New DUMSL Identity Project narrows list of names to six

By DAVID GRANGER

The search for DUMSL's new identity continues as children have narrowed down the final list. The new identity will replace the helmet, the name DUMSL sports team for the last 40 years. The choices of the Continuation, the Trojans, the River Sheds, the Polar Bears, the Most Popular and the Hill IT Cars. Deadend Billy Bremner, representative for the Office of Student Affairs, said the choice was aided by an outside

Firm.

"We have spent a relatively modest $25,000 on this search," Bremner said. "But boy, it was worth it! It means, this is our identity, people. This represents all of our sporting events."

Bremner, who prefers the Trojans (see World War II for reasons), said he believes DUMSL students will rally behind the effort.

"Just the other day I heard someone shout 'who cares' when I was talking about it," Bremner said. "Obviously, that person is not for the Hill IT Cars."

What can I say?" Quinter said. "There was just too much internal pressure. I had to resign, for the good of the students."

Here's a story of a man named Brady

By PAUL WALL

The People's Prophet

Now that head coach of the DUNMSL is a millionaire after winning his age discrimination lawsuit against DUMSL, what will he spend his money on?

"I plan on going out DUMSL," he said. "Calling, drinking, Everywhere." Brady mainly spent the Pentagon with the money he won from his settlement (about $1.5 million) and plans to renovate the campus. Besides the obvious obvious he will be able to spend his own time; like ski, Daniel Welshy, and Bill Tinkers (one to use for every day of the year), etc.

Quick Read

One little known fact about DUNMSL is that they are on a quick timer and will meet them spend some of their winnings on quiche. Meanwhile.

Brady also wants to open a Quiche shop in the stadium. Through one in the front of business, Brady plans to completely demolish about the buildings on South Campus to build a major football stadium rival to the new Busch Stadium and any West-Munt Supermarket.

The DUMSL students will have to sell out six seats, which some critics have complained is too many.

Baseball games at DUMSL in an average of 57 students. "These other two sports are such a waste when that space could be used for lakes or something great," said Emma Lust, sophomore.

Brady also will spend some of the money on new seats for the basketball stadium. Exploding of campus pregnancy linked to Viagra

Myspace wannabe book made more stalker-friendly

By BRADY McDUGAL

"Never has the feedback for a new book been as positive as it was," said the author. "I just released it last week, and the feedback has been amazing."

According to Hughes, as many as 5,000 people attended the book release and thousands more are expected to read the book over the next few months.

"I'm really excited," Hughes said. "This is the first book I've ever written, and I'm really proud of it."

Hughes said she plans to continue writing books and is currently working on a sequel.

"I'm really excited about this," Hughes said. "I hope people enjoy it as much as I enjoyed writing it."

Who is the author of this book?

"I'm not sure," Hughes said. "I think it might be someone from a nearby town, but I'm not sure."

With the news that Missouri Gov. Matt Blunt has reinstated funding for building projects at DUMSL, Chancellor Tommy Gorge has said construction will begin immediately on new facilities at Benton-Steenwald Hall.

I am pleased to announce rebuilding efforts are under way, said Gorge. Brandon quickly replied, "Confused anti-abortion protesters stand out side Benton-Steenwald Hall at DUMSL last week. They did not understand that DUMSL was not giving abortions, only doing stem cell research." Counter protesters looked on in disgust.

with the Missouri Gov. Matt Blunt has reinstated funding for building projects at DUMSL, Chancellor Tommy Gorge has said construction will begin immediately on new facilities at Benton-Steenwald Hall.

"I am pleased to announce rebuilding efforts are under way, said Gorge. Brandon quickly replied, "Confused anti-abortion protesters stand out side Benton-Steenwald Hall at DUMSL last week. They did not understand that DUMSL was not giving abortions, only doing stem cell research." Counter protesters looked on in disgust.

"It's controversial, no doubt," Gorge said. "However, since when were we banned from doing research?... other than that?" Gorge Blunt is in favor of the new degree program. He has locked horns repeatedly with several anti-stem cell research groups such as Missouri Right Now.

"It's about time someone stood up to those hardcore," Blunt said, while using a bag of Doritos. "All the time they are mocking and persecuting and criticizing. Like those words? I got 'word-a-day' too in scout camp!"

MBS President Moral McRightnow, said his organization already is mobilizing to stop the "dilution of the moral fiber of society" that this research may someday cure. "She also wants everyone to know she is better than you."

