Where should students go for the best housing deals?

by Scott Lamar

By this time next year, the system of advising will change due to a $1.4 million grant from the federal government called Title III: Strengthening Institutions. The grant will replace old technology in all of the administrative offices. Furthermore, more processes will be introduced to the staff so that services are more student friendly.

"We need to simplify that advising is simply scheduling. We need to remember what the word means to advise. Advisors can sit down with students and come up with an education plan," said Pam Moehl, Title III coordinator.

"Using the fields from the grant," Moehl said, "we were able to equip sets like arts and sciences with state-of-the-art Premium computers. So now they are not working with dummy terminals, but smart PCs with access to the internet."

It will no longer be necessary for advisors to tell a student which classes they will need to graduate or if their transfer credits will apply towards their major. Moehl said this changes the traditional role of the advisor. Data links will still talk to advisors but about completely different issues.

"We are working to improve advisor accessibility," Moehl said, "and more towards a holistic developmental approach."

Sharon Clark, the director of student advising, added that an advisor's role had changed. She said, "You are advising students who have serious inquiries. Now, they are not yet completed. We have to stop thinking that advising is simply scheduling. We need to remember what the word means to advise. Advisors can sit down with students and come up with an education plan." This created a lot of anxiety so students will not have to wait three days in order to see an advisor three days in a row. This added a lot of anxiety for those students who had serious inquiries. Now, they are not yet completed. The conclusion date is set for mid-November.

If you think living in the Meadow's is expensive, look at the residence halls. The prices range from $461.60 for single occupancy to $378.80 for double occupancy. The average room size is 100 square feet. The inside of Honeysuckle Hall, two rooms share a bathroom while on the other side, two rooms share a bathroom.

The great points about the residence halls are the laundry facilities, shared bathrooms, and the computer hook up with the university system.

Another complex that is 2.9 miles from campus is the Redfield Court apartments. Two apartments of the same price are the University Meadow's efficiency unit and Redfield's two bedroom apartment. The bedroom at Redfield's is $420-$430 per month for 70 square feet. Residents at both University Meadows and Redfield pay for electricity. Each complex features a pool and furnished kitchens. Redfield also has tennis courts.

Some other advantages to living in the Meadows are the bachelor pad, jaccuzi, and the newness of everything. The apartments are so new that they are not yet completed. The conclusion date is set for mid-November.

Now students can get the classes they want at a public institution in Missouri. The Current staff at SLCC's Arts degree left off. This will provide students who are working on, or already have, their AFA advantage.

The Coordinating Board for Higher Education recently approved a joint Bachelor of Fine Arts program between UM-St. Louis and SLCC. Students can complete their first two years with an Associate of Fine Arts degree left off. This will provide students who are working on, or already have, their AFA advantage.

The program will give students an opportunity to get their BFA and then an MFA, "said Florrisant Valley Department Chair Tom Pitzer. "Many students and aspiring artists would like to hire employees with more education."

Faculty members at both UM-St. Louis and SLCC are excited about working with each other. SLCC already has a strong studio art program that is recognized by the National Association of Schools of Art and Design, but they do not offer the same variety in lower level studio classes. The BFA program will be available for students at UM-St. Louis. SLCC has their AFA program, and more student space than UM-St. Louis can offer. UM-St. Louis does have the curriculum in place, as well as studio space for drawing, painting and photography. UM-St. Louis Art Department faculty member Tom Pitzer is one of the primary authors of this program, and he hopes that UM-St. Louis will have more new facilities ready by next fall. Although new facilities will include a printing studio and computers with more graphic internal programs, UM-St. Louis will still turn to SLCC for some upper level classes such as sculpture.

The BFA program will be a long one. At 132 hours, Pitzer believes it will take most students at least four and one-half years. Students will take 75 hours in studio art, 15 hours in art history and 42 hours in general education classes. The first two years of the SLCC branches will provide a strong base in studio art. The student can begin the second two years at UM-St. Louis with an emphasis in graphic design, photography, print making, painting or drawing.

Students who do not want to emphasize can take just the general fine arts option. The UM-St. Louis art and history department is located in Lewis Hall, 920 S. 50th. The department has an information packet describing the degree and the courses offered or required.

Leann Anderson, Chair of the art department at SLCC in Florissant Valley said "Most of our people just simply can't afford the private college tuition. Now we can offer a low cost BFA to students right here in St. Louis."

