SGA freezes six clubs’ funds

By Rhodad Pettman
staff writer

The provisionsl Student Government Association is freezing the funds of six UM-SL organizations that failed to meet the requirements for participating in the fall semester. The SGA has frozen the funds of the Association of Women in Business, the Associated Student Body, the Interfraternity Council, the Intramural Opportunity Center, the National Society of Social Work, and the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

The provisionsl SGA president, Maryann Kowalski, said she would like to see the organizations develop a better system for maintaining their funds. She said that the SGA was not able to help the organizations because they had not provided the necessary documentation for their funds.

Kowalski said that the SGA would not be able to help the organizations unless they provide the necessary documentation for their funds. She said that the SGA would not be able to help the organizations unless they provide the necessary documentation for their funds.

The SGA is also considering whether to freeze the funds of other organizations that have not provided the necessary documentation for their funds.

It's not easy judging karaoke contest...

The University Program Board sponsored the first week of fall semester with MIP's, Karaoke, with special guest David Broom, host of "Real World New Orleans.

During the karaoke contest, SGA stressed that the event should be a fun and enjoyable experience for all participants.

"We want people to come out and sing," said SGA president Maryann Kowalski. "It's an opportunity for students to show off their singing skills and have a good time.

The SGA also encouraged students to participate in the event, saying that it is a great way to meet new people and have fun.

The karaoke contest was held in the Student Center and was open to all students. There were several categories, including best solo performance, best group performance, and best costume.

Students were encouraged to come out and participate, and the SGA was excited to see how much fun everyone would have.

The SGA also appreciated the support of SGA representatives, who worked tirelessly to make sure that the event was a success.

Meet the Newman House crew

Father Bill Kemper and Amanda Herrod are new campus ministers at UM-SL with ties to St. Louis. They plan to make more changes in the campus life and greater social outreach.

The couple brings a wealth of experience and expertise to their roles, having served as campus ministers at other universities and engaged in various social justice initiatives. Their presence on campus is expected to bring a fresh perspective and new energy to the UM-SL community.

BIL Fedler speaks about his campaign during a recent visit to UM-SL. About 16 students showed up for the event.

The Neumann House has new leadership, important mission

by Anna Porter

Most people born in St. Louis usually lived in St. Louis for an extended period of time, but this was not the case for the majority of the members of the new leadership at the Neumann Center, located on the UMSL campus, represents this generation better than any other. In fact, the new leadership at the Neumann Center is more closely aligned with the values and experiences of today's students than ever before.

For example, Amanda Harrod, a campus minister at the Catholic Newman House at UMSL, has been a part of the Newman Center for over five years and was involved in the Alternative Spring Break program. Harrod believed that the Newman Center played a significant role in her development as she moved from a non-Catholic to a Catholic faith.

Another example is Father Bill Kempf, the former director of the Newman Center and now the rector of the nearby Catholic Newman Center. Kempf said that he was happy to be back at UMSL, where he first met and fell in love with his wife, who was a student at UMSL.

Kempf said that the Newman Center has always been a place where people could come to find community and support, and he believed that this was even more important today.

The Newman Center is a place where students can come to find a sense of belonging and to connect with others who share their values. Kempf said that he was excited to be part of the leadership team at the Newman Center and to help shape its future.

In conclusion, the Newman Center is an important part of the UMSL community and plays a vital role in the lives of its students. With the new leadership in place, the center is poised to continue its mission of providing a welcoming and supportive environment for all students.
Forcing constitution vote is one of the last steps

The issue

The new constitution must be finally voted on.

We suggest:

The provisional government should take an active approach to make students aware of the issues involved.

Do you think we should?

Write a letter to the editor about this issue or anything else on your mind.

Administrators: you can’t live with ‘em...

I wonder how long it will be before we see significant changes on campus.

I am very interested in this topic, and I would love to hear your thoughts on any of these issues.

Are you aware of the issues that are involved?

I do not have many opinions about the situation.

I am not sure if I should write a letter to the editor about this topic.

I have a personal opinion about the administration.

I would like to hear what you think about the administration.

Tennis team disbands, Schuette resigns

by Dave Kinworthy

UMSL's tennis team disbanded this year, closing the chapter on the program.

The tennis team started in 1998, but had two 10-seasons and a lack of competitivenessering players.

Sophomore Emily Voss has been with the team ever since it's formation, but she will not return next season.

"I don't think that they needed to do away with the program, but they do need to find a coach who's a good administrator."

Dolans agreed that the motivation of the students and a student body in the cancellation of the season.

"Good job, I think sometimes, high school students think they can come out of high school and go play tennis or golf or whatever it is."

Dolans didn't think that what college athletics encompasses. That is, two hours of practice minimum, study halls and your social life during the season is pretty much kaput. It is athletics and academics. We had five players, three new players, one new player showed up and two or three students did not enroll in the university. Two girls went through the recruiting process and tried to pick up some players to play and then just started from behind. I thought maybe we should just end it, save the resources and put it into recruiting for next year.

