

The American Psychiatric Nurses Association announces the 2009 APNA-Janssen Student Scholarships

Dear Students:

Here is a great scholarship opportunity for those of you who might be interested in psychiatric mental health nursing.. Students who apply and are accepted will:

- Receive national recognition
- Participate in a dynamic educational program
- Attend sessions describing new developments in psychiatric nursing
- Network with nursing leaders
- Gain appreciation for the importance of participation in a professional association

Scholarship recipients and their schools receive national recognition via the web and through the Journal of the American Psychiatric Nurses Association (JAPNA).

To take advantage of this fully funded educational opportunity your students should access the scholarship application at:

<http://www.apna.org/i4a/pages/index.cfm?pageid=3317>

Scholarship deadline June 1, 2009

The program is made possible through the generous support of an educational grant from Janssen, L.P. administered by Ortho-McNeil Janssen Scientific Affairs, LLC.

Here is what former scholars have said about the program:

- Early exposure to the professional community influences and inspires professional growth and development.
- Broadens your view of nursing and healthcare as a whole. It was an opportunity to be exposed to some fantastic programs and meet some extraordinary service providers and help navigate a career path.
- A fantastic opportunity to learn something you might not otherwise get the chance to learn due to lack of funding.
