	Same As History 2117, Greek 2150									Greek History and Culture provides a creative, hands-on experience of Greek history and culture through an exploration of classical and Byzantine art and architecture. Students will learn to identify concepts that are the foundation of Western civilization. Why do the Olympic Games continue to capture the imagination of millions? Why are the structures on the Acropolis used as an influence for our great public buildings in the nation's capital and all over America? Why has the symbolic power of Byzantine icons influenced the creation of so many modern sanctuaries and works of contemporary art? Some class sessions will meet off campus at venues such as the Saint Louis Art Museum, a Byzantine church, and the studio of the instructor. Students will view films, and community professionals will serve a guest lecturers throughout the semester.

				Scanning Electron Microscopy This course introduces students to advanced scanning electron microscopy techniques and their applications to solving challenging materials and biological problems. Course includes electron optics, electron-specimen interactions, image formation and interpretation, compositional analysis by energy dispersive X-ray spectroscopy, and sample preparation of both biological and non-biological systems. Laboratory experiments will provide students hands-on experience with SEM operations and problem-solving skills. Successful completion of the course enable students to independently operate scanning electron microscopes to perform research experiments. Two classroom hours and two hours of laboratory work per week.

				Same As Anthro 2117 & Hist 2117 Greek History and Culture provides a creative, hands-on experience of Greek history and culture through an exploration of classical and Byzantine art and architecture. Students will learn to identify concepts that are the foundation of Western civilization. Why do the Olympic Games continue to capture the imagination of millions? Why are the structures on the Acropolis used as an influence for our great public buildings in the nation's capital and all over America? Why has the symbolic power of Byzantine icons influenced the creation of so many modern sanctuaries and works of contemporary art? Some class sessions will meet off campus at venues such as the Saint Louis Art Museum, a Byzantine church, and the studio of the instructor. Students will view films, and community professionals will serve a guest lecturers throughout the semester.

				Same As Anthro 2117 & Greek 2150 Greek History and Culture provides a creative, hands-on experience of Greek history and culture through an exploration of classical and Byzantine art and architecture. Students will learn to identify concepts that are the foundation of Western civilization. Why do the Olympic Games continue to capture the imagination of millions? Why are the structures on the Acropolis used as an influence for our great public buildings in the nation's capital and all over America? Why has the symbolic power of Byzantine icons influenced the creation of so many modern sanctuaries and works of contemporary art? Some class sessions will meet off campus at venues such as the Saint Louis Art Museum, a Byzantine church, and the studio of the instructor. Students will view films, and community professionals will serve a guest lecturers throughout the semester.

									This course introduces students to advanced scanning electron microscopy techniques and their applications to solving challenging materials and biological problems. Course includes electron optics, electron-specimen interactions, image formation and interpretation, compositional analysis by energy dispersive X-ray spectroscopy, and sample preparation of both biological and non-biological systems. Laboratory experiments will provide students hands-on experience with SEM operations and problem-solving skills. Successful completion of the course enable students to independently operate scanning electron microscopes to perform research experiments. Two classroom hours and two hours of laboratory work per week.
