Gov. Matt Blunt finalizes SB 389

By CANDACE ANDERSON

Gov. Matt Blunt signed Senate Bill 389 Wednesday in Centennial Room C in the Missouri State Capitol. The bill will allocate $28.5 million for renovation projects at UM-St. Louis, Washington University, and St. Louis University.

According to Senator Gary Hardy, the bill came after a meeting between Governor Blunt and Senator Thomas Rieker of St. Louis. According to the bill, the money will be used for educational facilities at the three universities.

Matt Blunt signed the Lewis and Clark Discovery Initiative bill that will allocate $28.5 million for renovation projects at UM-St. Louis, Washington University, and St. Louis University.

This distribution will additionally offer a seed money to two new projects the number of UM-St. Louis students in the arts, bringing the total funding for this initiative to $27.5 to $72.5 million.

UML mourns loss of dance, theater professor

By Candace Anderson

Carlene Nicholas Jackson, assistant professor of theater and dance at Washington University, died Thursday, May 19.

One of her former students, Ashten Miller, junior, communications, remembers asking Jackson if she was feeling okay at the last day of class. "She said she didn't feel well, but she had family-related reasons that day," Miller said.

Jackson was known for her dedication to her students and for her passion for theater and dance. She was a graduate of the University of Missouri-St. Louis and has been teaching at Washington University since 2005.

Jackson was also the costume designer for the most recent production of the Druids Performing Arts, "Booth! as well as "The Imaginary Invalid, Topdog/Underdog and The Rambling Nut and Pippin." She was an assistant professor of costume design at UM-St. Louis and has taught since 2005.

Our Opinion

Greetings, Yellow Tritons. Oh, how you frown. We are not being facetious, but the project to change the Rivermen into the Tritons is not just a pleasant change of face. We are not calling for the removal of the Riv. Instead, it is our hope that the name change will improve the quality of life on campus.

The name change is long overdue. The Riv., for those not familiar with the name, is a mug that is often associated with the Rivermen. The name change is long overdue.

I’ll have a venti ‘drip’: Why coffee is and always will be my favorite drink

I had my first cup of coffee when I was six years old. My mom gave me a small, three-ounce, pre-made and one-fourth-filled cup of coffee. She then told me to enjoy my coffee, and I was left with a half-full coffee and a reminder to never drink coffee again. Since then, coffee has been my favorite drink.

Today, I drink a 20-ounce cup of coffee every day, and I have never felt better. Having a cup of coffee in the morning helps me to start my day and enjoy the day ahead.

Now that I have access to unlimited espresso, I imagine that it will be my drink of choice as I become a new father. Starting young will allow me to enjoy the taste of coffee day by day and may not or may not become my favorite in the future.

I will make my own drinks at home so that I can control the flavor and enjoy the drink.

One of my favorite coffee drinks is a latte with whole milk and a drizzle of chocolate. However, there are many different flavors and combinations to try.

I am not sure how many people know about the health benefits of coffee. For example, coffee contains antioxidants, which are known to reduce the risk of heart disease.

At the end of the project, the student's voice was promptly heard, and the students were given an opportunity to share their ideas.

Now, let's talk about the pros and cons of coffee and what it is doing for us.

In my life and in my mind, I really have not noticed. I have not been asleep since my third cup last Tuesday. I noticed that my hand moves a little more fluidly when I am writing, but I am sure that it is nothing to worry about.

Recently the St. Louis Post-Dispatch ran some articles, stating that drinking coffee can give you a boost of energy. However, I do not want to take the word of experts at face value. I will try to look up more about the effects of drinking coffee and if it works for me.

The soil-greasing industry and worm-eating industries from oil dependency is gaining a lot of attention. We will have to weigh the consequences of using alternative energy.

The coffee taste remains similar to the coffee-flavored sugar. However, coffee is not perfect for all. Some people might drink coffee because they are addicted to caffeine and want to feel awake. For some people, coffee is a way to wake up and get going.

I have a graduate assistant job and I am busy with work. I am trying to get used to drinking a cup of coffee every day.

