There the parade will turn around and go over Jennings Road to Natural Bridge to Carson Road and then back down Normandy Drive.

Queen candidates Cheryl Taylor, Sandy Eskridge, Sandy Blodgett, Samanda Martin, and Sharon Kral will occupy the first two cars along with Retiring Queen Jane Moore and parade organizer Bob Schroeder. Other decorated cars will follow with a trophy to be presented to the one best decorated.

At 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 24, the Homecoming Game will be played in the University Gymnasium.

Cheryl Taylor would like this Homecoming Dance to be the best in UMSL history. Not only is she one of the queen candidates but, as head of the Social and Activities Committee of the Senate, she is in charge of planning the dance.

Attended Monday

Political Science is Cheryl's major and she has an accumulative grade point average of 2.9. She is currently studying American History IV, economics, math 10, sociology II, and state and local government. She attended McQuaid High School.

Sandy Eskridge, the only senior among the candidates, is majoring in English and minoring in philosophy. She has an accumulative grade point of approximately 3.3. This semester she is studying cultural anthropology, Shakespeare and Elizabethan Dramatists, introductory sociology and a philosophy course in existentialism.

Support Homecoming

In the Letter’s section of this edition there is a Letter to The Editor asking that we find identity and pride at UM-SL. Perhaps this person has encapsulated what most UM-SL students are thinking.

Typically while most are complaing about the situation, the hands of people do what little that has been done around campus. And it is always that same few who lead the activities so the complainers grumble about that, too.

Now is the time for all complainers, grumblers and malcontents to step in the spotlight and pitch in. We can have the biggest, swingingest, most lavish and by far most successful Homecoming yet.

To The Editor,

"Something else to make this place a high school?"—Homecoming? Homecoming to what?—These are a few of the things I have heard from friends and have some relaxation from studying or card playing. And you would benefit, too. You could make new friends and help the people involved and even the candidates for Queen!

Then, to top it off, there are remarks like "I should have come up to Columbia or something that’s a real college."

Well, WAKE UP. This is a college, not a high school where everyone wants to passable babies. If you want to see things done, speak up and join activities. UM-SL is certainly not so large yet that students can be hidden in the crowd, nameless and unrecognized.

The Mizzou NEWS Staff is sure it speaks for the interested and umanitarian students that want to see the potential of our college developed. These people need you and need your support now. And you can give this support by helping with such activities as Homecoming.

Take, for instance, decorating for the Homecoming Dance. The Senators have been required to help—yet these are the same people who already give generously of their time on campus.

If just one in twenty of you who read this would volunteer only a few hours of your time, there would be ample help. And you would benefit, too. You could make new friends and have some relaxation from studying or card playing.

So think it over. If you don’t like how things are being done—don’t just complain near enough to hear you. Get out and help and become one of the involved. Let’s have the biggest, swingingest Homecoming ever—one that everyone will participate in and enjoy.

Vote YES March 5

The Mizzou NEWS heartily endorses the Normandy Bond Issue. This issue will be brought to the polls March 5 and this is the voters last chance to approve the needed taxes for our schools.

A yes vote would also mean funds are the same people who already give generously of their time on campus.

If just one in twenty of you who read this would volunteer only a few hours of your time, there would be ample help. And you would benefit, too. You could make new friends and have some relaxation from studying or card playing.

So think it over. If you don’t like how things are being done—don’t just complain near enough to hear you. Get out and help and become one of the involved. Let’s have the biggest, swingingest Homecoming ever—one that everyone will participate in and enjoy.

What Our Readers Have to Say...

Where’s The Shift?

To The Editor,

I, although a student not at UM-SL, wish to express my regret and to protest the decision to cease the writing of the column "The Shift". This column enlightens the paper by presenting current problems or happenings on campus in a humorous artistic form. It also verifies the fact that the paper has freedom of speech and of the press, which is necessary for a student publication.

In your October 4th issue, you remarked that the column was to be a regular feature in the Mizzou News. Keep it that way.

"Bring back "The Shift!"

