunteers to make phone calls to raise the $57,500 goal for the station.

"We have volunteers in here that are trying to be low-cost counselors. We’re there to make suggestions."
Chancellor Responds to Students’ Dismissal From Hearing

The following statement is printed in its entirety:

I believe that the University of Missouri-St. Louis should be a place that nurtures lively debate and open access to any of its educational matters. One such debate occurred last week between members of the Student Court and students on The Current newspaper over the issue of open meetings. Unfortunately, last Thursday, Jan. 20, the Student Court was overruled by University police from the proceedings of the Student Court after the reporter refused a request by the student chief justice to leave "closed" hearings. Several student organizations apparently were appealing their expulsion by the Student Government Association (SGA). Reports concerning our campus and the University were released publicly in this situation and caused the student professionals, I believe, to be concerned by the overall issues raised. I will instruct Chief Justice in relationship with police within the campus community. I have contacted the student reporter to express my concern about the use of handcuffs in the incident.

I provide you with this information because it is an important issue of which you should be informed.

Satterfield's Three Pointers Bury Lincoln

By Pete Distinguin
associate sports editor

Laura Satterfield scored 27 points, including six three pointers, to lead the U.M.-St. Louis women's basketball team to a 81-61 victory over Lincoln University last Wednesday.

Satterfield was six out of 10 from the three-point line including four in the second half, just as the Tigerettes away.

"Laura gave us an excellent game," U.M.-St. Louis head coach Ron Starnes said. "She drove, shot, and we must the range of the game.

Struggles to exactly what the Rivermen needed for this game. The Tigerettes came in at a 29-4 overall and 1-5 in the Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics Association (MIAA).

Starnes might have been expecting an easier game when it became evident that the Tigerettes gave them.

"We tend to rise to the level of our competition," Coad said. "I don't think the kids take us too lightly, I just think they don't have to prepare for this type of game."

In the first half, the game was filled with wild play and lead changes on both sides. The Riverwomen connected 13 turnovers in the first half while the Tigerettes had 19.

If not for the fast play of forward Nancy Hesemann, the Tigerettes would have taken the biggest lead early in the game.

"Nancy played a great game for us," Coad said. Satterfield agreed with Coad's assessment of Hesemann's play. "She played really well, she's the best choice on our team," Satterfield said. "But she has improved as a whole, I'm liking the team, she's an all-around player now."

In the second half, the Riverwomen turned up the tempo and Satterfield opened up a comfortable lead.

"We have to get up in the second half, because we had a sluggish first half," Hesemann said.

Satterfield continued to turn up the speed and try the UM-St. Louis three-pointer record by one, gain her main scoring in the second half.

"We play against bad teams," Satterfield said.

Albert Leaves Tigers Blue With Game-Winning Three

The U.M.-St. Louis men's basketball team was set to play in the conference tournament at the end of last season.

Albert finished the season with a career-high 24 points as part of the conference tournament.

Albert finished the season with a career-high 24 points as part of the conference tournament.

"I'm glad I hit my big three to get the momentum going," Albert said. With 10 minutes left to go, guard Nicole Christ, Lisa Jordan, and Satterfield hit three points within a span of three minutes to build up a 15-point lead.

After the long-distance barrage, the Tigerettes didn't have enough to mount a comeback.

"We went down to their level and played like that," Coad said. "That was the worst first half we played all year."

The Riverwomen improved their record to 13-4 overall and 4-1 in the MIAA.

Rivermen Offense Cold As Ice

by Cory Schroeder
editor

After a brutal start in Tuesday's game against Vermont, the Rivermen turned it around and beat Vermont 67-62.

The U.M.-St. Louis hockey club had picked up victory victories against the University of Vermont at Knoxville and to improve their record to 4-6-1, and had been a strong defensive unit.

Brent Yarbrough. The Rivermen scored six of the first seven shots of the first period which resulted in six goals.

"I don't know if we were tired, things got to a point where they had to level off 27 shots alone in the first period which resulted in six goals."

Despite going up six goals in the first period, winter weather defeated Eric Yarbrough was stoked and gave up just two goals the rest of the way.

"Eric was sparkling and made some incredible saves," Gehlen said. "But we just got two new defencemen and the pairing was sloppy, early on."

The Rivermen were led by defensive star John Dubicki, who has led the team with an average rating of +13. Without Dubicki, the Rivermen defense looked lost and often collapsed late in the seasons around Yarbrough.

"We continually hit two guys in front of our goal," defenceman Bob Gehlen said. "All the offensive U.M.-St. Louis was allowed to score on Wednesday against Dan Mose who recorded his second but earned the second goal of the season."

Mose was slick, slipping quick shots and holding his position despite blazing checks by a much taller Vermont squad.

"He was really good, gave us a chance," Mose said. "Dan (Diagonis) and I are really moving in the middle to give the Rivermen their leading scorer entering the game, and a shot to one of one of our guys, but was surprise- ly a non-factor most of the game.
