Course Rotation Plan

We plan to offer the following courses in the identified term annually from this time forward. Courses added on a one-time basis will not be listed here, but will appear in the MyView schedule for a given term. A course listed below may be cancelled on a one-time basis should an appropriate faculty instructor not be available (e.g., because of a sabbatical) or if insufficient students enroll in a given term. Our plan is to stick as closely to this rotation as possible through the next 3-5 years. Updates will be posted as needed. Also see the Advising Guide (<http://www.umsl.edu/~socialwk/Gerontology/files/pdfs/Advising%20Gude%204-13>) and Bulletin (<http://www.umsl.edu/bulletin/as/gerontology.html>) for specific requirements of the Undergraduate Certificate in Gerontological Studies (UCGS), Graduate Certificate in Gerontology (GCG), and the Master of Science in Gerontology (MSG).

NOTE: The Advising Guide lists "Epidemiology of Aging (6470)" as being offering in the Spring Semester. The instructor for this course has left for another position, and we are trying to work out if this will be offered, again, or replaced with a similar course. One possible replacement is a new course focused on medical gerontology. Either way, there will be a health-oriented choice for students during the Spring Term each year. This portion of the rotation will be updated once we have a new plan finalized.
