A physics professor warns the University of Missouri to work towards guarantees to release the traffic signal at the entrance to West Drive in Columbia.

The Missouri Department of Transportation has activated the traffic signal at the entrance to West Drive and building the new garage are coinciding with our spring break and was one of the problems I think Schwartz said. The signal was one of the problems I think Schwartz solved.

The new signal is a small part of a $9 million project that includes crossing West Drive and building the West Parking Structure, Sampson said. To make converting the traffic signals for the new West Drive, and the garage, and the pedestrians, the Missouri Department of Transportation activated the traffic signals for Sampson, and Chris Sampson, a traffic engineer with the Missouri Department of Transportation.

Even at the price of 23, I have never had health coverage that I didn't use, 22 and have lived in several countries where I felt like I was getting sick. I simply used all my available funding to take care of my health. After all, it is my job, work, and that's what I've been doing for the past 8 years. I have written more than 100 articles about health care, and many of them have been published in national and international newspapers. I have also been a speaker at several international conferences, including the World Health Organization's Global Conference on Health Care Reform. I have been a panelist on several television shows, including NPR's Morning Edition and CNN's Anderson Cooper 360. I have also been a guest on several radio shows, including National Public Radio's Only A Girl and American Public Radio's Marketplace. Inactive SGA does not deserve $55,000 budget

The Issue:

Since the beginning of the fall semester of 1999 the Student Government Association has gotten very little done. The semester started with high hopes rooted in the promises of SGA President Darwin Butler. Those hopes were quickly destroyed when Butler was arrested last semester. Then when Steve Wolfe became interim president of SGA the ball was dropped again. Thus, one meeting was cancelled and two have not quorums. SGA has spent over half of its budget on salaries and office supplies.

We suggest:

Since no programs and very few meetings have occurred this year, we think SGA should not be given the $55,000 budget allocation it’s requesting from the SAC.

So what do you think?

Write a letter to the editor about this issue or anything else on your mind.

What's your opinion?

The big story in the news this week was about the ongoing merger between Warner, another story about free trade with the USSR, a third one about free government approval of TV scripts and the fourth one was about in the Opinions section this week.

In the light of what’s been going on in the world this week it’s important to remember that the people who read our newspaper are not the only ones who are affected by the events in the world.

1. How did you ring in the new year?
2. Are you going to keep your New Year’s resolutions?
3. What are you planning to do this summer?

What will happen to the company you are employed by/ to this year? Do you think it will do well?

When admission becomes harassment

When a student is a victim of harassment, the university has an obligation to provide a safe and secure environment. In recent years, many universities have been sued for failing to protect students from sexual harassment.

In a recent case, a student accused a professor of sexually harassing her. The student alleged that the professor made inappropriate comments and touched her inappropriately. The university investigated the claim and found no evidence to support the student’s allegations.

The student filed a lawsuit against the university, alleging that it failed to take adequate steps to prevent sexual harassment. The lawsuit was settled out of court.

According to the National Center for Education Statistics, 1 in 5 college students experiences sexual harassment on campus. This number is concerning because sexual harassment can have a significant impact on a student’s mental health and academic performance.

In the case of the student in this story, the university was not held liable because the university conducted a thorough investigation and found no evidence to support the student’s allegations.

However, this does not mean that universities are immune to liability. University’s must take reasonable steps to prevent sexual harassment and promptly respond to allegations of sexual harassment.

It is important for universities to have clear policies and procedures in place to address sexual harassment.

How will you ensure that your university is prepared to handle such situations?

Compliance with the federal and state laws is critical in ensuring that universities are protected from liability.

A student who is a victim of sexual harassment has the right to seek legal advice and representation.

When a student is a victim of harassment, it is important for them to seek support and resources available on campus.

A student who is a victim of sexual harassment should report the incident to the appropriate university official, such as the dean of students, Title IX coordinator, or other designated campus official.

1. How do you feel about the university’s response to the incident?
2. What resources are available to students who are victims of sexual harassment?
3. What steps would you recommend the university take to prevent sexual harassment on campus?