Sincerely,

Mary Allenbach

Editor’s Note:

The Mizzou NEWS Staff also enjoyed Bill Price’s column, "The Shift". Price, however, succeeded to the pressure of boards, feeling that "academic achievement was his first concern." This is why "The Shift" has been dropped — not because of any pressure group.

Students Have Pride

To The Editor,

Boy, I want my time back. I gave my newsboy ten cents for a Mizzou NEWS and all I got was a UM-SL student paper. Now when did we become Mizzon? I don’t believe there is a one of us that can look a real Mizzonite in the eye and say "I go to Mizzou." If we, the student body of UM-SL were Mizzou, how come we have to add "at St. Louis" to keep people from thinking we are from Columbia?

I believe it is time that we become an identity in ourselves. For how long is the student body going to carry this facade of something we are not? It is time that we quit wishing that we were at Mizzou and start developing our own school to that which we desire at Columbia.

Our present student body is over 4,000 strong. Surely our size isn’t lacking in strength. It is time we tore down our ethnic barriers and expand our realm of friendships beyond that of high school and indeed identity ourselves as a person or group of persons. Let one high school attending UM-SL, but as students of UM-SL, how many of us feel closer to fellow UM-SL students than to fellow high school students?

Let’s quit being ashamed that we are not as great as our sister school Columbia and model for us to help each other find identity and pride in UM-SL. If it is only by lifting our heads up high when we say, "I go to UM-SL." J. Wesley Jennings

Campus Controversy

I am pleased that my article on undesirable campus organizations in the January 12 Mizzou News aroused sufficient interest to draw a sharp criticism from two students in a letter to this paper. In their well-written letter, these young ladies challenge several charters to be permitted on this campus. It is, however, not to be subtly manipulated by determined forces. And finally, following this line of reasoning to its extreme, shall we urge young people to try narcotics or perhaps to contract a terrible disease so that then as "mature, responsible college students" they can make their own decisions about these things? It isn't necessary to invite a rattlesnake into one's home in order to teach the children about snakes.

The letter writers continue their criticism by saying, "These radical left groups mentioned by Miss O'Reilly have their benefits. They demonstrate a newly interested side of the American college student." In the first place, there is no evidence that these groups do...

Dean Says of University

by DONALD DAY
Mizzou NEWS Feature Editor

Parallel experience is frequently important in understanding and competent counsel. The interpretation of present military conscription and appropriate student reaction is no exception. At least one veteran on campus is qualified to give us an unprejudiced perspective on the value conflict created by this situation at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Dean Driscoll was impressed into the then Army-Air Force in his third undergraduate year at DePauw University, where he had been a successful history major. It wasn't until four years, one wife, and two children later that he was able to resume his education, then as a senior at Louisville University.

Regardless of this unnerving disruption, Dr. Driscoll recognizes and does not restless the necessity of the military draft. In fact, he made better grades in shorter time after his service than before. He went on to earn his B. A., M. A. and Ph. D. in three years. Because of his experience, Dean Driscoll has advised, "Don't get excited and pull out of school," to satisfy the military obligation and remove his threat early.

Students considering enlistment are only a more significant aspect of Dean Driscoll's duties at UMSL. The office of the Dean has a considerable faculty and is an essential supporting faculty. The University image is important to the attraction of a quality facility in proportion to our size. The Dean considers the MIZZOU NEWS an essential "window on the University" and mirror of institution quality.

Homecoming Election This Wednesday

Sandy is a student member of the Homecoming committee. She would like to be a free lance writer after finishing college. Sandy's high school alma mater is North Bend.

Sandy Blodgett also graduated from Berkeley High. As English major, she is enrolled in Growth and Structure of the English Language, History of American Literature, Chemistry I, logic and psychology. Her highest cumulative grade point is about 2.00

As secretary of the Student Association Sandy is very busy but she also finds time to work and enjoy being a club leader of 5th grade girls at the Jewish Community Center.

Since graduation from the 9th grade Sandy has worked in camps during the summer. This summer she plans to work in Minnesota at "Camp Manakiki" as a cabin counselor. The camp is for unprivileged children.