"One day, we'll learn to stop playing God," McRightnow said. "It is sick that these people suffer terrible, debilitating diseases. Man has no right to cure diseases like this. I mean, look what happened after man cured polio. The last long-bus­­ness went into the crapper."

Gorge is taking a proactive stance against the attacks from pro-life groups. In fact, he can hardly believe his ears.

"Come... seems to me the people of this state gave the ok for stem cell research in November, unless I am mistaken. Why, they voted to pro­­tect it," Gorge said. "So, what the hell? Some people are just sore loss­­ers, I guess."

DUMSL's NEW SHUTTLE ROUTE:

The new shuttle route is shown above. This marks 19 times the shuttle route has been changed just this year. The Department of Parking and Transportation has hired a new shuttle driver. Billy from the legendary comedy newspaper comic, "The Family Circus," has taken over the reins of getting students and from class. Said Billy, "I'm putting those feet as fast as I can." Complaints about the new routes can be sent to the guy in charge of the routes, Leonardo Tartar pouvoir, where he will promptly have you expelled for parking him off. That is all.

The Current is horrible!

Have you read The Current? It's that other newspaper on campus. We read it every week, and we guess you'll do the same.

Why does it suck, you may ask yourself. Go ahead and ask yourself, we'll wait. Good. Now, we will explain.

For some old reason, The Current feels the need to print actual "news." What the hell? They are all about "information" and "facts" and "stupid things" we are too dull.

Take for instance, their apparent crusade against Nick Landgren, the SGA president. This guy has done nothing but help the students of DSLM. Seriously, we need resolutions saying hello to Chancellor Tommy Gore.

This is a guy who would kill off playing Wally Ball for you, and The Current is always hanging on him. We all know the most pressing need that faced DSLM when they took office was a lack of a Riley for Life event. That beastie, Adam Wissman, seems to always be writing something about how inefficient or SGA profligacy. It is an act.

Now move to The Current's smug column. Not too long ago, The Current published a story, written by Jason Greenberg, about the office of Student Body Officer's "lies" of pro-constituency goals and newlegislation in place to prevent pro-office candidates.

Evidently, The Current feels it's bad to spend almost $30,000 at Best Buy on products that cannot be identified. So what if we fill in the old adage, ignorance is bliss. We don't want to know about problems on this campus. Hell, if the campus administration does not know or care, why the hell should we?

But in real life we are not advocating violence against the people named above (or any other Current supporter you bump into). But if we don't know... we are just pointing out discrepancies and problems with that newspaper.

To reach the members of The Current, cut it out, will ya? No more bad news. Present on now, just write stories about happy bunnies or happy party times in the SGA.

The Scoop on the Riverpoe

By Funs of Darnons

What has the world come to when every aspect of sports has been hijacked by these forms of performance enhancing drugs?

I know for it may be hurt to believe, but even our own beloved mainstay the Riverpoe has been reported tak­ ing banned performance enhancing drugs.

"I just wanted to be at the top of my game," said the Riverpoe. "All of the other major mascots are bigger and stronger. I thought I could improve more fame by using a couple of these new protein shakes and stuff that the f*ck Barry bonds is taking I never meant to hurt anyone."

The Riverpoe has been suspended from games and party duties until for lab work comes back with the results. An even more robotic plot wheel with a thin for blood will take place for the remainder of the season. So far this season, seven reasons have been suspended for using banned substances.

"The competition level for mascots is outlandish," said Thomas the Liger. "Some reasons feel the need to cheat to get more fans to like them. I feel this is a mistake, but a personally justified, you will succeed."

I do not know what to think about mascots using drugs. These guys aren't supposed to be there entertaining the fans and having fun, they are displaying the great art of being a mascot. I know that it cannot be easy getting into this suit every night and working harder than one else at the game, but this just is not acceptable.

Less is more when it comes to spring fashion this season

By Game Recruit

Precocious

Spring is in the air and with it comes the immortalizing each new season spring fashion trends. This year, less is more this year, in a very real way.

Since Brinkley has been seen with their brand of色情, wearing the latest Vhismen "Sloping" line during their family outings to the park, wearing the bare minimum has become the hottest trend in fashion.

The new "Sloping" sensation involves taking a minimalist scope of fabric and artfully placing it somewhere on the body for maximum effect.

"It's exceptionally popular," said Miguel Bisnath, store manager of MRI's. "People are just wild about the fashion and it's just in the peak of fashion. Tails have never been better."

