

John Brunero, Philosophy, was awarded $10,000 for "Explaining Instrumental Rationality."

John Dalton, English, was awarded $10,000 for "The Inverted Forest: A Novel."

Elizabeth "Toby" Kellogg, Biology, was awarded $46,921 for "Diversity Among Relatives of Switchgrass."

Jingyue "Jimmy" Liu, Center for Nanoscience, was awarded $124,500 for a Special Opportunity Project (Instrumentation) entitled "Acquisition of an X-ray Diffraction/Small Angle X-ray Scattering Instrument to Enhance Nanoscience Research at the University of Missouri–St. Louis."

Bette Loiselle, Biology, was awarded $32,170 for "Estimating Effective Seed Dispersal Distances & Genetic Variation in Tropical Plants of Native and Introduced Habitats."

Eric Majzoub, Physics & Astronomy/Center for Nanoscience, was awarded $25,000 for "Producing state-of-the-art Nanoparticle Complex Hydrides for Hydrogen Storage using Novel Surfactant Templating Techniquese."

Robert Northcott, Philosophy, was awarded $20,000 for "Measuring Causal Strength in Biology."

Miles Patterson, Psychology, was awarded $16,081 for "The Time Course of Social Judgments."

Jeffrey Sippel, Art and Art History, was awarded $16,000 for "Printing Green with Fine Art Waterless."

Louis Gerteis, History, was awarded $75,000 for a Special Opportunity Project entitled "Acquisition of the Laura X papers."

Total Awarded: $375,672