

Kristi Tramont

Kristi Tramont is the Director of Money Operations at SoFi Bank. As the director of Money Operations Kristi oversees the Operational aspects of SoFi's Checking / Savings, Money and Samsung products. She also has leadership over the back office operations team that covers all SoFi products and services including research and Disputes.

Kristi is a graduate from The University of Tulsa where she studied Marketing in the school of business and obtained a communications minor. Kristi started her banking career at Regions Bank and has worked at several of the top financial institutions including US Bank, CitiBank and PNC Financial. She has vast experiences in various banking products including Checking / Savings, Mortgage, personal loans and Credit Cards. Her training also includes working with top companies including Bain, INC on Agile, Lean and other process improvement strategies. Kristi is most passionate about the employee experience and helping others to develop, grow their careers and learn to self advocate.