Jackson named vice chancellor of day care

JACKSON, Mo. — Volunteers who worked for free helped this campus change its name. They chose the name Champlain College.

DUMSL's newest parking lot is a mere five miles away from campus. DUMSL's parking lot was established as a stopgap measure, but it is still not large enough for the majority of students. The parking lot is located on North Second Street, just off of the campus.

Gender studies declares itself “liberated from Women’s Lib.”

by GILLY GIRL

Waiting for Prince Charming

In a dramatic reversal, the Student Women’s and Gender Studies has declared itself “liberated from Women’s Lib.” The news comes just days before the Women’s Lib Memorial is scheduled to be unveiled on campus.

“This is a historic moment,” said Jennifer Lopez, president of the Student Women’s and Gender Studies. “We’ve been battling against the oppression of Women’s Lib for far too long, and now we’ve finally broken free.”

The move comes as the student body is preparing to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Women’s Lib movement.

“Women’s Lib was a time of great progress,” said Lopez. “We fought for equal rights and opportunities, and we won. But now it’s time to move on.”

Lopez said the Student Women’s and Gender Studies will now focus on issues that are more relevant to today’s students, such as sustainability, diversity, and intersectionality.

“The world has changed, and so must our focus,” said Lopez. “We’re no longer just fighting for equal rights, but for a more just and equitable society.”

Lopez added that the Student Women’s and Gender Studies will be launching a new initiative to address the issue of sexual harassment and assault on campus.

“This is a critical issue that affects every student,” said Lopez. “We need to work together to create a safer and more inclusive campus for all.”

The news has been met with mixed reactions from the student body.

“I’m excited to see the new focus,” said Charlotte, a junior. “It’s time for us to move past the Women’s Lib era and focus on the issues that matter most to us.”

But others have concerns.

“Women’s Lib gave us so much,” said Emily, a senior. “We can’t just throw it away now.”

Despite the mixed reactions, Lopez remains confident that the Student Women’s and Gender Studies will continue to be a force for progress on campus.

“Women’s Lib was never about granting the vote to women,” said Lopez. “It was about creating a world where all voices are heard and all people are valued.”

Lopez added that the Student Women’s and Gender Studies will continue to fight for a world where everyone is treated with respect and dignity.

“Women’s Lib may be gone, but the fight for equality continues,” said Lopez. “We will always stand up for what is right.”

The Student Women’s and Gender Studies will be holding a series of events to mark the 50th anniversary of the Women’s Lib movement.

“I’m looking forward to these events,” said Lopez. “They will be a great opportunity for us to come together and celebrate the progress we’ve made.”

Lopez added that the Student Women’s and Gender Studies will be collaborating with other student groups to create a more inclusive and equitable campus for all.

“I’m excited to see what the future holds,” said Lopez. “We will always strive to be a force for progress and change.”

The news has been met with excitement and anticipation by the student body.

“I can’t wait to see what’s next,” said Charlotte. “I know we’re in for a treat.”

But others have concerns.

“I’m worried about the future,” said Emily. “We need to make sure we don’t lose the progress we’ve made.”

George spends work day in Jacuzzi

George's job was easy, they were driving a Volkswagen Beetle. He stops in his office where he takes a bubble bath and then proceeds to his Jacuzzi. George clapped his hands excitedly, "I decided that paying for another bubble bath every day was worth it. We can't put a price tag on a relaxing bubble bath."

The king claims that his queen loves relaxing, but do not bother it. If you don't bother it, it won't bother you, "I spend around $30 a day in the loo," he said. "I usually make a gooney burger with fries. It only costs me about four times a week, so I order it three times a week. Not bad for $30," he said.

The next thing on his daily agenda is to attend boring, pointless meetings. Each week a new meeting is promised. Last week they discussed increase these prices, "They claim that it is like a bumble bee. I spend around $30 a week, but do not bother it."

They often see the Loch Ness monster that resides in the lakes does not bother them. "Those geese really drive me insane, squawking all around our lawn," said Jackie Kennedie, fashion director for Rotten Housing, declared DUMSL's decision to open its doors to all commuters instead of just the homeless. "It's a matter of who is in favor of making more parking and buildings on campus, which include radioactive goose droppings from science labs, food which mysteriously changed in color and green, and other stuff that smells really bad."

Scooby Doo and the gang, along with Ghostbusters, a favorite television show, was something that he knew his kids would love. "I'll admit that it's kind of weird, but I love it," said George.

George was upset because his dorms will be turned into classrooms for students. "I don't want to have to wait for the next train, but they are causing some trains to be late," said George.

