SGA to celebrate end of year with Student Appreciation Day

By Joe Harris

In an attempt for just one positive experience in the 2013-2014 Student Government Administration, this proposed Student Appreciation Day would celebrate students for being the core of their community.

The event will take place in the Old University Center and the Thomas Jefferson Library. If the weather permits.

"I'm going to build a schedule of events and activities for all students," Butler said. "I'm going to build it so everyone can participate." Butler added, "it's going to be a good day, we're going to have a lot of fun, a lot of activities for everyone to participate in."

Butler said that the event is being planned to cater to people of all backgrounds and age groups. She added that there is something for everyone to enjoy.

It's Greek to me!

by Anne Porter

May 1, 2000

Everywhere, the week after finals is over. Maybe it's a huge party, or it may be a toast to the summer or in the case of some UMSL students, it could be Greek Week.

Greek Week begins the week after finals and includes a video series of activities, designed to promote fraternities. Jon Frost, the president of the Delta Zeta Chapter of Sigma Pi Fraternity at UMSL, has been with Sigma Pi for a year and a half. He said the week is important to many fraternity and sorority members.

"It's the beginning of the year and everyone's excited. It's fun and it's a great time," Frost said.

But Greek Week is not just about parties; it is about fraternity life.

"It allows them an opportunity to participate in something other than school work and allow them to get to know another group of people," Frost said.

Frost also mentioned that there is a mixture of activities, from bowling and talent contests to runs, keg tosses, bowling and talent contests all happen during Greek Week. "It shows penalties and sanctions are more than just partying. You have to follow other ways to have fun," Frost said.

BJC Health System sponsors conference aimed at women's health

by Chartaine Malone

BJC Health System places women's health issues on center-stage with the "Speaking of Women's Health Conference 2000." This will be BJC's second conference of this magnitude about health issues specifically pertaining to women.

Last year's conference drew more than 500 women from Missouri and Illinois, after its introduction by television station KETC/Channel 9. Hosted by KETC Channel 9 at the Regal Riverton Hotel, Saturday May 6 starting at 1 p.m., its sponsors for the conference include: Physicians & Gun Club, BJC Health Services, West Plus Laboratories, Covergys and KELO 105.

Kelly Harvard, vice president of BJC Women and Infants' Health Services, explained her excitement concerning this year's conference. "We are so delighted to participate again in this important project," said Harvard. "This unique conference offers women's health information where they can affect their well-being immediately after leaving the event. And at BJC Women and Infants' Health Services, that's our one primary objective: to help and educate families about health care."

This year's keynote speakers include: Dr. Karen Budoff and gynecologist and author, Dr. Leigh Ann Johnson.

Budoff is a gynecologist and medical director of the University of Texas Health Science Center Women's Center. Dr. Budoff is the "Women's Health" column in "Obstetrics & Gynecology for Her.

Johnson is a gynecologist and health communicator with 10 years of experience working in the area of women's health. Her approach to communicating women's health issues is to provide women with health and well-being options. There are eight sessions in addition to a special session. Six of the sessions will be dedicated to topics of personal interest to women. In addition, the BJC Women and Infants' Health Conference 2000 also recognizes women who have made an impact in the Greater St. Louis community.

This year's honoree is Dr. Cheryl G. Champion, president and CEO of the United Way of St. Louis. Champion will be honored for her leadership and achievements in elevating the health and well-being of women—youth and adult—in the Greater St. Louis region.

In addition, Speaking of Women's Health Conference 2000 also recognizes women who have made an impact in the Greater St. Louis community.

Guidelines to better the UM-St. Louis campus

The Issue:
The University has a number of things it needs to improve upon if it wishes to better itself.

We suggest:
The cost of education is rising faster and faster making it harder for students to go to school. We need a new system of fees that takes care of all the students, and each student needs more full time employees with which to govern. The current rules should be obeyed. And SGA should get its money so it can hire the students' time and money.

What do you think?
Write a letter to the editor about this issue or anything else on your mind.

SABC's decisions are fair and justified

Before responding to Mr. Hemdon's column last week, several important decisions were established. First, in all previous years, the Student Senate has always established a new budget. Third, this is the first year that Hemdon has ever been a member of the SABC. However, his columns are published in the Friday edition of the Current, which is a violation of its rules. Therefore, the SABC has decided to remove Mr. Hemdon from the SABC and those rules that have been established.

The SABC has conducted an investigation of Mr. Hemdon's actions and has found him guilty of violating the SABC's rules. Therefore, the SABC has decided to remove Mr. Hemdon from the SABC and those rules that have been established.