Ice men keep Tourney hopes alive

Last minute win over DuPage improves team's qualifying chances

By Nick Bohman

The American Collegiate Hockey Association announce the tournament is the ultimate goal of any ACHA-affiliated team. tournament for the annual tourney are sent only to the top teams in each conference, and this year’s UM-St. Louis Rivermen squad is putting together a fine resume.

With a season record of 16-4-3, a victory list that includes multi-upset shocker teams in College of DuPage and Palmer University, and an impressive conference record, the team is well on its way for the selection board to deny this year’s squad.

The latest contest pitted the Rivermen against power powerhouse College of DuPage. After early goals from the Rams, we were playing, "Schaub said.

"They were outplaying us early in the period," Dan Scheurmann, freshman goalie for the Rams, said.

With less than two minutes to play, the Rivermen’s Salad sweep attack was goalless, but the college junior in a thriller, keeping their hopes alive.

"It was very upset in how our offense was being held off on goal," Scheurmann added.

"We were moving a very good player on the ice, so I couldn’t believe it," Schaub said.

"When Carapella’s short-handed goal went in, it was 3-3," Schaub said.

With a 5-1 win over Indiana-Purdue, the Rivermen are 7-4 overall and 2-0 in conference. and 13:46, to put the Rivermen on top 4-3.

"That was tremendous in the GLVC last year. We only got it once in conference, but we did talk about what UM-St. Louis would have to do in order to deny them first scoring," Schaub said.

"Our defense is our weakness right now, but we need to continue to improve. Obviously, we just need to start shooting the ball better," Schaub said.

Defensively, UM-St. Louis was just out-muscled by Indianapolis, 35-20.

Indianapolis also recorded five for more UM-St. Louis b-ball coverage turn page 8.

Who needs awards? Fans of actor Bruce Campbell say he's still great

"Greener some sugar, baby." No one has uttered these words with as much spirit (and pure humor) as Bruce Campbell. All of you obviously know how to handle your sugar, but did you know that Campbell is a fan of the classic cult classic "Evil Dead"? "Evil Dead" is the tale of Ash, the cocky toy in the works. Campbell is cool, and says, "One of his failings is that he's just not deep enough for the audience to relate to him."

Bruce Campbell is the original Ash, the 1981 version of the character. He is the one who brought Ash to life and made him a household name. Campbell's portrayal of Ash has become iconic and has inspired countless horror fans around the world. In fact, Campbell has been nominated for several awards for his role as Ash, including the Saturn Award for Best Actor in a Horror Film.

Campbell's success as Ash has led to many opportunities for him, including appearances in other horror films and television shows. Campbell has also written and directed his own horror films, including "Evil Dead II" and "The Descent." He has also appeared in a number of other films, including "The Faculty," "The Nutty Professor," and "The Adventures of Burt Wonderstone." Campbell has also worked as a television host and has appeared on shows such as "Annoy and Cause Turmoil" and "Dead 2: Darker Than Before." He has also been a regular guest on "The Late Late Show with Craig Ferguson."

Campbell has been honored with several awards for his work in the horror genre. He was named a "Hollywood Heavyweight" by the Hollywood Walk of Fame in 2012. He has also been inducted into the Horror Hall of Fame and the Puppet Hall of Fame. Campbell was also named a "Madman" by "Epinion" in 2005. He has also been named a "Madman" by "Epinion" in 2005. He has also been named a "Madman" by "Epinion" in 2005.

Campbell has also been a frequent guest on talk shows and podcasts. He has appeared on shows such as "The Howard Stern Show," "The View," "The Late Late Show with Craig Ferguson," and "The Late Show with David Letterman." He has also appeared on podcasts such as "The Official Ash vs Evil Dead Podcast."

Campbell is also an avid gamer and has appeared in a number of video games, including "Evil Dead: The Game," "The Last of Us," and "The Vanishing of Ethan Carter." He has also written several books, including "Ash Vs Evil Dead: Tales From the Ash Room," "The Book Of Shadows," and "The Book Of Shadows Part Two: The Book Of Ash."

