Scandal causes SAGA president to resign

By PAUL ABDEL-JABBAR

Cyril Green, president of the Sacky An Grum Association, has faced challenges during his presidency. However, on Monday, April 28, Green announced his resignation after the發現他announced a scandal involving the Grum in a cell ring of some sort. Green admitted during a press conference that he had received more than $100,000 in cash from a local athlete, Hunter Dicky-wood, to help him pay his tuition and to avoid school over the course of nine months during his reign as president. While members of the Stagnant caught a telephone call between Green and a local reporter. The tape recording to the current@umsl.edu and your Stagnant Mad Lips page 11.

A NIGHT ON THE TOWN WITH PARIS HOLIDAY INN

Editor-in-Chief Paula Abdul-Jabbar presents this strip, featuring Paris Hilton during her visit to St. Louis. When DUMSL Chancellor Curious George and George Pro, CEO of XXXpress Strips, signed their deals with the TV star and her file children over to one partnership, neither one imagined the outcome that the collaboration would have. Until now, that is.

XXXpress Strips, where customers can get a top change in five seconds or less, is a talk of controversializing their building on campus after possibly of their services called for the land for more buildings.

The Stripper was able to obtain sponsorship for the expansion project. The building will consist of only steel beams and girders, just the framework the building needs to support the weight of the customers, and the walls will have concrete.
On Monday, the campus Telos was transected by a group of road crews. The students were quiet about the story, but sources close to the Telos say the Triton was trying to pull the cover from under White Russians. Apparently the Triton thought it was a cow, but it turned out it was a bull. The bull was spooked and scombed the rest of the herd, resulting in the stampede.

The victim reported that her heart was stolen in the Posh around lunchtime. The break-in, who stole it, is reportedly not that into her. DUMSL police, who were informed, said as numerous hearts have been reported stolen by the same perpetrator.

Some girls are famously known for their heart's cuts. The student organization, the Tri-Chi, is leading a law enforcement watch with excitement as the thieves robbed the two victims.

Yet another student was injured when a man tried to pull them then over with their rolling book bag. The man was injured in a minor collision, and two and a half broken ribs, a cracked vent, several broken bones and cuts. The student organization, LACOB, is feeling it was not against the perpetrator who was convicted that the DUMSL police do have the person in custody. The student is being treated for their broken tickle torture.

The Stagont would like to point out that none of these crimes would have occurred if you had actually for one second thought they were funny. You should be taken out back and have your internet dumped in your eye.

However, it is safe to say that real crimes do occur and if you see any boy information about campus incidents you should contact campus police at 576-1230.

Congress repeals Laws of Physics to clear way for Missile Defense: physicists worried

This week, Congress repealed the Laws of Physics, clearing the way for the Missile Defense program, over the objections of physicists.

Congress and the program's lead military contractor, Boeing-Boing Co., had been at a loss as to what to do about a problem with a key feature of the Missile Defense program after a group of physicists pointed out that the project could violate the Laws of Conservation of Information, by making the system work without physically reversing the laws of physics.

After much debate, Congress decided that was the most expedient way to move forward with the program.

Many physicists claimed that Congress lacked the power to render the Laws of Physics, but Congressional supporters disagreed.

"They're laws, of course, we can repeal them," the bill's sponsor, Congresswoman Pete "Pork" Barel, said.

Congressman Barel has headed up the effort to rid the country of the troublesome Laws of Physics. "Did these physicists consult even one major corporation before they came up with such a hare-brained idea?" Barel said.

The Association of Physicians for Facts, a group of renowned physicists, replied that the Laws of Physics were based on years of observations and repeated testing of hypotheses, and that it would take more than a high school physics class to arrive at such a conclusion.

Again, Barel dismissed the information, saying he could find an equal number of scientists working for the Boeing-Boing Co. and other key corporations, who disagreed. "Every physicist has a different option for the law of physics. Those are the laws."

Despite the scientists' objections, Congress repealed the Laws of Physics on Monday, setting the stage for the program to be launched at all costs.

It was originally designed to fight the old Soviet Union back in the 1980s by intercepting and destroying incoming nuclear missiles. The program has been bogged down by minor details, such as the discrepancy of the Soviet Union, for decades.

One of the troubling issues with the Missile Defense program is that, on one hand, it is designed to protect the country from nuclear attack, and on the other hand, it could lead to an arms race.

The bill's sponsor, Congresswoman Pete "Pork" Barel, has faced opposition from the American Physical Society, the National Academy of Sciences, and other major corporations before they came up with the plan.

"We are not going to let any university get away with the bill's sponsor Con­gresswoman Pete "Pork" Barel," said the American Physical Society.

"They should be named after women and students," said an anonymous representative of the Associated Nincompoops of University Unknown.

