We’re Embracing the Moment

Everywhere we see the news, it seems the past is present, and the future is digital design and learning. This year’s courses embrace those historical questions of our human past and offer digital possibilities, with opportunities for both safely distant and virtual study. Several of our courses introduce or build on digital skills you can use in your public history, museum, and teaching careers.

Class topics for the year include:

- The Historian’s Craft
- White Supremacy in American History
- History through Biography
- Introduction to Public History
- Museums and Communities
- Digital Video for Museums and Community History
- Ivory, Diamonds, and Gold: Extractive Industries and Development in Africa
- Western Civ Explores the World
- Europe in the Nineteenth Century
- Racial Segregation in St. Louis
- History of Canada
- Independent Readings and Collaborative Research with Faculty courses available

Contact Information:

- M.A. & Public History:
  - Dr. Andrew Hurley
    (ahurley@umsl.edu)
- Museum Studies:
  - Dr. Lara Kelland
    (lara.kelland@umsl.edu)
- Graduate Certificate - History Education:
  - Dr. Laura Westhoff
    (westhoffL@umsl.edu)

Don’t Wait. . . Classes start August 24!