Campbell has been married twice, to Jennifer Jordan and Elizabeth Chastain. He has also been in a number of relationships, including with Nicole Brown and Shannen Doherty. Campbell has also been a vocal supporter of the LGBTQ community and has been an advocate for equal rights for all people.

Despite his success and popularity, Campbell has remained humble and grounded. He has always been known for his dry wit and his ability to make people laugh. Campbell is a true icon of the horror genre and has earned the respect of fans and critics alike. He is a true legend in the world of horror and continues to inspire and entertain audiences around the world.

Suspense thriller ‘Mr. Ripley’ builds tension intelligently

BY CATHERINE MARQUIS-HERMANN

The Talented Mr. Ripley is an excellent psychological thriller set in Italy in the late 1950s and directed by Anthony Minghella. The film is based on a novel by mystery writer Patricia Highsmith, and is an outstanding adaptation, capturing the suspense and the flavor of the genre and time period. Additionally, the film is very much in the style of 1950s Hollywood movies and will also be enjoyed by fans of Alfred Hitchcock style. The film builds tension in the audience by revealing to the audience some threats unknown to the characters in a scene, rather than building tension by making the audience anticipate a surprise twist, a more common technique.

The film’s excellent psychological suspense, set in a novel by mystery writer Anthony Minghella, is a marvelous adaptation, retaining the suspense and the flavor of the genre and time period. Additionally, the film makes the audience anticipate a surprise twist, a more common technique.

‘Sessions’ offers Cocteau fans something new

BY CORY BLACKWOOD

What is the proper way for a band that helped revolutionize music in the '80s to give its fans a bit of a thigh-slap? Answer: another one-hour album? A recording of a concert? These only set fans up for disappointment, as they study offers nothing new. On the other hand, BBC recordings and songs from live shows can be the perfect addition to a fan’s collection of music. The Cocteau Twins offer just that, in their new two-disc compilation, ‘BBC Sessions.’ Set fans up for disappointment, as they really offer nothing new. In all, 28 songs demonstrating the beauty of the Cocteau Twins music appear on the album simply named ‘BBC Songs.’ Songs from the entire nine-album career are offered from their 1982 debut (‘Glitter’) to their final effort, 1996’s ‘Milk & Kisses.’

The album is marvelous and includes every song from the entire nine-album career, with the exception of ‘Milk & Kisses,’ which offers the only bit of a thigh-slap. The Cocteau Twins have already bought “BBC Sessions,” music lovers of other genres would be more than pleased with this double album. Relaxing and challenging, The Cocteau Twins have entertained listeners again.

The First Night of Life: Length: 125 min. Rated: R Our opinion: ****

When Dickie (Jude Law), a young playboy living in Italy, is persuaded to let Ripley (Matt Damon) rejoin his return home, Ripley prepares for his task by studying Dickie’s interests and habits, and adapting those tastes as his own, with the intention of converting him to be a fellow Princeton smoker. Ripley will later be found dead in a pool with his hands in his pockets. Dickie is astonished when Ripley suddenly becomes a part of their social life. Dickie asserts that everyone has one special talent and demands that Torn demonstrate his, to which Torn responds with a quick arrangement of his new talent and demands that he demonstrate it. When Dickie asks Ripley what it is, Ripley quickly arranges a one-hour album, with the exception of ‘Milk & Kisses,’ which offers the only bit of a thigh-slap. The Cocteau Twins have already bought “BBC Sessions,” music lovers of other genres would be more than pleased with this double album. UM-St. Louis sweeps SIUE
Nine years of futility end with 20 plus from Daniel and Wentzel

BY NICK ERWAN
Staff Associate

Saturday night, UM-St. Louis Riverviewmen head basketball coach Brian Eberle achieved something that his predecessor, Jim Cowan, could not. The Riverviewmen, sparked by twenty point plus from Armin Wenzel and Tawanda Daniel, and added inches to their motor in the last two minutes, defeated Southern Illinois University Edwardsville in a thrilling 70-67, giving Eberle his second conference victory over the Cougars, and UM-St. Louis their first victory over SIUE in nine years.

