Awards Banquet
Honors School's Leaders, Scholars

Fifteen MUNRC students and ten faculty members and community leaders will be honored at the first Saturday, May 12 at the Chip & Plank Room, Dr. Francis English, Dean of Arts & Sciences at the University will present the awards, and Dr. Palmsquist, Associate Dean, will deliver the principal address, "Three Reasons for Bachelorhood.""}

Sponsored by the Student Association, the purpose of the banquet is to issue citations to both students and faculty and community leaders who have made outstanding contributions in Scholarship, Service and Leadership to the Residence Center. Those to receive awards were selected by a faculty committee from 52 nominations made by a Senate committee, the student body and the faculty and administration. The awardees' names will not be announced until that evening.

Invitations are to be issued to the award winners, the faculty and their guests and to the Normandy Board of Education. Students and families who would like to attend the banquet are advised to contact Chairmen Sharon Stephenson and Margie Feller, or Mr. Thomas Murphy, instructor, immediately, or to make reservations in room 127.

Carnival Atmosphere To Prevail
At Second Annual Inaugural Ball

The MUNRC Ballroom will turn into circus land on May 5, from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight, as the Student Association sponsors its second annual Inaugural Ball. Students being honored this evening are the newly-elected Student Association Executive Officers, Mike Lindhorst, president.

Leadership to the Residence Center.

Room. Dr. Francis English, Dean of Student Association Executive Officers, Mike Lindhorst, president; Mike Lindhorst, Secretary; Don Grisser, treasurer; and Don Grisser, treasurer.

Lindhorst will play Dan, the Student Council president, with Sharon Landis taking the part of Daley, his girl. The slap-stick comedy will be provided by John Dudash, in the role of Duke.

On stage the leads will be supported by Larry Daniels, Diana Arb, Carmeda Rudasill and Jane Monahan. Behind-the-scenes details will be handled by Carmeda Rudasill, Dennis Deters and Deanna Miller, as stage manager, back-stage manager and prompter respectively. The production will be directed by Mr. Pannuto, MUNRC English instructor.

Walkenhorst Will Crack Whip
As Next TIGER

Roy Walkenhorst will be the 1962-63 TIGER CUB editor. He will be paid at the time of enrollment.

The printing process will be changed to letterpress. This will enable more students to participate on the paper, as all work may be done on campus during the school day. The present offset method of printing has proven a definite drawback, as the staff has had to allocate the time around the Normandy COURIER schedule to produce the paper.

SUMMER SCHOOL BEGINS JUNE 18

The summer session at MUNRC will begin June 18 and terminate August 10. The session is designed to allow high school seniors, who have just completed their senior year, an early start on their college work and to give students who ranked low in high school an opportunity to demonstrate their abilities on college work. Students seeking admission to the session should file an application, secured at the director's office, with the Resident Administrator C.E. Potter.

Courses to be offered are: Mathematics 10-College Algebra (3 credit hours), meeting Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday from 7:40-9:40 a.m., and a program of intramurals. The Independent, protesting the emergence of cliches and "Communism" in the student government, conducted a write-in campaign, to do with the exception of Margie Feller, because they failed to get their petitions in on time.

Lindhorst To Lead Student Body

Mike Lindhorst, S.A. president-elect, will be inaugurated May 5 after sweeping into office in the March 28 executive elections with his three running mates, Margie Feller, independent, had 83; Taylor for secretary led with 188, Cathie Schulenberg, Independent, 46; Don Grisser received 212 votes for treasurer with the Independent candidate, Jerry Walsh, withdrawing shortly before the election.

Fifty-nine per cent, out of the student body of 414 cast votes in the elections. This compares unfavorably with the 82 per cent turn-out in last year's election.

However, the campaign was hard-fought with two major parties emerging--the newly-elected Independents. The U.S. party ran on a four point platform of scholarships, student loans, a student union and a program of intramurals. The Independents, protesting the emergence of cliches and "Communism" in the student government, conducted a write-in campaign, to do with the exception of Margie Feller, because they failed to get their petitions in on time.
Consider The Difference

Another effort in the interest of higher education in Missouri has been thwarted. On April 10, 1962, the Supreme Court of Missouri decided that the Junior College Bill, passed by the last session of the legislature and effective October 9, 1961, is invalid. "The community of Normandy had no motive but a desire for higher education for college age people in this area. This decision is most disappointing," said Mr. C. E. Potter, resident administrator.

The 550 students who will be enrolled at the Normandy residence center next fall will share the disappointment of the community and the Board of Education. So will those who will not be enrolled anywhere because the money was not available.