Sandy Martin is majoring in mathematics. She has grade point average of 2.7 and is an intermediate German, qualitative chemistry, linear algebra, psychology and participating in a math seminar.

She was crowned Miss St. Louis Student at UMSL in 1964 after teaching for fifteen years as an instructor, assistant professor and full professor at the University of South Dakota. He had completed graduate school and accomplished his M. A. in European History at the University of Minnesota. Enjoying guest lecturing immensely, he had once flown each afternoon for eight weeks from the University of South Dakota to the University of Nebraska at the expense of the National Science Foundation. Awarded a Ford Foundation Grant in 1965 for research in the History of Science at Harvard, Glen Driscoll was only qualified when asked to join the UMSL staff by his good friend, Dean of Faculty James L. Burgess.

Dean Driscoll, simultaneously offered a position as Dean of the St. Charles Rock Rd.

The mass appeal of liberalism today is its promise of something for nothing. Liberal leaders buy the people's votes with their own money by promising everybody something to be paid for out of the federal treasury. This has been common practice for a number of years now.

The classic American liberals knew the dangers of an all-powerful government and were careful to limit it. Modern liberals worship government and are not happy unless it is steadily growing more gigantic.

Every four years the voters of America mass to the polls to elect a President. He is a man to whom the people delegate certain duties such as the formulation of foreign policy. This does not mean however, that the electorate must accept the decisions concerning foreign policy without asking questions.

Refuses to Deliberate

Why does Lyndon Johnson think he can end the war in Vietnam by refusing to talk to the National Liberation Front for many years during that conflict. Finally, the French abandoned their intransigent views and settled the dispute. The National Liberation Front in South Vietnam is the political arm of the Viet Cong. I can only assume that Mr. Johnson and Mr. Rusk do not believe that there is an indigenous revolution occurring in South Vietnam supported by approximately two hundred thousand South Vietnamese. But this recollection is highly feasible because after all we refuse to recognize the government of Communist China which governs one-quarter of the earth's population.

Increased Bombing

Why does Lyndon Johnson think he can win the war in Vietnam by increased bombing of such areas as Hanoi and Haiphong? Certainly he must realize that the escalation of the bombing might precipitate the entry of Communist China and perhaps the Soviet Union, thus engaging the world in a nuclear holocaust. Certainly he must realize that the escalation of the bombing in the North will precipitate increased terrorist raids in Saigon and could quite possibly bring Communist airpower into the north.

Dr. Glen R. Driscoll

by Monica O'Reilly

Liberalism at one time implied a belief in freedom and a revolt against the autocratic use of political power. Today, the meaning, in America at least, is completely different. The political philosophy known as liberalism today is just the reverse of classic liberalism.

The basic assumption of modern liberalism is that political power makes men wise. Yes, as an individual, do not have enough sense to feed, clothe, and educate yourself and prepare for the rainy days. Therefore, the liberals want laws which will force you to do all the things which the liberals claim you should do.

Mass Appeal

By taking money away from you and giving it to the politicians and bureaucrats, it is assumed that better use will be made of it than you could have done. Of course, the politicians and bureaucrats are individuals themselves, but apparently by virtue of moving to Washington they immediately acquire enough wisdom to manage their own affairs and everything else's too.

A aggressive poll indicates that 82 percent of students believe we should extend military assistance to that nation. The students and faculty members, finds that the majority of U.S. college students, the college campuses. The students and faculty members -- one representative of each campus -- comprising a wide variety of educational fields have been polled. The survey also reflects opinions from campuses on a regional basis -- in the East, Midwest, South, Southwest and West. Analysis of return on a regional basis indicates a high degree of uniformity of opinion. Noticeable exceptions occur on the question of "should we avoid bombing military installations in populous areas of North Viet Nam, such as Hanoi?" While 67 percent of all student respondents favor bombing these areas, 82 percent of students on southwestern campuses advocate bombing but only 49 percent of students on southern campuses concur.