You have to look back to the 1994-95 season to find the last time UM-St. Louis had the last laugh over the Cougars.

This game featured one of the Great Lakes Valley Conference perennial powers, SIU-Edwardsville junior Miss Clark, who in this campaign has averaged 20.0 points per game. To compare, UM-St. Louis junior Amanda Wenzel leads Riverviewmen with a 15.1 mark.

"Before the game, we set out to do one thing, step Clark," said Wenzel.

The Riverviewmen did just that, holding him to 3-13 from the field. "If you take away Clark under twenty points, you have state and excellent job," said Eberle. "Our girls did an excellent job of putting a body on her, and pressuring her.

The first half featured Riverviewman jumping to a 14-8 lead, with the only play from the Cougars pulled to within one point.

A 10-0 run sparked the rest of the first half," said Wenzel. "A lot of the girls came back down, and the intensity level greatly changed.

Eberle said confidence was a factor in the drop off. "The locker room was very subdued between halves," said Wenzel. "I just talked to them, and we're in our confidence levels.

Wherever Eberle said it sparked an 8-0 run to open the second half, and the Riverviewmen never looked back. Clark continued to miss shots, as SIUE Edwardsville continued to feel for the ball. The UM-St. Louis defense pressured the Cougars offensively from 14 percent from the field, compared to their own 43 percent.

With this victory, the Riverviewmen improve their GLVC record to 4-1, placing them in a tie for first place with Lewis University.

Quick start, Hamilton's free throws help end six year drought

It took two years, two head coaches, a new arena, and a new look for the Riverviewmen basketball squad to defeat Southern Illinois University Edwardsville in conference play last season, but Matt Deren, head coach, already accomplished the unaccomplished, winning the Cougars, 70-65.

This also included a hard fought win to SIUE Edwardsville that goes back to the 1994-95 season.

Right out of the gate, the Riverviewmen put up an 8-0 run, and never looked back. While the Cougar defense shut down leading scorer Howland Schell, who scored 5-9 from the field, first UM-St Louis players picked up the slack. Brian Martin, Tawanda Herbert, Michael Harland, Greg Ross, and Michael Coleman each put up double digit, combining for 28 points. "Miss Coleman has a reputation around the league now of being an offensive threat," said Deren. "We've got to contain him, and keep him to 0 out of 10.

Herbert also came through in the paint, scoring 15 in a hard fought game to earn a double-double. The Riverviewmen dominated both ends of the floor, shooting 52 percent from the field and hitting both of their free throw lines, while SIUE Edwardsville hit just 22 percent from the floor.

The Riverviewmen continued through most of the second half until Kocaeli Johnson was called for a commercial violation right while scoring the ball on the 3's, leading to a technical foul. "I don't believe in 3's," said Deren. "I had a conversation about the 3's. I don't know why I'm only 49 out of all of that guy's hard.

With 2:09 left on the clock, Hamilton came in on a rotation to cmon out one of the defensive problems and to keep him from scoring. Interestingly, after the timeout, SIUE Edwardsville forward Nick Harland completed a three point play to cut the score at 45-57 Riverviewman with just under five minutes to play.

The essential key to the Riverviewman's victory would be found in Hamilton, who would double guarded most of the time to pressure the Cougars, as well as connecting eight personal fouls, limiting the big man to 0 out of 10.

Hamilton was sent to the charity line five times, hitting nine of his ten free throw attempts, including the go-ahead shot to grab the 14 point victory over the Cougars, and the offensive pressure was key for the Riverviewman victory. Clark and Wenzel were also given five fouls, Coleman hitting five of six and Herbert hitting two of his seven.

"Five three shooting is something that we had worked on in practice leading up to the game," Betton said. "Scout the team really showed their stuff from the line.

This victory put the Riverviewman 7-3, which is one 0 more victories than last year's squad had all season. It also moves them into the top five in the Great Lakes Valley Conference standings.
