On the Horizons:

by Mary Lindsey

Horizons Peer Education sponsored a week-long series of events with a focus on responsible drinking as part of National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week.

"The objective is to raise awareness of alcohol and the different kinds of problems it can cause," said Michael Blackmeister, a member of the Horizons organization.

The campaign was launched last Monday with a mock DWI arrest of a student in the UWorld parking lot.

"Counseling Services [Horizons] seems to want to do something eye-catching to raise awareness of what can happen when you 'get a little drunk,'" said Kevin Henkebrink, a campus police officer who participated in the mock arrest. "It really caught the attention of a lot of people."

Opportunities were available throughout the week for students to learn about the physical and legal ramifications of drinking, including a presentation by Todd Murphy of St. John's Mercy MedCenter on the symptoms of drug and alcohol abuse, and an informational forum by Campus Police.

Horizons members filled an information booth in the University Center where students could win prizes for taking an alcohol awareness quiz. Red letters on campus showcase alcohol awareness, and signs provide cues to drink responsibly.

In addition, a "mocktail" party featuring non-alcoholic drinks and a screening of "When a Man Loves a Woman," a film about the effects of alcohol abuse on a family, was offered.

Henkebrink said the purpose of the events was "to get student to student that one, there are alternatives, two, they can be responsible about what they choose to do, and three, inform them as to what can happen through both moral issues and legal issues."

Particular emphasis was placed in the issue of driving and drinking. "We're trying to focus on this because it's one of the things that seems to be the basis to a lot of people," said Blackmeister.

Jackson Kemner, a lieutenant member, noted that with the University being a commuter campus, the issue is "most prevalent on a campus where everyone is driving."

He said that for those who choose to drink, "there isn't an insured area that these people can walk back to."

Kathryn Welch, adviser in Horizons, said that going to college can be a critical period for students with regards to making decisions. She pointed to the recent alcohol poisoning death of two college students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Louisiana State University as examples.

"College is experienced in responsibility, especially for people who are getting away from home for the first time and have some freedom that they didn't have before," said Welch.

Blackmeister acknowledged that while the campaign may not prevent students from drinking, it can result in an awareness of responsible behavior.

"We're saying that if you are going to drink, do it responsibly," said Blackmeister. "You don't have to overdose it."

Organizers said they were placed with the amount of students at most of the events.

Kathryn Welch, adviser in Horizons, estimates that over two hundred people filled out surveys and participated in the "mocktail" party, and over three hundred signed pledge cards.

UM-St. Louis makes bid for office, place in history by David Baughman

One UM-St. Louis student is hoping to make Missouri political history next year by becoming the youngest member ever to serve in the state legislature.

Chris Kuban, a senior communications major, is running for the 99th district Missouri House of Representatives, which covers part of south St. Louis county.

Kuban will celebrate his 24th birthday only a few weeks before the election, thus making him eligible to take office.

Kuban kicked off his campaign last week on his 24th birthday with a "$100 and Bicycle" fund raising, which amassed more than $125,000, and collected about $5,000.

"It's going to be a real grassroots campaign," Kuban said.

"When people find out that I am doing this they seem to be really enthused and excited that someone young is actually picking up the torch and trying to run with it."

But while Kuban hopes to speak with young people's point of view in the legislature, he stresses that the campaign is about issues rather than age.

"We need to get back to the basics and concentrate on what people value the most and I foresee economics and education as top priorities," Kuban said.

"Kuban's key issues will include better roads, accessible healthcare, and [other issues]."

Committee sets date for interviews, opens to public by Bill Rollins

Search for the next student representative to the UM Board of Curators is "formally back on line," said Michael Rankine, Student Government Association vice president.

After a six-week hiatus the selection committee, set date for interviews of the 14 candidates for Nov. 5 in the Hawthorne Room of the J. C. Penney building.

"Students may submit questions for the interview sessions," said Rankine. "Students, faculty and staff will be asked to ask questions during the inform.

Executive, ranked. But if students, faculty or staff want to ask the candidates questions, Rankine said they can attend a "reunion" on Nov. 4 from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. in the Hawthorne room. Rankine said the conditions will be available to meet with students at the reunion.

Rankine also said students, faculty and staff can suggest possible interview questions to the selection committee.

"People may submit questions also at the reunion," Rankine said. After the interview sessions can NOTES to the selection committee to consider candidates.

"The selection committee will take the students' suggestions into consideration when making the final selection," Rankine said.

A scene from Ambition Facing West, a play written by Anthony Charles, directed by Melita Bemis, at the Under Contemporary Theatre of St. Louis on the Main Stage. The play begins in Croatia in 1910 during a time when, according to one character, “the people stay and the countries move around.” A man goes to America and returns to Croatia with stories of new money, freedom, and opportunity. In America he settles down and starts a family. Son's daughter, Alma, grows up and deals with the death of her boyfriend but in the war and a pass she doesn't know. Her father has done to show their roots when she was young and, now, she wants and needs to know her heritage. Alma, unhappy with her job, begins working in the Haunted Caverns and Dr. Zurheid's Asylum. Although I couldn't commit to an entire season, I did work one week at The Lemp Haunted Caves and Dr. Zurheid's Asylum. These two haunted houses are working together—this is an experience unique to beaches, and beachgoers can find both for a reduced cost over individual ticket purchases. The Caverns has a Gothic theme and Dr. Zurheid's focuses on an inauthentic “Dunlop's Disease” (their belief has gone down over their hills) and wealthy (much like white richly). I have two male friends who wear jeans shorts. I've learned not to pick it up or let it harden to.

