UML uses $27.5 million from MOHELA sale

By Ben Swidford

Missouri Governor Matt Blunt has maneuvered a solid plan to sell $27.5 million of Missouri Higher Education Loan Authority (MOHELA) bonds to include a loan that would provide money for infrastructure improvements on Missouri campuses as well as fund emerging technology programs.

"It will affect UML in a positive way," UML is making building improvements possible because of the sale," said Assistant Director of Student Financial Services in Missouri, UM-Louis. "It will benefit our campus community.

The plan, which was reviewed in detail by开封市政府 on midnight, was implemented by the Missouri Development Finance Board, without legislative approval. In Blunt's proposed Cooperation Agreement plan, MOHELA's assets would be sold to the MOED and in exchange, MOHELA would receive $1.1 million to tax-exempt bonds from the Federal Department of Economic Development of the State of Missouri.

The MOED will then distribute the money, however, the Cooperation Agreement is still in draft form and has not been fully agreed upon. The program and Bell Law of Kansas City, MO, prepared the Cooperation Agreement. Citizen and Bell "decried" the agreement was "unauthorized under Missouri Law.

In addition to the $27.5 million, MOHELA will receive $450,000 from the sale of $27.5 million to UMSL.

MSS has fewer security problems this year

A door to the Millennium Student Center was left open in a crowded classroom last Sunday afternoon, which was closed. Puzzled, the students were not concerned about the door being left open. However, the security personnel were.

"I've heard occasionally when we have door open events, especially now with the threat of terrorism and violence, they'll be briefly checking into the student building just to make sure they're not doing anything suspicious," he said.

"I feel this is not too bad, people are aware of the potential they may have. It had to be protected, Blunt said. "I feel like it was a time to find out if I'm supposed to take any steps to secure the campus." Walker's familiarity with the campus and the campus security officers, he said.

The quest for gender equality is gaining ground at UM-St. Louis, as evidenced by the opening of PRIZM, recently opened student centers. The center and gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender (GLBT) students will be housed in the center.

While the Institute for Women’s Studies at UMSl noted that the agency originally set the precedent, it asserted a comprehensive standards manual which contains 465 standards encompassing all areas of law enforcement, Niemeier said.

Can a lack of steroids explain the Cardinals’ sluggish season?

By Steven Adams

I went to a Cardinals’ baseball game this past Wednesday night and it was one of the worst games in which I actually really cared. Despite a gorgeous night, quality time with my family, and a few good experiences, I couldn’t shake the feeling that it wasn’t enjoyable or fun.

Like most, I’m a huge Cards fan. I have been for years, and I’m a diehard St. Louis fan. I am a guy who actually cares about every Cardinals’ game, and I was surprised that I didn’t care less about this game.

This is supposed to be the year that the Cardinals are one of baseball’s. The major leagues, which many claim last a Blow my dog, is now, is tuning for a World Series appearance, I couldn’t help but wonder if any of the Cardinals have been so much fun.

I read the book Game of Shadows this summer, in which two San Francisco reporters chronicled how high-profile athletes, from Olympic runners to baseball players, allegedly used illegal substances, with the help of some major labs and a man by the name of Victor Conte. The book, which.entryed the football and the basketball world, is about the use of performance-enhancing drugs.

There are few players who have actually confessed to using steroids, including Jose Canseco. One has even gotten caught: Rafael Palmeiro, Mark McGwire, who has been linked to the use of steroids, which is a huge problem in the major leagues. But McGwire has denied using steroids, and I’m not sure he should be blamed.

I do not know if the Cardinals are as good as they have been in the past few years. So I see in writing that I don’t think anyone should do drugs.

It’s true that the Cardinals do not have as good a team as they have been in the past few years. If I see in writing that I don’t think anyone should do drugs.

Who is anyone that steroid use is not allowed in the league? I refuse to be afraid that A1 is not allowed in the league. I refuse to be afraid of the Cardinals because of the Steroid Scandal. I refuse to be afraid of the Cardinals because of the Steroid Scandal.

At the fifth anniversary of the 9/11 attacks, Fergie, from The Black Eyed Peas, and her co-stars will present “Truth Consequence: The Documentary.” The documentary involves civil liberties and the impact of the 9/11 attacks. The screening will be held at 11 a.m. on Sept. 11 in the Student Union Auditorium.

“Truth Consequence” is a documentary that explores the lives of the families who were affected by the 9/11 attacks. It features interviews with family members, and the documentary aims to create a sense of community and understanding among those affected by the tragedy.

The documentary is directed by Harvey Keitel, who co-stars in the film. Keitel, a well-known actor, has been involved in many films and TV series, including “Reservoir Dogs” and “Goodfellas.” He co-starred in the film with other notable actors such as Michael Keaton, who plays a CIA agent known as Kirk.

In the film, Keitel’s character is a New York-based CIA agent who was one of the first to respond to the attacks. He works with Mossad to track down bin Laden, and his actions and decisions are critical to the success of the mission.

The documentary is expected to be a powerful and moving tribute to the victims of the 9/11 attacks, and it is hoped that it will inspire others to remember and honor those who lost their lives.

For more information on the screening, visit the Student Union Auditorium website or contact the event coordinator.

Is Paris burning? Not with singing talent, as new Paris Hilton CD shows

By PAUL HACKBARTH

Paris Hilton has a new video available on the Internet, but this one doesn’t include ex-boyfriend Rick Salomon. What’s even more surprising is that it’s for a movie.

Her new video, which she posted last week, is titled “Paris Hilton: The Movie.” The video features Hilton as a model who travels the world, collects artwork, and meets famous people.

Hilton, who is known for her fashion sense and love of luxury, is also shown shopping for jewelry and clothing. She is seen wearing a variety of outfits, including a black dress and a red dress.