My mom worked four double shot hazelnut cappuccinos a day to give her body a boost and to give her a sense of control. She was often left with a cup of coffee after I added a cup of sugar to it.

Planes, trains, and automobiles, but no Metro this summer

Students still opt to use Metro despite UMSL not offering passes this summer

BY CANDACE ANDERSON  Assistant News Editor

While some students purchased Metro passes, just as others did last year, some students depend on it as their only mode of transportation. At the end of the spring semester, the Metro received an additional $500,000 from a Metro-friendly donor to continue offering Metro passes. This spring, each student only received 15 boarding passes worth $4 each, for a total of $60. The passes also expire in June. While the university pays for the passes, the student is responsible for the cost of the Metro passes.

When the passes first came out, students were excited. "I used to deal with traffic and it was costly," said Woodard. "I said that the Metro is cheaper than gas and it's easier than driving."

Woodard said she used to rely on public transportation for everything, so the Metro pass was a welcome addition. "I said that the Metro is cheaper than gas and it's easier than driving."

Woodard, who is a senior at UMSL, said the Metro pass program was a "success" and that she would recommend it to others.

Students were also satisfied with the Metro pass program. "I was happy to have the Metro pass for free," said Woodard. "I used to rely on public transportation for everything, so the Metro pass is a welcome addition."

Cultural, celebrities highlight Study Abroad for student at UMSL

By Amy Reichert

Some students dream of traveling overseas, while others dream of meeting famous people. But for Heather Nichols, music, business administration, and French all became reality through her experience with the Study Abroad program.

Nichols is currently spending a semester in Madrid, Spain, and is thrilled for the opportunity to travel abroad.

"I had never been on the continent before. Having the opportunity was amazing," Nichols said.

The UM-St. Louis volleyball player said she enjoys the sun and expense of traveling in Europe. Nichols said, "I'm going to Rome and Berlin for two weeks for $500."

Because of this opportunity, she and a friend took a trip to Ireland for St. Patrick's Day. "She was from Wisconsin and I am from Illinois, so we thought we'd go to Ireland," she said.

Nichols went to Ireland and to see my bigger experience than she expected. Nichols encountered a high profile person at the airport: President George Bush.

On the way home to Madrid, they were waiting at a small shopping area at Shatun Airport. Nichols saw about 10 men dressed in black. She was an older man and an older gentleman. After watching the security guard, the approached the woman, and asked if she knew who the people were. Nichols said, "He said, 'That's my president's father, dear.'" Nichols asked the guard if she could possibly speak to him and another guard let her to his box. Bush introduced her to his tour-guide, and they spoke for about 45 minutes. She offered him some water but he declined it and she turned down the drink because she is an NCAA athlete.

Nichols said that she was very happy moment of Nichols' summer abroad. She said that it was the most amazing experience.

"I was so full of politics. He asked about my family. I asked about his," she said.

The excitement of meeting a former president is not the crowning moment of Nichols' summer abroad. She said that it was the most amazing experience.

"We also want to get more feedback from students about how they liked the program and what would improve the program for the students," she said.

"We think the decisions to continue Study Abroad are very good ideas," Students Government Association president Brian Con said.

"It is important that the program is back," Herson said. "I am a little disappointed to hear it's not being offered, but I am glad to hear this".

According to Queen, the season only contains six to seven percent of the total performances at the Touhill each year.

"It's a little bit of a blow to have thePassion series in its 20th season," Queen said.

The Passion series returns to the Touhill as a cooperative effort of performances by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra for the third year. According to Queen, the series is always about pushing musical boundaries.

"Different from what you'd see from Powell Hall," Queen said.

The first performance in the series will be "An Afternoon of Bluegrass" on Dec. 2, followed by Mississippi's "Pigpickin' Symphony" on Jan. 30. This event will explore the creation of the "Ramblin' Symphony" in a multimedia blend of visual and musical displays, coupled with a lecture and a full performance of the symphony.

The final part of the Passion series is "becoming the most musically sexy year," according to Queen. "You know, it's a season filled with international perfomances.