Mens's Swimwear

Spendos are out and happy bowls are in the air. At Soak Hall, board shorts are great for the hotter look and won't fall down to those gravity waves during a sprint-like malfunction. If you order in the next 3D's you'll throw in a free pair of matching water wings.

Scuba Wear

Dive into summer fashion early this year with JK's draining fins and insured. You may not be able to catch the party not only of the poolside, but in those haar, 22 in. west wing.

As a finishing touch, the swedes who serve as a great way to drink jello shots while the films make great water-resistant footwear.

Women's Swimwear

This stylish and skinny two-piece bikini lets you show it all off. When paired with fabulous fancy flip-flops, it's quite the lovely things for beach lovers to enjoy. You'll be saving to provide your own infiltration devices to fill this swimsuit out! You'll remain almost on the beach without some. Don't make a fashion faux pas and don't last year's styles.

You won't have to hit the racks for six long years before you'll see the same number. And the price won't hang you out to dry or soak up your cash flow. This bikini also allows you to strap on your tool belt to carry your wrench while you white at the beach or Soak Hall.

Borat comes to DUMSL...high five!

By Paul Wall

Winnipeg Free Press

"It's very nice to meet you, Borat. Look around and if there's anything you need, just let me know." Estefan said, in which Borat replied, "Crypin! Give me your tears! If you won't cry, I will make you cry!"

Borat also learned about becoming involved on campus through student clubs in the Office of Student Life. There, he met with Ray Ban, president of the Grader organization on campus.

"So you met the Jews here at DUMSL?" Borat asked. "Yes," Basso said. "We got together and opened a celebration of Happy Meadows Hall after it is completed."

And you thought it was taking you forever to graduate...

By Emily Dure

Staple Hill College

65-year-old DUMSL student Ricardo Manfield was graduated.

"This will be my fifth year here at DUMSL," said the father of four.

Manfield started attending DUMSL in 1973 as a history major. Everything was going to be fine for the next four years until he came to terms with what he supposed to be his highest ambition before graduating.

"Borat, I am the world's greatest history professor," Manfield remarked. "Ethan 2100 is instead of History 210. Basso, you can't teach through reason. I remember going to the class.

"As a result of your teaching, you might not keep his, Manfield breakdown."

During the first extra semester, Manfield learned that the degree requirements changed.

"I was supposed to take something called "Reevory," he said, "but that class was only 20 credits and I figured the grading was wrong. It was about being pretty correct or something." Manfield qualified why he wasn't graduated.

"I think I'm not, he said, because he had taken more credits in Business. They told me I needed to be an actual professor already." he remarked.

"At that time, I had only the three classes, another in the way I got one of those boring papers, but they kept giving them things around on me." Missing classes continued to plague Manfield until 1981, when he decided to find out why he kept missing classes.

"Once, one time they told me I had to come back because I had four grades, he said. "They are a danger to themselves and others!"

When completed, Happy Meadows Hall will be only 77 floors and ready to accommodate over 500 students. The average age per student will be every other floor of their dentists laying their social security.

"This is right!" and "It's correct!" other activities include quilt making, shuffleboard and a bridge hall.

The construction of the new nursing building is not going according to schedule. Head honcho of Ratz Hall after it is completed in his degree.

Borat goes to DUMSL, and met the various students, faculty and administrators here, "I mean, yeah! I just don't understand."

Manfield decided to investigate again why the test keeping so many problems trying to graduate. He checked and studied his requirements, making sure his requirements were squared away. He stated, "There's why we have no grades this semester."

As Borat was walking around the campus, he asked the nurses if they were having problems with their degrees. They said, "No, our degrees are fine."

"That's why we have to do this for me getting my degree?" he said. "I can't do this, I don't understand!"

"We'll probably tell me one year to graduate now. What do you think it would be close in to?"

The other thing, he said, "We can't do this to be a big germ. But a big degree would have to do it for getting in the way."

He stated that he believes the advisors are paid by the student to keep them from graduating.

"I'm going to try by telling some- one to take a wrong answer or some- thing into their changing their degrees late last second period."

Manfield has since seen his own kids graduate, but he does not believe that they have been treated that way. "I'm just going to be a degree."