My Grandma Died Again

by Mark Kenny of The Current staff

UM-St. Louis may not be the dream of many graduating high school seniors, but for one who became Rivera and Bourne: one of the first women to become involved in campus life is through rush. Very briefly, rush is the formal recognition and selection period and rush of men. It is a great way for professional women to see us at UM-St. Louis to meet and have fun during the semester's social calendar. The same concept of rush applies to both fraternity and sorority rush.

"We use to give the rushers the numbers that are like, and they go to see if they belong (in) our organization or not."

"Rushers get acquainted with Creek and each individual student," said Nancy Lute, of Zeta Alpha Alpha. "At the end of rush a selection is made which really determines each sorority's future." It is similar for the fraternity.

Students take Sega challenge
Exploring the next generation of video game play by Eric Thomas of The Current staff

The scene inside the UCM by the candy stand was chaotic the first Monday and Tuesday of the Fall '95 semester, with an added dimension: Sega. Those of you who stopped to check out the three television sets and the players in front of those sets knew what that was. If you didn't check it out, it was a Sega game challenge. The concept is simple, Sega game cartridges on the average cost between $30 and $60.

Now, thanks to modern technology, your local cable company may have access to the system you choose which allows you to beam directly into your home and pick up the Sega cable channel. The concept is simple, Sega game cartridges on the average cost between $30 and $60.

Field of Dreams: Up In Smoke

by Scott Lamar

As far back as I can remember, my father would take me to see Blues hockey games, or we would just watch them on television. I loved it. If I could've seen the game, I would've been able to catch the lights on the 10 p.m. news and then read the story in the paper the next morning.

For the duration of the season, I played baseball, but I was really only interested in the Blues. Tikkanen was the star player on the team. Every time he scored, I would shout, "Tikkanen! Tikkanen!" He was my favorite player. When he signed the legendary Gordie Howe, I was thrilled. I couldn't wait to see him in action. I paid attention to where the Blues played, and I would always go to their games. I was so excited when they finally won the Stanley Cup.

The trip from August 23, 1974, to the first appearance of Tikkanen was a long one. But I never lost hope. I knew that if I kept watching, Tikkanen would win the Stanley Cup. And he did.

Playing basketball over the summer is a great way to keep up your skills during the off-season. It's also a great opportunity to play with other talented players from around the world.

The Rivermen lost the game 100-63. It was the first non-senior team that had won four consecutive games in the world. The Rivermen head coach, Rich Keenan, said, "We played hard, but we did not play well. But we are happy. We are happy with the win."...

Jeannine Carrico to Sarah Zunz and Greg for the team will have no problem filling the void. "This is probably one of our best retuming player from last season," Zunz said. "It’s not just a social chemistry, it is a good competitive chemis-

ty. They are always challenging each other. There is some room for improvement in that respect. I don’t believe we had the last season, we had a very disciplined team in our chemistry. You have to have a combination of both. You have to want to excel and achieve on the volleyball court."

A problem with last season was the lack of players on the team. Winding down the year only two substitutes were available for the Rivermen. The men’s volleyball program returns four members and three walk ons. With 15 players competing four six starting positions one can expect the chemistry that is going on in practice. "The depth has helped in collection," Zunz said. "It’s been a very healthy competition. People are competing for the position in tryouts. It will also allow us to use people in tournaments."

Two areas that have heavy competition are in the middle spot and the outside hitter position. The qualifying player working to get playing time.

The outside hitter position is only two players that is going on in practice.

The middle hitter battle is just a little thinner and four players are capable of being the middle hitter.

The roster will be finalized by Sept 1.

I'm sure this trip did us a lot of good.

Basketball Coach
Rich Meckfessel

Thomas didn't complain when he went into a tournament in Dachau, Germany and captured the tournament most valuable player award. He scored 20 in the first round game against TVS Dachau, 11 points against Haarlemmer. Sports Club, and finished the trip with a 3-30 point effort against Haarlemmer in the tournament final which the Rivemenn won.

"We get a lot better once we get to Dachau," Meckfessel said. "I played with a lot more confidence, and it showed. "We had fun in the tournament,"

Thomas said. "The teams in the tournament weren't as good as the rest of the team we had played. Each team had a couple of good players. We had more athletic ability and we were quicker. That's how we won."

The team finished with a 3-4 record on the trip. Some outstanding individual efforts were made by Rivemenn. Tuckson scored 41 points and pulled down 20 rebounds against Haarlemmer. Bickel knocked in 25 against Haarlemmer. Meckfessel finished as the team leader in rebounds with a 7.9 average.

"I'm sure this trip did us a lot of good, " Meckfessel said.