Consider the difference between $540 and $200, for this is the difference in the cost of a year at MUNRC as it is now and a year at a four-year branch of the University of Missouri established on our campus. Had the University been allowed to take over completely at MUNRC, fees would have dropped to $100 per semester in place of the present arrangement of $5 per credit hour, plus a $45 facility fee paid each semester by the out of district student. The total cost of the school year for those 550 students expected will amount to $297,000- $800,000 more than the total would have been if the Supreme Court had ruled in favor of the Normandy School District. The freshman class of 1962, 1963, will be the benefit of spending their junior year at the Residence Center, for a third year would have been added by September, 1964. Those 350 freshmen will be spending $450,000 for their junior year on the Columbia campus, instead of $70,000 here.

As a result of the Court's decision, many of the young people in the St. Louis area will not go on to college; those who do will go on at unnecessary cost.

The citizens and educators of Normandy hope that the freshman class of September, 1963, will have the benefit of attending a local branch owned by the University of Missouri. They are encouraged by the determination of President Elmer Ellis, who stated that the Supreme Court decision would make no difference in the perseverance of the Board of Education, who already plan to seek a rehearing. Such a hearing is justified by the 4-3 vote on the ruling and the outspoken indifference of the judges. Our part lies in expressing a strong desire for a four-year school at MUNRC, in order to make that rehearing a step forward for Missouri.

HAVE YOU NOTICED?

RESIDENCE CENTER DROPS IN '62

The University of Missouri-Normandy Residence Center is now nearing the end of its second year of operation, that second year which has been the antipode of the first. Looking back is often responsible for an inaccurate picture, for nothing distorts as nostalgia does. But taking this danger into account, the year 1961-62 at MUNRC is a disappointment after the promise of 1960-61.

In the fall of 1960 the Residence Center was entered by 200 enthusiastic freshmen. Each of them bespoke an external uncertainty, but felt, as all freshmen do, an inner sureness that each had his own private picture, for nothing distorts as nostalgia does. But taking this danger into account, the year 1961-62 at MUNRC is a disappointment after the promise of 1960-61.

As a result of the Court's decision, many of the young people in the St. Louis area will not go on to college; those who do will go on at unnecessary cost.

Thank You, Courier

The TIGER CUB staff wishes to express gratitude for the good-natured cooperation and cooperation accorded us during the past two years by the staff of the Missouri COURIER and Mr. Halbert, the Advertising Manager.

While coping with their own problems of time schedules and limited space, the COURIER allowed the TIGER CUB to use its office and equipment.

Off-set printing, the method used by the TIGER CUB, is approximately one-third cheaper than letterpress, and therefore the only means financially permissible. However, the equipment necessary for off-set printing costs approximately $3000, and was out of the question for TIGER CUB. Without COURIER, publication of the TIGER CUB would have been impossible.

To the COURIER staff and Mr. Desloge, Mr. C. E. Potter, and the Board of Education, thank you from TIGER CUB.

Sincerely

The TIGER CUB Staff

Another Step Backward for Missouri

The Difference

PAGE TWO--MONDAY, APRIL 30, 1962

20 or 30 stayed until the decorating was completed. Basketball was a big thing. Approximately 25% of the students were present at the games, and were proud of their league co-championship.

The TIGER CUB is now the product of a staff of six. The last two issues were given away, with some effort. Social committee chairmen do not always show up to decorate for dances, in fact one person decorated for the last dance held March 24. Basketball? Even the cheerleaders have deserted.

The social system of MUNRC during its first year was unique. There were three understood "cliques", but the lines were far from absolute. Most members of a particular "clique" were able to move freely back and forth among the groups.

Now, is commonly known that five distinct and absolute "cliques" comprise the student body at MUNRC, the "Lower East Side" group, the "Lower West Side" group, the "Yearbook Crowd" and the "Library Crowd". It is accepted that these crowds do not generally intermingle. A member of the "Office Crowd" is greeted with questioning stares upon venturing into the "Lower East Side" circle. There is a similar reaction greeting a "Lower West Side" member who enters the newspaper office.

There were high hopes for scholastic programs during the year 1961-62. Indeed, the number of Honor Roll students has increased from 10% to approximately 15%. The drop in the drop rate has remained consistent, and the immature attitudes of students toward the purpose of college is still a matter of concern to many.

Why and how has this change taken place? Was the spirit of that first year possible only in a brand new college of idealistic freshmen, whose initial pride was constantly reinforced by publicity in local newspapers? Probably not. Next September we must begin to demonstrate that it is natural for the spirit of a school to grow with each year, and unnatural for it to fall from peak to nadir in the first two years.