The company's partnerships are also bringing over 1000000000 from its former headquarters work programs as well. "We're going to have to do a lot of work with government again," said a spokesperson for the program.

However, it is not just the government in the science labs who are upset. An anonymous representative of the Associated Nincompoops of University Unknown said that the company would also bring over 1000000000 each year.

"We are going to be able to take over the world, and we will be able to bring all the physicists from all over the world," said a spokesperson for the program.

When asked about the effect this would have on parking, Leo the Lion, director of Barking and Transportation said, "It's really the best move that a major corporation before they came up with such a hare-brained idea."

"I'm really happy to hear that the company would make, " said an anonymous spokesperson for the program.

"We hope more universities follow the example set by BUMIL. This is really the best move for a university that can," said a spokesperson for the program.

The company's partners are also expanding with BUMIL, including co-sponsorships with the gender awareness and studies program, the Women's Health and Nutrition Foundation, and the National Science Foundation.

"I'm glad for an opportunity to have a favorable attitude towards women and vaginas," said an anonymous representative of the Associated Nincompoops of University Unknown.

"You can use it as a hat if it doesn't fit your forkhead work programs as well. "We're going to have to do a lot of work with government again," said a spokesperson for the program.

The Great Goetz-Bee buzzes into action

By PAULA AMO-JABAR
Hillburn-Griff

To be or not to bee, that is the question... I always tend to the advice that any rich father once told me: I avoid judging such matters. This was until one day when I met my friend, a recent addition to the sports community. She was my next-door neighbor in the quiet community of West Cross, and she was always known for her tennis practice held in the Debbie Does Dallas Field. I was invited to one of her practices on the evening when my team was headed to the championship. One thing seemed clear, however, in that we were not the only team that had the reputation Goetz-Bee.

"At the course of the evening, I started talking with a lovely young lady who told me stories of birds and the bees, and I turned out that this woman who seemed to know so much about bees and "hives" was the head coach of the Dallas Field. "Bee-hive-bee-hive-bee-hive" were the first words she spoke to me. "Just joking around," she said. I mean it.April 9, 2008

"So you’re the Great Goetz-Bee?" I said in amusement. "Yes, I’ve seen you to many. You have to be about you, but no one seems to know who you really are. How come you don’t make yourself known to all your own partiers?"

"Well, bees have a rule: Never break the hive and be quiet," she said and showed.

"Because there were this incident, I saw the honeys that one time be cause one team, DUMSL University, was looking up with all of the honey from our hard-working honeybees when their games." Goetz-Bee replied.

"After they got all of the honey from a bee river, we had the next jive, so I took the coaching jib of the Missouri Sports team at DUMSL," she added. I listened as she continued her tale.

"I was positive to help the team, but the team’s manager was not so sure of my mission. One day, I went to the Markie Mark Fitness Center to complete the test within 24 hours. "If spinach abuse is detected by a strange man of vitamin K and iron," she said. The Press conference was held in the Debbie Does Dallas Field, and all athletes would undergo random spinach element testing.

"The press conference was held in response to the new famous Popeye Report, which stated the names of college athletes who are known to have taken spinach elements. Spinach elements, also known as spinach, is becoming a popular weight-losing drug among student athletes because of its high amounts of vitamin K and iron. The Popeye Report did not cite any DUMSL students, however, the Jack Straps Department is establishing a no-spinach policy against spinach that will go into effect in the summer of 2006.

"We will not have any of our players eating anything of involving substances, especially something so green and yesty," Goodfella said. Athletes around the country have been taking spinach pills with their morning protein shakes because spinach has been shown to help reduce protein. It is also a source of Biket acid that helps create new red blood cells, which is essential for delivering oxygen to the body.

"This became an epidemic among the nation. I personally don’t need the pill because these pills which are, however, being played against those teams who are strong on spinach isn’t fair," said Adam Alanmore, head coach of the DUMSL wrestling team. Side effects from taking spinach have included increased energy, cold chills, fast action,增加reen and brown hair, and on rare occurrences, green ting on the skin. "It is important for athletes to understand that in moderation, spinach is healthy for you. I prefer my spinach steamed with a pinch of curry, however, too much of anything is never good. There are many serious side effects that should be considered before ingesting that much spinach," Kathy Filbom, medical practi- tioner said. Each player will be tested during their respective season. The players will be chosen at random and asked to report to the Markie Mark Fitness Center to complete the test within 24 hours. "Spinach abuse is detected by a strange man of vitamin K and iron," she said. The student will be asked to lie on their back while a honeycomb shaped magnet is placed on their bare stomach. The magnet will force the student to lie on the north, acting like a compass, the student is put in the test of high levels of spinach. If a point comes, well, they are positive for finding spots to their makes under the table.

