Queen Jane and Court Greet Subjects At Dance

BY DANA FRATTO

It was grand. The Tiger was in all his glory on February 20 at the University of Missouri at St. Louis Homecoming dance.

 Appropriately named "The Tiger's Den" room 106 was transformed into a cavern for all Mizzou tigers. The tiger himself was a throne for the lovely queen, Miss Jane Moore.

Exotic notes made by the Beltones floated from a tiger's den at the front of the room, and the familiar columnists had become stalagmites in the dusky cavern.

Miss Elaine Stamm, retiring queen, escorted by David Williams, chief justice of the Student Court and co-captain of the basketball team, entered the room first for the coronation that began halfway through the evening, and was seated at the Tiger throne.

She was followed by Miss Sue Keim, escorted by Thomas Biegler of the wrestling team. She was dressed in a sleeveless white crepe sheath, with a scooped neckline and bolero top.

Miss Mary Kilsselberg, wearing a sleeveless black crepe dress with chiffon overskirt, escorted next, escorted by Ronald Clark, a member of the basketball team.

Miss Marsha McNab, next to enter, was escorted by John Satakas, co-captain of the basketball team. She wore a sheath with blue lace over green taffeta. The dress had a V neckline and long lace sleeves.

Miss Jane Moore then entered, escorted by Charles Chamberlin, captain of the wrestling team. She wore a white sleeveless, bell-shaped dress with a scooped neckline and white lace overskirt.

Miss Joyce Zumbehl wore a sheath with a scooped neckline, bolero top, and small bow at the shoulder.

Enrollment Hits Highest Point in School's History

Enrollment here is the highest ever according to Mr. E. E. Mueller, Director of Admissions.

As of Feb. 5, 2,729 students had enrolled for the Winter semester. Of this total, 1,969 are Day School students, and 1,069 are in the Evening Division.

This total represents an increase of 945 students over the enrollment of the 1964 Winter semester. It is a 90 student increase since last Fall.

This upward enrollment trend is expected to continue.

Famed Ritter-Allen Duo Play at Next Concert

Mr. Ritter is concertmaster of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, and Miss Allen, his wife, is official pianist with the orchestra. Since their New York debut in 1959 they have toured the United States and Europe. The duo is well known for their masterful playing of difficult music and were recently acclaimed as brilliant in Washington.

Students Asked To File Permits

All students who are now enrolled in Day School here will be required to complete a request for a permit to enroll form for next Fall's Semester between March 1 and 5.

No fee will have to be paid at this time, but the request forms must be turned in by 8 p.m. on March 5 for students currently enrolled or not automatic.

The request forms can be obtained this week from Miss Elaine Naughton in the Admissions Office.

Taking part in the pre-parade festivities are jokesters (from left) Bill Price, Bill Burns, Mike Kilsselberg, Ron Boden, Casey Conner and Larry Timpe.
Students Give Ear!

Students, would you like to be all ready for an important date or appointment, and then not be able to keep it because someone has very inconsiderately parked her car in front of your driveway and blocked you in? No! You wouldn't like that to happen to you! Well then neither would the residents of Normandy or Bel Nor, but it has happened to them.

These neighbors of the University have shown unusual patience and kindness to students by not calling the police and having the cars towed away and the students fined. It's a good thing that the students have returned the kindness and consideration, by parking in approved parking areas only. That doesn't mean people's driveways.

We all know the parking space near the University and on the Uiversity grounds is extremely limited. We all know how that lots of students end up being late for class, not because they didn't come early enough, but because they had to hunt and hunt for a parking space. We sympathize with you and your problem. But remember, whatever you do, no matter how late you leave a be, no matter how angry you are with the school for the lack of parking facilities ... remember ... always remember ... Don't take it out on the neighbors!

And that doesn't mean people's driveways.

To the editor:

You are mercilessly spared my annoyance by the curfew which divides the day and night students. But I am an eager reader of the Mizzou News and appreciate the effort that must go into it.

I was recently associated with a college paper and found, as I am sure you have, that its writing and editing are laborious and sometimes thankless tasks. I wondered if anyone read the literary gems which I had sweated over. With the hope of preventing or diminishing such doubt or discouragement which you and your staff might occasionally feel victims to, I will tell you of a recent experience.

One of my articles was printed in the December 4 issue of the North Star, student newspaper of the Florissant Valley Community College. I thought the piece was good naturally) but hardly earth-shaking. The utter lack of reader response which it aroused was indicated that I had hatched another dud, so I licked my wounds and silently called down the wrath of the gods of literature on the slobs that didn't appreciate us artists.

