Several campus organizations may have jeopardized their standing in the Board of Governors for failure to attend the required number of meetings. Authorities estimate that the required number of representatives from the organizations that are members of SGA are not allowed to miss more than one meeting. However, the board's actions are raising concerns about the organization's future and its ability to fulfill the required number of meetings.

Campus organizations, including the Political Science Graduate Student Association and the Armenian Student Association, have missed four or more of the six meetings scheduled between August 1997 and February 1998. If attendance records are not available for March, the four organizations are listed with the Office of Student Activities.

April is STD Awareness month, focusing more on just HIV

by Kenneth Winfrey • special to The Current

"James" is a 21-year-old UM-St. Louis student whose real name will not be used. She's made the Dean's average every semester and is quite active with extra-curricular activities at the University. James is intelligent, innovative and also a bit of a siren by her peers. She's never touched on illegal drugs, alcohol or cigarettes. She is what might call a "girl next door" or maybe even the "perfect girl." However, James is HIV positive.

James, like many younger women, went through a period of inactivity. She thought she was safe. At one point, she actually thought she was cured. She needed to come to grips with her reality. James is HIV positive.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, as of 2005 college students have voted positive for HIV, the virus that causes AIDS. Based on these figures, approximately 10 UM-St. Louis students could be included in the first 1 million people worldwide who are HIV positive.

Although James is young, she has been a successful worker and has been an active woman in society. Perhaps you may know her, or you may be her. Regardless, James is HIV positive.

The Current is not the only source of information regarding the prevention and cure of HIV and AIDS. Those interested in learning more can consult numerous sources of information such as the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the American Social Health Association. However, the staff at the Current is not able to cover all aspects of the disease. Therefore, those interested are encouraged to consult the sources of information listed above.

April is Sexually Transmitted Disease Awareness Month, but HIV is a disease that can occur at any time. This year, a STD, a very common but not well known health hazard, is known as Genital Herpes. Genital Herpes, also known as herpes simplex, is also now gaining attention as a problem of health officials of the American Social Health Association. According to the American Social Health Association, the disease is spread from person to person during intimate contact. The herpes virus is transmitted when an infected person has sores or blisters. According to the staff, the disease is not curable but can be controlled.

The exorcism took place on the preachers of the world. However, it was during the 1970's that preachers began to realize that the dead were not the only ones who were present in their presence. A psychic technician at a local hospital. During the first week in the job, I was a extraordinary woman and I wasn't quite sure that I wanted to serve as an example — but as I went — until the end of orientation when we learned that the hospital was the size of a small town and that there was a need for this kind of service. The hospital was closed.

It may not be a major sport, but The Champs defended the Bell, Stanford men’s ultimate title this past weekend.

The team finished the weekend with a 3-0 record and earned a spot in the final against the University of California-Berkeley. The Champs were successful in overcoming the Bears in the first half and eventually pulled away in the final, winning 17-8.

This was the team’s third consecutive year making it to the final four and their second consecutive year winning the title.

The team started the weekend with a win against Iowa State, followed by a loss against the University of Colorado. The Champs bounced back with a win against North Carolina State before falling to the Bears in the championship game.

The team’s success can be attributed to their hard work and dedication throughout the season. They practiced every day and never gave up, even when things didn’t go their way.

The Champs are now looking forward to the next season and are hoping to continue their success.

The Champs win interloopers

BY JOE HARRIS

The Champs won their third straight victory in the interloopers on Saturday, defeating the Lady Cardinals 3-0. The Champs scored all three runs in the first inning and held off a late rally to secure the win.

The Champs were led by their starting pitcher, who allowed just one hit and struck out six batters in three innings. The team’s defense was solid, committing only one error.

The Lady Cardinals had a few scoring opportunities in the late innings, but the Champs’ defense was up to the challenge and kept the game out of reach.

The Champs improve to 15-2 overall and will look to continue their winning streak in the upcoming games.

Riverton liquor license hearing

BY DAVE KINWORTHY

The Riverton liquor license hearing was held on Monday, with testimony from both sides on the issue.

The hearing was convened to determine whether the Riverton liquor license should be renewed for the upcoming season. The license was granted in 1995, and it is now up for renewal.

The hearing lasted all day, with arguments from both sides on the issue. The Riverton city council will make a decision on the matter at its next meeting.

The hearing was attended by city officials, liquor store owners, and members of the community. The hearing was a positive step in the process of renewing the license, and a final decision will be made in the near future.

Ultimate Band List

Have you ever been interested in a small, not necessarily mainstream band? Well, I have, and The Rugburns is one such band. I first saw them play at the American Theater opening up for Jewel (I have no idea, I took my little sister). They captivated me and to make matters worse, no one knew who they were. The Ultimate Band List came to the rescue.

This site is amazing, they have info on just about any band you can think of. With just a click of the mouse, I found out about The Rugburns. It included many links to live entertainment and also to the official homepages of the band. It was a great resource in the search for info on The Rugburns; and it would have helped me avoid doing research on that band. The Ultimate Band List is a great resource in the search for info and information on any band you can think of. With just a click of the mouse, I found out about The Rugburns.