Results of Survey Following are the results of the Playboy College Opinion Survey with the answers as a percentage of the total respondents:

STUDENTS
1. Does the United States have an obligation to provide active military assistance to Viet Nam? 82% (Yes), 18% (No) 2. If we are unable to effect a negotiated settlement before the end of 1965, should we... A. Pull out of Viet Nam completely? 83%

Conference of Business Group
University of Missouri students are invited to attend a Marketing Theory in Action Conference, scheduled for February 25 at the Chase Park Plaza.

Volunteers are needed to extend bombing raids to vital installations in Hanoi and other North Viet NAm cities. The survey, which measures opinions of both students and faculty members, finds that the majority of faculty members polled do not take this "aggressive" attitude and believe that military actions should be confined to South Viet Nam only.

Less Than 5 percent
While many officials have stated that the recent public demonstrations against this nation's involvement in Viet Nam was representative of an "indefiniteness" number of college students, the college students and faculty members polled estimated that they reflect the attitude of approximately 5 percent of the students on these campuses. The students and faculty, however, make it clear that they overwhelmingly believe that Americans are obliged to serve in the nation's armed forces, even if they are in disagreement with their government's policies. (00 percent of students -- 82 percent of faculty).

Indicative of the support on the campuses for the administration's policy in Viet Nam is the fact that 82 percent of the students and 72 percent of the faculty members agreed that the United States has an obligation to provide active military assistance to that nation. Further, a large majority of students --89 percent --and faculty -- 92 percent --felt that use of non-military tear gas is justifiable as a means of disabling the Viet Cong without endangering the lives of civilians.

The survey also reflects opinions from campuses on a regional basis -- in the East, Midwest, South, Southwest and West. Analysis of return on a regional basis indicates a high degree of uniformity of opinion. Noticeable exceptions occur on the question of "should we avoid bombing military installations in populous areas of North Viet Nam, such as Hanoi?" FOR MORE EFFICIENCY
Mizzou News Announces New Editorial Positions

Fonda E. Johnson, Editor-in-Chief of the MIZZOU NEWS, has announced some reorganization of the newspaper staff at UM-2L.

Appointments have been made to fill the posts of Feature Editor, Literary Editor, Business Manager, Advertising Manager, and Circulation Manager. The general staff has also been opened for recruitment of new writers and editors and correspondents.

Appointed in the revision, made to facilitate the Editor's Conference on Monday, February 28 (see page one), were Donald Day, Feature Editor; Bill Rumick, Literary Editor; David Zerrer, Business Manager; Julie McGuire, Advertising Manager; Dwight Stevens, Circulation Manager.

The duties of the newly-created positions are as follows: Feature Editor, to assign and edit feature material; Literary Editor, evaluate and solicit literary copy other than features; Business Manager, to arrange the availability of equipment, keep staff ledgers, and monitor circulation; Advertising Manager, to solicit and retain advertising for the publication; Circulation Manager, to establish sales standards, collect all newsletter readership data, and publicize the newspaper.

The appointments also marked the end of the Missouri Youth Drama's improvement of production methods of the Mizzou News. In addition, the Business Manager and Advertising Director positions were opened for recruitment that were once handled by the Editor.

Also, the new editorial chain was commended for the timely coordination in week to week production.

BOOK POOL TO RETURN
Students who still have books in the Book Pool are requested to go to the Student Association Office and pick up their money or books. They can do so on February 21-25. To receive their money or books they must have the slips given to them when they brought their books.

Mayor Cervantes has agreed to speak on campus in March. The students will also plan to participate in a mock state legislature and a state wide political workshop, and a state of prominent guest speakers including St. Louis mayor A. J. Cer­vantes.

The YP's will start their semester membership drive during the weeks of Feb. 21 through March 2. Anyone wishing to join is welcome to attend the meet­ings and be a part of the drive that will be a drawing, with the winner's books being paid for by the club.

The mock intercollegiate legislature made up of politically minded college students will take over the state legislature for the entire day of May 5. Miss Judy Young, 2nd year student and member of the Delegates from UMLI. The ap­pointment of Republicans and Democrats to each delegate will be determined by the attendance of the parties at the district conventions. The club will pay twenty percent of the expenses of the delegates on the three day stay at Jefferson City.