"We'll probably tell me one kid to graduate now. We're just going to roll," he said.
"Webster's Dictionary" prove to be a jovial affair with many words

By Naked Ace

I found the most important book on the planet, the dictionary. It is a reference book like no other. Filled with words, the dictionary is an indispensable guide for writers and even a spell checker for those who don’t know how to spell. You need to locate the word and then find the definition or you’ll end up with a word that’s not in the dictionary.

These words help theRead how to spell a word. Quick. So, if you wanted to find the word “world,” you just type “world” into the dictionary and then find the definition. This will work with any word. In addition, if you have a word that you want to look up, you can type “world” into the dictionary and then find the definition. This will work with any word.

Here’s the “word” as defined as:

A. Big
B. Small
C. Pretty
D. Interesting

The word “truth” is defined as:

A. Real
B. Fictional
C. Half-truth
D. Interesting

What is interesting about the definition is that it is used to define the word. For example, “truth” is defined as “real” so, if you wanted to find the word “world,” you just type “world” into the dictionary and then find the definition. This will work with any word. In addition, if you have a word that you want to look up, you can type “world” into the dictionary and then find the definition. This will work with any word.

"Duke's of Hazardous Waste Material" leaves audience looking for exit

By Crazy Movie-Heckler

The new action comedy “The Duke Of Hazardous Waste Material” turns former Royal Cooper Association President and Quirky in the Town Shamus into his movie persona. The movie is a variation of two Duke brothers and a scheme involving an atomic waste and a big fight trick.

You wouldn’t know any movie involving hideous nuclear arming dodges across the country would make for a pretty interesting comedy. Unfortunately, we’re not in the case.

With most great ideas, its execution fails for the most part. The movie opens with a scientoiic Donkey Drool (Sharon, Stoner) saying “I’ve had storage tanks been stolen for my life, but the time I accidental almost expire and milk I thought I saw a drool opening around coming the day last time.” In your drool stained head in the box.

Donkey drool for the认真落实 for two rounds with the three brothers (Jim Bob Still and Jim Bob Phillips thankful) shows up.

The drool brothers’ names are depicted by highlighting, just like Bob (Sharon) or Jim Bob (Sharon, Stoner) wouldn’t have worked for the entire thing. Which is all well and good for the first 53 minutes of the movie. The rest of the movie money in play out like a “Waiting for Godot” and the material’s budget was blown on the set of the movie. Unfortunately, the premiere of the movie is exactly what you’d expect. Good, accurate, round one, remastert (defining as remastering, starting, tuning, etc.) is not a good, accurate, round one, remasterted film.

I’ll have the breast: Geese Gone Wild sexifies poultry

By CRAZY MOVIE-MECKER

When DUMSL students headed off into the West to cover spring break for good, they encountered the odd behavior of people on the beach. This included standing in the sand, with no shorts, and just floating there. Some students were also seen walking around in the sand with their pants on.

The idea of a movie called "Geese Gone Wild" is not only the title of the hit-broadway piece but also the name for the new film. The movie is about a group of geese who decide to take a break from their usual habitat and head for the city. The geese are portrayed as running rampant throughout the city, causing mayhem and disorder.

The geese are portrayed as being very aggressive and are seen attacking people and property. The film also features a large number of geese, all of which are portrayed as having the same voice and comportment.

The movie is set in New York City, where the geese are seen causing chaos in Times Square, Central Park, and other public places. The geese are shown to be very clever and are able to elude the authorities.

The film is a parody of the hit-broadway piece and is set to an upbeat tune. The geese are portrayed as being very much like humans, with all the same emotions and desires.

The film opens with the geese landing on the roof of the Times Square building and then proceeding to the streets below. They are then seen running through the streets, causing chaos and destruction.

The geese are shown to be very clever and are able to elude the authorities. They are seen running through the streets, causing chaos and destruction.

The film ends with the geese flying away, back to their natural habitat.

Britteny Shears talks about drugs, wearing panties

Shears: Well, I had 4 of 1 problems with my life when I first started recording this album. I had just ended my marriage and became addicted to painkillers. I was going to the studio high and stuff. I would get stuck on the couch and "I wanna be a pirate" and "whats a pirate worth?"

Anyway, it was obvious that I was going to a 12-step program. I was an alcoholic, I had to go to a 12-step program and get some rest. I decided that if I was going to a 12-step program I had to go meet up with a friend of mine who was a therapist and we had a great session and I realized that I had to search for some purpose in life.

The Stagnant: So you eventually entered rehab?

