Q1: When must institutions begin offering veterans reduced tuition?
A1: The Act officially becomes law on August 28, 2008. The MDHE has notified institutions that determinations about whether the law requires them to begin offering the reduced tuition during the fall 2008 semester must be made by staff at each institution.

Q2: What does the phrase “served in armed combat” mean?
A2: “Served in armed combat” means served in a combat zone as designated by the U.S. Department of Defense. An institution may consult a veteran’s “DD 214” form, which is a certificate of release or discharge from active duty, to determine if a veteran served in a combat zone. Each of the following is an indicator that a veteran served in a combat zone:

- Receipt of a combat service medal. Field 13 (“Decorations, medals, badges, citations, and campaign ribbons awarded or authorized”) on the DD 214 will indicate that the veteran received one or more of the combat service medals listed in Appendix B.

- Any military service in a combat zone between September 11, 2001, and the present. This will often be indicated in Field 13 of the DD 214. As of July 2008, the geographic areas listed in Appendix B are generally considered combat zones. Please note that this list may not be comprehensive. If a veteran claims to have served in a combat zone, the MDHE advises that you contact the Missouri Veterans Commission for more information.

Q3: Does the term “in the military” include individuals who were members of the Reserves or National Guard?
A3: Yes, so long as the member of the Reserves or National Guard served in armed combat in a full-time capacity under a call to active service authorized by the President of the United States or the Secretary of Defense for a period of more than thirty consecutive days.

Q4: How will institutions know if a veteran was a Missouri resident when first entering the military?
A4: The veteran’s DD 214 provides the “home of record” at the time of entry. Field 7b of the DD 214 contains this information.

Q5: Does the veteran have to have established residency in Missouri to receive the reduced tuition?
A5: No, so long as the veteran was a Missouri resident when first entering the military.

---

1 A sample DD 214 form is included in Appendix A.
Q6: How will institutions know if a veteran was discharged from military service under honorable conditions?

A6: A veteran whose DD 214 indicates any type of discharge other than “bad conduct,” “less than honorable,” “undesirable,” or “dishonorable” is considered to have been discharged under honorable conditions. Fields 24 and 28 on the DD 214 generally contain this information.

Q7: How is a “public institution of higher education” defined?

A7: Public institutions of higher education are those institutions established pursuant to Chapters 172, 174, 175, and 178 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri and which receive a part of their funding as direct or indirect appropriations from the state of Missouri.

Q8: When is the cumulative GPA determined?

A8: Each institution should calculate veterans’ cumulative GPAs on the same timetable it uses to calculate grant and scholarship recipients’ cumulative GPAs.

Q9: Does the veteran have to have a 2.5 GPA the first semester they receive the reduced tuition?

A9: No. There should be no grade point requirement for a veteran the first time they receive the tuition reduction even if they have previously attended an institution of higher education. However, the veteran must achieve a 2.5 GPA at the end of the first and all subsequent periods when the institution checks satisfactory progress in order to continue to receive the reduction.

Q10: Are loans considered “financial assistance” under this Act?

A10: No.

Q11: What does the phrase “enrolled in a program leading to a certificate or an associate or baccalaureate degree” mean in the context of programs where a student is pursuing a bachelor’s degree and an advanced degree at the same time?

A12: Although the law does not specifically address this scenario, the legislative intent appears to be that veterans receive the reduced tuition for undergraduate coursework. The veteran should receive the reduced tuition during the portion of his or her coursework that is specifically designated as leading to a bachelor’s degree. Determinations about individual cases that do not fit within this framework should be made by institutions in consultation with the MDHE.
Q13: What does the phrase “The tuition limitation under this section shall be provided after all other federal and state aid for which the veteran is eligible has been applied” mean?

A13: Based on the standard reading of this provision, federal and state student financial assistance must be applied to a student’s cost of attendance before the institution calculates the tuition waiver. For example, if the institution’s tuition is $7,000 for an academic year for a full time student (15 credit hours per semester) and the student is eligible for $5,000 in federal and state aid, the tuition limitation would be applied to the remaining $2,000. The student would be required to pay $1,500 (30 hours times $50) and the institution would waive $500.

Q14: Are other veterans’ benefits considered “federal financial assistance” under this Act?

A14: Yes, if those benefits are designated solely for the payment of tuition, fees, or other education-related expenses by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs or other awarding governmental body. Under the current version of the GI Bill, most benefits are not designated solely for the payment of tuition, fees, or other education-related expenses. This analysis may change after the “new GI Bill” (formally known as the Post-9/11 Veterans Education Assistance Act of 2008) goes into effect on August 1, 2009.

Q15: Does the Act require the veteran to apply for other aid, such as Access Missouri or GI Bill benefits?

A15: No.

Q16: Are institutions that do not charge “tuition” but instead charge certain students only “fees” required to charge no more than $50 per credit hour?

A16: The law does not specifically address “fees.” Although there is no official record that allows one to clearly discern legislative intent, it is likely that the legislators who supported the bills that established the Act intended it to include “fees” where such fees are charged in lieu of tuition. Consequently, in instances where fees are charged by the credit hour and no charge specifically designated as “tuition” is charged, the MDHE recommends that the institution apply the limitation to the fee.

Q17: Does the “actual cost of attendance” include room and board, and/or books?

A17: Yes. Cost of attendance must be calculated consistently with requirements for federal Title IV financial assistance. Consequently, it would include room, board, books, and standard allowances for personal expenses.

Q18: What will the mechanism for reporting the amount of tuition waived to the CBHE be?

A18: Institutions may submit this information in a letter that accompanies their budget requests. The Act provides that institutions may submit information about the amount of tuition waived during the previous fiscal year.
when they request funding for the following year. An illustration of the timeline for this is: During July/August 2010, institutions will provide the CBHE with information about the amount of tuition waived during FY09 (which would include the 2008-09 academic year). This information will be provided in connection with the institution’s FY11 budget request.

Q19: How does the Act affect clock hour programs?

A19: The statute does not specifically exempt programs from this requirement based on the progress measurement system used by the school. Consequently, the limit must apply to these programs as well. For programs measured in clock hours rather than credit hours, the institution shall use the conversion formula of 15 classroom hours equals 1 credit hour and apply the tuition limit in an equivalent fashion.

Q20: Where should institutions direct additional questions?

A20: Questions relating to the status of an individual student and their satisfaction of eligibility criteria should be directed to the Missouri Veteran’s Commission. While the Veterans’ Commission cannot make eligibility determinations, they can provide information about available documentation and interpretation of the information relating to a veteran’s military service. For information about the implementation of the requirements, please contact Zora AuBuchon, general counsel for the MDHE.

Purple Heart

Any other Action Badge, Combat Medal, or Expeditionary Medal or Ribbon offered within a geographic area that enables the veteran to receive a combat pay tax exclusion exemption, hazardous duty pay, imminent danger pay, or hostile fire pay.
The information provided here is based on an Internal Revenue Service website that lists combat zones to help taxpayers determine if they are eligible for tax benefits for service in a combat zone, and on information provided by the Missouri Veterans Commission. This list may not include all combat zones and is current only through July 10, 2008. If a veteran claims to have served in a combat zone not listed here, the MDHE advises that you contact the Missouri Veterans Commission for more information.

In addition to the areas listed above, service in support of Operation Enduring Freedom ("OEF") (also known as the “Afghanistan combat zone”) and Operation Iraqi Freedom ("OIF") (also known as the “Arabian Peninsula combat zone”) is generally considered service in a combat zone.