The video is a behind-the-scenes look at Hilton’s life as a celebrity, and it is expected to be a hit with fans who love Hilton’s style and fashion sense.

The video is available on the Internet, and fans can download it for free. It is a must-see for anyone who loves Paris Hilton and her fashion sense.

The golden age of magic is elegantly captured in 'The Illusionist'.

By CATIE MARCUS

 сильно

Harry Houdini is a name we all recognize, but he was only one of many magicians that transformed the world in the late 1800s and early 20th century, a Golden Age of stage magic. The Illusionist star Michael Fassbender brings the story of the enigmatic Eisenheim to modern audiences with a lavish production, often with a fine sense of atmosphere.

But in this century, it would be the kind of eye-attracting cover that would be part of its appeal. The Illusionist was produced by the ever-present, though not ground-breaking or irresistible. Some people will be taken in and entertained by the film's quirky and inventive cast of characters, but others will be bored by the dialogue and pacing. And thus, 'The Illusionist' is a good film for magic fans and for people with a taste for historical mystery and romance. It is less so for those who want an entirely different approach to the story, a morbidly sentimental flick.

Edward Norton plays magician Eisenheim the Illusionist, who on a trip to Austria reconnects with his sacred childhood sweetheart Sophie von Trap played by Jessica Biel. With a haunting score by Philip Glass, a stellar performance by Norton and a strong supporting cast, 'The Illusionist' does all the pre-arranged requisites, setting just the right stage for many magic scenes. Norton does a good job of creating a big-fashioned, period atmosphere that is just right for mystery and magic. However, the film is not without its problems. Giddy, the other musical on that summer's movie schedule, creates a constant disturbance. The emotional connection between Reid and Norton is stronger in their off-stage performances, but it has a strong presence in the film.

'The Illusionist' deserves credit for doing a daring in a summer season of sequels, remakes, and native Austria, a chance encounter reuniting him with his secret childhood sweetheart Sophie, who is skeptical about Eisenheim and his illusions, but gives us a sense of how magicians thrive between a throne of strong presence in the mer sea of sequels, remakes, and nativ...
Quincy shuts down Riverwomen in first home game

But team rebounds on Sunday, defeating Saginaw Valley State

By LEAGAN FUNK

The University of Missouri-St. Louis women's soccer team improved their record to 2-2 after splitting two games in the weekend home opener. The Riverwomen lost 2-0 to the Quincy Hawks on Sept. 1 in the first Great Lakes Valley Conference match of the season. The Riverwomen defeated the Saginaw Valley State Cardinals 2-0 on Sept. 3.

Kim Koenig (Quincy Notre Dame, St. Louis, Mo.) scored the first goal of the game for the Hawks in the 22nd minute of Wednesday night when they hosted the Riverwomen. Lee scored her second goal of the season against the Saginaw Valley Cardinals on Sunday, the Riverwomen lost 2-0.

The UM-St. Louis offense was able to get two of their four shots on goal. The Riverwomen defense kept the Hawks offense in check, allowing only one shot on goal. The UM-St. Louis defense shut out the Hawks during the homeopener 2-0.

The Riverwomen defense kept the Hawks offense in check, allowing only one shot on goal. The Riverwomen goalkeeper Zach Behrmann, who played all 90 minutes, made the save, picking up the shutout, his second of the season. The UM-St. Louis offense started out slow, scoring only one shot during the first half. But by the second half, the offense stepped it up, with a total of seven shots.

Within minutes into the second half, Riverwomen sophomore Colleen Huber scored her first goal of the season and the Riverwomen's first goal at home since October 2005, the team lost 1-0.

Jared Smith, sophomore forward for the Riverwomen, scored his fourth goal of the year unassisted and put UM-St. Louis up 2-0.

"Thanks to my team. They are really making me the bed up," said Smith. "They are doing a good job from the midfield, finding my feet and giving me a chance to score," Smith's soccer coach Dan King had high praise for Smith, who has been a team leader this year. "I am excited. He works hard and he's a go-to player," King said. "He is a very steady player." Smith scored two goals last weekend in the Riverwomen's game against Lyon College and he scored a penalty kick goal against Fontbonne College two days later.

With his goal against Quincy on Friday, Smith has already matched his total of four goals last season. And the season has just started, with 7-1 games left in the season. Smith has three goals this season.

The Riverwomen were shutout in the 2005 CCIW Tournament. The UM-St. Louis offense scored four goals against the Hawks, while the Hawks offense had three.

The Riverwomen defense did a good job of shutting down the Hawks, allowing only one shot on goal. The UM-St. Louis defense shut out the Hawks during the homeopener 2-0.

"I was excited I could do it for the team," said Huber. "I had all the support and I had to finally score. And it's good to know that we've never been before," he said. "The last time the Riverwomen played Quincy, in October 2005, the team lost 1-0. Jared Smith, sophomore forward for the Riverwomen, scored his fourth goal of the year unassisted and put UM-St. Louis up 2-0."

Walker said, "I knew I was going to end up going to UMSL. My parents asked. I hadn't gone through the pro­gram, I wouldn't be here."

So far this semester, his biggest adjustment was getting involved, as he joined the Associated Black College Students. The hardest part of his transition is figuring out how to pay for college.

Walker said the biggest difference between college and high school was "I was not a student, I was a high school student. High school life is nothing like the college life?"

Williamson said he would like to see more partnerships with other St. Louis high schools "because they certainly introduce students to an area that's pretty much foreign to them. They're introduced to it, it is sort of given them a whole different take on what they thought was a college.

Carl Cook, vice president of Academic Affairs, said no local high schools have approached his office about making similar partnerships yet, but he wants to meet with St. Louis public schools to discuss potential programs.