On January 23 I unbelieveably read my article reprinted in the "Mirror of Public Opinion" of the Post Dispatch. I learned that the two of the English instructors at the College, somewhat belatedly recognizing the article's merit (I could have told them much earlier, had they asked me), were using the piece as an example of good writing in their Composition classes. Ah, my cup ranneth over.

I had almost fainted back down to earth when, on February 4, the Christian Science Monitor picked up the article from the Post and ran it under their "mirror of World Opinion." Both reprints credited the North Star (unhesitatingly to relieve themselves of the blame), which made the Junior College District officials rapturous.

By now my hats were hopelessly too small, and I surveyed the world of mortal man from a pink cloud high above. Little things loom so large to little people.

---

We Invite You

The Mizzou News would like to again extend to students and faculty here an invitation we made to them earlier this year. We cordially invite all students and faculty members to write to us at anytime on any subject. We appreciate all criticism, favorable and unfavorable about the paper, and we welcome any advice or suggestions.

Besides offering part of our editorial page for letters concerning our newspaper, we would like to offer students space on this page for their opinions on any subjects about the University or its members.

Letters should be addressed to the editor, the Mizzou News, in care of the University of Missouri at St. Louis, 8001 Natural Bridge Road. They can also be deposited on the newspaper's desk in the SA office.

---

Flowers and Kisses

The Student Body deserves much credit and praise for the wonderful spirit that was exhibited this year during the Homecoming festivities.

The Homecoming celebration was kicked off Friday morning February 19, with an exciting, colorful, and noisy Homecoming Parade, that was planned and led by the students themselves.

A enthusiastic crowd attended the Tigers vs. Sanford-Brown game that night, and cheered the team to its overtime victory.

Saturday night, the Tiger's Den was filled with loyal Mizzou-St. Louis students who celebrated the victory and the Homecoming queen crowning with a great deal of enthusiasm and spirit. All in attendance were a credit to the University.

---

MIZZOU NEWS
University of Missouri at St. Louis

The Mizzou News is published bi-weekly by the students of the University of Missouri at St. Louis, 8001 Natural Bridge Road. The policies of the Mizzou News are the responsibility of the editors.

Editor-in-Chief — Mary Kinneberg
Assistant Editor — Sue Estes

Feature Editor — Molly Ross
Sports Editor — Charlie Chamberlin
Layout Editor — Pamela Johnson
Chief Artist — Bill Burns
Photographer — Ray Stineber

STAFF

Business Manager — Rich Overman
Faculty Advisors — Miss Jud.O Jenkins, Mr. William Wheelen

NELSON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
6500 Natural Bridge Road
No Admission Charge FREE Public Welcome
Disapproal By Censors Boost
"Kiss Me Stupid"

by Michael Shank

Billy Wilder is a very lucky man. His latest movie, "Kiss Me Stupid," is going to be a big box-office smash... not necessarily because it is funny but because it is "off-color." Mr. Wilder, who has been under fire from the National League of Decency, "Kiss Me Stupid" has received the League's approval but with reservations. So, if we can judge by the past, people who would normally ignore a movie will crawl over broken beer bottles to see that same picture if it has been labeled "distasteful" by censors.

It's true that Mr. Wilder has been under fire for years because of his work. Even before he was under fire by the National League of Decency, "Kiss Me Stupid" is the latest in a long line of rehashed sex jokes (has any- thing to do with the Wilder tradition, "Kiss Me Stupid" is complete tired old plot to a peaceful end.

The Joyous Season by Patrick Den- nis, Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc., New York, 1965, $4.75. This book is the perfect example of a typical story. The narrator, following the popular trend, is a ten-year-old boy who thinks that growing up is crazy. One need not read very far before guessing almost exactly what will happen and how the story will end. The cast of characters could be a section of the list of tried and true, perpetually used stereotyped characters known all too well to the reading, movie-going, and television-watching public.

Kerry and Marny are the offspring of a fairly wealthy New York architect and his wife, a girl from a good New England family. The children attend exclusive schools, and the family enjoys a small amount of social prominence. But, although this should mark the ideal existence, all is not peaceful and serene.

The Joy of Living by John Precious, Simon and Schuster, is a story of a ten-year-old boy who thinks that growing up is crazy. One need not read very far before guessing almost exactly what will happen and how the story will end. The cast of characters could be a section of the list of tried and true, perpetually used stereotyped characters known all too well to the reading, movie-going, and television-watching public.