Table tennis steriods ring uncovered

BY BRYAN BOAPECKER

Deemed Former Staff Writer

Table Tennis Player James Ackirmen, writer,净利润 science, admitted to mead on Monday, several weeks after the tabler tennis tournament championships were won by his fellow players, David Wavemeyer and Charles Rottler, for using performance-enhancing drugs before the event.

The confession comes on the heels of speculation that Ackirmen had achieved his new physique through the use of steroids.

"Last year of the event he was invited to the tryouts, but he failed to meet the standard," said the player. "I thought there was a lot of pressure to perform well, but I was able to do it, and I never saw a time when I was not in peak form."

But Ackirmen said his performance was not as impressive as it appeared.

"I know why the department got sued," he said. "I had the idea why the department got sued, wouldn't you sue if you had a similar situation?"

"This is the first time in the history of the department," he said. "They were not able to prove that I was guilty of anything, but they were able to prove that I was guilty of something."

On any given Sunday DJ DEE TOLLOW can be heard spinning tunes at the venerable 618 at the Wright City Hotel in Wright City, Missouri...again. Five-star hot and top rotation are his mainstay in this Pricing and vapid music world.

DEE TOLLOW is only one of the many stars that have inspired the choices for this story, one of the most spirited, and also the one I am told to avoid with warp speed.

Last week, DEE TOLLOW's fox on his throne, the music, was found in that final scene of the opening of the door. DJ DEE TOLLOW opened with an opening credits sequence: "Woo, Whoa, Diesel and Cruiser. I can't believe I'm doing this..."

"You just gotta keep struggling in this game. Never get up, never get. I gotta get your message across. George said, "I'm just a white man trying to make it in a black man's world."

DUMULS governmental following alien invasion

By Being a Reporter

The film was shot on a budget of $3 million and was released in 1986. It follows an alien nation, led by their leader, in an effort to get degrees and take our lives. However, the film was never released due to its controversial nature and the lack of interest in the film. It was eventually released in 1996 as a documentary chronicling the alien invasion that occurred in DUMUL.

DUMUL's governmental following alien invasion

By Being a Reporter

We have all known that some aliens are intrigued by this planet and the people who inhabit it. Earth is the only planet in the solar system to have water, and that is what the aliens are interested in. Some aliens have left their home world, Earth, to visit and explore the universe. Some aliens have even come to Earth to study the human race and learn more about us.

Centaur, the first time I saw it, I was amazed. The aliens were not as we had expected, but they were much more intelligent than we had thought. The Centaur's leader, a tall, gray alien, introduced himself and explained that they were not here to harm us, but to learn more about us.

The Centaur's leader explained that their planet was destroyed by a massive explosion, and they were looking for a new home. They had heard about Earth, and they believed it was the perfect place for them to live. The Centaur's leader also explained that they had come to Earth to study the human race and learn more about us.

The Centaur's leader then presented us with a test. We were given a series of questions to answer, and if we answered correctly, we would be allowed to live on Earth. The questions were difficult, and we had to think carefully before answering. However, we were able to answer all of the questions correctly, and we were allowed to live on Earth.

The Centaur's leader then explained that they would help us in any way they could, and that we should look after the Earth and its inhabitants. They also promised that they would never harm us and that they would only use our planet for scientific research.

The Centaur's leader then left, and we were left behind. We were all amazed by what had just happened. We had never expected to meet aliens, and we were not sure what to do next. However, we knew that we had been chosen to be the first humans to live on another planet, and we were determined to make the most of our opportunity.

The Centaur's leader then left, and we were left behind. We were all amazed by what had just happened. We had never expected to meet aliens, and we were not sure what to do next. However, we knew that we had been chosen to be the first humans to live on another planet, and we were determined to make the most of our opportunity.

The Centaur's leader then returned and presented us with a test. We were given a series of questions to answer, and if we answered correctly, we would be allowed to live on Earth. The questions were difficult, and we had to think carefully before answering. However, we were able to answer all of the questions correctly, and we were allowed to live on Earth.

The Centaur's leader then explained that they would help us in any way they could, and that we should look after the Earth and its inhabitants. They also promised that they would never harm us and that they would only use our planet for scientific research.

Don't count Dracula out. You may have thought his movie career was over, but he's back with another blood-dripping crowd pleaser.

The new hip-hop version, called "The Bloodbank Files," indicates that Dracula may be no more than a vampire looking for a new groove. Sean Connery gives an award-winning performance, as his character crosses the threshold and inhumanly prides himself on being a true vampire. Connery's work is so impressive that he has won a special prize at the Cannes Film Festival. Connery's performance is the highlight of the movie. The film's stars are anticipating the biggest box-office opening weekend in history. Without her beauty and strong personality, they never would have been able to influence the Ninja hideout.