The YP's district convention will be held here in St. Louis on April 2. As the number of people who attend this convention will determine UMSL's representation in the mock legislature, club President Dave Depker urges any club member who is interested to meet him or Charles Clayton. This con­vention will be a stepping stone to the state convention and will draft the proposals to be brought up at the mock legis­lature.

A state wide workshop will be sponsored by the YPs in St. Louis during the first part of April. Discussions will be held on cur­rent problems of the youth of St. Louis and the club will pay twenty percent of the expenses of the delegates on the three day stay at Jefferson City.

Modern liberalism, communism and fascism have much in common-as philosophies of government. Modern liberalism, modern communism, and fascism have one thing in common: they all want the government to have absolute power to promote the general welfare. The problem is that, once we recognize that when government has absolute power to promote the general welfare, it also has absolute power to decide what the general welfare is, it is almost too much of a sacrifice of your own, for instance, a Communist government may find it necessary to kill you, for the general welfare.

Nowhere in the history of the world has there ever been a Big-Brother type government which did not ultimately enslave the people under it. The welfare state which modern liberals glorify is nothing but a warmed-over, dress-up version of the oldest, most reactionary type of social organization. History shows us a number of welfare states, complete with the Soviet Union, where the government prices controls, government-fixed minimum wages, government subsidies, and government relief for the poor. The most recent example is Italy under Mussolini; Germany under Hitler, and all of the present Communist regimes. It hasn't worked yet.

The history of our own country should be a clear and unmistakable proof that freedom creates more wealth and resources than any government-dominated way of life ever could. The individual must be free to hit the controls he is to use all his energy and ingenuity. Prosperity for himself and his family is the individual's main motivation; take away the incentive and he will quit.

The American system of free enterprise, unhindered by excessive government interference, has given greater abundance to more people than any welfare state ever created. Unless the voters realize this very soon and take steps to curb some of the government's activities in this realm, we shall find ourselves, one of these days, in a socialist state with everyone enjoying the common bond of mediocrity.

The South in retaliation. Why does Lyndon B. Johnson believe that the United States of America must "continue" to be an international policeman? Certainly, there are grave international consequences implicit in the Vietnam War. We cannot escape the fact that the "Allied" force currently in Vietnam is composed of armies from Southeast Asia. If the free world is being threatened and not just Southeast Asia, why doesn't Britain have troops there, why doesn't France have troops there, and why doesn't Canada have troops there? Must the United States perpetually attempt to solve the problem of the entire world?

I think that President Johnson should relax for a few moments and recall the words of his predecessor: "The United States is neither omnipotent nor omniscient --that we are only six per cent of the world's population--that we cannot impose our will upon the other ninety-four per cent of mankind--that we cannot right every wrong or reverse every adversity --and that therefore there cannot be an American resolution to every problem."

Challenge Of New School

Graduate School at the University of South Dakota, was drawn to this campus by the challenge of building a university "from the ground up." Few educators are afforded this chance to substantially influence the course of a major institution of higher education. When Glen Driscoll made the move here, he had no faculty by-laws, university catalogue, or definition of majors, and the library was "virtually nonexistent."

The Dean considers the continuing challenges on campus to be our major drawing card now and for years to come. "There's no end to the challenge," he has observed.

Reviewing planned expansion, the Dean has announced the appointment of an Assistant to the Chancellor for Research. Dr. Paul Wexberg, presently Associate Director of the Research Foundation at Oklahoma University, will coordinate faculty research on campus. The faculty, numbering 98 this term, is to be enlarged to 150 next year.

Another point in question on campus is the inevitable institution of intercollegiate sports at UMSL. "I don't look forward to the day when we play the Missouri Tigers on the waterfront," he admitted. He now maximizes student participation in all sports activities, thus a strong intramural program, as more important than expensive intercollegiate sports. Glen Driscoll has hopes that the University can establish a scholastically sound athletic reputation.