The event will feature not only St. Louis Symphony performances, but also renowned groups like AfricAme, a Latin American dance group and percussion group. Students and subscribers will recon submitted for the series, including: Monty Alexander, trumpet; Chris Botti, trumpet; David Amram, violin; Gram Miller Orchestra, trumpet; and The Second City, tango.

New round-up performances for the season include: Bernardine Peters, Michael Feinstein and Frank Sinatra. In addition, The Second City City, tango.

"Our goal is to have access to a wide variety of music," Feinstein said.

According to Queen, the season only contains six to seven percent of the total performances at the Touhill each year.

UM-St. Louis even made up about 70 percent of the Touhill calendar, including student performance events and events like last year's "Bottlenight, from page 6

Chaucer Game said with the innovations, "This spring wine" will be caused to be created. "During the innovations, the people have to have some where to go," George said. "Especially in the city."

The Student Government Association of UM-St. Louis passed a resolution on October 26 to adopt eco-friendly building. The benefits of using green energy andsave money and benefit the environment. "Going green is an excellent idea," Queen said. "It is energy efficient, will insulated and better for the environment."

The Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Revolution is a movement to get new standards of environmental design and sustainability by seeking LEED accreditation on new all buildings built by the University. According to United States Green Building Council (USGBC), as a design to adopt LEED for all newly constructed and renovated eco-friendly facilities greater than 5,000 square feet in size was adopted February 2007 in St. Louis. In addi tion, each facility must achieve LEED Silver status using the most current version of the plan for accreditation.

Express Scripts International's new headquarters, located north of Mark Twain Athletic Complex, is also a LEED certified building. JESS President Bryan Goss said he hopes the administration encourage new buildings to be built, a new building, or a combination of both.

Planning and Construction said his department had been working very closely with the Chaucer's Office and the UM-System.

Nichols said that it is good for Americans to study abroad, because "it shows how American are viewed. Also, it shows them what Americans are like - real people, nice people." She added that she is asked questions about the United States every week.

"She encourages everyone that can to study abroad. "It is the best thing anyone can do," Nichols said. "You get great exposure to another culture and independence I don't think you could get in the U.S."

The current is looking for students to fill staff writer positions for fall and winter semesters.

Ocean's 13 still comes up lucky

By Cate Marquis

There's the chance for the summer sequel, "Ocean's Thirteen," the third movie in a series that started with a remake of the Frank Sinatra Rat Pack classic "Ocean's Eleven," is still offering the amusement park. For just plain old escapist entertainment, it delivers the goods.

Danny Ocean (George Clooney) and his pack of heist enablers are back in Las Vegas with another caper to pull off. This one deals with the minutest complications, and has the cast focused on righting a wrong, in their own style, after one of their own (Elliot Cut) is crippled by an unscrupulous casino executive W.B. (Rick Potto).

Brad Pitt, Don Cheadle, Bernie Mac, Carl Reiner and Matt Damon are focused on entertaining than the previous one. This one dispenses with the roman­tic complications, and has the team working on righting a wrong, in their own style, after one of their own (Elliot Cut) is crippled by an unscrupulous casino executive W.B. It's harder to beat.

"Ocean's Thirteen" is a sequel to a film that was a surprise hit in 2001. The original "Ocean's Eleven" was a hit, but it was the third highest-grossing film of the year, but the box office has been declining ever since. Two candidates head to the forefront in search for new athletic director

By Tom Schnable (Sports Editor)

Since the resignation of former athletic director Dr. Lisa Reise last April, the search has been on for a new full-time athletic director.

A search committee consisting of members of the faculty and staff of UM-St. Louis formed "with the intention of finding someone who can create a vision for the department that involves more success, but continues that success in a manner more steps beyond the ones we have come, with the intention of finding the next athletic director.

Committee member Beth Goetz, UM-St. Louis’ women’s soccer coach, said the committee is looking for someone who can communicate with the UM-St. Louis philosophy throughout the entire athletic department.

She said the committee is interested in hiring someone who can create a vision for the department that involves more success, but continues that success in a manner more steps beyond the ones we have come, with the intention of finding the next athletic director.