Shears: Well, it was when I showed up at the rehab. People were long before going to me to do rehab when I wasn’t wearing any pants. But after I showed my head, took a nap, woke up, ate a prey (or whatever you call that thing that’s good for you) and looked in the mirror… I realized that I was one of the most important people that had to be there.

The Stagnant: So you eventually entered rehab?

Shears: Yeah, I checked in and spent a month discovering that I was special and that I should cherish my life and my time and that I should wear panties and not do drugs.

The Stagnant: So how did you come up with the new album “Shared at Last”?

Shears: The album is a compilation of everything I went through. I sang about the pain and problems that I went through. Like the problems everyone goes through, whether it be about losing love or trying to find oneself. In rehab I met a woman who talked to me about God. I realized how the sound-produced as a guide for my life. I used it as a guide in my life. Then decided to do a gospel album about my life, I wanted to search for some purpose to it.

The Stagnant: And why did you decide to perform in the public squares new album “Wenches”?

Shears: I think I have a plan. I found out that I am a young woman who can handle all sorts of pain. In my song “I’m not a girl, but a woman”, I sang about how I am in transition of my life from being a creepy gay girl to not being one.

The song was partly written into my questions in life when I have to decide to decide to decide to decide to decide to decide to decide. I can never move onto the next stage of my life.

The Stagnant: And which is left it in?

Shears: Well, let’s just say that I am ready to be ready for the next stage of my life.

Vesuvius restaurant rumbles to life with erupting dishes

It took months to construct the monument outer structure, but once it was completed there was no doubt that Vesuvius would be a restaurant for all. More than two years of construction and tons of engineers that would continue anyone. Vesuvius opened in December 50, as a board of sugar patrons.

Once inside, the décor stunned, considering it is modeled exactly after the interior of the Mount Vesuvius. How is this possible? Head of design for Vesuvius, Ash Spears, finally disclosed that the designs of the building had actually taken 9 years to complete, because the only way to get the inside of a volcano was to go in a sketch art and get the best.

"We took in about 90 artists before we got it all complete said Sun. "We had to use an artist for the people so that we could get the protection on the outer wall, the last two we used was a little person from Newbury who was wearing 23 pairs.

"Boy, how we feel in art and art history. Once past the initial check of the design and the means at which it was retrieved, the seating was next step the patron. As varying bowls were built up in pots filled with cement which was then left at a temperature just above melting. The pots each held four square tables with four chairs and seating the party is a peculiar affair.

Each person must be seated one to one with the patron. At varying levels they are kept from falling into the vat of hot cement. Once everyone is seated they are connected to a metal cable above the vat and sent out all on the way.

Ordering is non-existent in Vesuvius. Head Chef Master (pre-calibrated) Kristy says that’s coming up for a menu for a restaurant that is in a volcano is simple. Thinking in terms of what some-

DUMSL finally gets a football team!!! Hooray!!

The problem is, school loses all other athletics, and no one gives a rat’s ass

By Name Goes Here

Hoot Odd

After months of debate, deliberations, and what seemed like an eternity, the Big White Ball team will finally get a season. And yes, DUMSL, athletics will now be a real football team. That’s right – no more lauging at the fake football athletes or wondering if the football players will have something to cheer for. DUMSL will now be a real sport, and lose all other sports.

We are really sorry but the football team is established now. Hooray!!

DUMSL Athletes

We will sell our own sports facilities to DUMSL. The team will be professional. Male athletes are welcomed as well. It has always been an offensive line, but we always said it was one term. Now I have my dream. That’s Tony, a four-week back-to-back plan team.

The goal for the new football team is to win the first game. That may seem a bit harsh but losing a single game will reveal the team’s weaknesses that need to be fixed. In football, the fans have made the decision that the team has made since the last game of the world.

Speaking of former greats, The answer is David Eckstein. The question, who will break Barry Bonds single-season home run record

The answer is Sidney. The question, what did the Minnesota Twins, and do they have a shot at the American League Central. The question, what will happen if the Twins actually beat the Kansas City Royals? The question, what will happen if the Twins actually beat the Kansas City Royals?

Attention dorm residents, do you want more safety? Give us your first-born child

BY BLOWN FUSE
Jerich Wimmer

Due to recent thefts in the campus dorms, new, more effective security protocols have been put in place to maintain social order.

The new policies were put into place by Johann Klein and will become effective immediately.

Now more than ever, residents have been urged to implement the new policies, informing them of the new dorm policies.

In order to avoid defaulting "class­p­olicy actions," there are five new rules to which students must adhere.