As most administrators, the Dean had never had designs on an administrative position in education. He was selected for his "excellent reputation and character, prerequisites for any administrative position. He has had a major hand in shaping the image that is the University of Missouri at St. Louis, and views the UMSL future as one uniquely rewarding for all concerned.

Catching smiles, big brown eyes and unassuming manners are enough to break any language barrier, but three students of Missouri State University in St. Louis don't need to—they speak fluent English along with native Portuguese, German, and Croatian.

The three charming sisters, Lierka Pershe, Miroslava Pershe, and Nada Pershe, are of Croatian descent, born in Yugoslavia, and lived in Czecho-Slovakia, Austria, and Brazil. They are originally from Yugoslavia.

The reason they call themselves Brazilians, explained that they felt they were really Brazilian for the trio, is connected with quite a bit of European history.

Miss Lierka said that while few Americans don't know it, Yugoslavs are a group of small, separate states that were set up by the Allies during World War II. The states were made up easily overrun by their neighbors, they were all politically lumped together after World War II. To form the present Yugoslavia, a country no longer than the average United States state. Because of the strong traditions and fierce regimentation a Yugoslav feels his national identity, particularly his blood, Croation blood, and so on.

We Are Accepted

The girls felt that there weren't such strict ethnic bonds among people on the United States, Nada smiled and said "Here we are accepted but not with the same concept for a trio, explained that they felt they were really Brazilian because they speak their formative years there.

Lierka said that the reason they call themselves Croats is because of her father's strong ethnic bonds among people on the United States. Because of the strong traditions and fierce regimentation a Yugoslav feels his national identity, particularly his blood, Croation blood, and so on.

School Year Meant Surf, Study For Co-ed Student

PAMELA JOST

The swaying palms and warm weather of Hawaii are far distant things from Missouri's cold, damp February climate, but Pamela Jeanne Jost has encountered both these conditions during her sophomore year in college.

Pam, who spent her freshman year at UM-SL, attended the University of Hawaii at Honolulu during her first semester as a sophomore and has just recently returned to complete the year here.

Her mother gave her the idea of going to the distant university by speaking of friends who were sending their daughter there. Enamored with the idea she enrolled and was soon on her way to an educational and fun-filled semester.

A train ride to San Francisco followed by an ocean voyage on the SS President Cleveland brought Pam to Hawaii. After a short bout with seasickness, she enjoyed the cruise.

Her university courses included speech and gym (both required), psychology, French (her major), mathematics, and science. These subjects, of which she found science and math hardest, made up 16 hours of credit. Fees at the university were relatively low, with a charge of $95 a semester.

For entertainment Pam toured; learned to surf, and attended beach parties and luas. She learned to surf at the Waikiki and Waianae Beaches. In addition, she mastered the chop sticks and learned the fundamentals of hula dancing.

Student, Faculty Relations To Be Discussed Feb. 23

The furthering of personal relationships among the administration, faculty, and students of the University of Missouri at St. Louis in view of the University's expanding enrollment will be discussed at an open forum at 3 p.m., February 23, in the large auditorium of the school's new building, 8000 Natural Bridge Road.

Leading the discussion on the topic, "On the Commuter Campus: Can the Student Rise Above His IBM Card?" will be Dr. Harold Eckhoff, Dean of Student Affairs, and Moderator of the forum; Dr. Robert Osmon, Associate Professor of Education; Dr. Donald E. Dunbrack, Visiting Associate Professor of Philosophy; Lois Brockmeier, junior class secretary; and Robert Glenn James, a freshman.

The forum, sponsored by Dr. Osmon as a representative of the Danforth Foundation, is open to the University's students, faculty administration, and to the public. Audience participation will be invited.

Wrestlers Try Basketball, But It's Not For Them

Kolb's Killers scored a 13-12 victory over Piazza's Piranhas at the annual intramural wrestling team's basketball game held recently at Normandy Junior High.

Each team was composed of 5 members of the UM-SL wrestling squad and captained by Scott Kolb (also captain of the wrestling team) and Dennis Piazza respectively.

Game time was 1 hour and 47 minutes due to the unusual playing conditions, which consisted of complete disregard of established basketball rules.