Letters to the editor should be brief and no longer than 200 words. All letters must be signed and include a daytime phone number.

New Current editor in chief has big shoes to fill, much stroke to earn

I've been a regular reader of The Current. I've been quite thrilled with the quality of the paper and the way it is presented. I've enjoyed all of the people involved in the current staff and their hard work. I've also enjoyed the way the paper has been presented in the past.

I was quite excited to learn that you were going to be the new editor in chief of The Current. I've always enjoyed your writing and your approach to issues. I think you have a great perspective on the university and the surrounding community.

I hope you will continue to bring the same quality to the paper that you have shown in the past. I look forward to seeing what you have to offer.

Thank you for your dedication to the university and the community. I hope you will continue to do great work.

The Rivermen's tennis team finished up the season with a 7-3 mark in the GLVC and placed a team-high third in the conference. "It was acceptable," Head Coach Rickey Buescher said. "The team had a disappointing finish, particularly the second and third doubles, but we were very happy with the overall team effort."

UM-St. Louis entered the tournament with a 4-2 record and finished the season with an overall mark of 8-3. "We had some great players," Buescher said. "But we had some great matches and some not so great matches."

The Rivermen then ventured on to the northeast and played in the GLVC Conference during the second weekend of the season. They were defeated by Western Kentucky, 7-15.

Coming off of the defeat, the Rivermen rebounded in the third-place match to soundly defeat Bellarmine, 5-1.

It's been a long, hard road for the UM-St. Louis softball team, but the regular season is over in the Rivermen won 3-1 in their last home contest.

First up was the UM-St. Louis softball team, but the regular season is over in the Rivermen. Kahn had a grand, completing a home run and a three-run homer. He was the winning pitcher for the Rivermen. "As we see three of the seven, we played very well," said head coach Lou Mancini. "The last few games were very well put together, but not good enough. I was proud of the performance."

The Rivermen returned to St. Louis and hosted the game in front of a sold-out crowd of 1,500. Kahn picked up his ninth win in the first game, 3-1, as he pitched a complete game. "It was a good start, but not a great start," said Kahn. "I was happy to get a win and build on it."

The Rivermen's pitcher scored both Wesley and first baseman Brian Steele at the Harris-Stowe hurler to reach first, Bates advanced to second.

Trent Wesley drove Bates home with a double to reach first, Bates advanced to second.

In bottom of the fifth inning. Bob Stehman improved his .425 batting mark, while also appointing a new GLVC (Quality) Tourney in the first game, 3-1, as he pitched a complete game. "It was a good start, but not a great start," said Kahn. "I was happy to get a win and build on it."

It was a good start, but not a great start," said Kahn. "I was happy to get a win and build on it."

The Rivermen began to self-destruct in the fourth inning, drawing two base runners and walking in a score in before setting the inning.

"It was a much better pitch than he allowed today," said Kahn. "The last few games were very well put together, but not good enough. I was proud of the performance."

The Rivermen carried off the win into overtime, again scoring off of a Walken walk.

Ashley Tosley keeps her hand on the bat to get a Bellarmine win. Your dedication in the games.

"I hate to leave unprinted how well we played," said Kahn. "The last few games were very well put together, but not good enough. I was proud of the performance."

"The Rivermen got hit after hit hit after hit, but the game was called after the bottom of the eighth, when the officials stepped play due to the 12-inning rule. When a team gains a 12-inning lead, in a nine-inning game, or a 10-inning lead in a seven-inning game, the game is considered official, and the leading team is awarded the victory.

According to Dr. David Huffman, Athletic Director of UM-St. Louis, "I wish that the game had gone all the way, because I still have a few more games that I want to see."

The Rivermen's baseball team is just six games behind the NCAA Division II Tournament and for the first time in the past season Head Coach Buescher said. "We're having a remarkable sequence and take pride in the way the team has been handled."
"U-571" is a real-life story about WWII submarine commander William "Pinky" Espenlaub and his engineers. The film chronicles the success of the "Enigma" code machine, the machine the Nazi's used to encode and decrypt secret messages through an unbreakable code. Starting with the sinking of American submarines and the loss of their pilots, the story follows what happened when the U.S. first realized the German submarine was not the only threat. Starting with the sinking of the USS Greer and the grueling opening scene, the film builds tension as the story is told. In the opening scene, Pinky is trying to retrieve the Enigma machine, but fails and is captured by the Germans. Escaping, he mobilizes his team and sets out on a daring mission to capture the Enigma machine. The tension in the film is heightened as the crew is threatened by the Nazi's and their use of an unbreakable code. The film is paced fast and builds to an exciting conclusion. The film is about courage, determination, and the fight against impossible odds. The film is a must-see for anyone interested in history and WWII submarine warfare. The cast is excellent, with strong performances from Harrison Ford, Matt Damon, and Denzel Washington. The film is directed by Renny Harlin, and is a must-see for anyone interested in WWII submarine warfare.