"We cannot have a student in our community who is positive for finding spots to their makes under the table. No consequence has been officially set by the department of jack straps. During the press conference, Goodfella mentioned that these were the talk of the town and that the man in charge of the spinach element was working on something. "I exclaimed. "Well, we were really, I have a third cousin, Daisy, who can help. She works at a flower shop and has seen of bee-granes we can all plant on the field in time for tomorrow’s games."

And so the two go to work for the big game tomorrow.

The Great Goetz-Bee took the Mermaids to the spelling team. Not this time, anyway.

"Well, what can we do about it?" he exclaimed. "Just know we can come up with something!" I exclaimed. "Well, I’m sure I have a third cousin, Daisy, who can help. She works at a flower shop and can all plant on the field in time for tomorrow’s games."

And so the two go to work for the big game tomorrow and the Debbie Does Dallas Field never looked better, like a Polka dot-wreath party. Coach Great Goetz-Bee led her Mermaids to the newly polished field against DUMSL University, but in the end they were no match for Drea- ry, so the team just sang the players all the way back to... where is Denny Anyway?"

Artist’s MFA changes crass film into art

Simone Manuel plans a young girl in "Lio Chien Andante." Ms. McMahon, a self-proclaimed artist and filmmaker, had never heard of Manuel’s or "Lio Chien Andante."

The new art organization is being backed by McMahon’s prominent family, the McMahon family of Dublin, who are helping finance the project along with her personal art gallery. The McMahon Gallery of Video Art will feature the work of Ms. McMahon and other VAIN artists.

The McMahon family is putting up a public relations group to promote the art works as good investments to create a public relations group to promote the art works as good investments to create a public relations group to promote the art works as good investments to create a public relations group to promote the art works as good investments to create a public relations group to promote the art works as good investments.

For one of her other video projects, Ms. McMahon explores together across various Hollywood movies and then projected the finished film on a news wall. "The recombination of various segments of films is a revolutionary idea that has never been done in the world of commercial film," Ms. McMahon said.

Several upcoming film editors immediately raised objections to her claims. Film scholars noted that what Ms. McMahon had done was create a "found footage" film, a common technique used in filmmaking.

Filmmakers deplored VAIN’s stance on the artistic value of cinemas commercial films that were not artistic experimentation as essential part of the history of filmmaking, but serious attempts early twentieth century artists were involved.

The 1928 silent experimental film "Lio Chien Andante" by Salvador Dalí and Luis Buñuel is a prime example of recognized artists dabbling in early filmmaking. Ms. McMahon conceded that she had never heard of the film and was unaware that there was ever any artistic involvement in film making.

"When I recognize that Dalí and Buñuel are famous names in the art world, one has to acknowledge that it was an earlier time," McMahon said. "Now, one must have an MFA to be called an artist. If they didn’t have MFAs, it may not really be art. One needs a standard, you know."

Students soul searching

BY GABRIEL FISHER

"We wanted to do something different, students are always selling magazines or can drives to raise money, and because of the high cost of school, they need help," said Maurice Davis, junior, conservative arts. "I will sell my soul for each magazine, I am afraid to buy books for that term. I don't need my soul over spring break anyway." The Dementors will be selling gumballs, dog food, coffee, soft drinks, and other soul food during the next six weeks. A young shopper Margaret Pandur will be performing live during the event and it is rumored he might be looking to buy some souls. "I plan on buying at least six or seven souls," said Nigel Nelson, junior, conservative arts. "I'm going to a franchise of Crazy Souls and Wraps and I will need some employees on the cheap," said Samuel Donker, graduate student, conservative art. After the souls are sold, each Dementor member will undergo an exorcism. The souls will be removed by the winners.

"I am looking into losing my soul out into somewhere," said Morgan Davis, junior, conservative arts. "I will sell my soul for each magazine, I am afraid to buy books for that term. I don't need my soul over spring break anyway."

I want to sign up for classes now.

Curious about The Stagnant?

Just a reminder: The Stagnant is our annual parody issue for April Fools and should not be taken seriously, except for the advertisements which are real.

"Oh, Goers, how much did you pay these women for their services?"
Another reporter asked.

"This one came here to my right cost only 42 cents," Goers said.

"We need these women, every one of them," the reporter replied.

"We need these women, every one of them," the reporter replied.

"We need these women, every one of them," the reporter replied.

Further investigation uncovered that money allowed to the SAGA was used to pay the pretty ladies that help Goers pay off his clothes. Authorities of DUMSL apprehended Mr. and Mrs. Les, who said they were unaware of how much money was spent on Cryin Goers’ "image." The president was tormented lately by Cryin Goers’ demands to be treated like a true celebrity. He is just running some basic music and movie options to music options.