Kerry and Marny are the offspring of a fairly wealthy New York architect and his wife, a girl from a good New England family. The children attend exclusive schools, and the family enjoys a small amount of social prominence. But, although this should mark the ideal existence, all is not peaceful and serene.

Mr. Walston's Beethoven's wea- tering the audience sat there making no- thing but be cause it has been under fire but because it is "off-color." Mr. Wilder, who has been under fire for years because of his work. Even before he was under fire by the National League of Decency, "Kiss Me Stupid" is the latest in a long line of rehashed sex jokes (has any- thing to do with the Wilder tradition, "Kiss Me Stupid" is complete tired old plot to a peaceful end.

The Joyous Season by Patrick Den- nis, Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc., New York, 1965, $4.75. This book is the perfect example of a typical story. The narrator, following the popular trend, is a ten-year-old boy who thinks that growing up is crazy. One need not read very far before guessing almost exactly what will happen and how the story will end. The cast of characters could be a section of the list of tried and true, perpetually used stereotyped characters known all too well to the reading, movie-going, and television-watching public.

Kerry and Marny are the offspring of a fairly wealthy New York architect and his wife, a girl from a good New England family. The children attend exclusive schools, and the family enjoys a small amount of social prominence. But, although this should mark the ideal existence, all is not peaceful and serene.

Mr. Walston's Beethoven's wea- tering the audience sat there making no- thing but be cause it has been under fire but because it is "off-color." Mr. Wilder, who has been under fire for years because of his work. Even before he was under fire by the National League of Decency, "Kiss Me Stupid" is the latest in a long line of rehashed sex jokes (has any- thing to do with the Wilder tradition, "Kiss Me Stupid" is complete tired old plot to a peaceful end.

The Joyous Season by Patrick Den- nis, Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc., New York, 1965, $4.75. This book is the perfect example of a typical story. The narrator, following the popular trend, is a ten-year-old boy who thinks that growing up is crazy. One need not read very far before guessing almost exactly what will happen and how the story will end. The cast of characters could be a section of the list of tried and true, perpetually used stereotyped characters known all too well to the reading, movie-going, and television-watching public.

Kerry and Marny are the offspring of a fairly wealthy New York architect and his wife, a girl from a good New England family. The children attend exclusive schools, and the family enjoys a small amount of social prominence. But, although this should mark the ideal existence, all is not peaceful and serene.

Mr. Walston's Beethoven's wea- tering the audience sat there making no- thing but be cause it has been under fire but because it is "off-color." Mr. Wilder, who has been under fire for years because of his work. Even before he was under fire by the National League of Decency, "Kiss Me Stupid" is the latest in a long line of rehashed sex jokes (has any- thing to do with the Wilder tradition, "Kiss Me Stupid" is complete tired old plot to a peaceful end.

The Joyous Season by Patrick Den- nis, Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc., New York, 1965, $4.75. This book is the perfect example of a typical story. The narrator, following the popular trend, is a ten-year-old boy who thinks that growing up is crazy. One need not read very far before guessing almost exactly what will happen and how the story will end. The cast of characters could be a section of the list of tried and true, perpetually used stereotyped characters known all too well to the reading, movie-going, and television-watching public.

Kerry and Marny are the offspring of a fairly wealthy New York architect and his wife, a girl from a good New England family. The children attend exclusive schools, and the family enjoys a small amount of social prominence. But, although this should mark the ideal existence, all is not peaceful and serene.

Mr. Walston's Beethoven's wea- tering the audience sat there making no- thing but be cause it has been under fire but because it is "off-color." Mr. Wilder, who has been under fire for years because of his work. Even before he was under fire by the National League of Decency, "Kiss Me Stupid" is the latest in a long line of rehashed sex jokes (has any- thing to do with the Wilder tradition, "Kiss Me Stupid" is complete tired old plot to a peaceful end.
By Gary Clark

The Tigers of the St. Louis Campus started the Homecoming Weekend with a thrilling double overtime victory over Sanford-Brown, 83-81, on Feb. 19. The largest crowd of the season was in attendance and the Tigers kept them on the edge of their seats throughout the game. The Tigers jumped into an early lead and were in front 21-27 at halftime, but Sanford fought back to tie the game at the end of regulation time, 59-59. Ron Clark grabbed a clutch rebound and scored to tie the game in the first overtime and the score was tied again when time ran out, 73-73. Sanford players began to foul out in the second overtime, and clutch free throw shooting by Steve Novack, Ron Clark, and John Sarantakis provided the margin for victory.