UM-St. Louis Dance Team makes return appearance at NBA exhibition game

The UM-St. Louis dance squad played a key role in the Los Angeles Lakers and Clippers basketball game on Oct. 17. The squad danced during breaks during the game and did a presentation at half time of the game. This is the second year the dance squad has performed a dance event. In addition to dancing at the NBA games the team has also performed at Rivermen basketball games and the annual St. Louis Gateway Classic. From left to right, Stereina Gilmore (co-captain), Angela Reeves and Kim Hudson (captain).

RIVERMEN making a run home from Florida games

Volleyball team drops 3 of 4 matches

With their hopes still on making the conference tournament, the men's soccer team is hoping to finish their season strong. The Rivermen made strides two weekends ago as they split their two conference battles. The team started off the weekend with a 3-1 victory against IU-Purdue. Scott Liskach kept his scoring streak alive as he scored both goals. The next day the team dropped their game against Northern Kentucky 4-3. Chris Steinitz scored two goals and Jason Ait bootled in the other Rivermen goal. The Rivermen have been at the horizon, the team will likely play Southern Indiana and I-3 Great Lakes Valley Conference rival, "It is going to be a challenge to play this weekend," Steinmetz said. "We have four hard games coming up. We are playing two ranked teams and two teams that are fighting for play-off spots." With the tough games on the horizon, the team will likely play well. This season the squad has played well against the better teams of the area. They defeated Truman State 2-0 and played SIU-Edwardsville close losing 7-0. "Our team gives more in games when we are against (teams that are) highly ranked or highly thought of," Steinmetz said. "I hope it carries over against Morehead City and Consolation. Morehead City is in the top two or three in the region and Consolation right up there as well as well." The Rivermen went to play both teams last weekend. With these two teams, Coach Steinmetz said, "We will have to play tough both matches because they are very competitive teams, but we'll have the opportunity to capitalize, we fall them." The Rivermen have been at the ever most for most of the season. They are currently 3-7 with a 4-3 Great Lakes Valley Conference record. "It is going to be a challenge to finish; 0.500," he said. "We have four hard games coming up. We are playing two ranked teams and two teams that are fighting for play-off spots." With the tough games on the horizon, the team will likely play well. Riverton womenump home from Florida games

 Volleyball team drops 3 of 4 matches

By Kim Dunkin

The Riverton volleyball team was swept 3-0 in its annual tournament in Tampa, FL.

The Riverton’s first opponent on Oct. 18 was the College of St. Francis, and although they won the first game, they lost the match 3-2. Senior Laura Gray led the way with 16 kills and 15 digs. Junior Kristin Burgard had 30 assists from the senior position. According to Head Coach Dana Silverstein, Riverton was too tough to hand.

"They were a good defensive-minded team," she said. "It was a good competition match."

UM-St. Louis then suffered its second consecutive loss of the day when it swept by Florida Southern 3-0. The main factor which was the difference in the match was that the Rivermen hit 0.377. Silverstein admitted that Florida Southern was better, but it made the Rivermen play harder.

"We know that this was going to be the kind of competition we would see the next day, so we- we would have to play our best if we were going to win a match," she said.

In the first game on Oct. 19, the Rivermen played tough from the start and defeated Florida Tech 3-1. They won 15-6, 15-13, then took the fourth game 15-13. Gray and the way again with 15 kills and 15 digs, and Burgard posted out 35 assists. The match lasting just 1 hour, 5 minutes and impressing to 207.

"This was definitely a conference game because we played real well," Silverstein said.

The Rivermen finished the tournament against Tampa, the third ranked team in the country, but lost 3-0. The team hitting percentage suffered again, as it hit (000, and Tampa.251, hit 242.

"At this stage Tampa is more experimenting than we do," Silverstein said. "They just controlled the ball better than we did."

Silverstein said that even though the Rivermen (10-12, 4-6 Great Lakes Valley Conference) did not come away with a winning record, they still learned a lot.

"We gained much needed experience because of the stiff competition we faced," she said. "We were exposed to much stronger teams and we realized that will make us tougher and more prepared for the upcoming conference playoffs.

With seven matches left in the regular season, Silverstein said that the team is ready for this improvement.

"We are still having problems sticking together, and we need to work on controlling the ball later," she said. "Our goal is to finish second or third in our division."

The Rivermen were scheduled to battle Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Oct. 22 and then Indianapolis on Oct. 25. According to Silverstein, the fact that both matches are on the road is a key factor.

"We will have to play tough both matches because they are competitive teams, but we’ll have to earn what happiness," she said.

University establishes scholarship to honor John Denver

The money will more than likely pay for a graduate student to go to another country and collect samples for research projects.

The Hal and Carol Knoerl Charitable Trust has offered $25,000 to the fund. Other donors have also offered additional $25,000. The money will then be invested and it will be withdrawn annually to fund the scholarships.

Anyone interested in applying for the scholarship must do so by contacting the ICTE located at 234 Research Building, or call 511-3153.