FILM REVIEW

"Human Traffic" is thought-provoking,

Starting To

"Human Traffic" is a satirical film, a comedy about the 20-somethings leaving their McJobs behind for a weekend of fun and freedom. The film is set in Canfield, a working-class city, and, much like cities everywhere, the weekend for the young means music parties, pub-hopping and clubbing, non-stop, with highs and lows of all sorts in the duration of the weekend. The film is very funny, visually dynamic and implicitly insightful in its use of five friends making their way through life, stilted by their jobs but freed by their friendship. The film has elements of the film "40" and "Transporting," but is its own affining, dazzling version of that common theme.

The story is narrated by Jip (Olly Simon) who starts off as on a wild ride by introducing us to his friends and their current problems, in a very funny, kinetic, movie-trailer-like way. Sparklingly humorous vignettes, we learn that Lulu (Lorraine Pilkington) is beautiful but kept by those frustrated by the music videos, combing his points, but not lose the narrative of the week. At one point in their clubbing, the friends talk about taking the drug Ecstasy. I've never been a more believable expansion of why young people might take drugs, what the experience is like, and why drugs are ultimately dangerous. The subject is presented in an honest way, free of melodrama, but, even here, tongue-in-cheek humor abounds, therefore some things can be said more powerfully with humor. As they go through their weekend together, the friends evolve and change, discovering things about each other and themselves, while always keeping the audience amused as we come to care about them.

This film achieves what last year's "Buffy" film had set out to do. This is a new take on the action film for Kenigan, showing a level of originality and command of sensitive technique beyond many experienced directors. Kenigan's honestly and dark humor about teenage desperation are the strong suits of the film, the strong story of the film, and fine perfor-

Professor signs contract, Mock Trial team gets new lease on life

BY BENJAMIN ISRAEL

Stephen Caliendo and the Mock Trial Team will be back next year. Caliendo, a popular professor of political science, has agreed to stay on as the faculty sponsor of the Mock Trial, which has signed a contract to return to UM-St. Louis next year.

Caliendo's contract as a faculty professor was scheduled to run for the end of the school year and, after returning from his first-overseas assignment, members of the Mock Trial team said they feared they would lose him because it might have been too much for a busy person and he hasn't been recognized as a modern organizer, and he wasn't eligible to receive funding from the university.

Caliendo said he likes teaching at public universities where tuition is most affordable and want to stay at UM-St. Louis.

"We are pleased with the return of Stephen Caliendo," said the Mock Trial team."This past year, the political science department has hired Caliendo and Gerald Louis next year.".."The team is now completely ready to move to some new directions as the time of Caliendo's return, Caliendo said."

Caliendo said he liked teaching at public universities where tuition is most affordable and want to stay at UM-St. Louis.

"As UM-St Louis, we have a lot of non-faculty assistants," said Caliendo."Class discussions are much more interesting because of their expertise."

However, because he valued the department's efforts, it would be able to return, Caliendo said. He is in the fall of the department's first year and will, for the first time, have money from the School of Arts and Sciences, which he has managed to raise in the past.

"The political science department has hired Caliendo and Gerald Louis next year,".."The team is now completely ready to move to some new directions as the time of Caliendo's return, Caliendo said."

If you want to be successful, then you need to understand that people are busy and don't have time to prepare for you in the real world.

Nobody offers more opportunities for UMSL students than we do. Whether you are interested in writing, business, sales, graphic design, or even web design, we have something for you!

The Current is an exciting place to work. Every day we get to give staff members to learn something new and meet somebody new. We take two trips a year to various places like downtown St. Louis, bowling, roller skating rinks, games, pizza, and other stuff. What other organization offers so much pay and lets you be a part of it?

New FIF album is more about hope than hype

BY JOHN RENAUD

Don't like the phase of band singer? Reese Roper soaring through the air...a good idea!...Nothing beats the freshness of Reese Roper's latest album, "All The Money Can Buy." It's a world of its own.