Dave Wilson paced the Tigers with 27 points and he dominated the boards along with teammate Ron Clark. Steve Novack scored 19 and Ron Clark added 14 markers. The victory gave the Tigers a good shot at the league championship as they handled Sanford their first league loss of the season. The Tigers are now 6-1 in league play.

The Tigers lost a heartbreaker to St. Louis Baptist, 70-69, on Feb. 16; they led throughout the game and had an 8 point lead. With 1 minute and 30 seconds to go in the contest, in a series of unusual developments where Baptist couldn't miss and the Tigers failed to connect on vital free throws, the Black and Gold saw their edge evaporate, and an almost sure victory turned into defeat. John Sarantakis played perhaps the finest game of his career as he stole the ball twice, times and played a great floor game on offense. In spite of their inability to hit free throws, the St. Louis Baptist defeated their finest team game of the season as all five starters hit for double figures.

Clark led the team with 17 points, Steve Novack scored 14, Dave Wilson and Jack Quinn totalled 13 and John Sarantakis netted 12.

Feb. 10 the St. Louis Campus team knocked off Logan College, 105-26. Coach Meyers emptied his bench during the game, and all the Tigers scored, with Brian Buss leading the bench team over the century mark. The Tigers jumped into an early lead and the score was 49-14 at halftime. Dave Wilson and Ron Clark both scored 16 to pace the Tigers, still Novack paced in 15 in out scorer brother Steve, who had 14 and John Sarantakis scored 10 points.

The Tigers lost to the Jewish Community Center Association on Feb. 9, 93-65. Dave Wilson scored 22 to lead the St. Louis Campus team. Ron Clark added 21, Steve Novack had 15, and Jack Quinn tossed in 12. The Tigers trusted by 12 at halftime, and they came back to within 3, but this was as close as they got to the bigger team.

The fine weather on campus continues to bring out students to enjoy the outside. The fine weather on campus continues to bring out students to enjoy the outside. The fine weather on campus continues to bring out students to enjoy the outside. The fine weather on campus continues to bring out students to enjoy the outside.

Win Over Sanford Boosts Tigers To League Deadlock

by Gary Clark

The Tigers of the St. Louis Campus started the Homecoming Weekend with a thrilling double overtime victory over Sanford-Brown, 83-81, on Feb. 19. The largest crowd of the season was in attendance, and the Tigers kept them on the edge of their seats throughout the game. The Tigers jumped into an early lead and were in front 21-27 at halftime, but Sanford fought back to tie the game at the end of regulation time, 59-59. Ron Clark grabbed a clutch rebound and scored to tie the game in the first overtime and the score was tied again when time ran out, 73-73. Sanford players began to foul out in the second overtime, and clutch free throw shooting by Steve Novack, Ron Clark, and John Sarantakis provided the margin for victory.

Dave Wilson paced the Tigers with 27 points and he dominated the boards along with teammate Ron Clark. Steve Novack scored 19 and Ron Clark added 14 markers. The victory gave the Tigers a good shot at the league championship as they handled Sanford their first league loss of the season. The Tigers are now 6-1 in league play.

The Tigers lost a heartbreaker to St. Louis Baptist, 70-69, on Feb. 16; they led throughout the game and had an 8 point lead. With 1 minute and 30 seconds to go in the contest, in a series of unusual developments where Baptist couldn't miss and the Tigers failed to connect on vital free throws, the Black and Gold saw their edge evaporate, and an almost sure victory turned into defeat. John Sarantakis played perhaps the finest game of his career as he stole the ball twice, times and played a great floor game on offense. In spite of their inability to hit free throws, the St. Louis Baptist defeated their finest team game of the season as all five starters hit for double figures. Clark led the team with 17 points, Steve Novack scored 14, Dave Wilson and Jack Quinn totalled 13, and John Sarantakis netted 12.

Feb. 10 the St. Louis Campus team knocked off Logan College, 105-26. Coach Meyers emptied his bench during the game, and all the Tigers scored, with Brian Buss leading the bench team over the century mark. The Tigers jumped into an early lead and the score was 49-14 at halftime. Dave Wilson and Ron Clark both scored 16 to pace the Tigers, still Novack paced in 15 in out scorer brother Steve, who had 14, and John Sarantakis scored 10 points.

The Tigers lost to the Jewish Community Center Association on Feb. 9, 93-65. Dave Wilson scored 22 to lead the St. Louis Campus team. Ron Clark added 21, Steve Novack had 15, and Jack Quinn tossed in 12. The Tigers trusted by 12 at halftime, and they came back to within 3, but this was as close as they got to the bigger team.