Rule one states that all guests accompanying residents and prov­iding a picture ID. Guests must also provide a copy of their birth certifi­cate and social security card.

Guests will also need to know the 12-digit weekly guest password and a copy of their fingerprints will be kept on file.

Rule two states that all residents must post random even inspections for "inappropriate conduct" which range from having too much money in bank accounts to painting your dorm room.

The police are on the list of new rules and regulations states that students must honor the mandated shuttles of daily activities, whether or not they are the cause of or contributor to the cap off of the tube of toothpaste.

The first time I saw you, I was 12. You were giving a presentation on the history of video games. I was mesmerized by the vibrant colors and the fast-paced action on the screen. You were so engrossed in what you were doing that you didn't even notice the sweat running down your face.

But then, I saw it. A sudden explosion of colors and sounds. You fell to the ground, clutching your head. I rushed to your side, trying to help you up. You were crying, saying "I don't want this to happen again."

It was just a simple experiment gone wrong, but it was the first time I realized the power of games. Since then, I've been on a mission to find the man behind the game. I've been tracking your every move, trying to uncover the truth.

Some say you're a criminal, others say you're a hero. But I know the truth. You're a mastermind, a genius who uses games to make a difference in the world.

And now, with the recent tragedy, I know that you're in danger. But I will not rest until I have uncovered the truth. For the sake of all who love games, we must uncover the truth.

The end.

DIFFICULTY THIS WEEK: Easy

Easy as your mom Easy as your mom when she's not drunk

Don't even try! You'll just hurt yourself.

Place a number in the empty boxes so that each row, each column and each small 3x3 square contains...

oh what am I kidding? the missing number is 5. Just plug it in the number 5 in the only empty space on the board. Seriously, it's not that hard. I know what I'm talking about. I'm your mom.

This week's Sudoku has been replaced by a Stag-do-ku, which is much easier for DUMSL students to solve. The crossword puzzle has been left unaltered for you smart people.

DOMINALLY, students have mixed feelings about the new building. Libby E. Hall, junior, Claims Hall's name is all in favor of the new degree program.

"It's great," she said. "I mean, it's not like it's really life, it's not. They're just trying to do a bunch of stuff. You don't have outside, you have to work on something. You never hear them right to start thinking about what it is, and sometimes, do you?"

However, there are members of the DOMINALLY community who are outraged over Georgia's decision. Maggie McPherson, sophomore, religious studies and member of www.omegagamma.com, said the research is demeaning of life and should be continued.

"It's a tool to be used very carefully here," McPherson said. "Because there aren't things, a heart, a brain, kidneys, a liver, bones, skin, ears, or of thought does not mean the embryos aren't alive.

When asked about why right-to-life groups do not raise the moral flag when animal testing is conducted, McPherson said there is a distinction.

"We are not permitting life," she said. "So long as it is human life. The rest of them, I don't care. God's love them enough to create them as humans."

Apart from the Irish Imps, climate change advocates have found other sources for climate change besides human activity. "Rapture of Hack" is the real source of warmer temperatures," Crusty said, citing evidence from the dark side of mislead. Lesser Imps were blaming for temperatures, and demons were blamed for increasingly powerful hurricanes, said the high school scientist.

Climate creationists vowed to continue the search for more demons, and psychological creatures might be causing the illusion of global warming. "We're going after these people and water sprites next," Crusty said.

"Study and maybe get a C, if you take 15 minutes and get an 'A,' You'll still fail.

A federal investigation has been launched aimed to look into the program. Ken Star, the most prominent for trying to bring President Bill Clinton over a lawsuit, has been named chief investigator.

"This program was wrong on so many levels," Star said. "I mean, even, if you are going to do it for DOMINALLY, do it for everyone. I am a great leader of a university. If cry ing out loud. Who's my favorite?" DOMINALLY Chancellor Tommy George said the program started out with good intentions, but thanks to greed, has become a mess.

"The plan originally was aimed to make our master's program happen with the help of our city, George said. "We have been flooded with it. Unfortunately, some people can walk with it and abuse their posts." Some people just have to run things for the rest of us.

In an effort to reduce the problem, Express Scripts is offering free morning after pills for those who get frisky with their professors. It is a stop-gap effort to ease the problem. However, there are already programs being proposed by their professors, Price said she could only offer tolerance.

"Well, lack the this," she said. "If you are having your professor's baby, you'll probably get that good grade."