"All The Money Can Buy"

Surviving in the world of FIF

Band: Five Iron Frenzy

Label: 5 Minute Walk

Our opinion: ****

With his signature phase, Reese Roper has made a name for himself as a leader in the world of FIF. His latest album, "All The Money Can Buy," is a testament to his musical talents.

The album was recorded in the studio of his parents in Colorado, and the music is raw and unfiltered, capturing the essence of the band's dynamic sound.

The opening track, "Fallenheart," features Reese Roper's powerful vocals and a driving beat that sets the tone for the rest of the album. The song is a tribute to his father, who passed away when he was young, and it's a powerful reminder of the importance of family.

"Fallenheart" is followed by the hit single "Four-Fifty-One," which has become a fan favorite. The song's catchy melody and energetic rhythm make it a perfect summer anthem.

The album continues with other standout tracks like "The Money Made" and "The World Is Yours," both of which showcase Reese Roper's versatility as a musician.

"The Money Made" is a fast-paced rock song that features aggressive guitars and Reese Roper's raspy vocals. The song is a nod to the band's roots in the punk and hardcore scenes.

"The World Is Yours," on the other hand, is a more acoustic track that highlights Reese Roper's softer side. The song is about the strength of family and the importance of staying true to oneself.

Overall, "All The Money Can Buy" is a fantastic album that is sure to please fans of FIF and anyone looking for a dose of inspiration and hope. With its powerful messages and catchy tunes, the album is a must-listen for anyone who believes in the power of music to make a difference.
Have a great summer from the people at the Current

Current affair, he makes it thrive, and his devotion to the paper shows in everything he does. There’s also Josh Renaud, production manager and web editor, whose long hours in front of his computer have resulted in consistently excellent work. I can’t wait to see the wonderful things he’ll do when he becomes editor of The Current later this month.

I can’t say enough good things about Brian Douglas, this paper’s next managing editor. Not only is Brian one of the best news writers I know, he’s also one of the most dedicated staffers I’ve ever worked with. We all love him, and he always delivers, a quality that will serve both the staff and the readers of the paper well. (And, by the way, I think we’re already seeing the wonderful things he’ll do.)

I could go on and on, but I’ll save that for next month. Judi is advisor, and the University Senate and student government more. Actually, if more students participated in student government, we might have better student leaders, and it would be better for students. We know it’s difficult on a small campus—we have jobs and families and long commutes, but if it gives us a better University, it would be worth it.

Michelle Van Iseghem have been Macias set. Mutsumi Igarashi and Brune has stepped up and carried on to generate some good publicity and student body. We know that many students accomplish things as individuals and as part of student groups, like the Student Government Association or whatever replaces it to participate in programs funded by our decisions. When, without warning, the most overworked, underappreciated students want and need, and administration. To see the wonderful things he’ll do when he becomes editor of The Current later this month.

We all love him, and he always delivers, a quality that will serve both the staff and the readers of the paper well. (And, by the way, I think we’re already seeing the wonderful things he’ll do.)

I could go on and on, but I’ll save that for next month. Judi is advisor, and the University Senate and student government more. Actually, if more students participated in student government, we might have better student leaders, and it would be better for students. We know it’s difficult on a small campus—we have jobs and families and long commutes, but if it gives us a better University, it would be worth it.

Michelle Van Iseghem have been Macias set. Mutsumi Igarashi and Brune has stepped up and carried on to generate some good publicity and student body. We know that many students accomplish things as individuals and as part of student groups, like the Student Government Association or whatever replaces it to participate in programs funded by our decisions. When, without warning, the most overworked, underappreciated students want and need, and administration. To see the wonderful things he’ll do when he becomes editor of The Current later this month.

I can’t say enough good things about Brian Douglas, this paper’s next managing editor. Not only is Brian one of the best news writers I know, he’s also one of the most dedicated staffer
The study involves a telephone interview (about 1 hr.) plus two to four afternoon laboratory sessions (8-hr. each). The experiment will measure the effects of nicotine and alcohol on balance and eye movements, and on heart rate and blood pressure.

You will be compensated for your time.

What You Need To Know About Selling Your Books

Wholesale: Next Best Offer

* For books having national demand, the wholesale company will pay 15% to 40% of the new book price.
* Discontinued books are shipped to a wholesaler who recycles them to other colleges and universities where they are needed.
* Old editions have no national value.

Remember - Our goal is to buy back as many of your books as possible
* Recycling books is good for the environment and lowers the price of textbooks.
* The book prices are determined by the authors and publishers.
* Wholesale prices are based on national supply and demand.
* Copies in poor condition will be deducted appropriately.
* Old editions have no value and cannot be purchased.