Taylor is going to have her work cut out for her. If she looks for something new and even a new style of play," said Curtiss-Taylor. I think she’s excited from my end and burn herself out.

The team struggled at times with consistency and was ready to put two teams away last season. Curtiss-Taylor plans to change the look of the team to improve results.

"I am an old-fashioned type coach. So if the girls can adapt to that, hopefully, that will improve the play," Curtiss-Taylor said.

The softball team will not have Jennifer Martin and will need a new assistant coach.

Will new name bring wins to UMSL?

This past school year, the athletic department had a lot of ups and downs.

Some teams and individual players succeeded, while others suffered under the pressure.

None of that matters now, because each team is going to have to look to the future if they want to win.

So what will next year bring for the Rivermen and Riverwomen? Will the Rivermen and Riverwomen continue to win and be the best in the league?

OK, savvy fans out there, these players are still going to play. Volleyball, men’s soccer, softball and women’s soccer finished the season and made it to the GLVC tournament.

I really hope to see those women continue on that success and hopefully make it out of the first round.

I am not sure what to expect from the basketball teams. Are we in for some other fan-applied bottomfeeder season, or are the teams going to start playing like everyone else says they can?

New head coach Lisa Curtiss-Taylor is going to have her work cut out for her as she tries to turn the teams, the great figures from the

NBA Revolution fit for a King

If you have been paying attention to the world of sports, this summer, it is possible that you may have missed some new names, a new face in the league. Now is the time to watch the battle between the old and the new.

The women’s tennis team is going to need to make some serious changes if they want to improve on last year’s 4-14 record.

The softball team is coming close to making it into the GLVC tournament, but they have too many games to lose.

The conference games of the season needed to be won if they wanted to advance to the tournament.

Leaving the last four games of the season eliminated the chance of the team advancing. I am interested in seeing if they can hold it together towards the end of next season.

What will bring your team to the biggest hockey tourney? The men’s team played great during the regular season, but fell to the Nationals. The team will need to stay focused and they will be able to win one more game.

I am still waiting on a baseball field. I am not the only person who is waiting either. So, on this is where the game starts.

If you are a new pitching coach for the team, you have to make sure your team does not go two or go two games losing streaks during the season. Maybe last season was just a one-time occurrence, but the team can’t afford a repeat performance.

We have a good feeling that our golf teams will have a great year. The women finished the season with a fourth place finish at the Robert Morris College Invitational, and the men had two play-

Pirates 3

By Cate Marquis

Disney and Johnny Depp return in the third adventure of the most successful series in film history, "Pirates of the Caribbean: At World's End." The third movie completes a cycle of events that began in "Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl," with an amazing ability to keep all viewers on the edge of their seats, with more than a few laughs. In "Pirates of the Caribbean: At World's End," Depp is still good. Keira Knightly and Johnny Depp are still good. It does neatly tie up the storylines, although Depp is still good.

Spiderman 3

The third Spider-Man movie is darker than the previous ones, and it has to be, if it's going to be as emotionally involving as "Spider-Man 2." It has an emotional core that adds an unknown element to the superhero genre. But it's still good. Keira Knightly is still good. Gordon Lamb, who has been ill, is still good. And the sequels are still good.

Shrek 3

The third Shrek movie maintains the same high entertainment quality, but it's more mature than its predecessors. The characters are more developed, and the dialogue is more intelligent. The movie is still good. Kolkata Knightly is still good. But Shrek is still good. He's still good. It has the same sense of humor with more jokes that will sail past the competition. Hollywood has always had sequels but they seem to take over summer now. Here are quick reviews on three sequels.

Top 10 Reasons to Visit UMSL Career Services
10. We're on the way to the bookstore
9. You can't live off student loans forever
8. It's risky to get career advice from your Facebook friends
7. "Attractive" is not a job skill
6. You can't eat Ramen noodles forever
5. Insufficient funds (IISF is not a fractality)
4. Four years of poverty is enough!
3. You can't wear flip flops forever
2. Having a two-page resume is not a good idea
1. Friendly office staff is ready to help!

Pirates 3

The second movie movie is dense but not on set, as "Pirates of the Caribbean: At World's End."