We are now going to participate in the Great Lakes Valley Conference season. Dolans is planning on recruiting for the following season as well as find a replacement for Schuette.

The cancellation season for high school girls is right now. So if we can get someone interested by the end of September and give them some money to go and recruit and get some kids signed up for school next fall and get the junior college kids to the spring, it gives somebody time to do it and recruit and get some kids interested.

I don't think that the goal of the tennis team is to win; it is about to do some tennis and be a part of the university."

UWM's own Holly Zrouth hammers a ball to Ashland University to the point of no return in the Tournament at BUCL on Sept 28.

The volleyball team is shaping up to be a very strong team this year. The team has high expectations for the upcoming season and is looking forward to a successful year.

Volleyball Head Coach Denise Silvester will lead her UMSL women's team into battle against regional rival Ashland University in the first match of the season.

"We have a very healthy rivalry with Ashland, and this should be a really good match," Silvester said. "Also, they are one of my teams I get a lot of enjoyment showing here to help establish our regional recruiting." The first three weeks of the Riverwomen's schedule will be spent in tournament play, with trips to Grand Valley Invitational, and Springfield, Missouri for the Dairy Invitational.

Our first three weeks are open to exhibition, and we try to use these early periods to get the conference season. Silvester said, "We try to play 3-4 games per week.

The Riverwomen are looking for a win around from her 11-season of a year ago, only their third losing season.

"A lot of frustration set in last year, and it affected our record towards the end of our season," Silvester said. "We had a lot of injuries from down forwards, and our seniors were trying to manage a lot at the same time.

The GLVC coaches have seeded the Riverwomen second overall in the Great Division of their seven-profile, which is a credit to Silvester's solid returning core and recruiting class.

"Although we didn't see any first places wins, it is a tribut to this team's enthusiasm and dedication.

Commitment shouldn't be a problem for the first time," Najjar said.

"We are very pleased with the commitment that this team has shown to their season; Silvester said. "They have set goals for themselves, and they have put forth a lot of work to achieve them.

Two players expected to make an immediate impact on the program are freshman Melissa Frost and senior Audrey Stacey Pearl.

"They told them from the beginning, and they were ready to work," Najjar said. "We have worked hard, the comradery in the team is great and we test and I think that we will fair well.

Ze Left Bank atmosphere perfectly suited for theater

BY DERICK EVANS
special to The Current

Ze Left Bank moved recently from its old location on Flushing Road to 8724, Charles Rock Road, just west of McKibbon.

The interior of the new building is a bar and grill configuration with seating along the bar and tables available throughout. A hallway is also available. An outdoor dining area to the back. The inside of the building there are video games when the buffet is open.

Downstairs is a 50-seat banquet room for parties or receptions.

Catering services are also available.

The service was prompt and the service was friendly, making Ze Left Bank a desirable location to host your next event.

I warn of your typical mashed potatoes, rice, creamed spinach, and even creamed chicken. The sides included were delicious. They really added something.

The meatloaf was cut into thick pieces in grace, with nice chunks of tomato on top. It was a good effort, not overly seasoned or bland, which is always a good sign. No one could witness the meatloaf, it was just right.

money speech, of course, means more money goes to the government via taxation.

The military

"I'm for a more defined," said Fedner. "America could never be in the position to be interposed by any other nation in the world." Fedner then paraphrased as well buy Scout leaders about carpeting, "I have this feeling of obligation to leave this country cleaner than I found it, and stronger than I found it," better than I found it."

Less government.

Referring to the federal government's conditioning with its allocators to public schools, Fedner said, "It's designed to help this federal government job is to be the principal." Later, after interpreting the attributes associated with career, he stated, "The government exists to help you. It's supposed to be you exist to perpetuate the big government."

Health care

Fedner said he hopes to see a health care system where the individual has more choices and more control over their own plan and said he endorsed Republican presidential candidate George W. Bush's "患者的 Plan." The "Patients Plan" is designed to help 44 million uninsured Americans get a health care policy by allowing individuals a pool to cover the cost of health care premiums. Fedner pointed out that under Bush's plan those groups would not get through the Medicare program and all the bureaucratic nonsense.

Fedner believes that the government spends too much time, money and effort on trying to decide what is important and what is not especially useful for a change of focus. He stated that the best way to see the government spend more money on programs benefiting the majority. "I believe in America," said Fedner to this proposition, "and I think we can turn the tide as a miracle."

One caveat

"I think we have enough laws," Fedner said. "Let's refine the ones we don't need. We don't need any more."

Getting Involved in Politics

Fedner stressed the importance for young people get involved in political. Paul DeGroot, USL, administrator and advisor to the College Republicans, reiterated Fedner by stating that a student would learn more in one semesters volunteering for a campaign than in part-time or full-time work.

Money

"I think we are more in our own control," Fedner said. "We can make our own decisions and do our own work."

Inevitably, the cost of
